Question: Would it be possible to get me have some recipes for cookies suitable to pack and send overseas—not too hard to make also. Also some candy recipes. I clipped the ones for caramels from your column and am going to make some right away. I enjoy your page immensely. Am going to send the candy and cookies to my son in Korea and a friend . . . that is why I am anxious to have them as soon as I can. (Mrs. Stanley R. F.)

Answer: I am answering this letter ahead of others which came before it but I am sure I will be excused, to facilitate this good deed.

Suggestions for Mailing Cookies

Select heavy box, lined with wax paper. Use plenty of filler such as tissue or crushed wrapping paper. Separately wrap each cookie in wax paper. Or, place cookies back to back, and separately wrap each pair. Pad bottom and top and between layers. Cover box with heavy paper or cloth and cord and after addressing plainly, write address with Scotch tape. Mark box Fragile.

Peanut Butter Cookies (excellent for mailing)

One cup margarine or other shortening, 1 cup each white and brown sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2 eggs, 1 cup peanut butter, 3 cups sifted all-purpose flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 tsp. salt. Sift the sifted flour with the baking powder. Cream the butter and sugars, add the eggs, especially the sugars, then eggs, then vanilla. When very creamy and light sift the sifted ingredients over and stir in well. If desired 1 cup chopped dates or raisins may be added. Roll ½ cup each may be added. Roll into small balls and place on greased cookie sheet. Flatten with the floured tines of a fork. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. about 10 or 15 minutes.

Cocoanut Dream Bars

One-third cup shortening at room temperature, 1/3 cup icing sugar, ½ teaspoon vanilla, 1 egg yolk, 1 cup sifted all-purpose flour, ½ teaspoon baking powder, ½ cup well packed brown sugar, one tablespoon flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 eggs, ½ cup each corn syrup and shredded cocoanut, 1 cup chopped walnuts, ½ teaspoon vanilla. Cream together shortening and icing sugar until creamy, then add egg yolk and vanilla, beating well. Mix in the 1 cup flour. Spread this dough into a pan 9 by 9 by 2 inches. Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. for 10 minutes. Remove from oven. Turn down heat to 350 deg. Fahr. Mix the brown sugar with the 1 tablespoon flour, baking powder and salt. Beat in the eggs; Mix in remaining ingredients. Spread this over the baked crust. Bake about 20 minutes or until done. Cool in pan then cut in squares.

Best Fudge

In top of double boiler put 1 cup milk and 2 cups granulated chocolate. When chocolate is melted remove from double boiler and add 2 cups sugar, 1 teaspoon corn syrup and 1/16 teaspoon salt. Cook over direct heat and bring to 235 deg. Fahr. (soft ball stage), stirring up from bottom occasionally. Remove from heat at once and add 1 tablespoon butter, also without stirring until when you feel the outside of the pot with your hand it is lukewarm the same. Add 1 teaspoon vanilla. Let until thick then pour over direct cup broken nuts is a good addition now. Spread in buttered pan and cut into squares or shape into a 12-inch roll on waxed paper. Wrap in waxed paper. Slice with very sharp knife. For mailing wrap each piece in a square of wax paper.

City Theatre Guild Players Present Play Next Saturday At Saint John Drama Festival

Saint John, N.B., April 26—(CP)—Players and other theatre enthusiasts converged on Saint John Friday for the 1952 Provincial Drama Festival.

Many are anticipating festival conference sessions with as much interest as the nine plays to be presented from Monday to Saturday.

The conference, to be opened Tuesday by Dr. A. W. Trueman, Provincial Director of Education of New Brunswick, will be featured by lectures, demonstrations and panel discussions dealing with all theatre-in-the-round performance Friday by Robert Gill and players of Halifax.

Other features taking part in the sessions will be Lister Sinclair of Toronto, author, actor and broadcaster; Robertson Davies, well known Peterborough, Ont., playwright and editor of the Peterborough Examiner, and Robert Gill, Toronto, director of Hart House Theatre.

Another feature of festival week will be the annual meeting of D.D.F. governors next Friday. Economic problems and production echo chairman are among major subjects on the agenda.

D. Park Jamieson of Sarnia, Ont., festival chairman for the last four years, will not say suggested he resign but was asked to stay on for another year.

The Fredericton Players' suggested he resign but was asked to stay on for another year.

Richard MacDonald of Ottawa, has reported the loan of scenery to be running out of funds and operating in the red for a second Dube.

Seven Groups to Compete

Seven groups from six provinces will present plays in the festival's weeklong event. In addition, two plays by Canadians—Mr. Davies and Merrill Denison—likewise will be staged on a non-competitive basis.

The program:

Monday, Saint John Theatre Guild, Ltd., "Hay Fever" by Noel Coward.

Tuesday, St. John's Players of Newfoundland, "Ladies in Retirement" by Edward Percy and Reginald Denham.

Wednesday afternoon, Halifax Theatre Arts Guild, "Second Threshold" by Philip Barry.

Wednesday night, Regina Little Theatre, "Toh..orrow the World" by James Gow and Arnaud D'Usseau.

Thursday, Saturday Players of Ottawa, "Ladies of Leisure" presented by Jean Giradoux, translated by Jeanne de Montrezl, "Le Temps de la Cerise" by Marcel Achard, "Le Voyage" by Jacques Deval and "Le Journe de Celeste" by Jean Sarment.

Friday, Theatre Guild, "Voice of the People" by Robertson Davies; "La Jeune Annee de Montrezl, "De L'Autre Cote De Mur" by Marcel Achard.

Strengthening of Ties With Britain Urged by President of I.O.D.E.

Hamilton, April 24 — (CP) —A strengthening rather than a severance of British ties was urged at the opening yesterday of the provincial meeting of the provincial chapter, Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire.

Mrs. Cecil Brown of Hamilton, in her presidential address, declared Britain's attempts on the part of a few" to eliminate British symbolism and supremacy and "practically everything on a Canadian basis" were wrong.

She urged marshalling of forces to present a solidly united front to Britain, so as not "to give our enemies reason to exult when they observe in-service jealousy." The crown on one hand and gradual, yet definite severance of the British ties within the empire on the other."

Mrs. Brown welcomed Mrs. Louis Breithaupt, wife of Ontario lieutenant-governor, to the meeting. She also congratulated chapters throughout the province on their work during the year.

The national president, Mrs. J. H. Chipman of Toronto, spoke briefly of the order's work.

Mrs. W. N. Smith of Sudbury, assisted Mrs. J. M. Campbell of Chatham, was in charge of registration during the year which saw an increase of 441 in membership. It now stands at 16,465.

Mrs. D. M. Marsh of Toronto, education secretary, said the Ontario chapter's spent $485,186 on education during the year, increase of $12,000 over the previous year.

Mrs. Martin memorial chapter, I.O.D.E., Dunlop, Ontario Minister Edmonton, was the only delegate who was present. Mrs. Brown explained that "citizens of tomorrow should be taught to know whence they came, to cherish British traditions, to appreciate what a privilege it is to live in a country of such boundless opportunity and how much our democratic government cost our forefathers, our fathers and our brothers."

Under the direction of Mrs. R. Lewis Gordon, 64 volunteers were "adopted" by the chapters. Through the year 105 students received monetary assistance and 127 bursaries were granted. A total of $12,000 in scholarships was awarded.

Mrs. H. Lancaster of St. Catharines, reported on timely articles printed in Echoes, the order's magazine.

Mrs. Cecil Bale of Niagara Falls said standard-bearers had done much interest in their office. She recalled special occasions during the last year when they had been called upon — the visit of the Queen Mother, the death of King.

RH Factor In Blood Need Not Cause Women Unnecessary Worry Says M.O.H. of City

Considerable space has been given in newspapers and magazines in the past concerning the RH factor in blood. Some of these articles have caused concern to women possessing the RH negative factor. Dr. M. W. Brevik, medical officer of health for the city, feels that often more concern is expressed than is actually warranted.

Human blood is broken down into four types, A, B, O, and AB, it is then subdivided again into either RH negative or RH positive. For instance, a person may be type A blood, RH negative or RH positive, similarly it is the same with the other three types. The trouble and worry begins when the blood factor, which is either negative or positive, is not the same in husband and wife. Fear by the couple, that their children would be born dead due to the contrasting blood types, is what is causing concern, according to some these particular press articles.

Dr. Breuls says that this is not necessarily true. First of all, to have any complications at all, the expectant mother's blood factor must be a negative and the father's blood factor positive. Even in such cases, Dr. Breuls estimates that only one baby in 250 would result in any degree of illness.

Another comforting piece of information which should console those who have worries on the subject is the fact that only 14 per cent of individuals possess this RH negative factor. And it was only recently discovered that the RH factor was influencing human birth and research is under way in the United States to find a preventive for the ensuing complications.

Statistics have shown that the first baby of the contrasting blood factor marriage, is practically always normal. Also that in about two per cent of the cases. This percentage can be corrected gradually with each successive child.

SISTERS ALL

By Jean Love Galloway

A friend of mine paid a good sum for a new pair of shoes, only to find she could wear them no longer than one hour at a time. Each she went to the shoe store, they fitted well enough, but were found to be incorrect. Again, she tried to wear the shoes, but they would soon tighten on her feet and become unbearable - - - After two months trial, she returned to the store with her story.

The store manager said the trouble could be that she was allergic to the new type of lining material in the shoe. He sent the shoes back to the factory to be re-lined with a different material. Now, our friend finds her shoes most comfortable and has had no more trouble with them. - - - Shoe sizes vary very, very few people are actually allergic to modern materials.

Canada's Pearson

In the April issue of University of Toronto Graduate Bulletin James D. Service has turned out a story on Lester B. Pearson which is most interesting.

Mr. Service says that Mike Pearson was one of the first students on the Toronto campus to join up back in March, 1915, while still 17. He left Victoria College in pre-exam year with the university's hospital unit. Pearson transferred to the Royal Flying Corps and was eventually invalided home after a plane crash in England. Later he instructed in the Royal Flying Corps and returned to complete his university course.

Apparently he was not ready to up, not only as a brilliant student, but as a leader in sports and public speaker. He was a star player on university football, hockey and basketball teams and a good tennis player. On graduation, he enrolled at Osgoode Hall, but within a week decided against taking up the law.

Pearson then went into a career in diplomacy, first in the U.S. He did not like the idea of specializing in any one line of business in another country. Now he is Canada's first Minister of External Affairs.

M.A. at Oxford concentrating on his favorite subjects of modern history and Canadian constitutional development and back to Toronto, he was appointed a lecturer in the university's history department.

Is Most Relaxed

Arthur Sulzberger, publisher of the New York Times, recently said Mrs. Pearson was "the most relaxed - diplomat of the lot." Mr. Service brings out the fact that Pearson showed this capacity in his early tutorial classes at the university where "he always managed to produce a friendly, relaxed atmosphere without any loss of dignity or respect."

In 1928, he entered the civil service as Canada's first undersecretary in the newly formed department of external affairs. As minister of external affairs Pearson has always held that, "There is no permanent guarantee of peace in military alliances or armaments alone."

FOXBORO

Women's Institute Elects Officers

The Foxboro Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. E. Plummer on Tuesday afternoon with a good number of members in attendance.

Mrs. Isaacs, Silis, district president, gave an interesting talk on "Women's Institute as the Community Hub-ber", stressing how important it is for the women of the Institute to take an interest in the building of a better community through the school, hospital projects and community activities.

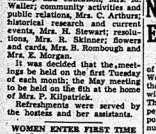
Mrs. Silis then demonstrated the making of a satin cushion which was most instructive.

Mrs. M. Reynolds expressed thanks to Mrs. Silis for coming to the meeting.

A reading was given by Mrs. B. Rombouga on "Women versus Machinery", and Mrs. C. Arthurs, a paper on "Publicity". Mrs. Burleigo rendered a piano solo.

Letters of the "thank-you" variety were read from Mrs. D. Jonez, Mrs. E. Brent, Mrs. C. Hubble and Mrs. Jamieson.

The election of officers was conducted by Mrs. Silis and resulted as follow: President, Mrs. H. Hollinger; first vice-president, Mrs. M. Shorey; second vice-president, Mrs. C. Hubble; secretary treasurer, Mrs. C. Bamber; district director, Mrs. W. Simmons; branch directors, Mrs. G. Gay, Mrs. B. Rombough, Mrs. C. Nupper; pianist, Mrs. M. Burleigh; press secretary, Mrs. G. Arthurs; auditors, Mrs. J. S. Demorest, Mrs. E. Chambers; home economics and health, Mrs. J. Derry; agriculture and Canadian industries, Mrs. W. Johnston; citizenship and education, Mrs. M. Waller; community activities and public relations, Mrs. C. Arthurs; historical research and current events, Mrs. H. Stewart; resolutions, Mrs. R. Bleckner; flowers and cards, Mrs. B. Rombough and Mrs. E. Morgan.



It was decided that the meetings be held on the first Tuesday of each month. Mrs. Jamieson to be held on the 6th at the home of Mrs. P. Kilpatrick.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants.

Canadian Troops Leave for Far East

Over 1,000 Canadian soldiers, en route to Korea to replace elements of Canada's 25th Infantry Brigade, received a typical United States Army sendoff at Seattle recently as their troopship pulled out of port to the martial strains of the Seattle Military Band. The troopship, on a turnabout trip, had just disembarked hundreds of Canadians, home on rotation leave, a short time before sailing.—(National Defence Photo.)

London, April 26 — (AP) — The screen kisses in Elizabeth Taylor's next movie will be the real thing. She's going to star opposite her new husband, Michael Wilding. Jules Goldstone, M-G-M executive and Miss Taylor's manager, said they agreed to make a Hollywood picture together but details still have to be worked out.

Portuguese Colony off China Mainland Unmolested by Reds

(Editor's note: This story was written by Bill Boss, Canadian Press staff writer just returned to Canada from assignment in Korea, after a visit to Macao. The story describes life in the Portuguese far-east colony.)

By BILL BOSS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Macao, April 28 (CP) — A sleep Sicily washed by the waters of the China Sea — that's Macao.

Politically, its continued existence as a Portuguese colony on an island five miles off the Chinese communist mainland combines a languorous impertinence with a haughty disdain.

Neither the 200,000 Macanese nor the rulers of communist China seem to think it would be worth while to change the situation.

So Macao pursues its placid course, working by night and sleeping by day, a sultry holiday resort for stuffy Hong Kong.

Macao once was supported by its trade with the Chinese interior, especially in opium and gold.

Now it lives from around-the-clock gambling, illicit love and an assortment of minor industries.

A small factory producing women's shoes is operated by a Canadian, William Jolliffe of Toronto, who also has a zinc oxide plant in Hong Kong. Jolliffe's shoes sell in Hawaii, Australia, Indo-China and Malaya. His zinc oxide, used as a paint base, may be sold only in Hong Kong under terms of the embargo controls which allow him to import zinc from Singapore.

Oldest foreign colony in the orient, Macao was seized by the Portuguese in 1557. The Japanese did not molest it during the Second World War.

It is a blend of the Mediterranean and the Orient. Its flavor is more Sicilian than Portuguese, with its gingerbread facades, chipped plaster buildings in pastel tints, and churches everywhere with bells sounding the hours.

The streets have a forever-siesta atmosphere, quiet and virtually unpeopled by day. The casinos, drab and tawdry by European standards, feature a game resembling roulette but based on dice.

Such as they are, the attractions of Macao draw a thriving living from the pockets of visitors from Hong Kong, some of whom are regular weekend commuters. The 3½-hour trip from Hong Kong by modern ferry cost $5 return, first class with cabin.

Residents say the Chinese reds would gain nothing by taking the place.

"They've cut down our trade to our food supplies — we get all our food from the island. But quite a lot of gold goes in to the communists from here. It's illegal, but it goes."

If the communists were to advance through the simple gate at the boundry on the north edge of town, the fall of Macao would be swift.

Meanwhile the trip from Hong Kong affords one of the more exciting experiences in the far east —sailing defenceless in the archipelago of the Pearl River delta, unmolested although almost every island is held by reds.

FARMERS GETTING

A. Wesley Stuart (L-Charlotte) said the question of a floor price for cheese was serious in his producing province—is one for the government to provide for relief.

E. B. Huffman (L-Kent) thought farmers could be helped if Canada developed industries to use more of her base metals and coal output. More secondary production would lead to a greater population to consume farm production.

Dr. Blair, whose eastern Ontario constituency contains many cheese factories, sat dithe outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease has closed the market for Canadian milk cows in the United States. Milk production is increasing and cheese factories are closing down because of the loss of the United Kingdom market.

Loss of the U. K. market followed action by the United States Congress to limit imports of cheese from Canada. Imports of cheese from New Zealand were being allowed to the detriment of the Canadian industry.

"A satisfactory floor below which prices will not be allowed to fall must be assured our producers now," said Dr. Blair.

"Even this is onl ya partial answer. There must, as well, be an all-out sales effort by the dairy trade and the government — some means must be found of disposing of surplus production.

"I would further suggest that the government again make representations to the United States government regarding the quota placed against imports of Canadian cheese and the relationship this virtual embargo bears on our mutual agreement under the Geneva trade agreements.

"I, for one, have supported legislation designed to expand international trade, but if the application of escape clauses by other countries, also signatories to the Geneva Agreement on Trade and Tariff, are to continue to discriminate against Canadian producers, then I believe an obligation rests upon this parliament to reappraise our position under this mutual agreement to expand trade."

Mr. Catherwood said Production Minister Howe should go to the United Kingdom immediately and offer to place defence orders there in exchange for food orders in Canada.

Wants Orders Diverted

Mr. Howe should tell the British government that "Canada is prepared to divert millions of dollars in defence orders to the United States, as a means for them to purchase our bacon, cheese, tobacco, apples, and other primary products of which we have been a traditional supplier."

Action in this regard, I don't think should any longer wait the pleasure of the Department of National Defence to make up its mind on the question of arms standardization," said Mr. Catherwood.

He outlined the agricultural products that Canada sold to the United Kingdom in the pre-war and war years and said that most of the markets now have been lost, or are taking less than they did in 1938.

He reiterated this party's plea that a Commonwealth trade and economic conference be called for the specific purpose of:

1. Reviewing normal channels of trade among member countries, now lost or seriously threatened.

2. Extension of existing trade channels.

3. Considering action towards convertibility of currency.

4. Studying the possibility of Canada purchasing within the sterling bloc, raw materials now obtained elsewhere.

5. Exploring the possibilities of Canadian enterprise in Commonwealth investment and resources.

Mr. Huffman suggested that creation of more finished production would lead to a greater population to consume farm products, thus lessening hardships caused by surplus agricultural output.

Mr. Huffman also urged the government to set up a committee to study problems of the 14,000 rural mail couriers. He said the system of letting out contracts for routes is "most unfortunate."

Florida Tourist City Had Busy Season

By NELLIE ARTHUR

The past season was a very pleasant one. Most days were bright and the sun shone in a cloudless sky with here and there a patches of white clouds. Mornings and evenings were cool right to the end of May. There was hardly any rain until the latter part of February and during the month of March, when not two more rain storms, but I remember that it rained two days and two nights and most of this time the rain came down in torrents and I began to think of Noah's ark and tidal waves. When it cleared during a high wind the morning of the third day, large puddles of water stood on the ground and in the circular driveway of our cottage court, but, in an hour or two, it had all disappeared through the white sand. Spell and through the broken sea shells with which the driveway was covered.

I did not have to wash my car all winter, as it was not dusty at all, though it thoroughly. All I would have to do was to wipe off the hood, which had scattered up from the ground upon the wheels and lower part of the body with a dry cloth, after the sun and wind had thoroughly dried it. How the paint, the body and the window glass would shine after these showers.

Spring in February

7th last half of February and the first half of March was springtime in Florida. The last half of March was summertime. There were hardly any flowers before this time and there wasn't a bird anywhere. But at this time the Fire ants began to show in their brown leaves, and, when I left the first of April, every one of them was a mass of new glossy foliage. The azaleas were a mass of bloom early in March but the season was best for Turk's caps, hibiscus and flame vine. The latter was the best little.

At this time, too, the mocking birds came and began to sing. There were several pairs in our cottage court. One night we nested in the large grapefruit tree behind my cottage. When I opened my bedroom window or door in the morning, the birds would sing every night, were not yet daylight. His song was "Chiboy, chiboy, chiboy, Peter, Peter, Peter." They were repeated along with some other little trilling notes. The blue jays appeared in flocks about the end of February. They would perch and wing on the tops of the tall pines and call to each other in their shrill, harsh voices. Other birds which were seen about this time were the cardinal, the meadow lark and the small yellow warblers. The cardinal, of course, is the male. It sits on its head and a heavy yellow beak. The meadow lark has a yellow and brown body, a flat head and a black V-shaped collar. He is a fine singer.

Tourists Arrive

About the middle of February crowds of tourists began coming to St. Petersburg. All the "tourist agency" signs on apartment houses became "no vacancy." There were large beautiful shiny automobiles everywhere. Driving became difficult in downtown streets and even far out in the residential sections. All parking places on both sides of the wide pier down the city all the way out would be taken early in the day. One would 1'p parked all along the waterfront and up and down five streets parallel with Central Avenue the main street both to the north and to the south. To find a parking place for all day one would have to go five or six blocks from the business of the city.

What are some of the attractions in St. Petersburg to draw such a crowd of people? First, of all the climate is the thing that brings them the beauty of the place and the friendliness of the people delays them and when they get the sand in their shoes they come back again and again.

In March a big league baseball game is played every afternoon at Lang Field near the waterfront where the great grandstand and large bleachers are always filled. Here the St. Louis Cardinals practise every morning and at Miller Huggins Field on the north side every morning the New York Yankees practise. All the big league baseball teams train in surrounding cities of Florida, take part in the games at Lang Field.

It is hard to enumerate all the interesting things to do and see in and see in St. Petersburg. There was a band concert in the park four days a week at 2 p.m. and speeches and entertainment there on three days a week and every Sunday. There were interesting friends or visitors to call on at any time of the day or evening on the green benches either on Central Park or Williams Park which is right downtown across from the post office. There were visits to make to Webb's famous store for the latest novelties and for the famous chicken-pie dinner on Wednesday's. Here one can park an automobile for a short time in one of their large parking grounds provided free of charge next to any other store or place.

Every time I went I just parked my car in my usual parking ground, when I remarked to the attendant, "See you later," or "I'll be here now." "Yes," he said, "we all know you by your automobile, you stay here all day if we didn't do this."

There were shuffleboard courts where one could play in the sun or under the shade of trees, either in the daytime or under the bright lights till 10 in the evening. There were evening entertainments in the churches, such as chorus singing, lectures and readings given by talented musicians. There was the Municipal Auditorium where New York putting on famous operas, such as "The Merry Widow" and "Brigadoon" and "Bitter Sweet" at the theatre in-the-round, a big theatre where the stage was in the middle of the floor and where the greyhounds chase the mechanical rabbit around the course and never overtake it. There were horse races and the county fair at Largo a nearby town.

Pleasant Memories

My memories of St. Petersburg are many and very pleasant. Although I lived there only about four months, hardly a day passed that I did not have a pleasant friendly conversation with someone, often a stranger. The tent cottages in our cottage court were filled with kindly, friendly people, some of whom were weekly and during the season purchased fine homes in St. Petersburg and other parts of Florida.

From time to time I saw people from Belleville and vicinity who spent several months in Florida. Among these were the Misses Hayes, who lived at the luxurious Dusenbury Hotel on 1st. Ave. North; Mr. and Mrs. Leo Riggs and Miss Leona Riggs who lived at the lovely Parkview, on 2nd Ave. North, opposite the new City Hall and Sargent and Mrs. French of Centenary, who lived at the South View Hotel, 2nd Ave., South, next to the large Y.M.C.A. building; and Mrs. Frost from Frankford, who lived at the Central Hotel, that fine old place on 2nd Street North, where our Canadian singer, Gladys Cornell, a Belleville girl, Cornell once sang

Past Grands Club Holds Social Evening

A most enjoyable meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Eva Hick, Belleville, last Wednesday evening with Mrs. Lyda McKee of Belleville, as co-hostess.

Mrs. Vena Sony, president, opened the meeting. Plans for the social meeting to be held in Peterborough at the residence of Mrs. Ethel Hoskins of Lang were discussed.

The program consisted of several readings by Mrs. Edith Bradshaw and Mrs. Mabel Meggisson. Mrs. Bradshaw also conducted an interesting contest.

After everyone had enjoyed a social visit, refreshments were served by the hostesses.

Mrs. Mary Vanderwoort moved a hearty vote of thanks to Mrs. Hick and Mrs. McKee for the report and grand evening.

MARMORA

Freemasons Hold Banquet, Lodge Session

Marmora — Freemasons in goodly numbers from the allied lodges of Prince Edward district swelled the attendance at the banquet held in the Orange Hall, Marmora A.F. and A.M. 222 which marked the official visit of Right Wor. Bro. Alva Collier, D.D.G.M. for Prince Edward on Monday evening.

The Women's Association of St. Andrew's United Church catered at the banquet held in St. Andrew's hall.

Visiting Lodge Toasted

Wor. Bro. J. M. Brownlie, Worshipful Master of Marmora Lodge was toastmaster. After the customary toasts had been duly honored, the toast to "visiting brethren" was proposed by Wor. Bro. C. R. Whittemore. Responses were deferred until the Lodge session. Right Wor. Bro. C. H. Buskard, P.D.D.G.M. submitted the toast.

Voices Pleasure

In reply, the D.D.G.M. voiced his pleasure in witnessing so fine a gathering. He referred to the attention of his hearers to "the altar" touching upon its history and significance, mentioning that it was older than the Temple and in particular times was the centre of human society.

As Junior Warden, Bro. R. S. Neal gave the Junior Warden's toast as well as that to "the ladies". Wor. Bro. C. Ackerman, on behalf of the Women's Association, Wor. Bro. C. Ackerman, district secretary, proposed "Marmora Lodge".

In lodge session, the members listened to another fine address from the D.D.G.M. and other brethren allotted to respond to "the visitors' toast".

Annual Rings In Trees Reveal Cellular Growth of The Trunk

Written for the Canadian Press by PERCY GHENT

Every tree is a'food factory for its own growth besides being a factory where material for houses and furniture, wood pulp for newsprint, and a long list of chemical by-products are also in the first stages of production.

In that factory the mineral and waterworks divisions are in the root system. Uncounted millions of minute cells are the workers. They gather moisture and minerals from the soil and in an intricate transportation system carry them up the trunk and along every branch and twig to the leaves. Leaves absorb light and heat from the sun and harvest carbon dioxide from the air. Moisture, minerals, light, heat, carbon dioxide are the ingredients mixed together by the leaves to make food for the whole tree and provide the life and energy for its cellular system and all the specialized functions that system performs.

How the cellular growth of the trunk develops is the story told by the annual rings plainly marked there. After a tree's dormant period in winter, the sudden spring surge of spring growth creates large wood cells. It is this sharp contrast with the small cells laid down in the declining growth period of autumn that makes the annular rings. Wide spaces between the rings indicates a season of abundant growth.

Growth

But in studying any cross-section of a tree trunk, it is the obstacle ring known as the cambium layer that best tells the story of growth. Cells of this layer subdivide inward to form wood, or outward to form bark. By this division new wood is created in a sheet each year around the previous year's wood, and new cork is laid down inside the previous year's bark. Ridges and irregularities of the bark result from the expansion within the tree and the blottering of weather from without.

X-Raying Ducks

Even the lead pellets of the hunters that miss the wild ducks in the hunting season kill hundreds of them eventually.

Much of the ammunition falls among the weeds and gravel of lake shores and marshland fringes. Ducks swallow the pellets as they pick up gravel there, the lead is ground by the gravel and the ducks sicken and die of lead poisoning.

This poisoning has reached serious proportions. Following the lead of researchers on western duck regions, the X-ray is being used in Ontario for investigations in this problem.

A conspicuous pharmaceutical and radiographic units has just been installed at the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests at its research station at Maple, just north of Toronto. Hundreds of ducks are now being X-rayed as part of a program that will attempt to find a solution for the problem.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

"A ROSE . . ."

"Why?" wrote a curious racehorse enthusiast, "do they call thoroughbreds by such screwy names. Why not Joe Doakes, Harry Thorne, Black Bess or some such sensible name?"

Thereby, kiddies, hangs a tale.

Racehorses have been called some colorful names when they "balled a taxi in the stretch" or the jockey carried a lantern in order to find his way to the wire.

But such names bestowed on the nags by the jentry who, when entering the track, pray they will break even because they need the money, never reach the printed sheets.

In the first place all names given horses, or suggested for them, must be okayed by the various Jockey Clubs. And in case you are not aware of the fact the rules require that each name be restricted to fourteen letters, spaces included, without duplicating any name used during the previous 15 years either on the turf or at stud.

One breeder submitted 28 names which were all rejected. In desperation he wrote the Jockey Club saying, U Name It. This request became the horse's name.

Many sources, it is said, contribute heavily to the cause but the most popular is the pedigree of foal. For example, Who Goes There is a son of Challenger and After Dark. Swain was a son, of Ladyrama and Doubtful Hours while from the union of High Time and Emotion came High Strung, later the sire of Mad Moment.

This idea is carried down through generations. Hash, now dead was a son of Questionable and Delicacy. Questionable was an offspring of Sling and Miss Puzzle, while Delicacy was a daughter of Chicle and Pandowdy. Chicle was a son of Spearmint. Sling was a son of Spur and Gnat which was foaled by Mosquito. From all this came Hash.

The realm of sport has contributed many names for the bangtails. Busher received her name from her dam, Baby League. Shut Out, a Derby winner, was a son of Goose Egg. Our Hitter, who defeated the great Iliad, horse Show, is a son of Shut Out.

Eighty Thirty, a leading sire in 1950 was begotten by Dinner Time.

History too is represented. In 1897 there was's Rough Rider, In 1931 a Stock Market, in 1940 a Maginot Line, in 1933 a New Deal. Bar Fly was named after repeal in the U.S.A. There was Appeasement in 1938.

A breeder, Mr. Norman Church, paid $60,000 for a yearling he called Speculation. The famous horsewoman, Mrs. Elizabeth Arden bid $20,000 for a colt then named it Big Mistake. It was. It has yet to win.

Along with such names as Mud, Garbage, Bug Juice and Bloody Buttocks there have been more ear-pleasing titles such as Singing Woods a son of Royal Minstrel. The Daily Racing form carries such interesting names as Homogenized, son of Milkman; Pass Out; a son of Spree; Binge, a son of Good Time; Draw One, a son of the mare, On Tap; Executioner, son of Chop Chop; Scoop, a son of Spot News; Counter, daughter of Trix Schemer; Big Story, son of Lotts Bull; Guillotine, son of Blade of Time; Strings, daughter of First Fiddle; Rough and Tumble, son of Free-for-All; Big Oak, son of Little Acorn; one, offspring of Mother Hubbard; and, then the borderline Bust Out, son of Brazen Lady.

So what's in a name? Maybe a Derby winner.

GOOD ADVICE!

With baseball around the corner Dink (Montreal Gazette) Carroll comes up with an interesting paragraph. He asked Jocko Conlon one of the best arbiters in the National League what he figured an aspiring umpire needed to make the grade in the big leagues. He got this answer:

"You gotta be honest. Not all of them ball players are honest. They know when a pitch is in the strike zone, but they beef just the same. You gotta be honest and you gotta be boss out there on the field. If you aren't the boss, the game will get away from you."

YOU CAN'T WIN!

And speaking of umpires recalls this yarn. It's about Dusty Boggess, an arbiter with a sense of humor.

Early in his career Boggess worked in a league in the U. S. Middle West where he succeeded Bob Dillinger, who later became a big leaguer, was playing. One night Boggess called two quick strikes on Dillinger and the latter, without saying a word, stepped out of the batter's box, removed his specs and handed them to Boggess.

The umpire took off his mask, put on the spectacles, replaced his mask and yelled, "Play ball!" The pitcher then let go with the next pitch.

"Strike three," roared the umpire, who then took off the specs and returned them to Dillinger.

"Where was that last pitch?" demanded Dillinger.

"I don't know," admitted Boggess. "I couldn't see the ball [illegible] your glasses and I know you couldn't see it without them, so it's strike three and you're out."

H. Knott Named To Executive Softball Assoc.

Hamilton, April 26 — (CP) — Appointments of both executive committee members and special conveners for the 1952 softball season were announced Friday by President Douglas G. Smith. These men will assist the elected officers in guiding the affairs of the association.

Named to the executive were Roy Brand, Scenic; Bill Farquharson, London; Mel Francis, Toronto; Harry Knott, Belleville; "Whip" Morris, Stratford; Clarence Perkins, Simcoe.

Special conveners will be Albert Amies, Guelph; Bert Bailey, Peterborough; Bill Cornish, Sudbury; John Haines, Port Credit; Mel Lee, Sault Ste. Marie; John Niesi, Ottawa, and Le Roy Pickard, St. Catharines.

WILL AID YOUTH

Toronto, April 26 (CP) — The education of Raymond Torg, 13, son of the late Detective Esmond Torg, will be aided by the benefaction of a man unknown to him.

A 10-year endowment policy for $1,000 has been established by Louis Mayzel, naming Raymond as beneficiary. The policy has been left with the city treasurer.

Chicago Cubs Carry Spring Momentum Into Flag Race, Hold Second in National Loop

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Everybody is cheering for the giddy St. Louis Browns. How about three rahs and a tiger or the chipper Chicago Cubs.

Most of the National League owners ridiculed the Cubs all winter for not making deals.

"What can they do with that club?" they asked. "How can they afford to stand pat?"

That was the way the conversation ran at the winter meetings around training camps too. Stide Shep won the Grapefruit League title. But they did that last year and finished last.

The Cubs carried their fine pre-season play into the regular season. With a 6-2 record they're within clutching distance of the lead, trailing Brooklyn by one game.

Frankie Baumholtz has been a spring sensation. In yesterday's 7-3 win over Cincinnati, he rapped a triple and two singles to boost his average to .455. He has hit safely in all eight Cub games.

Hank Sauer's home run and two runs batted in boosted him into a second place tie in both departments with three homers and 12 R. B. I's.

Reds Silenced

Bob Kelly silenced the Reds with five hits for his first win while handing Ewell Blackwell his second straight loss.

Gerry Staley needed help from reliefer Al Brazle and solid hitting and fielding to beat Cincy Musial and Steve Bilko to whip Pittsburgh 4-3.

Westlake had three straight hits, one a double, and Musial smashed three singles to account for half the Cards' 12 hits. Bilko also had a double and a single.

Harry Simpson, who floundered with a .229 average in his rookie year, was the big noise in Cleveland's 5-4 victory over the White Sox. The fleet outfielder capped a three-hit day by doubling in two runs in the last of the ninth to tie the score after Chicago scored two in the top half. Simpson then came home on Luke Easter's fly with the winning run.

The upstart Brownies and Detroit were not scheduled. Everybody else was rained out.

Al Dekdebrun, Whaley, Fisher On Waiver List

Toronto, April 26 —(CP)— Al Dekdebrun, cut loose by Toronto Argonauts last year, has been placed on the Big Four list along with Marvin (Stretch) Whaley and Oatten Fisher, President Bob Morau of Argos said in Toronto yesterday.

Dekdebrun led Argos to a 13-0 victory in the mud over Winnipeg Blue Bombers in the 1950 Canadian football final. Other Big Four teams have 72 hours to indicate if they want the players.

Morau said Winnipeg has asked that a price be placed on Dekdebrun. The smooth-working U.S. quarterback will fulfill his four-year residence rule and no longer will be regarded as an import at the end of next season.

Morau can't do that under league rules until Eastern Big Four teams decide whether they want him.

Two Canadian Track Stars Spark Victory

(By The Canadian Press)

Two Canadian track stars sparked a victory for the University of Michigan yesterday at the opening of the annual Penn relay carnival at Philadelphia.

Don McEwen of Ottawa and John Ross of Oakville were members of the quartet which scored a smashing victory in the distance medley against the Lockbourne air base team from Ohio.

The Wolverine quartet came from behind to win the event in the slow time of 10:31 over a course soaked by three days of constant rainfall. The track was a soupy sea of mud.

At that, McEwen had his work cut out for him. An "unknown" in United States major track competition, Hobard Jones, raced stride for stride with the Canadian over the mile finish and gained three yards at the tape. Ross had handed McEwen a five yard-lead as he pulled away from his Lockbourne competitor.

Lou Burdette, Boston Braves righthander, at his present pace, will threaten the "most games pitched" record held by Philadelphia Phillies' Jim Konstanty. Burdette has appeared in 8 games so far this seasono, winning two and losing one.

The much-travelled Clyde Klutts may take over the No. 1 catching job for Washington Senators. The former New York, Boston, St. Louis and Pittsburgh player is hitting a blazing .500 with seven hits in 14 times at bat.

Marty Marion, known as "Mr. Shortstop" when he was a St. Louis Cardinal, is turning out to be the same old master with St. Louis Browns. The former Cardinal manager has handled 32 chances without an error.

Four alleged basketball fixers, Joseph Bonnesse, Jack Rubenstein, Eli Klufsky and Jack Weg, charged with trying to rig a Bradley, City college game in New York two years ago, face other indictments, District Attorney Frank Hogan announced at New York yesterday.

Frank Sedgman, Australia's No. 1 tennis star, took 28 minutes yesterday to get into the final round of the Sutton, Eng., hard court finals, he whipped Herve Chartier, sixth-ranking Frenchman 6-0, 6-2. Sedgman meets Sven Stockenburg of Sweden in the final today.

Plans for a Sugar Ray Robinson-Joey Maxim match for the light-heavyweight championship were abandoned yesterday by James Norris, president of the International Boxing Club. Maxim wanted the fight but Robinson wasn't in favor.

Bobby Dykes gave Ted Murray a sound whipping last night in their welter-weight fight at New York's St. Nicholas Arena. Dykes won a unanimous decision.

Frank Stranahan of Toledo, O., meets Frank Strafaci of Flushing, N.Y., in the U.S. North and South amateur golf tournament final today at Pinehurst, N.C.

Umpire Says He Deserved Wrist-Slapping

Cedar Grove, N.J., April 26 (AP) —Umpire Douglas (Scotty) Robb says he deserved the public-wrist slapping handed him this week by National League President Warren Giles and hopes the incident soon will be forgotten.

At the same time, from his home here, the umpire denied reports he may be planning to resign and said he would be in St. Louis today to resume his duties.

"Mr. Giles made the only decision he could have made after hearing the report," Robb added. "I made a mistake and was punished for it."

Robb was fined and disciplined quickly by Giles for ejecting Eddie Stanky, manager of St. Louis Cardinals, during an argument in the Cards' Crosley Field opener at Cincinnati.

The circus started when Solly Hemus, Cardinal shortstop, threw his bat away in disgust after being called out on strikes. The impetuous Stanky stormed onto the field and the shouting incident followed, with Giles among the spectators.

Hemus was fined $25, Stanky $50 and Robb, according to files, was fined an amount much greater than the combined fines of the players." It was the first time in 13 years a National League umpire had been so chastised publicly.

Toronto Leafs Win in Ninth Over Baltimore

(By The Associated Press)

Ottawa Athletics are still looking for their first victory of the 1952 International League season.

They came mighty close to posting their first victory yesterday against Buzialo Bizons.

Ed Brabenec had Buffalo beaten in the ninth inning by batting but before the frame ended the Bisons had rallied for six runs and went on to a 6-4 victory. The loss was Ottawa's eighth straight.

Infielder Al Daugherty featured the Bisons' game-winning rally with a three-run double. Daugherty's was on a single by Russ Sullivan. Sullivan and pinch-hitter Frank Carswell tallied the final two runs on a base-bagger by John Lund.

The victory enabled the Bisons to take over first place from Montreal Royals. The Royals dropped a 5-4 11-inning decision to Syracuse Chiefs in Montreal.

Syracuse got a 9-2 lie with three runs in the 11th. The Royals rallied for two in their half but Chuck Eisenmann, third Chief pitcher, snuffed out the rally to preserve Bobo Holloman's third straight victory.

Springfield Cubs rallied five runs in the seventh inning to defeat Rochester Red Wings 7-6. Four walks, three singles and an error by Lou Ortiz featured the Cub attack.

Veteran Andy Anderson drove home three runs including the winning marker in the ninth to lead Toronto Maple Leafs to a victory over Baltimore Orioles. Anderson banged out a four bit including a homer and double. He singled home Bobby Balcena, who had tripled, with the payoff run in the ninth.

'Geordies' Confident They Can Win Over Arsenal's Powerful Gunners

By EDWIN S. JOHNSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, April 5 — (CP)—Newcastle United, ranked as one of the greatest soccer teams of all time, is within a single game of realizing its greatest ambition — victory over London's powerful Arsenal eleven in the May 3 cup final at Wembley.

A triumph in this classic will give the Geordiers their prized Football Association trophy two years running, a record that eluded another Newcastle squad 41 years ago. A rare feat in Britain's rugged professional competition, it hasn't been accomplished since Blackburn Rovers' did it in 1891.

The Newcastle club of 1911, however, almost turned the trick. Defeating Barnsley in the 1910 final, United clashed with Bradford City and fell to Bradford City the following year and after holding the opposition to a scoreless tie in the regulation playoff, lost the torrid replay by a 1-0 count.

'Geordies' Confident

Newcastle supporters who cheered their favorites to victory over Blackpool in a 2-0 win are confident they will repeat at Wembley next month. At that the northerners hold a slight edge in the season's league skirmishes, defeating Arsenal 3-0 in an early season draw and holding the gun men to a 1-1 tie at Highbury on April 18.

The only cup final meeting of the two clubs resulted in a 2-1 victory for Newcastle in 1932.

Well over 100,000 of the first division leaders most of the season, Newcastle fans are abandoned thoughts of a league title to concentrate on the cup. Since knocking out favored Tottenham Hotspurs 3-0 in the fourth round, Newcastle has scored only two victories in 11 league fixtures. Their regulars have been given plenty of rest.

Meanwhile, Arsenal has engaged in a lethal battle to the wire for the first division title. Manchester United virtually clinched the title this week by moving two points ahead of Arsenal.

Each has regular fixture to play Saturday. Even if Manchester loses and Arsenal wins, deadlocking the teams on a point basis, Manchester would take it on the better goal average — unless Arsenal breaks out with a rash of goals.

Thus, fresher physically, Newcastle enter their ninth cup final with seven of last season's winning team. They are Joe Harvey, the captain, Bob Cowell, Frank Brennan, Tom Walker, Bob Mitchell, George Robledo and Jackie Milburn, who scored the only two goals in the 1951 final.

Among the newcomers fate was possibly kindest to young Billy Foulkes, starring at inside right. Given a free transfer by Cardiff City at the start of the season, Billy signed up with Chester in the third division. He so impressed the scouts that Newcastle willingly put up a five-figure fee for his services.

Biltmores Trounce Regina 8-2 In First Memorial Cup Finals

Guelph, Ont., April 26 — (CP) — Guelph Biltmores looked good in the first game of the Memorial Cup finals last night as they defeated Regina 8-2.

But Regina coach Murray Armstrong wasn't too discouraged. "If we had played like that all year, we wouldn't be here," he said after the game.

The Pats will have a chance to make it somebody Sunday afternoon when they play the second game of the best-of-seven series for the Canadian Junior hockey championship at Toronto.

Main criticism of the Regina play was that the team relied mostly on individual effort and lacked the Biltmores' smooth teamwork. Skip Young's change also showed a reluctance to shoot every when in position. He preferred to try to carry the puck into the scoring area. The manoeuvre that seldom paid off.

Regina's Bob Tyler is goal was credited with preventing a rout from getting a larger score. He stopped 40 Biltmore shots while the Guelph goalie, Merv Brewer, handled only 10.

Not Overconfident

Alfie Pike, coach of the Guelph team, was not feeling overconfident after the game last night. "It won't be so easy next time," he predicted.

"How easy" it was is indicated by the period scores. Biltmores took a one-goal lead in the first period, outscored Regina 3-1, in the second and 4-1 in the third.

Ron Stewart and Ken Laufman led the Biltmores with two goals each. Other Guelph scorers were Ron Murphy, Dean Prentice, Jim Conolly and Chuck Henderson.

Harvey Schmidt and Eddie Litzenberger scored for Regina.

Litzenberger almost had another in the last minute of play when he broke through alone but Brewer smothered his shot.

Regina defenceman Joe Sauve took a hard fall at the ice after swaying a goal in the third period but was helped to the dressing room by his own mates.

Coach Johnny O'Flaherty rested the players and brought them on a sightseeing tour to the nearby shrine of Sir. Anne de Beaupre where they visited the Roman Catholic Church, a war museum and other places of interest.

O'Flaherty was willing to talk about the sightseeing trip but had little to say otherwise. He confined himself to "we're in good shape."

Coach Punch Imlach was not at all satisfied with Aces' showing last Thursday. He said he observed "victory for the Maritime major loop little-holder, he said, and Aces have to wake up and "show their stuff."

"We had a bad start Thursday but I think the boys are ready now," said Imlach.

Some of his players may be out of action tonight. Marcel Bonin suffered a shoulder injury Thursday and Armand Gaudreault is suffering from an unidentified illness.

Beavers Trail Alexander Cup Series 3-1

Quebec, April 26 — (CP) — Saint-John Beavers and Quebec Aces tangle tonight in the fifth game and their best-of-seven final series for the Alexander Trophy.

The Beavers, leading the series 3-1, whitewashed the Aces 6-0 Thursday to take their first game on home ice. Some of the "tackle-to-the-wall" tenseness was gone, following the initial victory, but another loss for the Beavers would spell curtains for the season.

Coach Johnny O'Flaherty, rested the players and brought them on a sightseeing tour to the nearby shrine of Sir. Anne de Beaupre where they visited the Roman Catholic Church, a war museum and other places of interest.

O'Flaherty was willing to talk about the sightseeing trip but had little to say otherwise. He confined himself to "we're in good shape."

New Chemical May End Algae Nuisance

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT
(Noted Sportsman, Author and Creator of Salmar Tales)

All of us who go bass fishing in lakes are familiar with that ever-present pest, whose right name is algae. It has other colloquial names such as "green scum," "frog slime," and so on. It snarls up the blades of your propeller, collects in long streamers on your hooks.

On close examination under a glass, algae is - - - or maybe algs would be correct; "algae" is the plural - - - and it is not the pretty little aquatic plant. Just the same, it is a nuisance to the fishermen.

During the summer months the alga plant blossoms and spreads itself. Then it is that a lake is said to be "working." Each of the microscopic green seeds reduce visibility through the water to two or three feet.

Any bass fisherman will tell you that the fishing in a "working" lake is apt to be pretty poor. As I say, visibility is cut down so that a fish cannot see a lure readily. That, of course, does not help the fishing, but it is not the sole cause of the poor fishing.

When these tiny water plants bloom, they release their seeds which drift away in the water. Then as each variety of vegetable matter undergoes a certain amount of decomposition, thereby raising the carbonic acid gas content of the water from a normal of one or two parts per million to seventeen or eighteen parts per million.

Carbonic acid gas in such quantities, while not sufficiently toxic to be fatal, does have a deleterious effect on appetites with the result that the fish go on a hunger strike and eat very little until the condition returns to normal. Result - - - poor fishing.

Until a short time ago, the usual weed killer that was used in lakes was copper sulphate. This is a tricky stuff to use as it kills not only weeds but fish as well. Just how much of the latter will control weeds without harming fish can get out of hand all too easily and do much damage.

Control Means Found

Now we have news from the University of Wisconsin, telling us of a discovery by botanists George Fitzgerald, Gerald Gerloff and Folke Skoog, which promises to be of great aid in controlling the bloom of noxious blue-green algae in lakes during the summer months.

These men have done a great deal of work in discovering this chemical and learning how to use it safely. What they wanted was a selective algae killer - - - one which would attack algae without harming other plants and aquatic animal life.

It has been something of the algae-killing qualities of the chemical copper sulphate, however, several initial experiments were carried out in lakes near Madison, Wisconsin, which are noted for their heavy algae blooms.

It was learned that only a few parts per billion in the waters of the lakes were effective. However, in all, twenty different species of algae were tested. Results of the tests were killed by concentrations of less than ten parts per billion.

It stands to reason that the user must know what he is doing.

For the same, it is pleasant to contemplate complete absence of algae bloom in your favorite bass lake. As things are now, there are a few weeks of each year that most lake is temporarily useless because of excessive bloom.

So if the chemical works out as well as it now promises to do, so you can plan your summer vacations without worry, secure in the knowledge that your arrival at camp will be greeted by crystal-clear waters.

Our hats is off to the botanists of the University of Wisconsin. May their tribe increase.

Arsenal's Famous Gunners Count On Reserves In May 3 Cup Final

By EDWIN S. JOHNSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, April 26 (CP) — Despite a crop of injuries, Arsenal's famed Gunners are confident their brilliant first line play and strong reserves will carry them to victory over the great Newcastle United team in the Football Association Cup final at Wembley May 3.

For the Gunners it will be their sixth appearance in a cup final with a chance to score their fourth victory. Arsenal and Newcastle are the only two clubs ever That was in 1932, and Newcastle won 2-1.

The Gunners engaged in a tight battle with Manchester United for English League honors and suffered a mounting casualty list in the process. Newcastle, out of contention for the league title, concentrated on the cup playoffs and is the only team in the final with a well-rested club.

Lost Chance

Arsenal lost its chance Monday to become the first club in 30 years to win the cup and league championship double when it was last won by Aston Villa in 1897. The Gunners bowed to West Bromwich Albion, 2-1, and dropped two points behind Manchester United, which virtually clinched the title by defeating Chelsea 3-0.

Manchester and Arsenal clash in the last fixture of the season Saturday. But Manchester can afford to lose the game, even though an Arsenal win would leave the teams tied in points, because United has a better goal average than the Gunners.

The United team's title hopes hang during the Easter list of fixtures. First major clash is was Ray Daniel, Arsenal's brilliant young Welsh International centre-half, who twice was stopped when he collided head-on with Blackpool's Stan Mortensen in a vital Good Friday match which ended in a scoreless draw.

Leslie Compton, one of 38 year his first international cap with England last season, was the final to fill the gap.

Daniel, however, is being fitted with a lightweight plastic cast and may be ready at Wembley.

Pats frowned again on the London club in its league encounter against Bolton the following day. This time left-back Lionel Smith, an English International, was sidelined with a badly-wrenched knee.

In the last few days Jimmy Logie, Reg Lewis and Art Shaw joined the injured list.

However, Arsenal has lost none of its vaunted confidence. Led by the shrewd if stumpy, 38-year-old Joe Mercer, the team boasts of such other stars as goalie George Swindin, the aggressive Alex Forbes and alert, unorthodox inside left Doug Lishman, Peter Goring, D. Roper and the opportunist, Freddie Cox. Behind them is a reserve of veterans and youngsters, all imbued with an inflexible will-to-win.

Remember When

(By The Canadian Press)

Ty Cobb, one of baseball's all-time greats, led Philadelphia Athletics to a 9-8 victory over Boston in an American League game 25 years ago today. During his 23rd year in the majors, the Georgia Peach, who retired the following year, drove in two runs, scored two himself including the by-steal-in the home, ended the game with an unassisted double play.

What Makes Rookies Nervous? 'It's the Fans' Says Outfielder

Pittsburgh, April 26—(AP)—What makes a baseball rookie nervous in his first appearances in the major leagues—pitching, fielding, batting?

"None of the above," says outfielder Brandy Davis, up for his big league try with the Pittsburgh Pirates. "It's the fans."

And the 23-year-old former Duke University baseball and track star isn't kidding. In a night game against the Pirates, Pirates' Baumholtz of Chicago Cubs singled to right field. And as Davis ran to grab the ball, one fan yelled:

"You'll miss it."

Sure enough, he booted the ball.

That prompted one Pittsburgh newspaper to plead for a "be-kind-to-rookies week."

Davis, a shy youngster, spent most of last season with Hartsville in the Kansas-Oklahoma Missouri class B league.

"Fans in the minor leagues are a lot different," mused Davis. "They don't let less take it for granted that us guys still have a lot to learn and not to perform. They ever boo Ralph Kiner, the best home-run hitter in the National League.

Reminded that the Steel City fans more or less shunted Curt Elliott, now with the Giants, out of Pittsburgh, Davis replied:

"That's one thing I don't want to happen to me. I'm not letting that one error, worry me. I just hope I can stick with the Pirates and play a lot of games."

That one miscue didn't have any effect on manager Billy Meyer or general manager Branch Rickey.

"The only thing wrong with that boy is that he needs confidence," commented Rickey. "I've got more confidence in him than he has in himself."

"He's got speed and a good throwing arm. All he needs is to refrain from swinging at pitches in the ball zone and he's a major leaguer. That boy can run like a scared ape. He can outrun anybody on the field. But he needs to improve his hitting. That comes with experience."

In five games with the Bucs, the 165-pound speedster has collected only three hits in 11 trips to the plate for a .273 average.

The best bridge hinges on partnership confidence. If partner knows what he is saying and you believe him, your pair has an edge. You are better informed when an emergency arises.

We have been talking about this pair of partnership hands:

SOUTH	NORTH
♠10 7 6	♠None
♥K Q J 10	♥9 3 2
♦8 7 6 5	♦A Q 10 8 5
♣9	♣A K 10 8
♣None	6 4

South is dealer and passes. North opens with a club. South then replies with a double-jump to three hearts; a signal showing a long and strong independent suit; forcing game.

If south has such a suit, north must assume there is a slam in their pair. If south has the heart ace there may even be a grand slam there. So, north must find out if south is aceless.

North would also like to show his other suit and reveal that he has six clubs and five diamonds. This he could do by bidding diamonds now and then rebidding diamonds.

But he is unable to do all this and also find out about the number of aces and kings held by south. Because, the signal used for asking about aces and kings is a bid of four no-trump.

However, with confidence in what partner says, north can be excused for abandoning information about his own suits. He knows the heart suit is strong enough for their partnership trump.

Therefore, the second bid by north is four no-trump. In reply thereto, south will say five clubs. This is the convention reply signal for showing a hand that contains no ace.

If south has no ace, opponents must have the ace of hearts. For sure, there is no grand slam. And even a small slam may not make if south cannot help save north losers. But, six hearts is the bid.

You may know another set of bids that will arrive at the same result. Perhaps with equal assurance. And that will be right, too.

A winning guide will help your side.

Ruth Roman, bound for a western dude ranch vacation, encounters Richard Todd, the community's most hated man since he won acquittal on a charge of murdering his wife. Most of the townspeople believe Todd, once a prosperous rancher, bought his way to freedom, since one juror, Mercedes McCambridge, held out for his innocence. Ruth falls in love with Todd, and is shocked to learn that Mercedes also is deeply in love with him. Ruth and Todd are married, but she becomes hysterical on their wedding night, flees and meets Mercedes, who in a stormy scene confesses she killed Todd's wife—a wanton, vicious woman. Mercedes and her crippled brother escape but die when their car crashes, clearing the way for Todd's reunion with his friends and happiness with his bride.

SCORE SIX IN SIX MINUTES

Bracebridge, Ont., April 26 — (CP) — Scoring six goals in the final six minutes, Bracebridge Bears last night defeated Elmira Polar Kings 6-4 to tie the best-of-seven Ontario Hockey Association Intermediate 'B' finals at one game each.

Trailing 4-0 after 54 minutes of play, Bears won the game on goals by Downey, with two; Nicholls, Vandicaf, Thomson and Reid. Simon scored twice for Elmira with Quinn and Miller adding one each.

Fort Frances Will Have Edge On Home Arena

Fort Frances, Ont., April 26 — (CP) — Tonight Fort Frances will be playing host for the first time to a Canadian Senior Hockey Championship game.

Stratford Indians may not enjoy the remainder of the best-of-seven series against the local Canadians since the Forts have a reputation for home-ice wins.

The series now stands tied 1-1 but can still be paralyzed into a best - of - five affair. Canadians took the opener 9-5 and then dropped the second 3-0.

The big zero mark and a strong Stratford defence is something Fort Frances won't forget for a long time. Canadians had little trouble getting through in the first game but were hemmed in their own end in the second.

Fort Frances and Stratford will be starting from scratch tonight and both teams are in fair physical condition. Canadians, perhaps, hold a slight edge.

Walt Christiansen of Canucks received a bruised arm in the first minutes of the game but the injury isn't expected to hamper him unduly. The hard-hitting guy of the Northwestern Ontario club, he was slowed by bruised ribs in the Western Canada semi-final and later was struck in the mouth by a stray stick during the Western Final with Edmonton Pats.

Doc Johnson, fiery Canadians pivot man, was out part of the Western Semi-Final and still suffers from a leg ailment.

On the other side of the ledger, the injury situation finds Elwood Ritchie of Stratford with his left wrist in a cast, the result of an early fracture. Ritchie still takes his turn on the forward line but is used sparingly with Billy Flick doing double duty.

Don Heinbuch, rugged Indians rearguard, is trying to shake off effects of a strained ligament in his thigh. The injury isn't serious but makes it hard for him to turn sharply.

No change in line-ups or officials is expected for tonight's game. Tomorrow both teams will be escorted on a sight-seeing tour of the district.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SUNDAY, APRIL 27, 1952.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Stars beam with promise this Sunday on all who keep faith with God and country, and who strive to follow right principles, accept responsibilities.

April 21 to May 22 (Taurus)—Excellent Venus and other aspects inviting you to enjoy better God's devotions, family life and the many blessings that are free and abundant in our land. Pray for the unfortunate.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Mercury's position not all just so for new ideas, writings, investigations, but these may not be necessary nor require much action today. Otherwise beneficent, generous rays prevail.

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer)—Pleasant, inspiring tendencies. Start with thought of God, attending church. If you do, you will find things generally going smoothly, happier.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo)—First sponsored: family, home interests, civic services, kind deeds. Good reading, important matters concerning you and your forces rate attention. Unnecessary hazards avoid.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo)—Similar to Gemini this Sunday. You can have an agreeable day if you follow sensible program and don't overdo in work or worry. Prayer, some rest, pleasant diversion advised.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Things generally should be up-top. In return for advantages given—use them! Live up to your best, think of family, how best to serve God, country, fellow men. Good fun in order, too.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Harv configuration stresses need for patience, kindly understanding of others' wishes or irregularities. Day rich in blessings if we heed God's laws and our best traits.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Some real pleasure doing things for children, oldsters, the lonely or ill. Use imagination, entertaining ability and humor—good time to promote these gifts.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Gentle, favorable rays linger from yesterday's Saturn configurations. Unless you have urgent assignments, make this a day of rest and enjoyable pastimes. First, to church, of course.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Whatever day's immediate concerns, despatch them quickly and find time for some healthy, happy diversion that does not interfere with your soul's needs and family's deserving.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Your best planetary day ending this month. Plan some for days ahead, go to church, pray for guidance and for world peace earnestly. Be thankful for many blessings.

YOU BORN TODAY belong to the lively, ever-interested group, are lucky. Ingenuity abounds, yet fair and reasonable. Can become skilled mech- ics, successful business. Individual, leader in military or naval life. Great talent in this sector, also some faults to correct: Indecision, perhaps overcaress at times and tendency to worry. All can be cured by your own strong will power and ideals.

Birthdate: Ulysses S. Grant, 18th U.S. Pres.; Samuel F. B. Morse, Amer. inventor and artist.

The Innocent Impostor

By Renee Shann

"What is the meaning of your coming home so late?"

"I'm sorry, Aunt Helen. I missed the train."

"It was extremely remiss of you."

"I just couldn't help it."

"Why not?"

"I—well, I was late getting to the station."

"And why were you late getting to the station?"

Patience fidgeted.

"I ran into Jane Thomson. We got talking. You know Jane. At least you've not met her, but I've told you about her often. She and I meet sometimes going up to London in the train. She's got a job up there. And she lives at Stortford." She paused for breath, wondering how the story had sounded, casting her conscience just a little by telling herself that in a way it was true. Jane had been at the dance. Had looked at her, Patience, with wide eyes and said: "Darling, I'm shove! How did you manage to get here? I thought those two old aunts you've told me about kept you under lock and key."

"You must have had a very cold, dark ride home from the station," said Aunt Ellie sympathetically.

Patience felt her cheeks coloring. It hadn't been cold. She remembered the fur car. They'd collected her bicycle from the station and tied it on the back and he'd driven her to within a short distance of the house. They'd stood it so that she could have returned on the 11 o'clock train. She'd been about to suggest as much but. But the joy of being with him had overwhelmed her. One of the consequences. To have him holding her closely, dancing—and then they'd said good night ...A little shiver ran through her. She could feel his lips on hers. Heard again the wonderful things he'd said to her.

"If Patience had a cold, dark ride home," said her Aunt Helen severely, "it was entirely her own fault." She turned to her niece and her eyes were cold and hard. "I must tell you, Patience, that I am really very angry." She rose to her feet. "And now it's time we all went to bed."

Patience kissed them good night on the landing. Her Aunt Helen said coldly: "I'm glad you've got over your fit of shyness sufficiently to come to the dance. But I'm not pleased with you, Patience, for not telling me that your Aunt Helen and I feel we have a right to take just a little extra care of you. Don't you see?"

A wider smile swept over her face. Her Aunt Ellie's shoulders were shaking.

"I'm not laughing at you, Patience, but I'm sure you understand that your Aunt Helen and I feel we have a right to take just a little extra care of you. Don't you see?"

Patience nodded. She felt the same sense of shame. Only she'd not told him so. She was far too old to disclose her emotions.

They were meeting quite often. Always they seemed to come from London together. And one evening last week he'd got out at her station and passed through the barrier as two strangers, to meet again in a rendezvous where some little distance away. They'd lingered there for a few minutes before Patience had speeded home on her bicycle, praying that he aunts wouldn't notice she was later than usual in returning.

It was the next time she came back from her day at the academy that she walked into the sitting room and realized instantly that something had happened. Her aunts were obviously waiting for her. The expression on their faces turned her heart to stone. They looked so cold and horrified and deeply hurt. Aunt Helen was the spokeswoman.

"I understand, Patience, that you have been meeting a young man these last few weeks about whom you have told your aunt Alice and me nothing."

Patience felt hot color rush to her cheeks. Her knees shook.

"What have you got to say for yourself?" said her aunt severely.

Patience made a little helpless gesture.

"You were seen two evenings ago in a taxi—"

"It was all—well, what I mean to say is, Paul's terribly nice."

Her aunt's eyes were hard and angry. "I'm not interested in what her you consider him nice. You know, Patience, how very strongly your aunt Alice and I feel about that sort of thing. That you should have formed a friendship with a young man—someone we don't even know..."

"I'd like to know him, Aunt Helen. I'd like you both to know him. If you'd only allow me to bring him here so that you can meet him..."

"And where, pray, did you meet him?"

Patience swallowed hard.

"In the train."

Miss Helen gasped.

"You mean to stand there and tell me coolly you've picked him up' is the phrase I believe used in these days—in the train?" Miss Helen was really shocked. "I forbid you ever to see or speak to this young man again," she concluded severely.

Patience looked at her aunt, her eyes full of pleading.

"Aunt Helen, please..."

I want no argument, Patience. Insist on your point and you may word that in future you will have nothing more to do with him. And I know that you would not wish me — I want that promise f rom you and then the matter will be closed. It will not be mentioned again by any of us."

Just for a moment Patience saw red. Hot temper surged within her. Overwhelmed it. But then her words rose to her lips. And then her resentment died. She knew in her new good both her aunts had been to her. How they'd stinted themselves in order to send her to and clothe her. How they'd always been generous to her in order to pay her fees at the dress making academy.

"I'm waiting for your promise, Patience," said her Aunt Helen.

Patience felt as if she gave she'd have to keep it. Her aunt said she knew you could trust her word. Only now was she going to face a world in which there was no Paul!

"Patience dear," interposed her Aunt Alice, "I think you should understand that it is for your own good your Aunt Helen is asking you to make this promise."

Patience swung round to her.

"But why? Aunt Alice," I can't see that it is asking too much of me! There's no reason why I should see him. In our being friends. He—oh, Aunt Alice, I thought perhaps you might understand!"

Miss Alice felt her hands trembling in her lap. Heaven forgive her, she did understand. But it mustn't be. The child must be protected against herself. Later on it would be a different matter. When she was old enough to know her own mind. Not now, when any unscrupulous man to whom she was properly introduced came along.

"Well, Patience?" said Miss Helen.

Patience said miserably: "Very well, Aunt Helen, if you insist I give you my promise." And then she turned and stumbled blindly from the room.

She went out through the front door and across the neatly kept lawn, climbed the white and then set off across the meadows. It was growing chill and the light was failing. She shivered, drawing her coat more closely around her. And now tears were raining down her cheeks.T hey wouldn't stop. She just walked along crying bitterly, wondering how she'd live in the future; wondering if it would always hurt so terribly; wondering if she'd been wrong not to stand up to her Aunt Helen.

She went back into the house when at last her tears had stopped and upstairs to her own room. She sat down at the little writing table in the window and found note paper and envelopes. It was the first love letter she'd ever written. She supposed it would almost certainly be the last.

She sat nibbling at the end of her pen, first made several false starts and then in the end the letter she wrote came quite easily. As easily as it usually is for her then she'd have been shy—as if she'd been talking to him. She told him that her aunts had found out about them and that her aunts had forbidden her to see him or speak to him again. "Please Paul darling, don't try to make me break the promise I had to give her. Because it won't make any difference. Nothing you can say would make me go back on it. Nothing you can do. So this is the end. Except to thank you for all the happiness you've given me. Knowing you has been the loveliest thing that has ever happened to me..."

She read the letter through and then put it in an envelope and sealed it. She posted it the next morning. It was Saturday. This afternoon he'd been waiting for the train to come into Stortford station hoping that possibly she'd catch it. But regretfully she'd be on it.

She was helping Aunt Alice with the church brasses when the clock struck three, the time she would have been arriving at Liverpool Street. And then another.

"Patience dear, try not to take it too much to heart."

"I'm all right, Aunt Alice. At least I will be," she said, but her voice was all choked up.

She polished furiously away at the vase to hide her unhappiness.

The weekend routine went as usual. Church on Sunday. The morning service Patience and her aunts were regular churchgoers. Chatter with the various people they knew as they came out. No one as at all exciting. No one young and gay. A dull life for a girl of 20 thought Miss Alice, as they walked home to the roast beef that was awaiting them. And then cheered herself by remembering that after all the dear child went three times a week to London.

Patience was almost dreading the next morning. It came and she thought: "This evening I'll see him." Only she must take no notice. She'd be given Aunt Helen's ten promise. She'd written to him and he'd expect it.

She couldn't concentrate on her work at the academy. The subject of dress which usually interested her so much failed to hold her attention. Madame Girard, who was taking it, reproved her sharply.

At last it was over. Everything put away. The girls crowding into the cloakroom. Patience looked out of the window and wondered if she were really the same girl who'd looked in this same mirror last Friday. Then she'd been so happy. In so short a time life had changed for her so utterly. Paul, in short a while now possibly she'd not see him. Only she didn't want to. It would be far easier if he were cut down on the train. If he'd decided to travel down on another one.

But he was waiting at the barrier Her heart shook at sight of him, and her knees turned to jelly. She strode towards her and took her arm in a firm grip and said sternly: "What is all this nonsence?

could feel this way about anybody. I—" she broke off in confusion. It was the first time she'd said anything like this to him.

"That's so easy to say."

"I mean it."

"You prove it by telling your Aunt Helen when you get home that you're breaking that promise you gave her. Breaking it because she had no right to insist on your making it. Tell her you're coming to see me and you want to marry me."

KOSLIN

Roslin—A card party was held in the Anglican Church hall on Monday evening of last week under the auspices of the Women's Auxiliary. Prizes for high scores for euchre were, ladies, Mrs. W. White; men's, Mr. W. Eaton. Prizes in ninety-two were won by Mrs. M. Morgan and Mr. W. Slingerland.

On Wednesday evening the A.Y.P.A. held a social time in the hall. Music for dancing was furnished by the Kerr orchestra of Plainfield.

The McFarland Construction Company of Belleville is working on the Eighth Concession of Tyendinaga cutting and building the road straight through the hill known as the Devil's Elbow, thus eliminating a dangerous curve.

Ridgway Named To Succeed Gen. Eisenhower

Gen. Mark Clark Will Be U.N. Commander in Korea

Washington, April 28 (AP)—Gen. Matthew Ridgway was appointed today to succeed General Eisenhower as Supreme Allied Commander in Europe.

President Truman announced at the same time the appointment of Gen. Mark Clark to succeed Ridgway as the United Nations Commander in Korea and Commander-in-chief of the United States Armed Forces in the Far East.

Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther will continue as chief of staff to the Supreme Allied Commander in Europe. This is the post he has held under Eisenhower.

Truman said in a statement:

"I have every confidence that General Ridgway and Gruenther will make an outstanding team for our common defence effort."

Ridgway's appointment as Eisenhower's release as Supreme Allied Commander will become effective approximately June 1.

Truman said he is continuing Gruenther's assignment "in accordance with Gen. Ridway's advice."

Clark now is commander of Army field forces at Fort Monroe, Va.

Truman said Clark will continue in the Far East "the policies which have been so ably carried out by Gen. Ridgway with regard to the United Nations action in Korea, including, if possible, the achievement of an honorable armistice."

Soviet Denounces Japanese Treaty Put Into Effect

Washington, April 28 (AP) — The United States put the Japanese peace treaty into effect today and Russia immediately denounced it and the accompanying U.S.-Japanese security pact as "treaties for the preparation of a new war in the Far East."

Russia assailed the pacts in a statement made public by Ambassador Alexander Panyushkin.

The peace treaty, returning independence to Japan after nearly seven years of Allied occupation, was brought into force when the U.S. deposited its ratification at the state department.

This was an 11-minute ceremony which included reading of a statement by Secretary Dean Acheson hailing the re-born country as a valiant ally in the struggle against "communist imperialism and aggression in the Pacific."

Japan's Premier Shigeru Yoshida declared the Japanese people "can meet the challenge of our times."

Statement Issued

Then the Russians fired their statement from the Soviet embassy.

Panyushkin called the peace pact an "illegal separate peace treaty with Japan" concluded in violation of the Big Four Moscow conference of 1945.

He added:

"The conclusion of this treaty shows how far the United States government has gone in its policy of converting Japan into the United States bridgehead in the Far East."

The communication was in the form of a 1,000-word letter to Maxwell Hamilton, U.S. chairman of the 13-Country Far Eastern Commission, of which Canada is a member, Panyushkin is Russia's representative on this group.

Simultaneous with the effective hour set at 6 p.m. (EST), a security pact between Japan and the United States went into force. This guarantees the continued presence of U.S. troops in the Japanese island chain as long as necessary to protect the disarmed and defenceless country.

The pacts became effective over the opposition of Russia.

The treaties were put into operation at a simple ceremony in a state department reception room. Tokyo and Washington had agreed that the hour of final action should be 9:30 a.m.

Ratified Some Time Ago

State Secretary Dean Acheson presented to the state department's legal chief, Adrian S. Fisher, a document which President Truman had signed several days ago declaring that the U.S. had ratified the Japanese peace treaty.

Japan and six other countries—including Canada—had previously deposited their ratifications with the state department. Only the American action was necessary to bring the treaty into force.

Sir E. MacMillan Retires And Mazzoleni Resigns

REORGANIZATION IN CONSERVATORY PROMPTS CHANGES

Toronto, April 28—(CP) — A proposed reorganization of Toronto's Royal Conservatory of Music has caused the retirement of Sir Ernest MacMillan as dean of the faculty of music at the University of Toronto.

In addition, Ettore Mazzoleni, principal of the conservatory, has resigned. Several other staff changes are also due to the proposed shakeup as reported in prospect.

Sir Ernest said in a statement last night he was relinquishing his post. The plan would abolish the university faculty and create a faculty of music at the conservatory, which has operated under direction of the university since 1921.

The conservatory's board of directors is scheduled to meet Wednesday to discuss the scheme, reported to have caused a rift among officials.

Also involved are Dr. Edward Johnson, former general manager of New York's Metropolitan Opera Company and now chairman of the conservatory's board of directors; Dr. Arnold Walter, 25-rector of the conservatory's senior school, and Dr. Sidney Smith, president of the university.

Sir Ernest, 58, said the organization would combine the faculty of Music, the Royal Conservatory and the Senior School under one head and under one board. The conservatory then would consist of a faculty granting degree and advanced diploma courses and a school of music dealing with all other activities.

Officials Say Project Still In Nebulous Stage

Ottawa, April 28 — (CP) — A defence production official said today that workers on a highly secret defence project in northern Ontario have not been screened for security because the project is still in the construction stage and holds no classified or secret materials.

He was commenting on a Timmons, Ont., report last night quoting an official of the Algoma Steelworkers Union (C. I. O. - C. C. L.) as saying communists have infiltrated workers on the project located somewhere in that area.

"It's our belief the reds know about the nick and stone of property and every room and corridor in every building," the official said.

Commenting, the defence production officers said that once classified work has started on the project, no worker will be allowed to work without undergoing thorough R. C. M. P. screening.

While details of the project were not disclosed, it was believed to be a project in electronics and communications.

Airmen Aid 2 Women Stowaways To Make Trip from Calif. to Guam

Guam, April 28—(AP)—Two women stowaways who travelled the 6,000 miles from California to Guam in an air force B-29 finally gave themselves away because they couldn't even find a grass shack to live in on this far Pacific island.

But they don't want to go home.

"It's wonderful," exclaimed Jerrie McMillan, 26, Walnut Grove, Calif.

"We would like to stay and work if they would let us," said her companion, Maxine Allen, 25, Sacramento.

Both are in custody of immigration officials.

How do two women travel to the far reaches of the Pacific in a superfortress as unpaying guests of the air force? Well, it isn't all that easy, and it doesn't hurt if you know a couple of airmen.

The air force was holding two airmen for investigation.

Their stowaway guests were dumbfounded when the four surrendered Saturday.

176 Missing as Destroyer Collides With U.S. Carrier, Sea-Air Search Called Off

By JACK RUTLEDGE

Washington, April 28 (AP) —The destroyer - minesweeper Hobson crashed into the aircraft carrier Wasp Saturday night and sank in the middle of the Atlantic. The U.S. Navy said today it has called off the search for 176 seamen listed as missing.

It was the one of the worst naval disasters in U.S. history.

The navy announcement said the air-and-sea search for survivors was called off at sundown yesterday.

There were no casualties reported on the Wasp. Sixty-one seamen on the 1,000 ton Hobson were rescued.

Both the Wasp and the Hobson had distinguished records in the Second World War. The were en route to the Mediterranean as part of a fleet exercise.

The collision took place 1,200 miles due east of Boston and 700 miles west of the Azores. The navy said the seas were choppy and the weather murky.

Taking Part in Manoeuvres

The ships were taking part in night manoeuvres, a normal routine. The collision occurred shortly before midnight Saturday around 9:35 p.m. EDT. The first official word of the crash came shortly before 1 p.m. EDT Sunday.

Rear Admiral Clement, spokesman said the search was called off because planes and ships in the area of the sinking had "ample time to search the waters."

But the department declined to list the victims as "presumed dead" —only as "missing and missing."

Seaman Robert Otto Eisenach, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Bart Eisenach of Route 1, Box 433 Kenora, Ont., was among those listed as "presumably missing."

The Hobson's records went down with the ship and there was no accurate way of knowing the exact complement. The department said it believed there were 14 officers and 223 men aboard.

Rips 75-Foot Hole

The crash ripped a 75-foot hole in the starboard side of the Wasp. The ship was just above the waterline near the bow. The Wasp was making its way to New York for repairs. It was not expected to reach there before Friday or Saturday.

Navy department aides stayed on the job through the clock working on the grim assignment of compiling the list of those reported as missing.

Most of Ratings, Many of Whom Had Never Been to Sea Before, Were Trapped Below Decks

Aboard U.S.S. O'Hare in Mid-Atlantic, April 27 — (Delayed)— (AP)—At the height of the storm with wreckage, Empty life-jackets rolling in an oil slick. The body of a coast guard officer tossing in the raging waters.

This was the scene minutes after the Wasp aircraft carrier Wasp knifed into the destroyer Hobson, sending the converted-navy-lighter weight, crowded minesweeper to the bottom.

The tragedy struck without warning on a rolling sea under dull stars and a black sky.

Most of the Hobson's men were trapped below decks. Many had never been to sea before. A watch of about seven men and possibly as many officers out of the 15 aboard had a chance to escape. Only 61 survivors to have been no chance for frantic rushes up the steel ladders from the ship's bowels.

Several of the survivors were injured, a few critically. They are in the wallowing Wasp's sick bay and on the destroyer floating dock to be received by the navy destroyer because of heavy seas.

The first word of alarm aboard the O'Hare while 50 miles from the Hobson and steaming at manoeuvres had barely reached an end.

The planes that located us in the darkness came from the recently-completed search and rescue mission, dropped flares and headed back for their ship's haven.

Several hours not succeeded in making the flight deck before the crash occurred.

Two Blies Out of Bow Keel

What they could not see and what I saw in wonder when daylight came were two bliss out of bo keel of the carrier, visible at the waterline. The bow, the front one larger than the other, extended for about 50 feet. The forward bliss, 30 feet wide, snapped off the keel 25 feet from the bow.

What I saw from the O'Hare is typical of post-disaster and rescue-attempt activity.

For 50 miles there was nothing but destruction, empty life-jackets, lights on the steaming rescue destroyers.

Suddenly observers saw what appeared to be a circle of lights. Then, through the darkness came from the Hobson's food locker, showed under our persistent lights.

Rescue lovers found the main weather decks of the destroyers. They held ropes, grapnels, hooks, life-jackets, small lights and other rescue gear.

Indications of the self-sacrificing, esprit de corps that spread through the flotilla when disaster

Torch Commando Ready to Fight To Bitter End

Capetown, April 28 (AP) — Winding up a two-day council, leaders of the Torch Commando said last night they have mobilized their 175,000 members for a "fight to the end" against government efforts to tamper with South Africa's constitution.

Delegates from the Union's four provinces bluntly warned Prime Minister D. F. Malan they will meet "action with action" if he pushes through a bill to strip the Appeals (Supreme) Court of its power to pass judgment on parliamentary acts.

The bill, which passed its first reading last Wednesday, was Malan's answer to a court decision which threw out his law removing voting rights of persons of mixed blood in the Cape Province. The court said the bill begins in parliament Wednesday.

The Torch Commando, organized by war veterans who opposed the Nationalist government's drastic measures for enforcing its policy of apartheid, has drawn a three-point program to resist the Malan regime, including a boycott of products of segregationist firms.

1. House public opinion through every possible means. Stop the ousting Malan in the 1953 general election.

2. Meet "unconstitutional action" by the government by unconstitutional means. Those means were not disclosed but it was stressed they would be short of civil war—"unless the other side starts one."

3. Resist "any move" by the government against the Torch Commando, which is now going underground.

The Nationalist have accused the Commandos of plotting a coup and shocking disclosures of this nature will war. Malan has said the group is tinged with communism and is its activities border on the illegal.

SOUTH AFRICAN TROUBLE MAY UPSET DEFENCE

Diplomats Worried By Racial Hatreds

Capetown, April 28 (AP) — Western diplomats say they see beginning to fear that deepening rifts in this troubled land may threaten the west's plans for African-Middle East defence if war comes.

Some foreign envoys watching the situation have informed their home governments that, if South Africa is to de her part in Middle East defence, she first must solve her home-grown crisis—the Union's official birthday will be celebrated.

Elizabeth I became Queen Feb. 6, on the death of her father, King George VI.

The ceremony has taken part in one coronation in Westminster Abbey. Her father, who became King Dec. 11, 1936 after the abdication of Edward VIII, was crowned there May 12, 1937.

Birthday April 21

The Queen's real birthday is April 21. She will be 27 on her next birthday, just a few months than a month before her coronation. She has set aside June 2 for official celebration of her birthday, following a custom set by her father.

Canada will celebrate the Queen's birthday June 2 under a custom whereby the birthday of a sovereign is celebrated on a Monday in June.

Other social events usually held in the first week of June include the famed derby the trooping of the color and the military pageant known as the Royal tournament. These may be postponed.

The coronation will come soon after the beginning of Britain's tourist season when the city normally is packed with visitors.

Brief Statement Made Today From the Palace

Coronation Day Falls In Same Week as Birthday

London, April 28—(CP)—The Queen announced tonight she will be crowned June 2, 1953.

A brief announcement from Buckingham Palace said:

"The Queen has been pleased to appoint Tuesday 2nd June, 1953, as the day of Her Majesty's coronation."

Coronation day thus will fall in Britain's greatest social week of 1953. The following Friday, June 5, the Queen's official birthday will be celebrated.

Elizabeth became Queen Feb. 6, on the death of her father, King George VI.

The ceremony has taken part in one coronation in Westminster Abbey. Her father, who became King Dec. 11, 1936 after the abdication of Edward VIII, was crowned there May 12, 1937.

Prime Minister Sends Message To Japanese P.M.

Ottawa, April 28 (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent said today Canada looks to Japan "to be an effective bastion of peace and freedom in an area afflicted by communist aggression and oppression.

He sent a message to Prime Minister Yoshida of Japan, expressing Canada's good wishes on the coming into force of the Japanese peace treaty.

The external affairs department, releasing the text of Mr. St. Laurent's message, also announced that full diplomatic relations are being resumed between Canada and Japan.

The Canadian Liaison Mission, established in Tokyo in 1946, now will have the status of an embassy, A. R. Menzies, 33, will be in charge d'affaires, until an ambassador is appointed.

Mr. St. Laurent said that with the coming into force of the peace treaty, Canadians are "putting behind us all thoughts of rancour which the tragic war may have engendered."

He added:

"It is the deeply felt hope of the Canadian people that Japan will play an honorable and constructive part in helping to re-establish peace, security and friendly relations among the peoples of East Asia.

"As a prosperous and peaceful Far East is in the best interests of Canada, we expect to find ourselves co-operating with Japan in meeting a great number of common problems in the Pacific area."

Search Planes Spot Soldiers Lost Three Days

Ismailia, Egypt, April 28—(Reuters)— Search planes today spotted seven British soldiers lost for three days in the wastes of the Sinai desert.

The soldiers, an officer and six other ranks, were standing beside their Bren gun carrier when a British anti-aircraft gun.

They became lost during manoeuvres and a khamseen—violent sandstorm—hampered the search during the last 48 hours.

Psychologist No Longer Asst. Deputy

Jackson, Mich., April 28—(AP) —The young psychologist who negotiated the agreement that ended a bloody five-day mutiny at Southern Michigan Prison is no longer is assistant deputy warden.

Dr. Vernon Fox, 36, has been transferred to Jackson prison, "other duties outside the prison," said State Corrections Commissioner Earnest C. Brooks.

Brooks announced the action Saturday night a few hours after prison guards demanded Fox's removal. He was taken to safety from armed state troopers inside the prison.

X-Ray Corral Offers Key to Safety For Humans In Coming A-Power Age

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

Oak Ridge, Tenn., April 28—(AP)—An X-ray corral here offers keys to safety for humans in the coming atomic power age.

Animals are placed in the enclosure and exposed from all sides with X-rays from radio-active cobalt. They can get small doses, or large.

What the rays do to the animals' health and physical fitness can answer some important unknowns about humans.

How good must be the shielding to protect men driving atomic powered planes, or operating atomic power plants? How small a dose per week, remotely controlled or withstand without any bad effects?

How good are various medicines or materials designed to prevent the ravages of radiation sickness? Just how much X-ray radiation, can the whole body, man or beast, take?

Burros are being used in the X-ray pen because burros are much like humans in general body size and position of vital organs.

The answers will be far more accurate than similar studies made in the past with mice or fruit flies. They can pin down the facts about humans and tolerable and intolerable radiation.

The animals are a new project of the agricultural research projects being carried on by the University of Tennessee experiment station under a contract with the atomic energy commission.

The X-ray corral is set in a fenced enclosure on a wooded hills near Oak Ridge. There is a wire fence, surrounding a round concrete pen, with a 20-foot diameter.

Inside the corral are 19 smaller fences, like the protective fences put around young trees on city boulevards. Inside the fence protects a vault in the concrete. Deep inside the vault are lead pipes or cylinders containing pellets of radioactive cobalt, strong sources of X-rays.

After the burros are put in the pen, remote controlled winches raise the pellets from the vaults, lifting them three feet into the air. The burros are sprayed with X-rays, from all sides, and exposed to the animals from brushing against the cobalt charges.

The rays shoot out far in all directions. Planes detected the rays 2,000 feet up. The rays are absorbed mostly by hills on three sides of the pen and by a great earthen bunker on the fourth. Behind the bunker is the control room for raising and lowering of the cobalt pellets. The cobalt, made in an atomic reactor, is the cheaper source of X-rays than big X-ray machines.

Afterward the burros are led back to their stalls for observation and study.

TENT CATERPILLARS GETTING EARLY START

Tent caterpillars are getting busy in an early start this year on the roadside cherries and other wild fruit trees, it was noticed yesterday during a drive in the country.

Already with the young leaves on the trees barely forming the webs of the caterpillars are starting to appear on the branches and with the progress of the season will get progressively worse until the foliage is stripped bare by the crawling caterpillars.

STRUCK BY AUTO AT INTERSECTION

Walking across the intersection against the red light, Wayne Goodfellow, 13, of Shannonville, was knocked down Saturday when struck by an auto, but escaped injury.

Douglas Greenley, Smithfield, was driving east on Bridge Street with the green light when the lad stepped out from the curb and was struck by the car. He suffered a few scrapes on his feet and claimed he was uninjured.

CAR LEAVES ROAD, DRIVER INJURED

Garnet Hill, 36, of Shannonville, suffered lacerations about the head Sunday evening when the car which he was driving left the highway on a curve west of Desoronto and went into the ditch. Police said no other vehicles were involved.

Two other occupants of the car, Peter Baptista and Stan Hill, although shaken up, were not taken to hospital.

WHITE'S MEAT MARKET ENTERED DURING NIGHT

Cash amounting to between $700 and $800 plus an undetermined amount in cheques was stolen from White's Meat Market on McAnany Street, Saturday night, it was reported today by city police.

On making his rounds shortly after midnight Saturday P. C. Lockwood discovered a back storeroom window insecure and investigation by the proprietor revealed that the above amount in cash, plus the cheques had been stolen. The safe stolen was not in the till and money left in the till was untouched, it was stated.

LEATHER CHAIR RECOVERED BY POLICE

A handsome leather upholstered sheridan chair which over the weekend disappeared from the 9th Anti-Tank officers' mess at the armories has been recovered by police. Disappearance of the chair was reported by one of the regimental officers. Police stated that charges were pending.

COMMUNAL WINE, SILVER HEAD ROT, STOLEN FROM CHURCH

Communal wine at St. Thomas Anglican Church as well as a silver head box valued at nearly $30 disappeared from the church some time Saturday night, it was reported to police. The thefts were believed to have been the work of a tramp.

The theft was noticed by Archdeacon Emiliu Sundell on Sunday when he observed that the cloth cover on the chalice was ajar. He investigated and found the chalice upset with the wine having disappeared and the communal bread box gone.

MRS. DOUGLAS BATEMAN PASSES REQUIREMENTS FOR MASTER OF ARTS

Mrs. Douglas Bateman has successfully completed the requirements for Master of Arts in Psychology and will receive the degree in June at Toronto University convocation.

Truck Nuisance Here to Stay Until Highway By-Passes City

Death and taxes are not the only inevitables facing residents of the Belleville area whose homes edge No. 2 highway linking Toronto and Montreal. They also have the transport truck problem.

Target of numerous complaints by citizens who demand that it "something must be done" to silence the roar of transport trucks which swarm through the city throughout the day and night, the truck noise nuisance is here to stay until the highway is made to by-pass the community.

"We can do nothing," Chief Constable Walter Probert admitted today. "People complain all the time but because transport trucks are licensed by the provincial government and authorized by the Board of Transport Commissioners, the people who are disturbed have no say in the operation of the trucks. It is the powers-that-be higher up who must do something if something is to be done. We can't."

The police chief joined other complainers of the transport truck disturbance. "Why even at my house I can often hear the trucks. They are a real nuisance. It's not that they only operate for one period a day. They are going day and night and it is impossible to get any rest. I don't blame people for complaining. I wish we could do something about it," he said.

Salvation Army Holds Youth Rally at Citadel

Described as the most successful rally since rallies began five years ago, the Mid-Ontario Divisional Youth Council of the Salvation Army met in the citadel here Sunday to hear inspirational messages of Canadian Salvationist leaders. The rally attracted an estimated 350 delegates from the ages of 14 to 28 years, who represented points including Oshawa, Lindsay, Peterborough, Gananoque, Napanee, Trenton, Belleville and District Fish and Game Protective Association, city and provincial police, the press and others who co-operated in giving full support every protection possible during the spawning period.

"The intelligent support of the public generally was excellent," said Fish and Wildlife Inspector R. G. Sheppard, Tweed. "Few illegal fish and relatively few convictions had to be dealt with in any of these rivers."

Pickerel Run Falling Off, Patrols Relaxed

The pickerel run in the southern sections of the district have fallen off and so have the number of officer patrols along the Trent, Moira, Salmon and Napanee rivers have been relaxed.

Senior conservation officers, who organized the patrols, have not got little sleep, while the run lasted were reminded for the efficient way the task was handled. These men praised the efforts of the Belleville and District Fish and Game Protective Association, city and provincial police, the press and others who co-operated in giving full support every protection possible during the spawning period.

"The intelligent support of the public generally was excellent," said Fish and Wildlife Inspector R. G. Sheppard, Tweed. "Few illegal fish and relatively few convictions had to be dealt with in any of these rivers."

Foley Foundry Roof Damaged By Small Blaze

Sparks from the cupola which set fire to the tar and gravel roof caused approximately $200 damage to the roof of the Foley Foundry on Front Street on Sunday evening. The fire burned a small hole in the roof before firemen were able to extinguish the blaze.

Several moulds in the foundry part of the building were also believed damaged as the water used to extinguish the blaze dropped through into the building.

Young boys playing with firecrackers were believed responsible for a number of fires caused small damage on Saturday. The boys were said to be throwing lighted firecrackers to the roof of the cottage owned by Mr. Johnston at 374 Front Street.

A third call answered by firemen over the weekend was for a grass fire at Hillcrest, which was promptly extinguished.

Cemetery For Pets Planned in City

It may not rate as a tourist attraction nor contribute to the city's progress, but plans are now under way for a new cemetery which is to be the last resting place for dogs and other pets.

Because animal lovers in the district do not have a pet burial plot, Dr. Harry W. Burns, veterinarian, reasons that a pet cemetery would fill the need. Already plans are under way to level a slope at the rear of the doctor's Dundas Street east residence, plant trees and shrubs and make the property available to dead pets.

Shortage of Farm Help Reported By Commission

Believed to be caused by lower-pay and longer hours than prevail in industry, a shortage of farm help in the Belleville district was reported today by H. H. Reed, local office manager of the Unemployment Insurance Commission. The commission manager expressed the view that the labor shortage was resulting in the delay of normal farm operations, farmers fearing too-plant "hoe" crops because of the lack of adequate help.

For the week ending last Saturday it was reported that 695 district unemployed were collecting unemployment insurance benefits and of that number, 60 were listed as "short term" claims by persons employed in factories but whose hours of work have been reduced.

Positions for 48 males and 31 females are listed by the commission, the manager reported.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, April 28 — (CP) — Prices turned downward today, as early afternoon stock market support weakened steadily.

Industrial declines predominated in selected leading issues but a scattered list of western oils, penny golds and lower-priced base metals attracted speculative interest. Volume for the first three hours was 1,567,000 shares.

Steels, banks and liquors led industrials downward with a scattered list of fractional declines. Manufacturing companies and agriculturres also slipped but refining oils and miscellaneous items edged upward.

Western oils were mixed. Canadian Atlantic, Home, Sapphire, Ponder Western Ashley and Trans Empire declined while Central Explorers, Leduc Consolidated Dragon and New Superior weakened.

Base metals eased: Coldstream Copper, Consolidated Smelters, Falconbridge, Golden Manitou, Quemont, United Asbestos and Yukeno traded lower.

Senior golds made little headway. Hoyle led a ragged decline in secondary issues.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

Toronto, April 28 (CP) —Ontario stockyards cattle trade was active today with prices 50 cents higher on steers and heifers and upward to $1 on cows. Receipts: Cattle 3,400; calves 170; hogs 870; sheep and lambs 30. No farmers sold last week.

Choice steers sold at $25-$25.75 with good steers at $24-$25 and common downward to $21. Good heifers sold mostly $24 with common to medium from $20-$23.50. Good cows brought $18-$21 with a few light cows upward to $22. Canners and cutters were selling at $12-$16. Good heavy bulls sold at $20-$21.50 with common downward to $18. Choice fed yearlings were at $25-$26.50.

Calves sold steady at $23-$25 for good to choice vealers while common to medium sold at $10-22.

Hogs were at $28 for grade A with sows $11 dressed.

A few common lambs sold at $15. Medium to good sheep were selling at $17-$22 with common downward to $7.

PRODUCE MARKET

Toronto, April 28 — (CP) — Churning cream and butter print prices here today were: churning cream 58-63; butter prints 60 - 60 1-2.

Opening demand was fair with receipts liberal on all grades today at the egg market. Quotations are for eggs packed in paper cases.

Graded eggs cases free, delivered Toronto: grade A large 42; A medium 37; A small 32; grade B 30; grade C 26.

Wholesale to retail prices quoted are for loose eggs: grade A large 47; A medium 41; A small 37-38; grade B 34-35; grade C 32-33.

Butter solids: first grade 58 tenderable (nominal) and none tenderable 57 1-4 - 57 1-2 (nominal); no price established on second grade; Western 56 1-4 (nominal).

DOCTOR ARRESTED

Toronto, April 28—(CP)—Dr. Earl B. Cluse, 59-year-old physician, was arrested during the weekend on a charge of performing an abortion on an unmarried 21-year-old Toronto woman. He was released today on bail of $5,000.

Police said the woman became violently ill a few days ago and was taken to hospital where an emergency operation was performed.

Her condition today was described as "extremely grave."

P. C. Candidate

A young business woman will be the Progressive Conservative candidate in the May 26 federal by-election in Waterloo North, Mrs. Gerda Jansen, 24, will seek the parliamentary seat left vacant by the resignation of Louis O. Breithaupt, to become Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario. Miss Jansen, shown in a typically feminine pose, is secretary and manager of her father's real estate in Kitchener, Ont. — (CP Photo.)

Trenton Briefs

Elmer Jackson, Hurt by Tractor, Makes Recovery

Trenton—(Special)— Farmhand Elmer Jackson, 37, has nearly recovered from an accident at one of Collin Creek farms near here. Mr. Jackson had his left ankle fractured when a heavily loaded manure spreader jumped against the tractor he was driving, pinning his leg. His right had was also hurt in the collision. He spent 25 days in the Trenton Memorial Hospital under treatment. He comes from Picton.

Fishermen Prepare

Trenton—(Special) — Veteran river fishermen claim that the smelts have left the river and pickerel are now teeming up to spawning grounds. Over at the lake, net fishermen are getting ready for the annual whitefish harvest, which starts May 15. In the meantime, trout fishermen will be converging on streams north and west of here on opening day, May 1.

Fast Mortem Today

Trenton—(Special) — A post mortem will be performed today on the body of Bob McLaughlin, 42, who died suddenly at his home on Bay Street yesterday. Mr. McLaughlin leaves five children. Last year his wife Florence, along with sa, elderly woman, was the victim of asphyxiation in a Toronto rooming house. He worked for the town.

Illuminating Bicycles

Trenton—Special—The market square will be roped off Monday and Tuesday nights of next week while the Trenton Kiwanis Club equips eligible bike owners with luminous scotch tape lighting for safer night riding. Only holders of 1952 bicycle licences will be allowed to take advantage of the "Light a Bike" campaign. Facilities will be set up in the area for the sale of new licences.

Meadow Mice Cause Damage To Plantations

Meadow mice apparently are at the peak of their cycle and have caused considerable damage to tree plantations in the district, according to Zone Forester W. E. Edwards, Napanee.

"During the winter," Mr. Edwards said, "the bark of various species of trees had been eaten by tunnelling through the snow. Only the southern part of the district has any serious damage."

"Just north of this city a plantation of Scotch Pine owned by Dr. Rutsell Scott was almost completely destroyed," the forester said. "The plantation site was on fairly good land so there was a heavy growth of sod. This type is preferred by the mice. The trees which were planted during 1950 had reached a height from one to two feet. The winter had the bark eaten off the main stem, while the lateral roots were almost completely stripped with the tops being cut off."

Plantations of sandy land such as the Hastings county forest and the Lennox and Addington forest have not been affected," Edwards said. Artificial plantations which have suffered to some extent where trees up to an inch and a half have been girdled.

It is likely that the population of meadow mice will decrease from the present peak, but in some areas control measures such as poison bait might be advisable.

Most Merchants Accept US Funds Without Discount

A spot check along the city's main street has revealed that most merchants are accepting American currency at par despite the official discount of almost two per cent.

Terming the transactions as "what good business would dictate" merchants hinted they would continue their par dealings until American money reached five per cent discount. Then, they said, further consideration would be given.

A. R. Lehnen, manager of the F.W. Woolworth store here, said instructions were issued early this week to discontinue accepting U.S. money without discount.

"In business, the customer is the deciding factor," the manager said. "When customers refused to accept American money over the change, we discontinued accepting it at par."

E. W. Lee, manager of a local wine store, together with J. E. Logan, McFee Jewellery store manager; R. G. Clapp, service station operator; and Ken Graw, of Shaw's Men's Wear, agreed they would continue accepting American money used in making purchases.

When possible, they said, American money was returned in change.

"If a person gives a $20 American bill in payment for a one dollar article, we give American change as a matter of courtesy," one merchant said. "But for the ordinary transaction, we accept the American money and let it go at that."

Some Caught With Clocks Slow on Sunday

The clocks were moved ahead one hour on Saturday night, and no doubt a few people were caught with their clocks slow on Sunday morning.

Be that as it may, The best story coming out of the "one-hour clocks-on" weekend is that of the chap who awakened Sunday morning, took a look at the clock, dashed out of bed to the phone and called and office colleague to inform him he would be a trifle late.

"Go back to bed, you so-and-so," came the growled response, "it's Sunday morning."

And red of face, the sleepy-eyed gent crawled back to the warm comfort of his couch.

A special door prize was won by T. Skinkle.

District Chinese Pay Tribute To Ancestors

Chinese residents of Belleville yesterday paid tribute to their ancestors, visiting the local cemetery where eight of their fellow-citizens are buried.

During the afternoon ceremony, flowers were planted on the graves of the departed and burning incense filled the air. The annual pilgrimage to the burial place was highlighted by the cracking of firecrackers, an ancient rite designed to banish evil spirits from the cemetery. As the ceremony ended, food, chocolate bars and cigarets were placed on the graves for the use of the dead.

William Wong, Belleville restaurant proprietor, headed the committee, which attracted Chinese from neighboring towns. During the ceremony he suggested that the Chinese community should purchase a burial plot that deceased Chinese could be buried in one section of the cemetery. Louis Chin, retired Belleville restaurant owner, assisted in making arrangements for yearly pilgrimages.

FREE PRESS SCORES VICTORY

There has just been a hotly-contested ballot battle out in Winnipeg. The issue was whether the privately-owned Winnipeg Electric Company should be purchased by the province of Manitoba and operated under public ownership. The public ownership people were thrown for a loss, by a vote of two to one.

There are, it seems, three important companies in Manitoba for the manufacture and distribution of hydro-electric power. In addition to the Winnipeg Electric Company, there is a city-owned organization selling power in Winnipeg and a provincially-owned enterprise selling power in rural Manitoba. This, with one privately-owned company competing with two publicly-owned ones, in the same field of operation, the citizens of Winnipeg and its environs were in a position to make comparisons and draw conclusion.

The plan upon which the citizens of Winnipeg were asked to register approval or disapproval was this: the provincial government was to purchase the privately-owned Winnipeg Electric Company for $58,000,000, and the city-owned enterprise, the latter at an unstated price, and unite the two of them with the provincially-operated hydro system. The Winnipeg Electric Company, it appears, had been approached and was willing to sell its assets for $58,000,000.

This plan of having the province take over all the sale and distribution of electricity in Manitoba had, of course, the support of the provincial government. It had also the support of every member of the Winnipeg city council, except one alderman, named Scott. The Winnipeg Electric Company was, as stated, agreeable. The officers of the city hydro backed the plan, as did the officers of the provincial hydro, as well as most of the civil servants, not to mention the Winnipeg Chamber of Commerce. The Winnipeg Tribune was in there fighting for the plan, too. It is scarcely necessary to point out that C.C.F. and the Manitoba labourite party, both ardent advocates of public ownership and state control, joined in the battle to make an end of the privately-owned Winnipeg Electric Company.

The one mentioned Alderman Scott was not entirely alone in opposing the extension of the public ownership principle. The Winnipeg Free Press came to his aid and helped him organize a citizens' committee, only two weeks before the voting.

When the ballots were counted, the Free Press and Alderman Scott found the citizens of Winnipeg ranged against the purchase of the Winnipeg Electric Company by two to one.

There are many people in this country who are continually advocating public ownership, especially of institutions of the type called public utilities. There is an almost constant stream of propaganda setting forth the advantages of public ownership. But the citizens of Winnipeg, it seems, do their own thinking and do not believe all they are told.

WHO IS ALARMING WHOM?

From Poland via Stockholm comes word that Poland is doubling her spending on militia and defence. In the budget which the Polish government brought down recently, the sum of 6,601,925,000 zlotys, equivalent to $1,680,000,000, is allotted to national defence expenditures.

This $1,680,000,000, says the Peterborough Examiner, "is a fantastically large sum for a nation of only 25,000,000 to be putting out and is perhaps an alarming indication of Polish Communist belligerence."

The Examiner goes on to say: "Compare this with peaceful Canada's spending on national defence. (When one talks of military spending in one's own country, one talks of national defence.) Canada, with a population of 14,000,000, is planning to spend this year about $2,000,000,000 on national defence; that is, more than Poland, which has nearly twice the population. A further comparison is this. That country's budget for military expenses amounts to about ten per cent of the total budget. Canada's two billions for defence amounts to half the total budget. Who is alarming whom?"

PORTRAIT

When you're sitting for a portrait, which last month I had to do
You wonder while he's painting what the artist sees in you,
You are sure that every wrinkle in your forehead he will find,
But will his eyes discover every wrinkle in your mind?

You will watch him concoction some from the palette where they're spread
And you'll see him squinting at you and then maybe shake his head,
And you'll wonder what he's after, is the nose the proper size
Or are you hiding something that his pin-pricking eyes?

When you're sitting for your portrait, either seventh time or first
You never let the artist look upon you at your worst.
As you are when you are frowning or you let your features be
On the canvas he is painting you would hate to have him show.

When at last the portrait's finished and it's put upon display
And excitingly: "It's like you!" all your friends and loved ones say,
Still you'll wonder ever after if he saw the worst of you
But was kind enough to hide it as you tried so hard to do.

Top Brass Among Korean House Boys

Proudly sporting his newly tailored uniform, complete with Provost insignia and white web belt, is 14-year-old Lee Yong Ha, of Taegu, Korea, seen receiving traffic signal instruction from L/Cpl. Jim Rodger, 21, of Winnipeg. The young Korean was unofficially inducted into the Canadian Provost Corps unit of Canada's 25th Brigade following eight months' service as a houseboy. Recently "promoted" to the rank of Lance Corporal, young Lee exerts his seniority over other houseboys who shown little respect to his "station" position. Despite the uniform and traffic signalling instruction, his duties do not go beyond that of head houseboy.

OUR TOWN

BY JACK SCOTT

STRANGE MUSIC

I wish I could resolve in my mind the enigma of the Rev. James G. Endicott. He is the most controversial and baffling figure on the Canadian scene today.

Dr. Endicott has obviously a great many loyal supporters, several of whom, in these parts, send me copies of the tract he calls the Canadian Far Eastern Newsletter.

This is, for the most part, well written and chatty with few of the cliches so common in Communist literature. There is an air of enthusiasm and sincerity that is disarming.

Writing of Communist China, for example, Dr. Endicott and his wife give a picture of progress, happiness and orderliness in "everything is much better than I had dared to hope" — that is the sentiment in the report one reads in the daily papers.

Some commentators have decided that Dr. Endicott is a naive and silly man, a prattling tool for any Communist propaganda. I can't see that at all.

To me he would be one of two things. He is either a congenital liar in the interests of what he considers a just cause, an absolutely sincere man who is bringing to the public attention a real significance that does not reach the regular channels of news.

The latest of the newsletters come from Hankow, from behind the so-called "Bamboo Curtain," where Dr. Endicott and his wife were received by the Communists as honored guests. It presents a rather rosy view of China. I have read nowhere else except in the Communist newspapers which play fast and loose with the truth.

As it happened, Dr. Endicott's Newsletter reached me a day or two after Frank Tiltman's article in Maclean's Magazine titled "I Was a Prisoner of the Chinese Reds." This was the horrifying story of Dr. A. Stewart Allen, a veteran medical missionary including that United Church who was a prisoner of the Communists in Chungking for a year, and his head was blown off with a single shot from a revolver.

It seems that political enemies of the new regime — proven, potential or merely suspected — are disappearing by thousands. Tiltman quotes a report that the Roman Catholic missions that executions in China average about a hundred hundreds of thousands."

Having read that, I turned to Dr. Endicott's report and found an entirely different report, the kind of report that convinces me that Dr. Endicott must be considered as a dangerous propagandist or as a truthful man and, in any case not merely as a harmless fool.

"The attitude of the Communists is firm and clear," he writes. "They will let by-gones be by-gones, except for the big rascals who are put in correction camps to learn the dignity of labor.

"As far as I can find out, not even the notoriously evil murderers who slaughtered many of the Christian youth in China, have been executed. What the Communists demand is that there shall be honest confession. That applies to crimes of graft and corruption committed since the labor-over also. If anyone will frankly confess, he is told to go and sin no more.

Again, this: "I see it as the most hopeful thing happening in paigo for moral reform the world has ever seen."

That is the case, too, of the arrest of Catholic nuns. Dr. Endicott declares they were investigated, "in the interests of world peace," the arrest of some of the Canadian Girls Orphanage in Peking.

He found, he writes, that 25,670 children were admitted since the orphanage was founded and that two-thirds of them died, that doctors who examined 1200 youngsters found 1000 to have intestinal infections, suffered from acute malnutrition.

"They had been taught only to work," he claims. "The older children testified that they were not forced to work, but to play (making linen, lace and shoes) and often 10 hours when there was plenty of sunshine.

"It would seem to be sufficiently significant to warrant investigation by any reasonable government.

This, then, is the enigma of a Canadian who claims to speak for the truth and declares, that he is a non-Communist.

I have read many of Dr. Endicott's letters and with mixed emotions. Their shock-value is immense, forcing you to re-examine the more popular reports — and I am not sure that I believe all of Dr. Endicott. But I do not see that they can be merely dismissed with a shrug for, after all, he is on the scene and his views are reaching a great many people.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

ANSWERED

In his Confessions, St. Augustine relates that as a young man he desired to be a Christian, but stopped and journey to Rome. His mother, a devout Christian, knew that he would encounter there many temptations, and knowing her son's moral weaknesses she was well aware of what would happen. She earnestly prayed therefore that he would be turned back from Rome.

But he was not turned back. He went to Rome and there, hearing the preaching of the great St. Ambrose, Augustine was converted to his mother's faith. Even when he became the outstanding churchman of his day, he wrote that his mother's prayer had been answered, "though not in outward form nevertheless in the inward heart."

How many of our prayers are answered in ways which astonish, and, for the time being, disappoint us. We pray earnestly for a certain thing and get what appears to be the most precisely the opposite. Then we are surprised that we presently get frequently turns out to be much better than the thing we prayed for.

We can see only a short distance beyond our unfolding station, but the eye of God looks down the whole pathway of our lives. He can direct our steps only as we sign your heart completely to the possibility of divine amendment.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

To get some small cards printed with reference to a change of address, I went into a job printing office that was in a random out of the telephone book. It turned out to be one of these snappy, up-to-date businesses. The office was bright, light and modern, filled with alert, keen personnel.

One of them jumped to the counter to attend me with a smile. The others looked briefly and then friendly at me, and then continued their busy courses.

I outlined my order. The young chap, keen as mustard, apprehended it, took down the specifications, darted away and came straight back with the price, $6.

The proof would be ready in three days.

I said: "Friday. Yes, sir."

It was a pleasure to do business in such a snappy, keen, brisk, animated atmosphere.

I called for the proof on the third day. With the same zest, and with identical reassuring smiles, I was informed that the proof could not be ready until Friday. I asked why. Nothing, they said they would mail it Monday.

To put it briefly, I waited two weeks without seeing a proof or obtaining any assurance that my little order would be attended to with measurable time. But it was all surrounded with this air of efficiency, keenness, zest.

I took my order down a side street, where I found a gloomy old printer in his apron, who, with no grace at all, doubted if he could do me a proof until tomorrow. But when I did see the proof next day, his boy delivered the finished job the following day, beautifully done; the price, $4.50.

Personal Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

THE DOCTOR JUST STRINGS HIM ALONG

A man aged 57 says his doctor told him he has a heart murmur.

He used to go to church regularly and do whatever in reason he wanted to, but since the doctor told him about the heart murmur he has a fixed idea that he is in bad shape.

So far it seems sane enough, but what follows makes me wonder whether the man is pulling my leg or whether he is a victim of iatrogenic heart disease — you know, if you're a regular reader of this column, that is heart trouble engendered by the doctor.

If the doctor told the man he (the doctor) detected a "murmur" when he listened to the heart, and gave no opinion as to the significance or insignificance of the "murmur," I'd advise the man to have no further truck with the charlatan.

To say a person has a "murmur" — a humming or blowing sound heard in addition to or in place of one of the normal heart sounds, is not a diagnosis, or even a hunch for an honest doctor.

The doctor who tells a patient the patient has a "murmur" and doesn't tell the patient what it means is on the same low level as the doctor who dismisses a patient with assurance that the illness or discomfort is "all in your head."

It is easy for me to say that the doctor should be honest enough to say: "I don't know yet what your trouble is but I have to study your case or observe developments in order to make a diagnosis."

But I don't know whether I'd dare to be as frank in my practice. I tried it when I was young and innocent and my patients fled me like changing doctors. They wanted a doctor who pronounced the trouble a "murmur" or "a bad cold right off the bat.

Seriously, when it comes to the question of heart trouble, it is downright cruel to inflict on a patient the idea that he is "in bad shape" just because the doctor heard or imagines he heard a "murmur."

This man closes his doleful letter by saying:

"I have never been to a doctor since — I'm afraid of what he may tell me."

Is that sensible? If the man doesn't go to a doctor he will go on nursing his "murmur" indefinitely. On the other hand, if he consults a doctor there is at least a fair chance he will learn that there's nothing the matter after all. In some instances, notwithstanding the old saying, no news is not good news.

QUESTIONS and ANSWERS
Food for Diabetics

Are there any books or pamphlets on preparation of food for diabetics? My husband has recently learned he has diabetes and I don't know the first thing about diet. (Mrs. H. G.)

Answer—Good Food for Diabetics, by Eleanor Record Sigel, published by A. S. Barnes & Bro. $2.50, is excellent. Best down to earth little book for diabetics is A Book for Us Diabetics, by Don H. Duffie, M.D., published by the author, Centre Lake, Mich., $2.25. For the millions of potential diabetics who should know this, there is the booklet Training for Diabetes, by the old geek who conducts this column — for a copy send 25c and stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Gastric Bloated Feeling

Have you a pamphlet for the person who is always complaining of a gastric bloated feeling? (L. M.)

Answer—Send stamped, self-addressed envelope and ask in writing (clipping will not suffice) for the pamphlet Yankee Stomach. The cause of gastric (stems from the Greek Gaster) means stomach, whether the stomach contains too much gas, just the usual or normal amount or none at all.

Barbital

Among the poison drugs you mentioned barbital. Is Barbiturate taken to quiet the nerves the same? - (Mrs. S.A.)

Answer — Barbital is one of the barbituric acid derivatives which are drugs in this class are called barbiturates. Others are phenobarbital, amytal, neonal, secunal, dial, aluralin, pernoston, tethal, veronal, medinal, luminal, nembutal — and what have you.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

OUR LIKES and DISLIKES

We have eyes with which to see and a mind to interpret what we see.

It is this interpretation that formulates our likes and dislikes.

And it is by these that our entire life is influenced. People who don't know what they like are floundercers. Those who express their dislikes are apt to be more numerous but perhaps that is a good thing.

Because of our likes we are led to books, into nature, and according to our likes we choose our friends.

And, if we are wise, we choose the occupation that we most like. We cannot be happy in doing what we do not like. It is well that we all have our different likes and dislikes. Otherwise where would our interests lie? We are stimulated by the likes and dislikes of others.

Our likes, however, are the ones that should have our greatest cultivation. The more things and the more people we like, the happier we are sure to be. No person is more depressing than the one you meet who likes nothing — who is cynical. We are most inspired when with people who have similar likes to our own.

The professional man, for example, is most interested when he is with those of his kind, as the writer, artist or athlete. People of the same calling are not much at home together. And all this is natural. Neither our likes nor our dislikes should dominate us, however. It is a test of character to be able to get on a level with everyone in good grace.

Dislike habitual conferences and conventions but I know of those who meet regularly both and are never so happy as when attending them — often merely to demonstrate their importance, even though it may be only imaginary! Likes and dislikes are their likes and dislikes we wouldn't have so many different things to buy and different stores in which to purchase them.

In a free land we should thank God that we can cling to our likes and dislikes, and apologize to no one for the privilege.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

By R. J. SCOTT

DIPLOMATS FEAR

Prime Minister Daniel F. Malan was expressed conviction that if war against the communists comes, South Africa's whites will forget their differences and rally to the country's cause.

Observers agreed that white troops, though split on the way Malan carries out his policies, are united behind his opposition to communism. But they are unsure over the clash between Malan's Nationalists and the moderate groups.

May Mean Civil War

Opposition leaders say privately that their fight against the government may have to be carried to its "logical conclusion"—meaning civil war.

In parliament, a glove-off fight broke Wednesday between the government and the united and labor opposition parties over Malan's bill to burn all the members of the Senate and assembly into a supreme court to judge whether parliamentary acts are constitutional.

The legislation, which passed its first reading last Wednesday, was Malan's answer to the appeals court, which threw out his law restricting voting rights of colored (people of mixed blood) in the Cape province.

The colored now are in a position to swing eight or nine constituencies in the Cape behind the united party, Malan's chief parliamentary opposition. This, in the divided union, almost means they hold a balance of power.

The increasing tension has caused over outrages.

In some areas long latent antagonisms between English and Afrikaans has come into the open.

One example: United party provincial councillor Alfred Every discussing how to fight the nationalists without breaking rules, said:

"We must use the same tactics they use on us—boycott them in business, ostracize them socially, have nothing to do with them."

REORGANIZATION

Rendered Position Onerous

The expansion in recent years of the faculty "has rendered the position of dean somewhat onerous to me in view of my many activities. I was therefore ready and even eager to retire, especially if by doing so I could promote the best interests of music in the university."

Sir Ernest said the original nominee for the chief post under theme was ruled out because of age. "So far as I know, no other name has been approved or is even in contemplation. This being so, the chief object of the reorganization scheme has not been achieved."

Mr. Mazzoleni was told in a letter dated April 8 that he would be appointed principal of the second division of the reorganized conservatory.

"I understand a corresponding letter was sent to Dr. Arnold Walter regarding his appointment to the first division."

Presumably many overlapping problems would arise "which could only be solved by a wise and diplomatic dean in the chief office."

"It was for this reason, and not as one might infer from certain public statements, not personal pique, that Mr. Mazzoleni felt it impossible to carry on."

LONG RECORD

New Glasgow, N. S. — (CP) — The First Presbyterian Church celebrated its 160th anniversary here with services at which Rt. Rev. Norman Kennedy of Regina, Moderator of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, was guest speaker. The local church began 1788 under the name "James Church."

FOREST HARVEST MOVES TO THE HILLS

Every spring about this time, more than 10,000,000 cords of pulpwood are hauled out of Canada's forests and are tumbled into rivers and streams and lakes to be taken to the 131 pulp mills across the land. From last January to the mills come one of the most colorful occupations in Canadian history, that of the logger whose skill and strength guides the valuable forest harvest over rapids, dams and curving rivers. This scene, repeated a hundred times throughout Canada, shows a logger unravelling a log jam at Windfall Lake in Quebec's Gatineau district.

When logs pile up too high to be moved to the log-drivers' straining muscles, dynamite is often used but the preferred method is to wade into the water, tie a chain to one or two of the logs and pull the jam apart by winches and horses. But, as the driver finds, it's cold work! A quarter of a million workers are involved in the forest crop—the most important in Canada's export trade.

WEDDINGS

COOPER—FORSTELL

Pastel tinted tulips in mauve, pink and blue, interspersed with yellow daffodils and ferns formed a lovely setting on April 26th, at 10.00 a.m. wedday, at 10.00 a.m. when Miss Mary Marjorie Forstell became the bride of Mr. John Cooper, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Cooper.

Miss Dorothy Grant, of Belleville, provided the wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Mr. Bob Mosher, who sang, before the ceremony, "Ave Maria," "Panis Angelicus," and during the signing of the register, "On This Day, O Beautiful Mother."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was charmingly gowned in white Chantilly lace and net over satin, fashioned with molded bodice of lace with Mandarin collar and shoulder sleeves ending in lily-points over the wrists, and a fabrication of ballerina length skirt of swirling net over satin. She wore a circular shoulder length veil of tulle illusion held in place by a matching fillet cap of Chantilly lace and carried a bouquet of lily-of-the-valley and hyacinth bells.

Mrs. Annabel Kramer, of New York, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, gowned in pale green taffeta and net in ballerina length with matching gloves and headdress and carrying a hand bouquet of pastel colored sweetpeas.

Miss Helen Cooper, of Toronto, sister of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid, wearing pale pink taffeta and net, satin made on similar lines to that of the matron of honor. She wore matching gloves, and headdress, and carried a hand bouquet of similar flowers.

Mr. Bob Lacy, of Belleville, was groomsman, while Mr. James Forestell, brother of the bride, and Mr. Armand Duffy, also of Belleville, were ushers.

The wedding breakfast was held at Hotel Quinte for sixty guests. Later, a reception was held from 8 to 11 at the home of the bride, where the bride's mother received the guests wearing a navy suit and corsage of red carnations. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who also wore navy blue with corsage of pink carnations.

For the wedding trip to New York City, the bride chose a navy ensemble with white accessories, and full-length navy and white check topcoat. After their return, Mr. and Mrs. Cooper will reside in Belleville.

Out-of-town guests were present from New York, Detroit, Mich., St. Catharines, Sarnia, Ottawa and Brampton.

1952 Version of Parable of the Talents

Rev. David Johnson, pastor of the Swedenborgian Church of the Good Shepherd in Kitchener, Ont., who is putting the parable of the talents to the test is sure his congregation will turn out to be "good and faithful servants." Recently 612 parishioners extracted various amounts of money totalling $1,000 from the collection plate instead of putting it on. Six months from now the collection plate will pass again and Mr. Johnson hopes the $1,000 investment will return bountiful dividends. Here Betsy Johnson, 7, one of the minister's five children, shows the Gospel parable in chapter 25 of St. Matthew, which tells of talents being distributed among three servants, two of whom doubled their investments. The third did not prosper. — Central Press Canadian.

Ceramics Experts Bring Old Skills to Kootenay Area

Nelson, B.C. (CP) — Chinaware of excellent quality, hitherto imported from Germany and Britain, may soon appear on Canadian markets stamped "made in Canada" as the result of the establishment here of a Bellier ceramic manufacturers of wide reputation in Europe, artists here recently to transplant an old-world art from Germany to the Kootenays.

Complete equipment for manufacturing ceramics, including a modern 12-ton electro-kiln, was shipped here from Germany.

In their shop, they plan to turn out ceramics from simple designs to fine-quality ware to elegant, luxurious designs — using local clay.

At present they are preparing to test Kootenay clays for pottery, and British Columbia tiles for handpainting and glazing.

The story behind this husband and wife team in pottery dates back to 1799 when their ancestors moved from France to Bavaria. Manufacturing skills were passed from one generation to the next. Thus, their name became well known in the annals of world-famous china manufacturers such as Rosenthal, Hutschenreuther, Royal Meisner (Dresden) and others.

Three years ago Mr. and Mrs. Bellier moved their business from a Bavarian tourist centre where United States occupation soldiers bought most of their products, to the northwest German seaport of Hamburg.

The move was carried out with the intention of possible emigration to Canada and to transfer the entire enterprise to their new country.

"We chose Nelson for our new home partly through the success of friends who had settled here earlier, and partly because we were attracted by the mountain scenery which has so much in common with the Bavarian Alps," Mr. du Bellier says.

"By bringing a new industry to this district, we hope to be able to share in making Nelson known to our neighbors to the south, who come every year as tourists to B.C."

With their know-how in the ceramic art, the du Belliers combine skill in decorating porcelain, and plan to finish white china in attractive hand-painted designs according to the tastes of their customers.

They also have plans for an art school to give residents and visitors a chance at trying their hand at these centuries-old skills.

Set I.Q. Standard For Seven-Year-Old

London (CP)—If a seven-year-old child is unable to tell the time to the nearest quarter-hour, he may be below the kindergarten standard, says the Surrey Teachers' Association.

Educational sub-committee of the organization has worked out what average boys and girls should know before they leave what is described as the "infants' department."

A seven-year-old, the committee report says, should be able to carry out straight-forward instructions, deliver messages and read a simple story with enjoyment. He should be able to talk easily on subjects within his range of interest and express ideas in words and pictures.

Youngsters in the kindergarten class should also know how to count up to 100, play shopping games and give change up to the equivalent of 25 cents. If they can form lettering and spell their names correctly, they are not doing so badly, say the Surrey teachers.

The report suggests, however, that these standards cannot apply where shortage of schools and overcrowded rolls and emotional problems are experienced.

WHITE'S W.A.

White's District"... Mrs. Frank Sandercock and Mrs. James Sandercock were co-hostesses to the ladies of White's Woman's Association on Wednesday afternoon with 16 members, one visitor and three children present. The meeting was opened by the Vice-president, Mrs. Ernest Curtis, with Mrs. Frank Sandercock as chairman.

The devotional service was taken by Mrs. Leonard Young. Mrs. Ritchie Ketcheson read the Scripture, and the story of the lesson was given by Mrs. Young under the heading, "Christ Died for Sinners."

Birthday Honored

A birthday card, signed by the W.A. members, was sent to Mrs. Acker who was celebrating her 85th. birthday on Sunday. Mrs. Acker thanked the ladies and made a donation of $1 to the birthday 10 cents. Dues were paid by Mrs. Dudley. Three blocks were handed in for the quilt.

A bouquet of daffodils was sent to Mrs. Percy Halsey-in Kingston General Hospital. The attendance fee of $1 to the Dominion Council and 10 cents per member was paid. An invitation to Carmel Church for the evening service on June 1st. was read. Mrs. Floyd Mosher gave a talk on the sunrise service which she attended at 6 o'clock Easter Sunday morning in Cleveland. About 16,000 attended and the service was much enjoyed.

A large illuminated cross with flowers banked in front produced a picturesque setting and the 100 voice male choir added much to the service.

Mrs. Curtis took charge of the program which had been prepared by Mrs. Parks. Mrs. George Bilham read "To Make Life Count" and Mrs. R. Ketcheson read "True Manhood."

A "third" contest was won by Albert Jones and a "Missing Parts of the Body" contest was won by Mrs. George Bilham.

Refreshments were served and a social time was enjoyed. Mrs. Young moved a vote of thanks to the hostesses.

Blouses Keynote Summer Costumes

Paris (Reuters)—Blouses from the simple plain models to those on up a morning tailor-made costumes, through silk print blouses for formal cocktails or organdy or lace are the keynote to variety in summer costumes this season.

Prices, starting at less than $2 go up to couture models which may nearly as much as a dress itself.

Expert handling and a good cut have transformed the once nondescript blouse into one of the smartest items of the wardrobe.

Blouses with full billowing sleeves accentuate this summer's demand for a wasp waist.

Lanvin features frilled "shindy" shirtwaists of the early 19th-century beaux.

These immaculately - tailored blouses in white batiste and linen, feature prime high necks and long sleeves offset with frilly or pleated shirtfront ruffles.

Shantung and wild silk, beaded with pastel foulards and tie silks, are smartly styled in soft dressmaker blouses, with gilet or bow necklines which offset tailored suit revers.

The cocktail or dinner blouse in crisp organdy replaces the frilly lingerie models in chiffon.

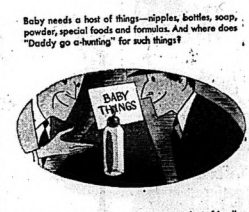
Austrians Grateful For I.O.D.E. Gifts

Toronto (CP)—The Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire has received a letter of thanks from the administrator of the Save the Children Fund in Austria, for clothing sent overseas last year.

"Your recent consignments have arrived in time not only to help us to relieve the great need in the two provinces of Carinthia and Styria but they are the enabling us to help many Italian flood-refugee children and all the other poor sufferers in the recent catastrophe," said the administrator, Basil Henriques-McTaggart.

Mr. Gardner-McTaggart said clothing "are as valuable as gold" in the needy European countries. This is because "they are so expensive that no mothers in the country areas can afford them and therefore they are forced normally to wrap their babies in any old rags which they can find."

"The fact that the type of work which is being carried out with our help in this province is of real value has been demonstrated by the figures which show that the province of Carinthia, in 1952 the lowest rate of infant mortality of all provinces in Austria, said the administrator.



He added that in the neighboring province of Styria the figure has not yet decreased. Because of lack of necessary supplies and funds it has not yet been possible to institute the same measures now being developed in Carinthia.

Tiny Prematures Risk Blindness

Winnipeg (CP)—A new cause of blindness, an offshoot of modern medical facilities, is striking human beings, says Lt.-Col. E. A. Baker of Toronto.

Addressing a service club, the managing director of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind said the blindness has been found in infants born more than two months premature and weighing less than three pounds.

Though advances in medical facilities such as incubators now make it possible for premature babies to live, many are becoming blind because their eyes haven't developed properly, he said.

The new blindness was an increasing problem but no cure had been found for it.

Col. Baker said 80 per cent of blind persons lose their sight in adult life and 50 per cent is caused by ill health which has been neglected.

The colonel said there now are about 10,000 blind persons in Canada, 1/5, himself, lost his sight in the First World War and was one of the original institute founders.

"Our biggest job is to prove to sighted people that the blind can do the things they want to," he said.

"I like to think that in accomplishing so much and showing such fortitude the Canadian blind have furnished inspiration to other handicapped people in Canada."

WESLEY W.A.

Bayside — Mrs. Gordon Frost was hostess to the Wesley W.A. on Thursday evening for the April meeting which was well attended with 15 members and two visitors present.

Mrs. Mooney conducted the program, and read the Scripture lesson, as well as a reading from "The Upper Room."

The business of the afternoon was conducted by Mrs. Rutter, including the cleaning of the church property and a social evening. 'Thank-you' notes from Bessie Rush and Mrs. Rutter were read by Mrs. Wright.

A contest was won by Mrs. Genereaux. The collection amounted to $2.80 and the flower fund, 66 cents.

Mrs. Wright tendered a vote of appreciation to the hostess for her kind hospitality.

Following the meeting, a social half hour was spent.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Fabulous—and Frightened!

For those who have been dealt lingering blows by Life and Love are left bewildered and frightened at not knowing which way to turn or what to do next as each have only deepest understanding and sympathy.

But for the person who admittedly had everything to make him happy and content yet who deliberately places a time bomb under that happiness and contentment which will eventually blow the whole business to smithereens what but complete and utter disgust could anyone spare?

At this point let's quickly change that "she" to "he" and get down to a specific case. It seems to me in a letter from a wife of 22 who has been married for six years to a man now 37 whom she describes as "wonderful husband in every way." She has two children one five the other two. And not a gripe in the world. Yet in the face of that idyllic Heaven sent circumstance hear what she has been up to right out of her own mouth:

"About a year ago while my husband was out of town on vacation I met another fellow who is 35. I was very fond of him from the start and he was very fond of me too. I saw him quite a few times my husband was gone, and when he came back he found out about it. He said he couldn't understand why I did it, but that he would forgive me. The other fellow, he was called back into service and was overseas for three months. I tried very hard not to see this other man, because I felt unsettled myself before he left that I wouldn't ever see him again. But still we did see each other, almost every day my husband was home.

Now my husband is back again, and I am so confused I sometimes think I am going crazy. It's heartbreaking for every time I think of anything this man up, yet I feel the same way when it comes to my husband too. And at the same time, I don't know whether I care for either one of them. Should I let them both go and start all over again, or what?"

Start all over again with what kind in view, sister? So you can be free to pick up the next man who happens to strike your fancy, and not have the king of guilty conscience that's troubling you now. Start all over again on a marriage with some other nice guy and break his heart, too?

Or do you want to start all over again and dig time be a devoted and faithful wife and mother giving your husband what's already been decent enough to over-look your unfaith-fulness once—your children and, yes, yourself, a fair break in your life together?

Frankly, I don't know whether you're capable of starting all over again in the only way that matters. But you might give yourself a chance. Your husband was willing to give you a chance. And you let him down; didn't you? Do you care any more about keeping faith with yourself than you did about keeping faith with him? Think that one over.

Just in case, after thinking it over, you decide that, after all, any young woman with two children and a husband who is "wonderful in every way" would be an incredible fool to let them go, here's that advice for which you asked me:

Stop trying to figure out whether you like this interloper better than your husband or vice versa, or whether or not you don't care for either of them any more. Cut straight through the tangled mess in which you've married yourself all up by sending the interloper packing as fast as possible and making him understand you're through, finished, done with him forever. Then swear to yourself that for one solid year you'll concentrate on making the happiest home you can for your husband and your children; that you'll leave some leisure hours for good times with your friends now and then, and make dates to go out with your husband somewhere reasonably often; that you'll get plenty of sleep, have plenty to eat, and won't waste a minute day dreaming about past or possible future romances.

And when the end of that year comes around, you'll be all set to start on another year, and another and another, of the finest happiness you've ever known.

Ham Remnants—A Green Light For Good Food

end of the leftover ham the week after Easter, and I have done it.

Maybe I can get back into my own good graces by giving it to you now . . . two weeks later. You will be having a ham again; you will be having that tag end of it leftover; you will be wondering if it's going to last forever.

You need never get into that jam for leftover ham runs chicken a close second in being the most versatile of all cooked meats. Clever treatment makes some "meals" ham dishes even better than the original — regardless of its Easter trappings of glaze and garnish.

I'll rush on so that I will not be tempted to enlarge on it, and give you my

1952 Ham Pie

Filling: Two and one-half cups cooked ham cut into ½-inch cubes, 2 cups medium white sauce (see below, 4 sliced hard-cooked eggs, ½ to ¾ cup lightly sautéed mushrooms. The sauce is made as you very well know, by melting 4 tablespoons butter or margarine, blending in 4 tablespoons flour, then stirring 2 cups milk until thick. For a ham dish do not add salt, but do add 1 teaspoon Worcestershire Sauce. The ham and mushrooms are gently mixed into the made sauce and poured into the pastry-lined very large pie plate. Sliced eggs are arranged in a layer on top. Crust is sealed on, and should have plenty of pretty gashes to allow

BEAUTY

HELEN JAMIESON

Expressiveness of the Mouth

Do you know that human frailties, as well as charming and delightful qualities or character, are displayed by the motor features of the face, among which the mouth ranks first? Lips that have once been pretty and pleasing can, as the years go on, assume an austere appearance that is downright ugly. Observe the difference in the expression of a jolly, good-natured woman and that of the sour-dough who doesn't love anybody, who never says a kind word, and who has a grudge against herself and the human race. It is a pity to afflict oneself with good looks flabilities. Time brings enough of them; goodness knows.

The expressions of the face, created by what goes on inside the head, leave their impression upon the muscles of the soft tissues. The dour look can become permanent because of the lines it forms. Petulance, selfishness, hatred and envy have a dreadful effect upon the human portrait. The most important beauty rule is to keep oneself unpleasant emotions not only cast a shadow, on features that would ordinarily be attractive, but they have a deplorable effect upon the health. They are a strain on the nervous system. They interfere with nutrition; they make a woman old before her time.

Let us consider an imaginary case of good looks havoc.

A pretty girl in her late teens knows she is attractive. Her parents indulge her every wish. She is popular and gets the idea that it is cute and arty to look bored. She thinks she has seen everything, heard everything, knows everything. She is, in fact, bored not only with other people, but with herself. In a few years this sense of sophistication is stamped upon her pretty map and her mouth assumes a cold, hard look. It has happened often. A case of pulchritude destruction.

But ugly mouths can be changed into better-looking ones, as every facial operator knows. There are special massage movements that strengthen the relaxed tissues that produce the down-in-the-mouth expression. The movements are light, rapid and sure.

A heavy cream, one that gives resistance to the manipulations, is applied. Deft fingers do what is known as the fluting movements, a quick lifting and pinching of the lips to send the blood streams about their business.

You can do that yourself, when giving your face its bedtime creaming. Even if your lips are attractive, do it to keep them so. Another movement employed by specialists the first finger is placed in the corner of the upper lip, thumb and second finger at either end. Keep the first finger stationary, bring the flesh up into a Cupid's bow, and repeat.

GOOD MANNERS

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Make Your Introductions With Grace.

To be able to make a fine introduction is a tremendous social asset. People of grace and charm develop this art. They make themselves thoroughly familiar with the standard introduction forms . . . which are very few, and very simple. Then, most importantly and most gracefully, they pay honor to the names of the two persons they are introducing. They pronounce these names so clearly and distinctly, surround the names with such a warm, friendly tone of voice, that each person is proud and pleased by this courteous and memorable gesture. Pleasant going — for all concerned!

A Delightful Visit — a Wise and Practical Visit, Too!

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

This young man and I are very "serious" about each other and really intend to become engaged. His family lives several states away from here, and his mother has written to me inviting me to come to visit them the week after my college year ends in June. Mother thinks it is quite all right for me to go, indeed a very good idea, so that we can all become acquainted with one another, his family (mother, father, one brother, and two sisters) and I. But my father, who is very conservative, thinks it most "unconventional" for me to go on this visit to my boy friend's family until our engagement is announced. Further promises to abide by your advice — what is it, Mrs. Beeckman?—Maria N.

Please assure your father that, since your friend's mother has herself invited you, and since (as I judge) there is no disapproval of the young man by your family, it would be entirely correct for you to go on this visit. Indeed I agree whole-heartedly with you that this would be not only a delightful thing for you to do, but also a very wise and practical thing to do; meet your future in-laws in their home, have them get to know you and you them, and so determin that "all is well" before making your definite declation about your engagement.

Ensign's Name on Wedding Invitation

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My bride-groom-to-be is an ensign in the navy. He has "Jr." after his name. Will you please tell me exactly how his name and rank should be indicated on our wedding invitations? For would be a nice and very natural instance, is "Mr." used before his name? And do we use "Jr." or "junior"? (He has a middle name which he uses, and that and "junior" makes the name-line very long). Zelina M.

This is the correct form:

Peter Russell Jones, Jr.

Ensign, Canadian Navy.

When the rank is written below the name, "Mr." is rarely used now. And "Jr." is generally used now, instead of "junior," as formerly. Reasons: (1) "junior" usually makes the line too long, and (2) the man himself usually uses "Jr." after his name, prefers this form.

Formal Invitations Should be Mailed

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We have quite a few neighbors to whom we are particularly devoted, and naturally we are inviting them to our daughter's wedding. It seems to me that it would be a nice and very natural gesture to hand the invitations (formal engraved invitations), to these neighbors, but my husband and daughter think they should be mailed. Your advice, please.— A. R.

It is by far the best form to mail these formal invitations.

EDUCATE EMOTIONS

Winnipeg — (CP) — Importance of art and music in school and university classes to "educate the emotions" was stressed by Dr. A. H. S. Gillson, president of the University of Manitoba, in an address to the Manitoba Registered Music Teachers' Association. He said the aim of education is not only to show people how to make a living, but also how to live.

NBC Pioneer Looks Back On 'Magical' 25 Years In Radio

By GLADYS LENNON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, April 24—(CP)—A Mountie's daughter from the Canadian west set out 25 years ago to get her job in the pioneer field of radio broadcasting.

Her steely-waved hair, now steel - gray, Margaret Cuthbert will retire June 1 as NBC's supervisor of public affairs, her enthusiasm for radio undimmed after a quarter-century she calls "magical."

"I still get a thrill every time I come into this building," she said in her tiny office, tucked among the studios of Radio City, "I never know what I'll meet in the corridor. Today it was a man in gorgeous red costume carrying a honey bear. Tomorrow it may be an elephant."

Born in Sask.

Daughter of a major in the Royal North West Mounted Police, Miss Cuthbert was born 60-odd years ago in Prince Albert, Sask. "Home" was wherever her father's work took him. From high school in Dawson City she went to Cornell University and after graduation returned home—then in Edmonton.

But western Canada didn't seem to have the opportunities she was looking for and she decided to try New York "because it looked like a good place for women to make a living."

"I wouldn't feel that way now, though," she said. "I think Canada has the best opportunities for the future of any country in the world. If I were young, I would go back."

Crystal Set Did It

It was while listening to a crystal set in a Greenwich Village apartment that she decided that her career would be in radio.

I knew nothing about radio 25 years ago," she said. "There were few people who did except the engineers . . . but I wanted to," made these past 23 magical years.

"My friends were calling radio a 'tin-pan' business; H. G. Wells prophesied "the broadcasting industry has no future.' But it thrilled me."

Miss Cuthbert set out to find a job. She had experience as executive secretary of Cornell's College of Home Economics and as a coder at the British embassy in Washington.

At station WEAF (now WNBC) she found what she wanted—a job as director of speakers.

"One of the first speakers I had on station WEAF was John Galsworthy, who would not speak unless a screen was put around him so nobody could see him. The next was Prince William of Sweden. I remember sweeping out the studio and the ash butts before he came."

For many years Miss Cuthbert headed NBC's women's and children's programs division, and more recently has handled public-service broadcasts.

Among program series she has developed and produced have been "Gallant American Women," "Echoes of History," and the long-run "NBC Theatre," which won a Peabody Award for excellence in drama.

Many Honors

She has been president of the New York chapter of American Women in Radio and Television and has won citations for achievement from a number of women's organizations.

Of these honors she says: "Perhaps the greatest was the opportunity to work in radio and become an executive with NBC. The other honor I care about was being born a Canadian. For that I claim no credit."

There are many things about her job that Miss Cuthbert "will be missing" after June 1. The deadlines to be met. The excitement of preparing programs for the air, from planning to tape-recording stage, the final editing to make a smooth performance, removing such rough spots as "the coughs of Lord Halifax" which, in tape-strips of varying length, hang from a book-shelf near her desk.

But in their place there will be a chance to "relax and lead the contemplative life," to "live out of doors by the sea," to "read all the books I have wanted to read, 'The Magnificent Century,' 'The Suburb By The Sea,' 'Postmarked Moscow.' All this and heaven too!"

Show Wartime Work of British Women In Large Tapestry

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London — (CP) — A tapestry depicting British women at wartime tasks made its public debut at the Victoria and Albert museum and may yet hang from the walls of Britain's House of Commons.

Parliament is considered one of the most suitable vantage points for a historic chronicle designed to show women's first big contribution to war work. The House of Commons, 'rebuilt' after suffering heavy bomb damage in 1941, is open to the public Saturdays and holidays, if the House is not in session, and many overseas tourists are among the visitors.

"We want the tapestry to hang where overseas visitors can see it with ease," said a member of Women's Institute headquarters. "But the House of Commons is only possible if we give the tapestry to the nation."

No such decision has been made. The tapestry is to go on tour of Women's Institutes throughout Britain before its future is finally determined.

The 15-by-nine-foot tapestry, its 2,000,000 stitches worked by 23 pounds of home-spun wool, has a quotation from John Buchan, onetime Governor-General of Canada: "It was a war won not by the genius of the few but by the faithfulness of the many."

The complete design is the work of an engraving and water-color artist, Sybil Blunt of Winchester, Hants. The centre panels depict women in the three services, on the land and in industry.

At Various Tasks

These are surrounded by smaller medallions illustrating such Second World War activities as the feeding of evacuees, looking after rest centres, women railway porters, bus conductresses, forestry and radar workers, nursing sisters and many others.

All pictures are worked in the finest petit-point, surrounded by a heavier tapestry stitch that merely highlights the beauty of detail. One of the most poignant portrays a tired housewife standing at a bus stop with the wearied, drooping look of the fatigued war worker, right down to the flat feet.

Painstaking efforts of 400 women in institutes throughout Britain went into the tapestry. Many members went to school to learn the stitches and teach others. All produced samples of their craftsmanship before being allowed to work the canvas.

It took four years to make the 13 panels, that are carefully, but invisibly, joined.

A second quotation incorporated in the design, taken from Shakespeare's "Henry VIII," says: "The madams too, not used to toil, shall inherit our labors for the pride upon them, that their very labour was to them as a painting."

Phiat Sorority Holds Meeting

The regular meeting of the Phiat Sorority of the Y.M.C.A. was held on Thursday evening, at the home of Miss Joan Walker. Plans were made for a closing banquet to be held at the home of the adviser of the Sorority, Miss Marian Brennan.

Following the regular business meeting, Mrs. V. M. Mole, a local representative of a cosmetic firm, demonstrated the selection and application of cosmetics, which was enjoyed throughly by the group.

The guest speaker was introduced by Miss Joan Walker and thanked by Miss Helen Yorke. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

HAS HIS OWN SOLUTION TO WORLD STRIFE

Bishop Homer A. Tomlinson, of New York, general overseer of the "Church of God," who says he is a candidate for president of the United States, is shown leaving a Russian building in Vienna after he submitted his plan to bring peace on earth in 1952." Soviet authorities listened, but refused to give the bishop a visa to enter the USSR. Tomlinson's plan provides for the immigration of 70 million Europeans to the U.S. and Canada, and 30 million Negroes to the Caribbean Islands to "form a new nation." Fifty million Japanese would migrate to Russia and 100 millions from Indian would go to East Africa. The bishop said he has yet to now talked to anyone with his plan. U.N. Command Proposes Full-Dress Meeting for Talks

Munsan, Korea, April 25 (AP) — The United Nations command tonight proposed a full-dress meeting Sunday of allied and communist armistice delegations. The surprise move came six hours after the communists broke off secret negotiations on how to exchange prisoners of war.

The U. N. gave no reason for suggesting a plenary session.

The communists called off the secret prisoner negotiations after the U. N. command announced it would return less than half the reds captured in Korea.

The effect of the red action was to remove the veil of secrecy from negotiations.

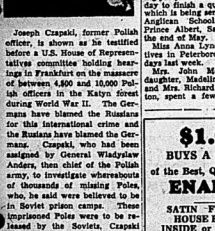
The prisoner talks were recessed at the request of Col. Georgo Hickman, who said the U. N. command wanted to reassess its position in the light of developments.

Neither side suggested truce talks were in total collapse. But grim allied negotiators made no effort to mask the seriousness of the situation.

The reds broke off the secret talks six days after being told that only 70,000 Allied - held captives wanted to return to the communists.

Chinese Col. Tzai Cheng Wen angrily told U. N. negotiators there "has never been anything like the so-called voluntary repatriation throughout history. It is a direct violation of the Geneva convention from which your side has been quoting so readily and frequently."

Communist newspaper men distributed a press statement on behalf of the red armistic delegation accusing the allies of using the secret negotiations "to deceive the world" on what was happening at the talks.



The end of secrecy brought the first public disclosure that the U. N. command proposes to return only 70,000 prisoners.

Dec. 18 the U.N. command gave the reds a roster of 132,000 prisoners and ridd an additional 97,000 had been reclassified as civilian internees.

Of the 132,000, the U. N. said 18,000 South Korean Nationals swept up in the tide of war were in the process of being screened and reclassified. That would leave a total of 116,000.

In a long statement reviewing the secret talks Tzai charged in part the allied principle of voluntary repatriation.

ACCUSES RUSSIA OF KATYN DEATHS

Joseph Czapski, former Polish officer, is shown as he testified before a U.S. House of Representatives committee holding hearings in Frankfurt on the massacre of between 4,500 and 10,000 Polish officers in the Katyn forest during World War II. The Germans have blamed the Russians for this international crime and the Russians have blamed the Germans. Czapski, who had been assigned by General Wladyslaw Anders, then chief of the Polish army, to investigate whereabouts of thousands of missing Poles, who, he said were believed to be in Soviet prison camps. These imprisoned Poles were to be released by the Soviets. Czapski said, to form a new Polish army. They were never released. He never found trace of them and he attributed the Katyn massacre to Premier Josef Stalin and Lavrenti Beria, chief of the Soviets' secret police.

1. IT'S HOMOGENIZED—Now being used exclusively in Canada by Canadian Oil Companies, Limited, homogenization is the latest advancement in the processing of Motor Oil. This technique disperses all ingredients so thoroughly that they remain permanently in solution. Thus, they perform their various functions rapidly and efficiently.
2. LOWERS OIL CONSUMPTION—The lower oil consumption of the new White Rose Motor Oil is due to its high Viscosity Index and the heat resistant properties of the mineral oils it contains.
3. KEEPS MOTORS CLEAN—Detergent and dispersant additives hold dirt in suspension so that it drains away at regular oil change intervals.
4. PREVENTS ACID ACTION—The new White Rose Motor Oil neutralizes the harmful acids which form in every engine as by-products of combustion—one of the major causes of engine wear.
5. FIGHTS WEAR—Gruelling road-tests across Canada under the supervision of an independent testing laboratory—(Donald Inspection Limited) proved that, with the use of the new White Rose Motor Oil, there was no appreciable wear on engine parts.
6. INCREASES GASOLINE MILEAGE—The cleaning action plus the high film strength of new White Rose Motor Oil enables piston rings to operate freely, thus sealing the combustion chamber. This assures more efficient use of fuel.
7. PREVENTS ENGINE RUST—New White Rose Motor Oil penetrates and clings to engine parts . . . counter-acting one of the greatest causes of engine deterioration.
8. FLOWS FREELY—Low cold-test properties enable the new White Rose Motor Oil to flow freely at low temperatures. This aids cold weather starting and gives instant protection to all vital parts.
9. RESISTS THINNING—Even under operating conditions of extreme heat, the new White Rose Motor Oil resists thinning, and keeps a protective film of oil between vital engine parts.
10. SUPPRESSES FOAM—The new White Rose Motor Oil provides a bubble-free oil film—offsets oxidation—reduces oil consumption—gives complete protection to all lubricated surfaces.

Japan's ranking representative to the U.S., Ryoji Takeuchi, presented his credentials as the first fully-accredited Japanese post-war diplomat to the U.S. A new U.S. ambassador, Robert D. Murphy, is en route to Tokyo.

Acheson read the statement from President Truman and Takeuchi presented the declaration from Yoshida.

Thus a little more than 10 years after Japanese bombs at Pearl Harbor touched off the Second World War in the Pacific, peace was restored between the two enemies.

Truman called the beginning of Japan's independence a "great event," and said the U.S. had worked for Japan's "restoration as a prosperous and progressive nation."

"Japan takes her rightful place of equality and honor among the free nations of the world, "Truman said, "at a time when communist imperialism, having already enslaved large areas and many unfortunate peoples, is seeking to extend its system of tyranny and exploitation by direct and indirect aggression."

Alert to Danger

"We are confident that the people of Japan are alert to this danger and are ready and willing to play their full part in meeting the common menace.

"For their part, the American people will continue to work for the people of Japan to promote peace and security in accordance with the purposes and principles of the United Nations Charter."

Yoshida said the Japanese people, for whom this is a "memorable day," know that no country "can live unto itself, that no nation can draw dividends unless it contributes to a common world effort and invests in the common welfare of humanity."

Participating in the ceremony were representatives of the 47 other countries which signed the Peace Treaty. Most of those countries have still to ratify the pact.

H.M.C.S. Iroquois Sails to Join Korean Fleet

Names were made public as soon as next of kin were notified. An aide emphasized there might be some errors in its lists.

The mid-ocean crash was probably the most disastrous naval collision since the end of the Second World War.

Confusion marked early reports of the tragedy, but the navy believes this is what happened:

The Hobson and Wasp were part of the task group en route to the Mediterranean. Night manoeuvres were being held en route —a normal routine.

Were Trailing Wasp

The Hobson and the U. S. S. Rodman, another destroyer, minesweeper, were trailing the Wasp to help pick up men if any one of the carrier's planes failed to land on its decks.

The Wasp at the scene of the collision was around midnight (9:25 p. m. EST) Saturday.

The Wasp, probably cutting through rough seas at 20 to 25 knots, turned into the wind to enable planes to land after a simulated night strike.

The Hobson, travelling at about the same speed, plowed into the carrier's forward right side.

It is not clear whether the Hobson sank immediately. But the navy reported rescue operations were carried on for at least 24 hours in near stormy weather—and probably continued today.

Early lists of survivors did not include the name of the Hobson's skipper, Lt. Comdr. John Tierney of Philadelphia.

The Hobson had a normal complement of 13 officers and 212 other ranks. At the time it carried slightly more than that —14 officers and 223 men.

The navy said that of the 178 missing, seven were officers, 169 other ranks.

'Over-All Solution' to Three Critical Issues Blocking Korean Armistice Made by the UN

One Killed, 4 Hurt In Writhy Crash

Fatally injured in one of Ontario's worst motor accidents was Lawrence Skerrat, 70, of Uxbridge, Ont., driver of one of two cars involved. Collision occurred at Whitby intersection. Police worked for almost an hour attempting to extricate five injured persons including Skerrat's wife, from the wreckage of the two cars. — Central Press Canadian.

Munsan, April 28 (AP) —The United Nations' command today gave the communists what it called an "over-all solution" to the three critical issues blocking a Korean armistice.

Details were not disclosed. But the communists, after agreeing to keep the full-three negotiations secret, indicated for a speedy progress. Presumably they want to submit the plan to Peiping and Pyongyang.

Brig.-Gen. William P. Nuckols, U.N. spokesman said:

"The U.N. command feels that an over-all solution to the problem is possible and for that reason such an over-all solution was proposed today."

It was handed to the communists at the first meeting of main Allied and communists armistice delegations in Panmunjom in more than two months.

Issues Named

Blocking progress in the 9 1-2-month truce talks have been the six issues of prisoner exchange, nomination of Russia by the communists as a neutral observer during any armistice, and a U.N. demand for restrictions on airfield construction.

Vice-Admiral C. Turner Joy, senior U.N. negotiator, proposed at the plenary session that the conference recess. This meant that there would be no announcement what talks ended.

The communists, after thinking it over, agreed.

The U.N. communique said:

"The U.N. command today proposed an over-all solution for the remaining unsolved issues standing in the way of a military armistice in Korea . . ."

Despite official secrecy, there was little doubt the prolonged talks had entered a new and perhaps decisive phase.

Discussions Suspended

The next meeting will be called when the communists indicate discussions at the staff-officer level were suspended.

North Korean Gen. Nam Il, top communist negotiator, asked for the indefinite recess.

There appeared little doubt that the proposal was a progress on the all-important question of prisoners and how to exchange them.

Only last Friday the communists ended secret consultations on prisoner exchange after the U.N. command advised them that more than 70,000 of the 168,000 red soldiers and civilians held by the Allies want to return to communist rule.

Asked what the U.N hopes to accomplish by secret discussions, Nuckols said:

"We hope to minimize the use of the meeting for propaganda purposes. We hope that by getting down to brass tacks that an armistice can be reached more speedily."

Nuckols told newspaper men: "If you asked if this is a sell-out, the answer is no."

Nevertheless, Nuckols hinted indirectly that some sort of compromise was in the making. At a press conference earlier this month, Gen Matthew B. Ridway, U.N. commander, said it was inconceivable that one side would give in on all the remaining truce issues.

No charge has been laid against 24-year-old Knight, whose wife and two children were in the car with him. An RCAF veteran, he was visiting here.

Three Canadian Soldiers Killed, Nine Injured

Hamburg, Germany, April 28 — (AP)—Three Canadian soldiers were killed and nine others injured on the small-arms training range at Oldenburg near here Friday, officers disclosed yesterday.

The accident occurred when a 3.5 inch rocket bomb exploded during training. The cause of the explosion has not yet been determined.

The names of the three soldiers killed were given as Pte. J. W. Collico, 23, Port-Nelson, B.C.; A. H. Rutherford, 28, Edmonton, and C. Smith, 19, Red Deer, Alta. They will be buried this week on the Canadian section of the British military cemetery at Hannover.

The 27th Canadian Infantry Brigade is stationed at Hannover.

All nine injured are in German hospitals in the area. Several were seriously hurt, among them Pte. E. A. Lanigan, 20, Belledune, N.B., and C. McDonald, Dominion, N.S.

Crown Attorneys Want More Money

Toronto, April 28 (CP) Ontario's crown attorneys want more money for their work as full and part-time counsel.

Meeting here Saturday, the Crown Attorney's Association of Ontario set up a joint committee to study and prepare a case for increases both to salaried Crown Counsel and those who do part-time work for the province on a fee basis.

Part-time Crown attorneys are permitted to retain up to $6,000 of their fees before they have to pay 60 cent of fees over that figure. A. D. Bell of Chatham said that in many cases the income of lawyers receiving fees for Crown work is greater than that of full-time Crown attorneys.

Attorney-General Dana Porter has said nay!General Dana Porter has said there will be an increase for full-time Crown attorneys this year.

Fifteen Killed In East Canada During Weekend

(By The Canadian Press)

Seven persons killed in traffic accidents during the sunny spring weekend brought the toll of deaths in eastern Canada to 15. Six of those killed were children under 16 years of age.

A Canadian Press survey early today showed 11 persons killed in Ontario, two in Quebec and one each in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia.

Five persons were drowned and three others met death in other mishaps.

Norman Topham, not quite two years old, was killed when an automobile mounted the curb on a street in London, Ont., and crushed his baby carriage.

At Centralia, also in western Ontario, Dennis McNeill, 20 months, toddling in front of a moving car and was killed. Lise Larue, 5, was struck and killed by a car as she was crossing a highway 25 miles east of Montreal.

Richard Collett, 7, fell into the Lachine canal in Montreal and was drowned. Barry Campbell, 10, was drowned in a creek near his home at Lower Lake, Hampton-ford.

In Saint John, N.B., 15-year-old John Goddard died of apparently minor injuries suffered while skating.

Mrs. Doreen Anger was found dead on the floor of her apartment at Port Dalhousie, near St. Catharines. Cause of her death is still unknown.

Killed by Train

William Clark, 81, a retired farmer of Campbellcroft, Hampton, north of Toronto, Percy W. Hersey, 70, Toronto, was struck and killed by a train while on his Sunday walk at West Lorne in western Ontario. Mrs. Minnie Hall of Vienna, Ont., was struck and killed by a car near Port Burwell on Lake Erie.

Near Windsor, N.S., James A. Miller, 25, of Three Plains was killed when his car left the road and ran into a river. Lindsay Desnuvais, 39, of Cornwall, Ont., was killed instantly when the truck in which he was riding ran off the road 20 miles west of his home.

The body of Phillip J. Maddock was recovered from the Grand River at Brantford. Two bodies were pulled out of the Welland Canal near Port Colborne. Mrs. Elsie Hughes and Charles James Rae had been missing for more than a month.

13-Year-Old-Girl Assaulted Behind Shed of Home

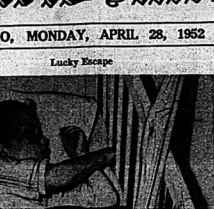
Brantford, April 28 — (CP)—A 13-year-old girl was dragged from the living room of her home Friday Saturday and raped in a shed behind the house.

Her parents who were out at the time, said they had no idea who would know the girl was alone in the house.

Police are searching for the man responsible. A neighbor said he saw a man leaving but the man covered his face with his hand.

The girl's face was swollen and bruised where the stranger slapped her. She said he asked her if she knew where he was and when she answered "No," he said: "It's a good thing for you that you don't."

STILL ON STRIKE



Andover, Hampshire, England, April 28 — (Reuters) — Bellringers and the choir of Saint Mary's Church were still on strike yesterday protesting the dismissal of organist Stanley Waite. A solitary bell, rung by a woman, called worshippers to church. A small emergency choir sang with the new organist. Waite was dismissed after 30 years following complaints that he played hymns and psalms so slowly that housewives could not get home in time to cook the Sunday dinner.

OPERATIONS STARTED

Jerusalem, April 28 — (AP) — Prime Minister David Ben Gurion pressed a button yesterday which started operations in Israel's first tire factory at nearby Wadera. The Alliance Tire and Rubber Co. factory, owned jointly by Israeli and United States investors, is expected to produce 100,000 tires and 150,000 inner tubes annually.

Lucky Escape

Five-year-old John Cassidy was called the "luckiest boy in New Zealand" after a miraculous escape from drowning earlier this month. Unable to swim and with neither life jacket nor any other aid, he was blown afloat he was in the sea for more than 30 minutes. He had fallen unnoticed from his father's launch into Rangitoto Channel outside Auckland harbor. He was picked up only because a woman in another boat thought she saw something floating in the sea and persuaded her husband to make a search. "Daddy" found the boy and brought him back to his crib with his toy boat after the ordeal, told his parents he had been sick while in the water, but he had not cried. — (CP Photo.)

Queen Juliana And Husband Leave for Home

Ottawa, April 28 — (CP) — Queen Juliana of the Netherlands and Prince Bernhard, her husband, wound up their four-week North American visit last night. They left by plane from nearby Uplands Airport.

For the record, the two hours at the airport was a reunion as well as a farewell. He flew here last night from New York where he stayed while Juliana paid a week's visit to wartime friends and Dutch exiles in Ontario.

Before the Canadian visit, the queen and prince spent three weeks touring the United States.

The governor-general, Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, and two of Canada's top soldiers, Gen. H. D. G. Crerar and Lt.-Gen Charles Foulkes, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, welcomed the prince with Queen Juliana, later they said goodbye with External Affairs Minister Pearson who almost missed the ceremony.

"I am very sorry to leave Canadian soil," Queen Juliana said before boarding the four-engined plane which took the royal party to Amsterdam.

"I had wonderful days here, full of real Canadian hospitality."

After semi-official functions earlier in the week the queen visited Dutch immigrants near Hamilton, Ont., and Brockville, Ont. She said she hoped immigration to Canada from Holland would continue.

On her return here, she renewed friendships with many of the people she knew during the five years she lived in Ottawa while the Germans held the Netherlands. She went shopping Saturday and attended St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Sunday where she worshipped during the war.

Stormy Weather Holds Air, Ground Action to Minimum

Seoul, Korea, April 28 (AP) — Stormy weather today held air and ground action in the Korean war to a minimum.

Allied night fighters had poor hunting, the Fifth Air Force said. Pilots destroyed 29 supply vehicles at Wonsan on the east coast but generally air strikes were fruitless.

About 100 Chinese, supported by mortar fire, attacked an Allied position northeast of Kumhwa on the central front. They were thrown back.

Two Allied patrols on the central front occupied a communist position southeast of Kumsong after a day-long battle Sunday.

Communists patrols probed on the central front but there were no reports of positions changing hand.

In Tokyo, Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's headquarters said the reds have built a defence belt—a crude "Siegfried Line"—across Korea since truce talks began 9 1-2 months ago. An official army analysis said the red build-up does not yet pose a threat to United Nations forces. The report placed communist troop strength at more than 750,000 men, mostly Chinese, and said more than one-half the red air force of 1,500 planes is jet powered.

Allied planes still control the air, the report continued, but this has not prevented the communists from building up their front line supplies.

Truman Defends Action as Legal Battle Rages

Washington, April 28—(AP)—The great constitutional battle over President Truman's seizure of the steel industry roared on today—with Truman himself saying he had a right and duty to take over the mills.

The legal question was in the hands of Judge David A. Pine in a case brought by the steel industry to force the government to surrender the seized facilities.

Pine took the case under advisement last Friday. His ruling could come today, but may be delayed until tomorrow or Wednesday.

Truman, in correspondence released by the White House last night, appeared to take a narrower view of presidential powers than government lawyers did in arguments before the court. He said executive powers are "limited, of course, by the provisions of the constitution, particularly those provisions granting and withholding authority." He said it was proper that the courts now are examining the legality of the situation, but that:

"I feel sure that the constitution does not require me to endanger our national safety by letting all the steel mills shut down in this critical time."

Holmes Baldridge, handling the government case for Truman, testified Friday that the chief executive had unlimited authority under the constitution.

Written to Cattle Raiser

Truman's three-page letter was written to Charles Jones, a cattle raiser at Washington's Crossing, Pa. The White House made it public.

Jones, after listening to Truman's April 8 speech explaining to the nation, wrote a letter asking a series of questions.

Truman wrote that he'd picked the Jones letter out of "many hundreds" because he was "very interested in the questions" Jones asked.

The president wrote that the steel seizure was "distasteful" to him and he realized it was a "very drastic" move, and he did it "only as a last resort in attempting to meet an extreme emergency."

"By so doing," Truman wrote, "I believe that I was acting within the powers of the presidency under the constitution—and, indeed, that it was the duty of the president under the constitution to act to preserve the safety of the nation."

The government still already have acted to raise steel prices by about $3 a ton, much less than the industry has said it would need to pay for government-suggested pay-increase proposals. These call for a 26-cent "package" for the immediate 1 1-2 cent an hourly boost in pay rates, an additional five cents an hour increase next April January, other money benefits amount to 8½ cents, and the closed shop.

Scotsman Saves His Cup of Tea

London, April 28 (AP) — The crack London-to-Scotland Express, with Scotsman, was brought to an emergency stop last night outside York as a Scotsman, driving a sidecar, could save his three-penny cup of tea.

Lowden had dashed into the station restaurant at York when the train made its brief stop there. He rushed out with his cup of tea just as the Aberdonian began pulling out. He jumped on to a thin wooden railing on one of the coaches and held fast.

Simalman flagged down the express 1 1-4 miles away. Lowden, clinging precariously to the side of the train, was rescued — and his cup of tea still was in his hand.

NATO Meets In New York To Ask United States to Name Successor to Gen. Eisenhower

Paris, April 28—(AP) — The council of the North Atlantic Treaty organization met today in a new headquarters with a new secretary-general to pick Gen. Dwight Eisenhower's successor as supreme commander of Allied forces in Europe.

The choice was certain to be the man President Truman names—with either Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther or Gen. Matthew Ridgway expected to be chosen. First, however, there were certain formalities.

Britain and France proposed that Truman nominate an American as Eisenhower's successor. This was to be cabled immediately to Washington by William H. Draper, Jr., U.S. representative on the council.

The president was expected to make an immediate reply, and a N.A.T.O. spokesman said the council probably would approve his nomination by nightfall.

The European countries were reported ready to accept either Gruenther, now Eisenhower's chief of staff, or Ridgway, the United Nations' commander in Korea and the supreme commander in Japan. Most of them, however, were reported to favor Gruenther.

As the council met for the first time since its move from London, its new secretary-general Lord Ismay, told members they were to choose Eisenhower's replacement and "in a way, therefore, to name his successor."

"But our hearts are filled with pride and gratitude for what he had done since he was appointed supreme commander in Europe," he said.

Eisenhower Leaves June 1

"It may well be that when history comes to be written—say 100 years hence—that the contribution which he has made towards saving peace will be acclaimed as not less worthy of renown than his contributions toward winning the Second World War."

Ismay's appointment is the N.A.T.O. post followed a streamlining decided by the foreign ministers of 14 N.A.T.O. countries at their February meeting in Lisbon. The council met today in its new home, the temporary building at Palais de Chaillot that housed the U.N. General Assembly.

Eisenhower will leave Paris about June 1 to return to inactive duty in the U.S. where he is a major contender for the Republican presidential nomination. Now in the midst of a farewell tour in Europe, he went to Germany today for a three-day visit with the troops in the British, French and American zones.

Because of his successor's importance, the matter already has been discussed thoroughly by the N.A.T.O. governments. The council was left to go through the motions of putting the previous decision on the record.

An Associated Press survey indicates there was no desire from any N.A.T.O. country for anyone but an American in the job.

The main argument for appointment of Gruenther has been that he was in on the organization of Eisenhower's headquarters from the first, knows intimately all the problems that face the European N.A.T.O. partners and gets along well with the officers in the headquarters.

Washington is reported to be backing Ridgway.

London, too, was reported favorable to Ridway.

$100,000 FIRE LOSS

Thorold, April 28 (CP) —A $100,000 fire destroyed the storage warehouse of the Pyrene Fire Co. Company here Saturday but was halted before it could reach into adjoining buildings. Four firemen suffered minor injuries.

Two hook and ladder companies called for six hours before they brought the blaze under control. Thorold is about 12 miles south of St. Catharines.

Cause of the fire was not known, but firefighters said there were reports that children were playing around the warehouse shortly before the blaze.

$500 WAS MOTIVE, POLICE BELIEVE, IN FIRE THAT KILLED BABE IN CRIB

Albert Verrault hides his face from the camera as he is taken into custody at Long Branch, Ont., on charge of arson in a fire that caused the death of 11-months-old Michael Lafontaine. Verrault, police allege, set fire to the cottage, rented by Mr. and Mrs. Tony Lafontaine, after a conversation with the owner, Mrs. Adele Walls, Toronto. Police believe Verrault set $500 for his fee in setting fire to the house which was insured for $4,500.

Mrs. Tony Lafontaine nearly lost her life in her vain efforts to help her husband save their son, Michael, who died in his crib in the early morning fire. She and her husband planned to move from the cottage as soon as they could find another home.

Police search the blackened ruins of the Lafontaine home at Long Branch for evidence of arson. It is believed a gallon of turpentine was used to start the home burning.

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was smoking and thinking in his private chair, and ma said, I met Mrs. Sprockett downtown today, William. It's 10 years since the Sprockets moved away from this neyberhood, and it gave me quite a shock to see how match she has aged. But I must say she reckonized me immediatly, although of course everybody always says I never seem to change the slightest bit. You remember the Sprocketts, William, she said.

Pop said saying nothing, and ma said, They used to live in the corner house next to the Birchwoods, and Mr. Sprockett used to take their toy Pranich poodle for a walk every evening. He was sutch an enormous man himself, they made quite a strange-cupple. I dont mean Mr. and Mrs. Sprockett, I mean Mr. Sprockett and that tiny little dog. You often remarked about that yourself, William, she said.

Pop just keeping on smoking and thinking, and ma said, William Potts, you haven't the faintest idea of a single sillable I've been uttering, and I dont know how you can be so irritating.

How little you know me, my dear, pop said. You've been uttering sillables to the generel effect that although the corner house still stands, it hasn't sheltered a Sprockett for 10 years, and Mrs. Sprockett is now less recognizable than the corner house, although anybody would know you at a glance, my dear, because you are a proverbial Peter Pan, Shall I go on, my dear? he said, and ma said, Now really, William, I mean really, I think you're the most inconsiderate man that ever lived, to sit there looking like a dazed bump on a log while you're deliberitly [illegible] I say, and I dont know why I ever talk to [illegible] kept on doing anyways, being more about the Sprocketts.

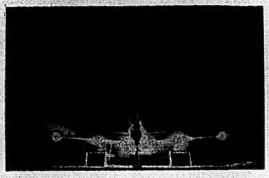
HUSBAND CHARGED IN WIFE'S DEATH

A routine coroner's investigation into the death of Mrs. Gordon Addyman of Windsor, Ont., was ended by a murder charge being laid against her husband, Gordon, 36, shown here. Mrs. Addyman died on April 17 with a bullet through her head, allegedly fired by her husband, who said he was cleaning a rifle when it accidentally discharged. Police say they have additional evidence to justify the murder charge. —Central Press Canadian

Reports on A Blast

Gen. John E. Hull, army vice-chief-of-staff, an observer at latest atomic test in Nevada, tells Washington reporters that the troop exercise held in conjunction with the bomb blast was a "complete success." He declared the manoeuvres in Nevada prove that atomic artillery shells can be used on the battlefield with almost absolute safety to the friendly troops. — Central Press Canadian.

P.E.I. Air Crash Brings Death Toll to 12 In Week



RCAF workers said only the "selfless heroism" of rescue workers prevented a higher death toll in the crash of a Lancaster bomber that killed four RCAF fliers at Summerside, P.E.I. The four-engined plane burned while attempting to land at the RCAF navigation school. Eight other airmen were injured and a ninth, one of the rescuers, was severely burned. Hon. Brooke Claxton, defence minister, on a routine visit to the base, witnessed the crash, which brought to 12 the air death toll in the Maritimes in a little more than a week. Pictured with his daughter is Flt.-Lieut. Kenneth E. Lazaier, of Ottawa, pilot of plane, who was killed. — Central Press Canadian.

GATHERING GRAIN

About 88,000,000 bushels of the 1951 wheat crop remained in the field when winter set in last fall in Saskatchewan. Modern harvesting machinery, such as operated by N. H. Pearce and his son Murray on a farm 13 miles northwest of Regina, are hard at work to bring in the record spring harvest. They are loading oats from their pull-type combine into their truck. (C.P. ENEMY-EYE VIEW OF SILENT DEATH

Blazing bullets make a bright pattern as they spew from the six guns of a U.S. F-84 Thunderjet. The photo, showing what it looks like to face the firepower of the Thunderjet was taken at Farmingdale, L.I., during a test firing operation. The Communists call the planes "silent death", because its bullets and bombs strike and kill before the sound of the 600-miles-per-hour plane can be heard. — Central Press Canadian

Now for the Political Repercussions

Assurance that order will soon be restored in Southern Michigan prison at Jackson is given as rebel convict Earl Ward signs a "peace treaty" in barricaded Cell Block 15. Although the 11 demands of the mutineers were accepted by Michigan's Gov. G. Mennen Williams, while Warden Julian Frisbie said that the authorities will make an honest effort to correct any actual abuses, the political debate over whether the four-day rioting was handled properly is just beginning. Distraught Father Attempts Attack on Arson-Manslaughter Suspect

Unable to control his rage at the sight of the man whom police charge set the fire in which his only son, Michael, 11 months, died, Tony Lafontaine, left, was overpowered by six policemen before he could attack the accused, Adelbert Verrault. The dramatic incident occurred when Verrault, right, was being removed from Long Branch police station to Toronto's Don Jail. Verrault is charged with manslaughter and setting the frame cottage at Long Branch, Ont., afire for the sake of $4,500 insurance money. — Central Press Canadian.

This is not an optical illusion, but a demonstration of expert precision flying. The Gloster Meteor in the centre really is flying upsidedown, a tactical manoeuvre required of pilots attending the RAF Central Flying School at Little Rissington, Gloucestershire, England. NEW "MR. BASKETBALL"? - By Alan Mayer

Sport in Brief

(By The Canadian Press)

Two of England's finest soccer teams—Manchester United and Tottenham Hotspur—will tour Canada and the United States in May and June.

Both Manchester United, winner of the English League championship Saturday, and Tottenham, league champions in 1950-51, have tough schedules lined up.

They will play against each other in Toronto June 14.

Manchester United is the most consistent soccer combination in England and has been runner-up for the league championship four times in five seasons since the Second World War.

Tottenham plays a speedy, short-passing game, popular with the fans. Manchester players "use a slightly longer ball" than the Hotspurs.

Edgar Dewhurst Hornsby, director of the Tottenham club, said his team is not making the trip for the money but to cement soccer relations between England and Canada as well as the U. S.

Janet Peel of Oshawa set a Canadian Bowling Association tournament record Saturday at Toronto, rolling a perfect 450 game during a three-game set of five-pin bowling. It was the first time a woman had rolled a perfect game in the 26-year history of the tournament.

Toronto Maple Leafs of the International Baseball League have purchased second-baseman Mike Goliat outright from St. Louis Browns. Goliat played for Toronto in 1948 and went to Philadelphia Phils with whom he competed in the 1950 World Series. Last season he played with Baltimore and went to Browns via the waiver route, in the off season.

Abe Yanofsky, Winnipeg's chess master, won the Stevenson Memorial Tournament Saturday at Southsea, Hampshire, England, in the fourth International Chess Congress. Thirty-eight experts took part in the matches.

Handsome Jack Burke, Jr., of Houston, Texas is the winter tour champion of the Professional Golfers' Association in the United States after accumulating a $11,220 bankroll. Cary Middlecoff collected $7,306 to place second.

Spartan Valor was put to the test Saturday with the top weight of 130 pounds but came through to win in fine style in the added Gallant Fox Handicap at Jamaica, N. Y.

Business Girls Win First Game For Championship

The Business Girls won the first of a best of three series for the Y.M.C.A. Ladies Basketball League championship when they defeated the O.S.D. team by a score of 42-30. The game was a dingdong affair for the first three periods with seldom more than a basket separating the teams. At the first quarter mark, Business Girls led 6-5. At the half they led by 17-15. At three quarter time Business Girls led 26-25 and in the last half pulled away with 16 points while their opponents could only gather 5 points.

Shirley Macleod led the scorers with 13 points, followed by Marie Marinoff and Shirley Cullen with 8 points each Doris MacLean scored 7 points, Margaret Cousins 4 points and B. Gibson scored 2 points.

The O.S.D. girls D. Willse scored 12 points, H. McCammon scored 11 points, P. Bennett scored 6 points and M. Tobin scored 1 point.

The game was handled by Doug Soule and Gerry Goyer with Ted Nicholson as timekeeper. The second game will be played at the Y.M.C.A. on Wednesday night.

Ice on Moose River Starts Downstream

Moosonee, Ont., April 28 (CP) — Ice on the Moose River started moving downstream into James Bay during the weekend, lessening flood dangers near this far northern outpost. But Moose Factory, on an island a few miles away remained isolated.

On the island is an Indian hospital with 215 patients, about 700 Indians and 60 whites. Resident here say the hospital has large stocks of food, as has the Hudson's Bay Company store.

Great slabs of ice, four feet thick and up to 100 feet square, still clog the river as far as eye can see. But the water level has receded somewhat so residents know the ice is starting to move.

Three Canadians And a Finn Show Heels to Yank Tracksmen

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr

Philadelphia, April 28—(AP)—Any suggestion that U.S. athletes might have an easy time in the Olympic Games next summer was vehemently denied in all languages, including the Scandinavian, at the rain-swept 1952 Penn relays.

Two Scandinavians and a trio of Canadians had a lot to say about the outcome of the meet and the outlook for the future in the big extra-important because this is an Olympic year.

Denis Johansson, an exchange student from Finnland at Purdue, made three of the best U.S. runners look a little silly in the Benjamin Franklin invitation, while Big Roland Nillson of Sweden, a University of Michigan student, easily won the discus throw and took second in the shot put.

Three Canadians — John Ian of Oakville, Ont., Don McEwen, of Ottawa, and Jack Carroll, of Montreal—running on Michigan relay teams completely dominated the longer college relays.

Biggest Shock

The showing of the milers was the biggest shock to those who hoped the sparkling indoor performances of Fred Wilt and Don Gehrmann presaged a strong American showing in the Olympic 1,500 and 5,000-metre races.

The United States hasn't won the metric mile since Mel Sheppard did it in 1908 and hasn't had taken the 5,000. But Wilt set an indoor two-mile record of 8:50.7 late in the indoor season and Gehrmann, whose finishing "kick" in his 3,000 is a great weapon, established an indoor 1,000-yard mark of 2:06.8 and later ran a 1:51 half mile on boards.

Those performances made them look good; but Saturday young Johanson came along to make them look like bums. He beat Wilt by a finish and Gehrmann, who is Finnland's 1,500 and 5,000-metre champion, by three yards in shakes as a rusher by European standards, but he looked to do it over the rain-soaked cinders at Franklin Field five 4:18.2 mile, yet he won by parcel going away.

The performances of Michigan's Ross, Carroll and McEwen in the relays further emphasized the poor showing of the American milers. They didn't set any records, but in the sharp, churned-up track and an odd mixup in measurements, but they won both their races in fine style.

The only miler who could stay with the Canadian runners was Hobart Jones, a bespectacled "unknown" from Lockhaven air base. Against McEwen in the medley he cut down Michigan's lead by about five yards, but he couldn't do it again in the four-mile race.

Amman, Jordan, April 28 (AP) — A government spokesman said today United States aid officials have allotted $1,500,000 to divert part of the Yarmouk River to irrigate 5,000 acres of arid Jordan land on which 1,000 refugee families will settle.

Orillia Lacrosse Franchise Open, Says O. L. A.

Toronto, April 28 (CP) —Orillia's senior A lacrosse franchise, in operative for several years, was declared open by the new executive of the Ontario Lacrosse Association at a meeting in Toronto Saturday.

The move opens the way for a senior entry from 'town, should lacrosse officials there elect to field a major league club. Orillia interests entered a team in the senior B series at last week's annual O.L.A. meeting.

The question may be answered Wednesday when the senior A clubs meet at Minico.

Suspensions of six players and the Brantford intermediate club were continued by the executive. Names of the players will be forwarded to the Ontario Sports Federation which meets at Hamilton Saturday.

A. Smith, J. General, B. Martin and E. Green, all of the Brantford team, were given indefinite suspensions following an attack on two referees last Sept. 8. The other two are from Toronto district.

The Brantford club has been given until May 18 to meet financial obligations to the O.L.A. Players in good standing on the team will be declared free agents after that date if the matter isn't settled.

Additional executive members named Saturday included Fred Conrad of St. Catharines.

Nickel for "4 Sudburys" in North Manitoba — M.P.

This Drilling Scene at Sudbury May Soon be Repeated in N. Manitoba

George D. Weaver, Liberal M.P. for Churchill, Man., "lifted the lid of the treasurer box" to give his fellow M.P.'s in the House of Commons a glimpse of the vast nickel reserves believed located in Northern Manitoba. A metallurgical engineer, Mr. Weaver estimated that supplies of nickel equal to about 75 per cent of the world's nickel reserve and capable of maintaining four "potential Sudburys" lie along a 200-mile long rect of the Pre-Cambrian Shield in northern Manitoba. He claimed that in one "potential Sudbury" alone there were five "tremendous" ore bodies, one of which contained 250,000,000 tons of nickel ore above the 1,000-foot level adding that these reserves were more valuable than Labrador's vast iron ore deposits. — Central Press Canadian.

Weston Dukes Trim Waterloo

Toronto, April 28 — (CP) — Weston Dukes trounced Waterloo Hurricanes 8-2 Saturday night, tying the best-of-seven final series for the Ontario Hockey Association Junior B title at one game each. Hurricanes took the first game in Waterloo 6-3.

Twenty penalties were called in the hard-hitting game with the Dukes drawing 12.

Weston marksmen were Fisher, Billy Harris and Tommy McCarthy with two goals each and George Jamieson and Dave Reid with singles. Roger Crane and Jack Oberle netted the Hurricane goals.

TWEED

Tweed—As a result of an accident on the Sulphide road Wednesday evening, Tweed and district were in complete darkness for about one hour and a half. Mr. Joseph Trudeau last control of his car just on the outskirts of the village and struck a Hydro pole. One wire carrying power into the village was broken, as well as three insulators. The Hydro gang were called and were quick to repair the damage.

Mr. George Wilson, who has been station agent in Tweed for the last eleven years, has retired. Mr. and Mrs. Wilson were popular citizens also coming to Tweed, and his courteous, efficient service made him many friend. Mr. and Mrs. Wilson will be making their new home in Bowmanville, and their many friends wish them continued enjoyment in the years ahead.

The annual Salvation Army Red Shield drive will commence on May 5th., and will continue until May 23 in Tweed. Mr. Ray Woolfrey is named chairman of the campaign drive. The Tweed branch of the Canadian Legion will have charge of the campaign this year. Lieut. George Heron of the Tweed Corps, is grateful to the Legion for their offer to organize the canvass this year.

One of Tweed's oldest industries, the Joseph Rashotte Co. Ltd. has been remodeled and the alterations are nearly complete. When finished the company will have one of the finest planing-mills, dry kilns and display rooms in this part of the country. This company purchased the business from the estate. Lumber, on when that firm was transferred to Belleville in 1928.

Mr. Blenus Wright, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Wright, Tweed, has been awarded his Dairy School diploma after completing a three months' course of instructors at the Ontario Agricultural College in Guelph, Ont.

Friends of Mrs. Kale Elliott will be sorry to learn she is a patient in Belleville General Hospital. Mrs. Elliott has been at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Laffman suffering from pneumonia.

Messrs. Ellard Clarke, President Ken Burkett and Reeve T. C. Graham represented the Tweed Chamber of Commerce at the district conference of Chambers of Commerce and Boards of Trade held in Peterborough last week.

The Girl Guides are setting a good example in Tweed. Under the direction of their leader, Mrs. E. Wright, they are cleaning up the grounds around the town hall. The grounds have been cleaned, and the flower beds replanted.

Walter 'Joe' Courtney, of the U.S. Airforce, has been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Courtney, Minnie Ave., for the past ten days. Joe has returned to the U.S. and has been a posting in Texas.

Friends of Mrs. Thomas Mercer will regret to learn that she is critically ill at her home in Tweed.

Miss Lois Plant, Roslin, has been visiting with her aunt, Mrs. Don. Woodcock.

Mrs. Muriel Burgess and Marion, of Tweed, spent the week-end vacation in New York City. Margo attended the Easter ball at West Point Military Academy.

Miss Marjorie Mare, of Belleville, was a recent guest of Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Jardine in town.

O.H.A. CONCLAVE

New McTavish is the new boss of the Ontario Hockey Association elected on Saturday at the annual conclave held in Toronto. Stew succeeds Jack Roxburgh, Simcoe who has had two stormy seasons in the driver's seat. Tony Gregg, director of the Western Ontario Hockey Association was named first vice president with Frank Buckland, Peterborough, named second vice also by acclamation.

President Roxburgh pointed out that the major series this year in Ontario was not a success but he paid tribute to the senior "A" series and to Dave Pinckney, Stratford in particular.

The CAHA, he said, makes an annual grant of $3,000 to each of its branches for promotion of minor hockey. This plus $1,000 from the OHA has been granted affiliated organizations for their work as follows: Northern Ontario, $750; Western Ontario, $500 and the Ontario Minor Hockey Association, $2,750.

Arising from the situation of last season when a number of protests were lodged by clubs over eligibility of players after the Feb. 10 deadline, the secretary was instructed to give all clubs a complete list of players on other teams in the group and proof of their residential qualifications. Players signed after Feb. 1st would be subject to protest. The proposal was aimed at the practice of protests filed during playoffs.

BASEBALL

Delegates to the 25th annual convention of the Ontario Baseball Association elected a new president at St. Catharines Saturday to succeed Jim Ellis who declined to add another grade of baseball—class D—to the schedule.

W. F. Nickel of Stratford, an executive member of the Association for 20 years, was elected president by acclamation. He succeeds Fred Young of Chippawa.

Other officers elected were: Vice-Presidents, Harry Argue, St. Catharines; Otto Hanks, Waterloo; James Millman, London. Executive members: C. G. Riddell, Milton; A. E. Stirling, Chatham; Tim Turow, Preston; A. Vangoethem, Delhi.

Several plans to speed up playoffs were decided upon. During the last few years, playoffs in all series have extended well into the autumn and cold weather.

A chairman will be appointed to supervise playoffs in each division and to see that all games are played as early in September as possible. It is hoped to declare all championships by the first week in October.

All individual associations must have a winner ready for provincial playoffs by the last Saturday in August. The peewee, bantam, midget and juvenile series will be decided by one-day tournaments after they have been narrowed down to four teams in each grade.

Class D ball will be organized in centres with population of 1,000 or less.

New limits were set for other classes. Class A now is for towns and cities of 8,000 or more population; class B, from 2,500 to 8,000; and class C, 1,000 to 2,500.

It was decided that in future, the O. B. A. convention will be held the last Saturday in March instead of late in April to speed up the organization of the various leagues.

The 81 delegates, representing more than 8,000 baseball players in Ontario, were given a civic dinner at noon.

The Toronto Baseball Association which "took a year's leave of absence" from the OBA was not officially represented but life member Bill Smith, Fred Steele, Ontario Athletic commissioner, George Waldorf and Benny Merzanson were around to look after the TBA's interest . . . Jack Devine and yours truly represented the Central Ontario loop and were wowed aplenty to have the league get back in OBA line . . . There was a suggestion to have Toronto made open territory for any OBA club to draw players from, and another suggestion wanted all Toronto clubs barred from playing exhibition games with OBA teams. Secretary Bowden, St. Catharines took over the thankless secretary's job and also will take over the registrar's job which was vacated through the resignation of Hamilton's Vern Clarke.

Guest speaker Rev. Brian McCullough of Mount Carmel College, Niagara Falls, Ont., commended the O. B. A. for promoting the physical and mental growth of youth men through sport.

PLAY BALL!

Over thirty players turned out for the initial practice session of the senior Redmen baseball team at the Exhibition grounds over the weekend. Six aspiring hurlers including playing coach Ralph McCabe got the kinks and wrinkles out of their arms. Billy Strahan was included. Dick Fitzpatrick just out of hospital was a spectator but will be working out with the squad before long.

McCabe has ordered practices for every night starting at 6.15 weather permitting. With the league opening on May 10, or about May 24th, he is anxious to get the team whipped into shape as quickly as possible. All players are requested to turn out for the nightly workouts.

Houtteman, Gray Blank Tribe In Dramatic Return to Form; Reds Take Pirates In Twin Win

By RALPH RODEN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Bosom buddies Art Houtteman and Ted Gray have put Detroit Tigers back on the right track.

Tigers still are on the fringes of last place in the American League today but they don't expect them to hover in that vicinity long.

Detroit's resurgence began behind closed doors in the visitors' dressing room at Comiskey Park Wednesday.

Tigers, smarting from eight straight defeats, were reported to be at odds with manager Red Rolfe.

Fred Hutchinson, veteran pitcher and player representative, called the players together and chased Rolfe out of the room. The result was a rousing vote of confidence for Rolfe.

Houtteman and Gray have demonstrated emphatically that the Tigers mean what they say.

Hard luck Art launched the comeback by blanking Saturday with a spectacular 13-0 one-hit victory over Cleveland Indians. Gray followed his teammate last night with a 1-0 six-hit triumph over the tough Yankees yesterday.

Doubly Sweet Wins

The victories were doubly sweet for Tigers. Last year the Indians captured 11 out of 22 games from Detroit. This season Cleveland won its first four meetings with Tigers.

Rain curtailed activity in both leagues. In the only other game between New York and Washington the National League doubleheader between Boston and Philadelphia was washed out and a single game between Brooklyn and New York.

Chicago White Sox cooled off St. Louis Browns in the only other action in the American League. White Sox tripped the Browns 7-6 in 14 innings in the opener of a doubleheader. The Sox led the Browns 3-1 in the second game which was called after five innings because of darkness. The game will be completed in Chicago July 3.

Detroit's Tigers singled home Nelson Fox with Chicago's winning run in the opener. Ed Robinson homered with one on in the ninth for Chicago to send the game into overtime. Larry Doby also permitted only one hit over the last five innings and gained credit for his first victory.

Reds Snap Tie

Surprising Cincinnati Reds snapped their second-place tie with Chicago in the National League by beating Pittsburgh 2-1 in a twin bill 8-2 and 4-0 while Cubs won a single game from St. Louis Cardinals 8-3.

Ken Raffensberger breezed to his third straight victory in the opener for Cincinnati. The Reds jumped on Bob Friend, who shut them out recently, for six runs in the third innings to seal the verdict. Johnny Wyrostek featured the uprising with a three-run triple.

Dutch Miller bested Howie Pollet in the thrilling night-cap. Roy McMillan drove home Borkowski in the winning run in the ninth inning on a fly ball.

Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell, highly publicized Cardinal rookie, held the Cubs to three hits in seven innings but blew up in the eighth and yielded four runs. Frank Baumholtz, the league's top batter, climaxed the rally with a three-run double.

Lefty Joe Hatten, usually an easy target for the Cards, registered nine hits to post his second victory of the season and his sixth in 20 lifetime decisions over St. Louis.

Leafs in Second Over Weekend; Royals Win Two

(By The Associated Press)

Montreal Royals are following that old New York Yankees pennant formula—knock off your nearest rival.

Montreal, defending International League champions, took a doubleheader from Buffalo Bisons, 4-3 and 3-1, yesterday to strengthen their grip on first place. The defeats knocked Bisons from second to fourth place.

Jackie Coleman shaded rookie Al Yaylian in the opener. Coleman limited Bisons to six hits, including a home run by Yaylian. Rookie Jim Pendleton pulled a three-run homer for the Royals.

Bud Roobuck checked the Bisons on four safeties in the second game. Royals sewed it up in the first on two-run single by Don Thompson.

Chief Wins Pair

Syracuse Chiefs also won a doubleheader, but it took them nearly 5½ hours before they defeated Springfield Cubs, 9-6 and 6-4.

Syracuse won the opener in 14 innings when Carden Gillenwater singled with the bases loaded. The Cubs sent the game into overtime with a six-run, ninth-is ting uprising.

Chiefs pulled the seven-inning second game out of the fire in the last inning when pinch-hitter Frank Drews homered with two on and two out off Frank Marino.

Toronto Maple Leafs moved into second place, 1½ games behind Montreal, as they split a doubleheader with Ottawa Athletics. Ottawa won the opener 6-4 on a five-run-inning rally. Leafs took the nightcap 2-1 behind the four-hit pitching of Russ Bauers. Lew Morton drove in both runs on a homer and a single.

Rochester and Baltimore also divided a twin bill. The Red Wings won the first game 9-6, with manager Harry Walker driving in four runs. Baltimore took the second 6-2, on the strength of a six-run third-inning rally that Marv Rickert featured with a grand-slam homer.

Jean Beliveau Scores Three Goals To Lead Quebec to Alexander Cup

Quebec, April 28—(CP)—Big Jean Beliveau scored a hat trick Saturday night to lead the Quebec Aces to the Alexander Trophy by way of a 5-2 victory over Saint John Beavers. Aces took the best-of-seven series 4-1.

Much sought after by National Hockey League clubs, particularly the Montreal Canadiens, the rookie centre walked off with the Quebec Senior Hockey League scoring honors during the regular season, and a number of other honors on all-star selectors lists, and rapped home nine goals in final series play against St. John.

"It feels fine to be part of a championship club," said the unassuming marksman.

That's All!

Coach Punch Imlach happily shouted "we won by boys won. What else is there to say?" as he poured bubbling champagne into the cup and passed it around to his cheering players.

Across the rink in the Saint John dressing room, coach Johnny (Peanuts) O'Flaherty said:

"We can only congratulate Quebec. We set off to a bad start by losing the first two games in Saint John."

In taking the Alexander Trophy, named for the former governor general, Aces lost only one game when they were humbled by a 6-0 bounding last Thursday. The trophy was won for the first time last year by the Valleyfield River of the Q. S. H. L. The trophy is emblematic of Canadian major hockey supremacy.

In Saturday's game, Beavers had Aces all tied up at two goals apiece until midway through the final frame when Claude Robert broke the tie with his second tally of the night. He blasted in a rebound of Jackie Leclair's.

Beliveau made it certain with two markers before the game ended.

Beliveau had opened the scoring before the game was a minute old, only to have Johnny Chabrian match his tally when he deflected a shot by Tom Smellie.

Aces went ahead on a goal by Robert Early in the second period and Ron Hurst tied it up again three minutes later on a smart passing play with Umbriaco and Smellie.

Fort Frances Edges Stratford; Guelph Takes Second from Pats

Fort Frances, Ont., April 28—(CP)—Stratford Indians will be out to disprove a theory that Fort Frances Canadians are a strong third-period club and hoped to winners when they meet tonight in the fourth game of the Allan Cup hockey final.

The Flying Forts took a 2-1 lead in the best-of-seven series for the Canadian senior championship here Saturday night, defeating Indians 6-4 after blasting in three goals in the last eight minutes of play. Some 3,000 fans whooped it up.

As in the first game when they whipped Stratford 9-5 at Fort William, Canadians suddenly came to life in the third frame. The Forts started a powerful third-period offensive in the second session but Stratford held on for a 3-0 shutout.

Had Wide Edge

Stratford held a wide edge in play and led 4-3 when Canadiens started to roll. George Aitken had scored his second goal to apparently write finish to the Fort Frances cause when Aitken and Ed Kilner at Stratford scored to put off at 9.28 of the third period for fighting.

Mike Zisescuph put Canucks back within striking distance while they were off, beating Lorne Dale in the Stratford net with a long shot. With 8¼ minutes remaining, Ric Richard poked in Sambo Fedoruk's rebound while Fedoruk were a shoot to tie the count 5-5.

Both teams had opportunities to score before Kilner came through. It came on a harmless looking play; after the puck was forced into a corner.

Vern O'Donnell went in after it, then shoved it out to Kilner who quickly cut across the Stratford end and banded a short shot in the corner.

Teams split goals in the first period by Mike Bupchuk and Bruce Burdett. Indians outscored Canadians 2-1 in the second on goals by Mickey Roth, Aitken and Larry Lamschick. Fort Frances scorers were Fedoruk and Walt Christiansen.

Indians played two men short for nearly two minutes in the second period but weathered the storm nicely. Their third goal was scored when Stasiowski was off for Canadians.

Lineups tonight are not expected to be changed. The only injury in Saturday's game went to Jack White who received a cracked rib.

RECOMMEND INCREASES

Toronto, April 26 — (CP)—The annual meeting of the Registered Nurses Association of Ontario yesterday recommended a general increase of $300 a year for salaried and private-duty nurses. The increase would bring the minimum salary to $2,460 a year.

Casey Mourns Joe DiMaggio's Loss; 'Playing With Two-Thirds of Team'

Washington, April 26 —(AP)— Casey Stengel, in the unusual position of looking up the standings at four other clubs, took stock of his New York Yankees' predicament today and put his finger on the big trouble with the Bombers —no Joe DiMaggio.

"I think we would have won more than four of our first nine games if DiMaggio were playing," said old Case wistfully. "I think he would have caught a couple of balls that fell for hits. He still was a pretty good fielder last year."

Then, almost as though he could picture DiMag with his big bat facing the opposing pitcher, Stengel said:

Would Have Helped

"I think he might have hit me a fly ball a couple of times when we had a runner on third and didn't get him in. My first and second men (Phil Rizzuto and Jerry Coleman) have been going O.K., but when they get on we just can't scare them. And many's the time one little fly ball would have done it."

The top Yankee pitchers—Vic Raschi, Ed Lopat, Tom Morgan and Allie Reynolds—have been going according to speculations with a combined earned run average of only 2.31, good enough to win in any league, but the Yankees have been playing with what amounts to two thirds of last year's team, which swept to its third straight world championship.

"There's DiMaggio," Stengel said, "and Yogi Berra (the catcher laid low by an injured hand), and there's Joe Collins (the first baseman sidelined with a bad foot). Then amounts to one-third of a team."

"I said in Florida that four of those teams in the west would be better. I've been taking Eddie Louis Browns seriously all year—and that was before many other people did.

"Nothing wrong with Chicago either. They get enough and they'll be up there. No need to talk about the Indians. They're terrific. Detroit got off to a bad start—even worse than we did, but they've got enough pitching to win a lot of games."

Guelph Scores

Goalie Bob Tyler of Regina Pats stopped 40 shots Friday night in the first game at Guelph, Ont., of the Memorial Cup finals. Just the same Guelph Biltmores won the opener of the Canadian Junior hockey championship by a convincing 6-2 margin. Ron Stewart, No. 4 at left, shown scoring one of the two goals, was a leading Guelph attacker. Toronto, April 28 (CP)—Captain Andy Bathgate led his Guelph Biltmores to their second successive victory in the Memorial Cup finals here yesterday, potting two important goals as the Bilts dropped Regina Pats 6-2 before 7,233 Mayle Leaf Gardens fans.

The win shoved the New York Ranger farm club into a 2-0 lead in the best-of-seven finals for the Canadian junior hockey title. Guelph won the Friday opener 6-2.

The third game will be played here Wednesday.

The Biltmores—eastern Canada junior champions—held a 1-0 lead in the first period and were ahead 3-2 by the end of the middle period. Bathgate's second goal clinched the issue midway through the third.

Despite the fact that his team is on the wrong end of the 31 series standings, Regina coach Murray Armstrong still believes his boys can give Guelph a run for their money.

Had Bad Breaks

"We've just had very bad breaks all the way," he said following yesterday's loss. "However, we'll be along. The boys are disappointed at the latter, if we keep improving, we can win."

Alfie Pike, coach of the front-running Biltmores, was still confident of his club's eventual victory. He said he felt Guelph would have no trouble and in playing as they did in their first pair of games, should wind it all up soon.

Guelph had a wide margin in play throughout. The Bilts swarmed around the Regina goal at the opening whistle and gave Bob Tyler a tough time.

The little Regina goalkeeper was called on to come up with some spectacular saves and turned aside 36 pucks while Jim Brewer kept 17 shots from the Guelph nets. Tyler got by his best show in the second period by batting away 16 shots while his teammates scored twice on Brewer.

Bathgate opened and closed the Guelph scoring. He banged in his first goal in the opening period and tallied the clincher in the third. Ron Murphy and Billy McCreary tiffed in the others during the middle session.

Ted Yarlett and Ed Litzenberger—Regina's best forwards Sunday and a contest threat—clicked for the Pats' Goals. Both were in second period to deadlock the issue at 2-2 for about three minutes.

Two goals that might have given the game an entirely different complexion were disallowed. Both were scored by Regina and came in the first period.

Litzenberger got a breakaway at the nine-minute mark and beat Brewer cleanly. That was called back when the officials ruled play had been stopped when he secured the puck from Guelph defenceman Louis Fontinato.

Doug Killeb blazed a shot from the blueline that evaded Brewer's glove and hit the mesh just after the buzzer went to end the game. Officials ruled the goal came after the period's end.

FRANKFORD

Bowling League In Second Round Of Playoffs

Frankford—The Frankford Bowling League completed the second round of playoffs this week with the Pinoppers and Bobsmob left in the running for the final round. Gene Lohnes' Pinoppers broke the jinx, which Ross Huffman's Crackpots have held over them all season, as they took them out four games to two. Going into this week's bowling, the crackpots held a two-game margin, and a pin advantage of 102. The Pinoppers whittled the advantage to 34 by taking the first game, they won the second game by a single pin, and knocked off at 1215 game to win the third. On completion of the round, the Crackpots proved themselves real sports all the way, congratulating the Pinoppers to a player.

In the other contest, Karl Austin's Bobsmob took out Jack Farley's Fireballs four games to two. Going into the night's bowling, the Vfireballs were two games and over a hundred pins down. They won the first game, but dropped the next two. In spite of their loss, Wayne Arbuckle continued his remarkable bowling throughout the playoffs, racking up another 700 triple, a feat which became as regular as the rising and setting of the sun during the playoffs.

Next Tuesday night at 9:00 Bobsmob and the Pinoppers will tangle in the first round of the finals, with the second round getting underway Thursday night at 7:00.

Second Round Final Standings:

	W.	L.	P.
Bobsmob	4	2	9
Pinoppers	4	2	9
Crackpots	2	4	4
Fireballs	2	4	4

May Not Function

Prospects for the Trent Valley League don't look too promising this year, and there is a possibility that it will not function this year, as such. Frankford, the RCAF and Wooler are looking into the possibility of entering teams in the Belleville League. As yet, these three teams, and Madoc are the only ones who have voiced any opinion as to their softball intentions this year. We understand that these three teams will be accepted into the Belleville League, and if this does develop, it should bring some real softball to Frankford. The Belleville League boasts a good calibre of softball, as many of us have seen in exhibition games in the past. It will also cut down considerably on travelling expenses as Campbellford, Cobourg and others points which have formerly had membership in the TVL.

The Belleville League has this year lifted restrictions on teams wishing to enter the OASA in August, as their own playoffs will have been completed by that date.

Nothing has definitely been completed in this respect, but unless Trenton, Stirling, Campbellford, Hastings and other former members of the TVL give some indication of interest in the immediate future, this will most likely be the softball set-up for Frankford this year.

55 KILLED IN MARCH

Toronto, April 26—(CP)—The Highways Department announced yesterday that 55 persons were killed in Ontario during March—a decrease of 10 compared to March, 1951. The figures for the first three months of 1952 showed six more persons killed than in the first three months of 1951.

OHA Favors Higher Jr. Age Limit, Sets Date For All Championships

Toronto, April 28 — (CP) The Ontario Hockey Association has gone on record as favoring a higher age limit for junior A hockey players in Canada.

About 120 delegates, representing 55 hockey clubs throughout the province, voted in favor of raising the age limit to 21, from 20, at the Association's 43rd annual convention here Saturday.

Jack Roxburgh of Simcoe, immediate past president, will carry the O.H.A.'s vote to the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association's annual meeting in June.

There was little discussion on the question, a controversial one among hockey men in Canada.

Cut Protests

The Association also passed an amendment to the regulations which, Roxburgh said, will cut down the number of protests lodged with the O.H.A. after league playoffs start.

The amendment said, in effect, no team will be permitted to protest eligibility of a player, based on residence qualifications, after Feb. 10 each season. On Feb. 1 the secretary is to provide every team with a list of signed players of all clubs in the group, together with their residence qualifications. Players signed subsequent to Feb. 1 would be subject to protest.

The O.H.A. voted two past presidents to life memberships in the Association: Treasurer George S. Dudley of Midland, who missed his first meeting in 34 years because of illness, and James Douglas of Brantford.

The executive recommended that the constitution, regulations and rules of competition be changed to correspond, where necessary, with those of the C. A. H. A.

The treasurer's report, read by W. A. Hewitt, showed a cash balance of $22,231 and $18,000 in government bonds. Last year the O.H.A. had a cash balance of $19,986 and bonds worth $20,000.

Other highlights of the meeting were: grants of $100 each to the Red Cross and the Hospital for Sick Children, Toronto, and a waiver rule which allows a player to sign for a team within a radius of 25 miles from his residency, provided the team he is joining is not within a smaller population group.

Live Up To Rules

During one discussion of rules, when argument became heated, Earl Hodge, Northern Ontario Hockey Association president from Falconbridge, said: "If we spend a quarter of our time trying to live up to the rules — instead of trying to find loop holes in which we could break the rules — we'd be a lot better off today."

Stewart McTavish, Oshawa, was elected president, succeeding Jack Roxburgh. M. L. Gregg, Wingham, and Frank Buckland, Peterborough, were named vice-presidents. All other executives were returned as treasurer and secretary, respectively.

Lorne D. Cook, Kingston; Ken McMillan, Georgetown; David Pinkney, Stratford; and Lloyd Pollock, Windsor, were named to the executive.

The Kibitzer

When Hoppy Skipper wants to bid, he gets there very fast. Instead of bidding very low, he always starts to blast.

We have been discussing parts of this deal:

NORTH
	♠ None
	♦ A Q 10 8 5
	♣ A K 10 8 9 4
WEST	EAST
♠ Q J 9 4	♠ A K 8 5 3 2
♥ None	♥ A 4
♦ K 4 2	♦ J 7 6 3
♣ J 9 7 5 3 2	♣ Q
SOUTH
♠ 10 7 6
♥ K Q J 10 9 8 7 6 5
♣ None

If opponents do not interfere, the bidding could go like this:

South	North
Pass	1 C
3 S	3 NT
6 C	6 H

The double jump in hearts shows an independent trump suit in a hand that has no outside strength. It tempts a partner to go to slam in that suit if he can take care of the outside suits.

If south makes an unusually high jump to four hearts it tells a different story. It shows a suit of unusual length that is lacking in strength; in a hand that contains no side strength, either.

Therefore, an immediate jump to four hearts by south would not be advisable here. Instead of encouragement for slam it would virtually ask partner to pass and be glad if only a game is made.

It is not likely, however, that the east hand here will let the one club bid go by without some call. He could double for takeout or simple overcall with a bid of one spade.

In either case, south could make the same first response of three hearts to show the type of suit and hand he holds. And the north hand would go right ahead with his slambitions.

• Not all good players interpret jump bids in the same way. So, have an understanding with your partner as to your jump meanings. It will save your pair a lot of future grief. Not to speak of the number of points it can save you.

If you and your partner must quarrel, prepare to go home in a barrel.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, April 28—(AP) — Elio Pinza, the heartthrob of the downpour, is back in Hollywood for another try at the movies. But this time he doesn't want to be "discovered."

"Naturally, producers thought of me in terms of being a lover, after my role in 'South Pacific,' " he remarked. "But I don't always want to play romance. There aren't enough love stories any more, in my opinion."

The famed base played romantic roles in his first two starring roles. He frankly admitted that the pictures were not successful.

"It is the destiny of both the writers of my television show," he remarked, "that I should be in first script and you say you cannot do it. You tell them you want it and they go back and rewrite. But they are so in love with what they have written that they do not change it much. Finally, after several meetings, you may get something like what you want to do.

Too Old For Lana

"In 'Mr. Imperium,' they started with a very old-fashioned story. Nobody could believe in it. Also, I think it would make to cost me with such a young looking girl as Lana Turner. I think I should be playing opposite a Barbara Stanwyck or somebody like that.

"I was not quite so dissatisfied with "Slightly Dishonorable".

Pinza added that he did not sign again with M-G-M, the studio that made the two films.

"They sent me the contract, but I would not sign it. They would not allow me to tear up the contract if I did not like the script. I will sign no more options for pictures. The studio has all the option, and I have none."

The middle-aged heart-throbber gets a departure from his romantic roles in his current film, "Tonight We Sing." He portrays Feodor Challapin, the noted Russian bass. It's a sentimental role for Pinza, who was once hailed as "The Young Challapin." Pinza sang in minor roles while the older singer was starring at the Metropolitan Opera House.

TONE WINS FIRST ROUND

Los Angeles, April 28 (AP) — Actor Franchot Tone won round No. 1 in his sizzling divorce case with Barbara Payton Friday, when Superior Court dismissed her demand for $1,000 a month alimony.

The shapely blonde's lawyer, meanwhile, took the occasion to charge Tone with "an attempt to air dirty linen." Tone, in an amended divorce complaint filed Thursday, accused Miss Payton of making illicit love—even as recently as last Wednesday — with actor Tom Neal.

Judge M. L. Lillie stopped the public washing quickly by dismissing the alimony demands.

MARMORA

Two Twenty Year Old Youths Arrive in Korea

Marmora — Two Marmora boys, each of whom is 20 years of age and distantly related to each other, are now in Korea.

SC-6976 Gunner Carl G. Gray, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Gray, left Vancouver on March 19, reaching Japan on April 3.

After a few days in that country he and his comrades reached Korea. His 20th birthday came when he was on the Pacific.

SC-6978 Gunner Kenneth G. Reynolds, who was 20 on January 2nd, did not leave Vancouver until April 4. With only eight hours spent in Japan the reinforcements to which he was attached arrived in Korea on April 19.

Both come of old established Marmora families and had relatives serving in the two World Wars.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Cronkright spent Thursday in Toronto.

L.O.L. 319 held a dance in the town hall on Friday evening.

Mrs. Clayton Sills visited her daughter, Mrs. Douglas Garbel in Picton on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Fleming of Stirling, visited Mrs. C. E. Jones on Friday afternoon.

DRIVE-IN THEATRE
"Soldiers Three"

Walter Pidgeon, a retired British general in World War I, reminisces about his active days as a cocksure staff officer leaving the peace in India before the turn of the century. Three privates, Stewart Granger, Robert Newton and Cyril Cusack, have been getting into trouble for 18 years but they are loyal soldiers, nonetheless. Pidgeon is annoyed at being replaced in command by Frank Allenby, a stuffy colonel he dislikes. When some guns are stolen, Pidgeon's captain, David Niven, takes a troupe and gets them back, although they lose their clothes in the process. Later, when Niven and his men are trapped inside an Indian fort, Granger manages to get a message out and Pidgeon disobeys Allenby's orders and comes to the rescue. Pidgeon is made a brigadier general and the three soldiers are reunited in the ranks showing at the Drive-In tonight and Tuesday.

RECORD BREAKING RUN

New York, April 28 (CP) —(Royal Journey" the film made by the National Film Board of Canada during the tour of Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh through Canada and the U.S. last fall, has completed a record-breaking run in New York. More than 50,000 saw the film, which ran for nine weeks at the Guild Theatre in Rockefeller Center. Both the attendance and the length of run were high marks for the Guild.

AT THE BELLE — Susan Hayward portrays the courageous and talented Jane Froman in 20th Century-Fox's production of the musical drama starring Miss Hayward with Rory Calhoun, David Wayne and Thelma Ritter. The film is continuing at the Belle until Thursday, matinee daily.

3 HARRIS NOT AVAILABLE

Hollywood, April 25 (AP) —Jack Benny said last night that his comedy program will continue next season on the Columbia Broadcasting System under the sponsorship of the American Tobacco Company but Phil Harris will not be in the cast. The bandleader has been dropped in favor of Frank Sinatra, said Benny, "because Harris is not available for the Benny television show."

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section to which your birthday comes and find all your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR TUESDAY, APRIL 29, 1952

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Matters pertaining to loans, business and immediate affairs have fine planetary vibrations. Hold kink. Healthy social and charity undertakings favored all day. Get out and do your best.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Philosophy, materialism, intellectual, science—have excellent chances of making new headway desired. Civic and community affairs, daily duties invigorated. Do your share.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Good gains can be had in all substantial industrial, mechanical and many financial undertakings. Be conscientious and you will do a job with top results.

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer)—Have regard for others' rights and views, will benefit thereby. Employee and employer should try harder to obey the Golden Rule: Do unto others as you'd have them do unto you.

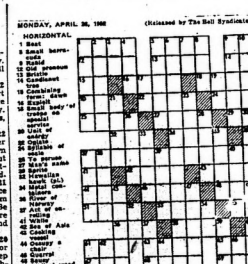
July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—June-July forecast could be applied here. Some stronger spirituel thought would do great good, be the real answer to many problems. Taboo selfishness; that attitude tempting now.

August 24 to September 23 — (Virgo)—Where there's a will there's a way. So it goes today. Get the urge to do something other than routine or just "good", and good things will "happen". Hold tight reins on emotions.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Mistake to be intrigued into unpleasant words, deeds or even thoughts and you can attain some admirable things now. The diplomatic gracious you will prevail with others.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—With proper effort you should have little trouble having a successful, healthy day. Business, estate, trust matters, property need special care.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—If you make fewer demands and attend to your own affairs smartly you can come out okay. Watch for unexpected pitfalls. Avoid win as to grind.



December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — Make allowance for obstacles, hinderances from outside, irritable disposition. Be neutral in situations where principles, honor don't demand otherwise.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Auspicious day for most worthy endeavors. Keep thinking, don't move about with out sure purpose. Apply your top intelligence. Back work with cheer, treat domestic affairs gently.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Differences, uncertainties may throw you off stride. Be firm, keep pulling forward serenely and you will overcome obstacles. It's worth the trying.

YOU BORN TODAY: Taureans like the good things in life and want others to have them, too. You are not expressive of inner feelings, so often you are thought indifferent. Keep insight, innately have knowledge for improving upon others' inventions and ideas, can build and create. Many excellent doctors, bankers, musicians, advisers in this Sign of high intellect and versatility. Avoid fault-finding, stubbornness. Birthdate: Wm. H. Fauber, inventor.

NAMED FOR SAILOR

Collingwood, shipbuilding town in Ontario, was named after Admiral Lord Collingwood, second-in-command to Nelson at Trafalgar.

HONORED EXPLORER

Mount Oates in the Kootenay district of British Columbia was named after Captain L. E. G. Oates, who perished with Scott in the Antarctic.

Rev. Minto Swan Chief Speaker At CAS Banquet

Picton—There is no real rehabilitation without a religious background for life and living, declared Rev. Minto Swan, chaplain at Portsmouth Penitentiary, when he addressed the annual meeting of Prince Edward Children's Aid Society, Thursday night.

Important things in family or community life, leading to a stable and wholesome childhood are consciousness of a sense of recognition, a sense of security, a sense of affection, and a religious background, said Mr. Swan.

Drawing on his experiences as penitentiary chaplain, he showed the same points apply in securing their rehabilitation to normal living.

President Re-elected

Colin Carter was elected president to succeed Rev. W. S. Hope Swayne and Mrs. Kenneth Clemmison as vice-president; Mrs. W. S. Lane, secretary; Mrs. C. G. Rutter, treasurer.

Mrs. T. J. Webster heads the advisory board; Major Corbett the Juvenile Court committee; W. C. Hicks, finance committee. Board members are Mrs. L. B. Calnan, Mrs. E. Keogh, Mrs. H. J. McFarland, E. J. Williams, J. E. Armand.

Treasurer Mrs. Rutter reported expenditures during the year as $41,830.39, including $29,996 for maintenance and $6,590 for staff salaries.

Handled 96 Cases

Judge W. S. Lane, speaking for the Family Court, said cases handled were 90 neglected children, 20 non-support, 26 criminal code, 17 Farming School applications.

L. R. Ecker, representing the Ontario Public Welfare Dept., stressed the value of preventive work.

In her annual report, the superintendent, Miss Violet Anglin, reported 174 children under the direct supervision of the Society. There were 22 adoptions completed during the year. Twenty unmarried parent cases were handled.

Japan Will Turn Cold Shoulder On Russians

Tokyo, April 28 —(Reuters)— Japan will turn a cold shoulder on any Russian attempt to make separate treaty arrangements when the peace treaty comes into force Monday, Japanese diplomatic officers predicted today.

The Russians did not sign the Japanese peace treaty at San Francisco, although they attended the conference.

The foreign office has noted Moscow radio attacks stating the U.S.S.R. would attempt negotiations with Japan.

At present Japan is carefully avoiding any official action towards the Russian mission here. Its legal status now is void with dissolution of the Allied Council for Japan, the officers said.

Two questions uppermost in Japanese minds will have to be answered by the Russians if they do not wish to be treaty evaders, said the officers.

1. What has happened to more than 300,000 Japanese soldiers and civilians Japan claims Russia is holding? Russia has refused to account for them.

2. What will be the status of former Japanese northern territories, the islands of Habomai and the Kuriles, especially the Habomai group — only a few miles from Japan's Hokkaido island? A report here says Sakhalin and the Kurile have been strongly fortified by Russia.

If Russia cannot answer these two questions satisfactorily her attempts at negotiation will be rebuffed, the officers believe.

Usually reliable Tokyo sources report the Russian mission here

SEES MOSCOW TO BE CITY OF CONTRASTS

Returning from a two-week trip to Moscow with her husband, Mrs. Edmund Von Henke of Chicago says the Russian capital is a city of contrasts. Chocolate bars were $2.50 each, but baskets of caviar were commonplace. Soviet women, she said, wore drab and colorless clothes; used little perfume and were unkempt in appearance.

Central Press Canadian

recently cut its large military staff and brought in trade and economic replacements. The move is believed in an effort to retain some kind of Russian trade mission when Allied occupation ends.

RAWDON

Rawdon — Mrs. S. J. Elliott sold her household effects and the blacksmith equipment on Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Barton Haggerty was auctioneer. Mrs. Elliott is moving to Stirling to reside.

Miss Myrtle McKeown, Peterborough, was a recent guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McKeown.

Mr. and Mrs. James Chumbley recently entertained Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jackson and family, of Medina, Michigan.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Drewery recently entertained their nephews, Corporal Rodger Drewery and Staff Sergeant Douglas Drewery from the United States. They also visited other relatives in this district.

Rev. R. R. Bountcel presided over the ministerial meeting held at Bethel United Church on Monday afternoon. The members of Bethel Wesman's Association served refreshments at the close of the session.

The Innocent Impostor

By Renee Shann

Patience stared at Paul. Her breath caught in her throat. "But I'm not engaged to you."

"I want you to be."

"I—I couldn't possibly do anything like that without first asking my aunts' permission."

"Holy mackerel!"

"And under the circumstances," she went on desperately, "what chance is there of them giving it?"

"The trouble with you is you're conventional a prig."

Her eyes flashed.

"I'm not. But marriage is a very serious matter."

"The devil it is! Don't worry. I'm already sorry I suggested it."

"Well I didn't accept you."

"You've not got the nerve. No," he shook his head. "It's all right. We'll call it a day. We wouldn't get on, I can see now. I like a girl with more spirit. Look, I think we've said all there is to say, don't you? If it's all the same to you, I'm going to return to the carriage and read my evening paper."

He went, leaving her standing there alone in the corridor. Tears blinded her eyes. She tried to fight against them but they poured down her cheeks. She didn't go back to the carriage. She stood there in the corridor through the entire journey. As the train drew nearer to Oakley she thought: "He won't let me go like this. He can't if he really loves me." But the station came and he made no move to speak any further to her.

She got out and walked slowly down the platform. She took her bicycle from the shed and rode home knowing that now it was really over. She didn't know quite what it was she's expected what she'd hoped might possibly happen. But she'd not dreamed it would be quite like this. That they would quarrel the way they had.

She opened the front door and went into the sitting room. There sat her aunts, one either side of the fireplace.

"I thought I'd just let you know I was back, Aunt Helen."

Her aunt put down her mending for a moment.

"Did you have an interesting day at the academy dear?"

"Yes, thank you, Aunt Helen."

"How are you getting on with your work?"

"Very well."

That was all. No mention of Paul. The subject was now closed, never to be reopened.

The Easter holiday came and for a month Patience didn't go to London. She told herself she was thankful. She was spared the agony of that journey back. In the evenings, Knowing Paul was on the train. Sometimes catching a glimpse of him. Having him walk past her with a curt nod as if she were the veriest stranger.

And then the term started once more. Once more there were the early morning breakfasts. Aunt Alice getting up to see her off. Waving to her from the gate as she bicycled down the lane. Once more there were those return journeys.

The weather was now warmer. Spring was in full glory. The trees were in leaf, the birds sang, wild flowers peeped from hedgerows. Patience hated it. She wished it were winter with chill dark evenings. Or autumn with the trees each day growing barer. This was a time for happiness and her heart was heavy.

She raced for the train one evening, thinking she was going to lose it. Usually she was punctual, but she had been kept late by Madame Girard. By Madame Girard surprisingly complimenting her on the progress she'd been making.

Her mind still occupied with the nice things the headmistress had said to her, Patience flung herself into the first available carriage. People shifted to make room for her. She squeezed in between a fat old lady with a Pekinese and a burly middle-aged soldier.

"Just about room for a little 'un," said the soldier cheerfully.

"Thank you."

"Paul darling, don't you think a little air would be a good idea?" Patience glanced up involuntarily. Her heart seemed to stop beating. Paul was sitting opposite her, and next to him—very, very close to him—was a blonde girl with blue eyes, their blue seeming deeper since they were fringed with darkened lashes. She was a very pretty girl, Patience thought grudgingly. She wore too much make-up in her opinion, but maybe some men liked it.

Paul leaned forward and opened the window.

"That too much for anybody?" he asked the curator at large.

"Not for me," said the soldier. "It's blinkin' hot today and it's no good saying it isn't."

"How about you?" Paul asked, looking at Patience. But not as if he knew her. Not as if he'd ever held her in his arms and kissed her.

"It's quite all right, thank you," she said stiffly.

The guard's whistle sounded. Doors slammed down the train. It began to move slowly out of the station.

The blonde girl settled down in her corner and smiled at Paul, a slow intimate smile that told Patience, who didn't mean to keep looking at her, that someone could not prevent herself, exactly the way she felt about him.

"Funny how I look forward to this journey now," the blonde girl sitting next to Paul said. "And it used to be no end to death.

Patience opened her magazine. Oh dear, she didn't want to listen! Must they go on talking? Could they not exchange vows to another carriage? But there wouldn't be any room. And, anyway, it would be so conspicuous.

"Paul!"

"Well!"

"How about a cigaret in the corridor?"

"That's not a bad idea."

They stood out there talking together. Their heads quite close.

Patience tried to harden her heart against him. He couldn't really ever have been serious about her, she told herself. If he were he'd not have forgotten her so easily. He was shallow, and not worth bothering about. How lucky she'd been that her Aunt Helen had been so firm about refusing to allow her to have any more do do with him! And then at that moment he turned his head and looked back into their carriage. Their eyes met. Just for an instant she thought "Oh no. I'm wrong! He's not shallow. He did really love me." And then his expression changed. It became cold and hard. He turned back again to the blonde girl and bent his head nearer to hers.

"Your magazine, Miss."

The soldier picked it up for her. A tear splashed down her cheek, looked at her sympathetically.

"You not feeling too good, Miss?"

"I'm all right, thank you."

"Going far?" he asked in a friendly tone.

"To Oakley."

"I'm going to Chelmsford. It's a bit further on. I'm 'ome on leave . . .

It was a help to have him to talk to. It took her mind off those two in the corridor. But at Broxbourne, when the other passengers got out, they came back again. And now there were only the four of them in the carriage.

"Better with a bit more room, isn't it?" said the soldier, stretching his legs.

"Much better" said the blonde girl. "Paul darling, I think now it's turning a little chilly."

Up went the window. Did he always, thought Patience angrily, do everything she wanted? She opened her magazine again. She read the serial steadily until they reached Oakley.

"This your station" asked the soldier.

"Yes."

He leaned forward and opened the door for her. And then got out after her.

"But you don't get out here, do you?"

"No," he grinned and cocked his head in the direction of the carriage. "I think I'll find somewhere else and leave them two lovebirds together."

He was bundling himself and his kit into another compartment in a jiffy. He waved to her from the window. But Paul hadn't noticed her going. Not one look had he given her as she'd risen from her seat and got out of the train. And the soldier had called them two love birds!

She'd never dreamed anything could hurt her so terribly.

She went slowly home, not wanting to reach the house, not wanting to have to go in and talk to her aunts.

She heard voices as she opened the door. They were coming from the sitting room. Voices . . . She thought in consternation, one was about to fire up the stairs when the door opened and her Aunt Alice stood there looking flustered and excited.

"Ah, there you are darling child! We've been hoping you'd be home soon! Come along in! There's someone here who's looking forward tremendously to seeing you!"

Patience hesitated. She looked desperately at her aunt.

"Aunt Alice, must I? I'm so tired and so dirty. Couldn't I just go upstairs and tidy first? I—I don't feel like talking to anybody. I—" And then she stopped short, for there just behind her aunt was a girl of about her own age. A girl who had the same color hair and the same color eyes and was exactly the same build. Only this girl was smartly dressed and her lipstick was a vivid scarlet as were her nails. Her lashes, too, were darkened with mascara, and her eyebrows a neat feathery line. She was—Patience stared at her —why she was like herself as she might be if some fairy princess had come along and waved a magic wand over her!

"You don't know who I am, do you?" asked the girl.

Aunt Helen now was fluttering behind her. She, too, seemed in a state of great excitement.

"How could she know, Charlotte dear!"

"Charlotte!" Patience's heart shook. Charlotte! Her twin sister's name had been Charlotte.

"You're not—oh you can't be—" she gasped.

"She is," said her Aunt Helen. "Patience dear, this is your twin sister, Charlotte. Isn't it wonderful to think that, after all these years, we have found her!"

FRENCH AIRLINER ATTACKED BY RUSSIAN JETS

American Plane With 50 Aboard Reported Overdue

Airliner Was on Flight From Brazil to Trinidad

Buenos Aires, April 29 (AP) —A Pan-American Stratocruiser carrying 50 persons was overdue today on a flight from Rio de Janiero to Trinidad, en route to New York.

Pan-American's office here said this time this afternoon said the plane landed safely in Belem, Brazil. Later Pan-American said this report apparently was not true.

(Pan-American in New York likewise said it had no confirmation of the Belem report.) Several hours had passed since the plane was first reported missing at 10 a.m. EDT. It left Trinidad at 10 a.m. EDT. The $1-500,000 double decked plane left Rio de Janeiro last night on one of its "El Presidente" flights, originating in Buenos Aires.

Major Battle For Popular Support Begins

Boston, April 29—AP—Another major battle for Republican presidential delegates and popular support began in Massachusetts today and General Eisenhower's managers forecast the election would give him "a clear cut victory" over Senator Robert Taft.

The Senator's managers said they were optimistic, but made no predictions.

State primaries began in 1908 with the idea of giving the voters a chance to name their own popular choices for the highest post in the land. Sixteen states have them in varying form, but in most cases where a popular vote is held, delegates to the national convention are not bound by it.

Rain and cold weather was expected to cut down the total vote.

Massachusetts has 38 Republican convention delegates. Two such already have been allotted to Taft and Eisenhower, and six will go to the convention uninstructed. The remaining 23 will be elected today. Both candidates have full slates in the 14 districts.

Some of Eisenhower's backers have claimed he would win all 23 but others place the figure at 20 to 24.

If their forecasts are accurate, Eisenhower will likewise almost end with Taft in the race score of delegates won up to this point in national campaigning. As elected Press tabulation, based on surveys, the number of delegates put Taft's total at 263 and Eisenhower's at 234.

Barbara Ann Loses Fortune In Furs, Gems

Toronto, April 29 (CP)—Minks, sables, pearls and diamonds worth "well into five figures" have been stolen from the apartment of Barbara Ann Scott.

The bread-in occurred during last Wednesday's opening night of the skating star's Hollywood Ice Revue here.

A check of Miss Scott's belongings showed that a mink cape, mink coat, sable stole, three and ermine coat, Russian sable scarf and a kid jacket were stolen.

Missing jewelry included a six-strand pearl necklace, a diamond and emerald wrist-watch, a gold-wrisped 18k, a 4-carat-kid-and-sapphire ring and a quantity of costume jewelry.

PRAVADA PUBLISHES BLAST

Moscow, April 29 (AP) — Pravda today published a vitriolic, half-page blast at the International Red Cross, which the United States has proposed should investigate communist charges that U.S. troops use waging germ warfare in Korea.

The communist party newspaper termed the Red Cross an "obedient weapon in the hands of the U.S. State Department.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, April 29 (CP) —Synopsis: Today's weather map indicates a continuation of fine weather for Ontario. Moderate pressure and temperatures were in the 70s in most sections of the province, well above normal for the end of April. In Western Canada and the Dakotas the mercury soared to heat wave levels Monday afternoon with Winnipeg reaching 90 and Regina 91..

An extensive area of rain and drizzle continues over the northeastern states and part of the Maritimes due to a disturbance moving slowly northward along the Atlantic coast. The slow motion of this disturbance will likely prevent Ontario's fine weather for another few days.

Cool Sailor Averts Possible Tragedy on Carrier

Aboard U.S.S. Boxer off Korea, April 29 (AP) — A cool sailor averted possible tragedy on this carrier recently by sticking his finger in a live bomb to keep it from exploding.

This is the official story:

A panther jet returned from a mission over Communist North Korea with a 250-pound bomb the pilot couldn't release.

The bomb jarred loose and went bouncing and sliding up the deck. It jammed against a parked plane.

The arming propeller on the bomb's nose spun continually.

Two flight crew members grabbed its tail fin and began dragging the bomb to one side obliviously of the danger.

Ralph W. O'Dell, an expert on bombs and fuses, rushed up. He jabbed his finger into the space between the striking pin and the fuse body to prevent accidental discharge.

O'Dell kept his finger in place until the bomb had been carried to one side.

Then he slipped a piece of wood into the mechanism and calmly removed the fuse.

WILL CONTINUE FAIR

Ottawa, April 28—(CP)—Canada's trade event of the year—the International Trade Fair—will be continued in 1953 for the fifth consecutive year, Minister Howe announced today. The 1952 edition of the fair, at which scores of Canadian firms have carried on business show off their finest wares, opens in Toronto June 2.

Endicott Denies Stating Canada Involved in Germ Warfare in China

London, April 29—(CP)—Dr. James Endicott of Toronto described as a missionary to China, told a Communist newspaper men that Canada might be implicated in alleged germ warfare n northeast China.

Endicott, Canadian Church missionary, is in London en route home from a visit to China where he used to be a missionary. He is chairman of the leftist Canadian Peace Congress.

April 15 the Moscow radio quoted him as saying reports of "dead insects" allegedly dropped in China may have been bred in Canada.

Yesterday Endicott said in a telephone interview that he had said no such thing. Newspaper men in Mukden had asked him about a story on Canadian bacteria experiments which had been published in a Montreal newspaper. He had said that article was "probably accurate."

"But I made no statement I had knowledge the insects were bred in Canada," he added.

He said he received a telephone call today from Toronto—he did not give the caller's name—saying External Affairs Minister Pearson planned to quest on him and possibly prosecute him for Pearson's admitted the accuracy of Moscow radio's broadcast. On April 24 Pearson told the Commons at Ottawa that Endicott would be questioned. He movement in China.

COMMONS ERUPTS IN THIRD NOISY EXCHANGE OF DAY

Drew Denies Hitting Family Allowances

Ottawa, April 29 (CP) —The third of a series of noisy, angry exchanges erupted in the Commons yesterday after Liberal members charged that George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, had opposed family allowances when he was premier of Ontario.

Mr. Drew promptly denied the charge and said the Ontario government had opposed the allowances on constitutional grounds alone. It had opposed the way the federal government planned to introduce the allowances. Later Ontario had made arrangements which made introduction of the allowance possible.

The charge against Mr. Drew first was made by James Sinclair (L-Coast Capilano), parliamentary assistant to Finance Minister Abbott. He said Mr. Drew had stated in 1944 that he would "fight this iniquitous legislation in every court in the land."

Mr. Drew said the charge was so inaccurate he was not going to reply.

Mr. Sinclair then sent to his office for a press clipping reporting Mr. Drew's speech in 1944. He had made in 1944. He passed the clipping to Health Minister Martin who read it to the House.

The newspaper report quoted Mr. Drew as saying that former Prime Minister Mackenzie King knew that the family allowance bill was "not worth the paper it is written on." The Ontario government would "fight this iniquitous legislation" did not go into effect. Mr. Drew had charged that the allowances bill was an "arrogant usurpation" of power.

Navy Orders Court of Inquiry In Hobson Sinking, Father Of Victim Wants Full Probe

By JERRY T. BAULCH

Washington, April 29—(AP)—The U.S. Navy arranged today for a formal inquiry into the mid-Atlantic sinking of the destroyer minesweeper Hobson with an apparent loss of 174 lives. It was one of the worst peacetime disasters in American naval history.

Meanwhile the 27,100 aircraft carrier Wasp, damaged in the Saturday night collision that sent the Hobson to the bottom, steamed slowly homeward. She carried 61 of the minesweeper's survivors, some of them injured seriously.

Travelling at between eight and 10 knots, the carrier was expected to reach Brooklyn navy yard for repairs Friday or Saturday.

The original list of 176 missing in the tragedy was reduced by two when two sailors whose names appeared on it turned up safe. They had missed their ship's last voyage—one man being home on leave, the other in a naval hospital. No casualties were reported aboard the Wasp.

Admiral Lynde McCormick, commander-in-chief of the Atlantic fleet, announced in Norfolk that a formal court of inquiry would "make a full investigation of the facts and circumstances surrounding the sinking."

A naval court or inquiry is empowered to take testimony; find facts, express opinions and make recommendations, but it cannot impose punishment.

Father Not Satisfied

A demand for a congressional probe came from the father of one of the missing men who said his son had told him all the enlisted men aboard the Hobson feared she "would crack up, either in heavy seas or by hitting something in the water."

Ervin B. White Sr., of Lynn, Mass., said his son told him the ship broke down several times while on cruises and was in dry-dock last March and again in April.

"I intend to have my congressman ask the navy some questions to find out why they continue to operate ships in such poor shape," he declared. "A thing like this might happen again."

Rear-Admiral W. V. O'Regan issued a statement in Norfolk denying a published report that the Hobson was unfit for sea duty. He said the ship had been inspected in March by Capt. Lynde McCormick, commander-in-chief of the Atlantic fleet, announced in Norfolk that a formal court of inquiry would "make a full investigation of the facts and circumstances surrounding the sinking."

Chairman of Hospital Board, Controller Removed from Posts

Windsor, April 29 (CP) —Frank Brobster, who requested an investigation of the management of East Windsor Hospital, was removed as chairman of the hospital board at a stormy five hour meeting which ended early today.

The Windsor Daily Star described the meeting as "rigged."

Also unseated was Controller Controller Hugh A. Simpson who has been an active supporter of Mr. Brobster in requesting a provincial government investigation of the hospital's management which is scheduled to get underway May 12.

The Windsor newspaper said in a two-page story that "it was common knowledge for days before the meeting that the two would be removed from the board."

John McEwen, Q.C., Windsor was elected board chairman.

He is legal adviser of Dr. P. J. G. Morgan, hospital superintendent.

Before the balloting took place, Mr. Simpson said board members that his presence on the board was the result of an agreement between the city and the hospital. The city had advanced money last July to ward a building fund deficit on condition that it be allowed to nominate two board members.

"It is an ill-advised move to eliminate a representative of the city at a time when the hospital is under investigation. I ant a nominee of no one. I am not a yes man for anyone. I will be heard and I will speak my mind."

Attorney-General Porter introduced legislation March 12 into the Ontario legislature making it possible for the investigation to take place.

Ontario's Band Will Have New Mace

Victoria, April 29 (CP)—A new mace, with double the dimensions, will be carried proudly at the head of HMCS Ontario's band.

In a ceremony scheduled tomorrow, Capt. E. P. Tisdall will accept the mace on behalf of the ship's company from the Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario.

The presentation will be made on behalf of the Province of Ontario and Premier Leslie Frost by Dr. A. F. Mahaffey of Victoria, a old friend of the premier.

The Mace will not only serve as a reminder of the day when Canada's Queen sailed in the ship, but is a link with the province from which the cruiser took her name.

Coronation Will Be Memorable British Event

London, April 29 (CP) —The Coronation of the Queen, a ceremony of matchless pageantry and splendor, will be held June 2, 1953.

The date was announced last night in a simple statement from Buckingham Palace which said:

"The Queen has been pleased to appoint Tuesday 2nd of June, 1953, to be the day of Her Majesty's Coronation."

Preparations for the coronation are expected to start immediately and Britain will spare no expense to make the ceremony as memorable as the Coronation of Elizabeth's father in 1937.

Each of the detailed preparations for the traditional crowning in ancient Westminster Abbey will cost thousands of pounds—100,000.

Millions of men and women from every corner of the British Isles will congregate in London to watch the regal procession and join in the celebrations.

Coronation day will be a public holiday for Britain and throughout most of the Commonwealth.

It was announced that the Duke of Edinburgh will be chairman of a coronation commission of Commonwealth ministers governing members of the Commonwealth.

Canada's representatives on the commission will be Prime Minister St. Laurent; the Canadian High Commissioner in London and Frederic Rudd, official secretary of Canada House in London.

Prolonged Merry-Making

The Duke of Norfolk, the earl marshal who was in charge of the funeral of King George last Feb. 15, will be deputy chairman.

The week of the coronation will be one of prolonged merry-making throughout Britain. Three days after she is crowned, Elizabeth will celebrate her 27th birthday. Her real birthday is April 21 but it has adhered to a custom started by her father in setting the official celebration on a non-weather date. Canada will celebrate the Queen's birthday on May 24 with a holiday observing the sovereign's birthday on a Monday in May.

FOOT-AND-MOUTH DISEASE SPREADS TO NEW DISTRICT

Herd of 41 Animals Will be Slaughtered

Regina, April 29 (CP)—Foot-and-mouth disease has spread to a new area in southern Saskatchewan.

Federal veterinarians placed the new outbreak near Mansur five miles northeast of Weyburn. This is 28 miles from the quarantined area and about 75 miles southeast of Regina. It is within the buffer zone set up around the quarantined area.

A herd of 41 animals— mixed beef and dairy stock—is infected, federal officials announced late yesterday. Preparations were being completed today for slaughter and bury the animals. In Ottawa, Agriculture Minister Gardiner said it was important that cases have been in contact with the infected herd.

Unlike last week's outbreak at Ormiston, southwest of Regina, veterinarians had no lead as to how the Weyburn herd became infected. The Ormiston outbreak was quickly traced to a quarter of beef purchased from infected premises in the Regina area.

Extend Area

Officials said the quarantined area would be extended immediately to take in the Weyburn district. Meanwhile, a meeting of cattle men, which was seven miles outside the quarantine area but within the 20-mile buffer zone.

The infected Weyburn farm is at least 50 miles from the location of any previous case.

The two new outbreaks are the first since March 4. They brought to 26 the number of farms and other premises infected since the first outbreak was reported Feb. 25.

$300,000 In Compensation

Since then more than 1,000 head of cattle as well as hogs, sheep and poultry have been slaughtered and their carcasses deep-buried in specially-dug pits. The federal government has paid more than $300,000 in compensation to the owners of the slaughtered animals.

Agriculture Minister Gardiner said the Weyburn outbreak is not likely to affect the ban on exports the United States market will be resumed on Canadian cattle, sheep and dressed meats. The U.S. ban has to remain in effect until 60 days after Canadian authorities are satisfied the disease has been stamped out.

Two Missing After Mud Slide Hits Train

Woodstock, N.B., April 29 (CP)— Two men were missing after a mud slide hit a Canadian National Railway train near here early today, derailing the locomotive into the St. John River and derailing 10 cars.

Missing, feared trapped in the submerged locomotive cab, engineman R. K. McNally, 50, and trainman Ernest Aitch, 31, both of Centreville, N.B.

Fireman E. H. Taylor was taken to hospital here but it is believed he is not seriously injured.

The accident occurred at Newburg, four miles north of here.

One report said that about 35 feet wide, rushed down a cliff about 100 feet in height with terrific force, knocking the engine and several of the front cars into the river.

Pictures So Small Seven of Them Can be Carried in Vest Pocket

Toronto, April 29 — (CP)— Egidio Boschi, a painter, can carry seven of his pictures in his vest pocket.

His "canvas" is the head of a pin; his brush is a hair—the back of his left hand fastened to a match stick and his palette a two-inch gadget which fits on his index finger.

He arrived in Toronto with seven of his "pinitures"—six landscapes and one portrait—representing four years' work. Then, he said, he made arrangement to show his pictures here.

"To complete a pinature I needed about 250 strokes of my one-haired brush. If just one stroke of the brush was wrong, the whole picture was ruined.

"I had a five-hour attack at the wrong time was all it needed to ruin the picture after perhaps three months had been done.

To maintain a steady hand he learned the yoga art of breath control and was able to hold his breath for as long as 100 seconds.

I painted only when my breath was controlled and my pulse was slowed. Even then I rushed 1,000 pins to paint the seven."

Mr. Boschi, who was born in Italy but now lives in Chile, has shown his pinitures in Europe, South America and Canada.

Fuselage Riddled, Two Passengers Wounded in Attack

Plane Was Travelling In Berlin Air Corridor

Berlin, April 29 — (CP) — Two Russian jet fighters attacked an Air France commercial airliner with cannon and machine-gun fire in the Allied air corridor over the Soviet zone today. Two German passengers were wounded and two crew members were nicked by bullets.

The airliner, en route to Berlin with 11 passengers and six crew members, ducked behind cloud cover after the fighters made four passes. It reached Berlin's Tempelhof airdrome safely a half-hour later.

The fuselage was riddled but none of the shots hit a vital part of the plane.

The Allied High Commission at Bonne sent a stern protest to the Soviet military command commission immediately.

Commercial flights between Berlin and Western Germany were cancelled temporarily but the embargo was lifted gradually a few hours later.

Over 20 Holes

Air France's four-engined Douglas plane arrived at Tempelhof from Frankfurt with five cannon holes the size of a fist in the fuselage and wings. Inspecting crews said they counted 20 to 25 holes. An early report by United States officials that there were 80 bullet holes was discounted later as exaggerated.

There was no immediate accounting for the attack. Since the 1948-49 Berlin blockade, traffic through the air corridors linking Berlin with western Germany has been relatively free from alarms."

Last Thursday, however, about 25,000 blue-shirted communist youths stormed at west Berlin's borders in a "peace rally" connected with Russia's current campaign to convince western Germany it should discard links with Atlantic Pact defence and listen to Moscow's promises of German unification and neutrality.

The demonstration resulted in several wounded heads and 14 arrests of youths who infiltrated the Allied sectors.

Two Germans Wounded

The Air France office said the two wounded on the airliner were Herr Ernest Nebel of Frankfurt, hit in the abdomen, and Walter Roth of Bad Homburg, wounded in the arm and thigh. Mrs. Nebel was taken to a hospital where pieces of 20 millimetre ammunition were removed.

The French pilot said he was flying precisely in the centre of the air corridor over the Russian zone when the two jets made four passes at him and unloaded bursts of cannon and machine-gun fire.

The co-pilot and steward also were nicked by bullets.

"The attack was a complete surprise," said the pilot. "But there was no panic among the passengers."

Air France said all of the passengers on the plane were European.

The weather was bright and sunny and the airliner was flying on a route schedule posted this morning listed training flights from the Soviet zone between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m.

A west German passenger, Hans Juergen Stavnow, said he saw a Soviet jet fighter attacking. Seven of the passengers were wounded by machine-gun bullets.

Small Attack

All the passengers were excited, he said, but kept in their seats while the pilot told them he could still reach Tempelhof field. The attack lasted only a few seconds.

Liberals Reject Bid for Inquiry Into Camp Thefts

Ottawa, April 29 — (CP)— A Liberal majority today voted down a Progressive Conservative bid for a parliamentary inquiry into the Camp Petawawa theft, bribery, graft and forgery scandals, the government supporters in the Commons defeated a committee report which recommended that the Petawawa thefts that have led to six arrests.

Liberal members unanimously insisted that such a specific inquiry would be improper at a time when police and a special investigator are probing what happened at Petawawa.

The wrangle came up when Col. Harkness objected to a sub-committee report which recommended that the Petawawa inquiry suggested by the opposition not be proceeded with "at this time."

Most of the bullets struck the front part of the plane. Stewardess Jean Lafont rushed into the cockpit.

Soviet fighters have frequently made close passes at the unarmed airliners in the Berlin-West Germany flights but have not been regarded as a nuisance lately.

Shortly before the 1948-49 blockade of Berlin, Russian fighters were more daring, and a series of "buzzing" incidents was climaxed by a Yak fighter ramming into a British liner, killing 11 occupants. U.S. aircraft and Soviet air police patrols in the Russian zone are well-briefed on Allied flights in the 20-mile air corridors between Berlin and western Germany.

No Vital Spot Hit

They said the approach of a MIG fighter on a machine-gun attack is a frequent occurrence. But a MIG attack with cannon fire at the same time was "criminally foolish" even if there was no gunfire.

Cannon shells are 20 or 30 bullets which hit the fuselage struck a vital spot of the plane.

The passengers dispersed from Tempelhof airport after the plane landed and before the incidents had become known. The crew was interrogated by police.

MOTORCYCLE PATROL OF CITY STREETS IS RESUMED

Motorcycle patrol of city streets was resumed yesterday by the city police department with the department cycles being brought out of winter storage and readied for summer operation.

Resumption of the cycle patrol is expected to do much to curb speeding and other traffic violations on city streets.

Yesterday in city council one of the aldermen asked when the patrol was being resumed, while another councilman asked whether to know what the traffic committee could do to curb motorcycles using Front Street for a speedway on Sunday afternoons and evenings.

ALDERMAN CLARKE WANTS YOUNG TREES PROPERLY TRIMMED

Whose job is it to see that young trees in the city are properly trimmed?

That was the question asked yesterday in council by Alderman Clarke who pointed out that young trees set out a year or so ago are not being properly trimmed after. They are developing low branches which later would present poor appearance and be allowed to grow and then trimmed would cause unsightly disfigurement.

The public works committee will enquire to determine if the trimming is being carried on as done by the parks board.

Action Deferred on Traffic Recommendation to Eliminate Two Downtown Bus Stops

City Council yesterday deferred action on a traffic and light committee recommendation to eliminate two downtown bus stops and voted that the matter be reviewed by the committee with the bus operator present.

Fred Rawson, proprietor of the Rawson Bus Lines, walked on council stressing that the Campbell St. and Ealley's bus stops, which the committee would eliminate were very important stops in the bus operation.

He pointed out that these two stops handled a total of 1,385 passengers per day and were two of the big points of traffic for bus operation.

Speeding up of traffic in the downtown area was the reason given by the traffic committee for its recommendation to eliminate the two stops, but Mr. Rawson argued that buses alone were not to blame for the congestion. Many times each day buses were held up because of cars parked in bus stops or by cars making left hand turns in riverside parking areas. As a result during heavy traffic periods he was forced to put on extra buses in order that the schedule could be met.

Alderman Argue wanted to know how many persons would not walk to the next bus stop if the two stops in question were eliminated. He pointed out that this was the intention of penalizing the bus company.

Only Offer Service

Mr. Rawson answered by stating that the purpose of a bus was to take passengers where they wanted to go. "Service is the only thing we have to offer," he said.

Alderman Latimer as chairman of the traffic and light committee pointed out that the private bus line covering bus operation gave the committee the right to regulate bus stops. He felt if the matter was to be again referred to his committee there should be some way to get a private bill. "It is not fair to the committee," he said.

Although not a member of the committee, Alderman Argue noted that the traffic committee had brought in the recommendation without the benefit of information as to the two stops would improve the traffic situation and that it should be supported by council, he felt.

Mayor A. M. Haig felt it was only fair that the bus operator should be given opportunity to state his case. He pointed out that all persons using the buses did not come down to shop. There were many atmospheric clerks and waitresses and others who went home for lunch. Talking As the next meeting bus stop may mean lunch periods may not be long enough.

Fashion In Women's Bathing Suits Changed Considerably Since 1880

No object has created more interest in the public eye nor been the cause of more controversy than the same article known as a bathing suit. In days gone by, bathing suits consisted of several yards of heavy dress material, a house on wheels, a horse to pull it, a stout pair of horses and the ever-present chaperone. Today, as the season begin to arrive in the stores, merchants note that beach requirements will still fit into one small drawer.

The year's styles, according to local merchants, have changed very little since 1880. The basic style question judging by what is on sale is: How is it all going to be, two piece suits or bathing suits?

Last summer, the two-piece affair was not as popular with the girls as it has been in previous years. The one piece suit will reign supreme on Canadian beaches in 1953 as well.

Better Material

However, the material seems to be a little better quality. Materials range from elasticized satin down to just plain cotton. Solid colors in one piece bathing suits are stated to have their day. Most of what is on sale at the present time appears to be in solid colors. On top of being one-piece the girls must, of course, have the strapless. In some rare cases there are a few with a strap or starting at the front and going around the neck. This is an added protection for the high diving ladies.

The idea continues to be, make the bathing suit and girl become as one. Elastic has been spread generously throughout all styles. Some have no one piece with buttons which buttoned nothing. No doubt the girls will find some use for them. The new material will be on much the same level as last year's. Bathing suit girls get more or less material, they pay the same.

Lots of Material Used

The history of bathing suits begins about the year 1800 and has been on the rise high and low opinions ever since. At first it was rather difficult to determine the difference between clothes and bathing attire, for if anything, there were more material worn on the beach than on the street. The first suits were made of a grayish-grey fitted the horizon.

The material which went into grandmother's bathing costume was either a heavy flannel or serge or flannel, in either navy blue or black, a huge skirt which scraped the sand and a pair bloomers. Pairs of bloomers—large enough to sail a boat, a long sleeved blouse with long full sleeves to the wrist . . . All this gathered together with frills and tucking appeared on the surface. Grandpa, no doubt, disagreed with the whole idea. He found this vogue of bathing in the ocean salacious for words, but no doubt took too many walks on the beach to find food for his disapproval.

Fewer Marriage Licences Sold

From the period beginning January first through to the end of April this year, fewer people have applied for marriage licences in the city hall than did for the same period last year according to Willred Holmes, city clerk.

In an interview today, Mr. Holmes attributed the decline of the decline in marriage applications to the high cost of living. "Young people just can't afford to get married" he said.

Although the sales of marriage licences register a decrease, the drop is not as great as first is often said to be the season for increased marriages. However, Mr. Holmes said that in Belleville at least, autumn weddings seem to be the thing. The record set during the present years the month of September has had more applications than in June. Last year as many people were married in June as were in May and July.

Christ Church Contact Club Presents 'Fashions Old, Modern'

Last evening the Contact Club of Christ church presented their Variety Mite Show to a capacity audience. The program was one of talent and light-hearted amusement which gave credit to the enthusiasm and executive powers of the director, Lois Bayley, who organized the evening's entertainment.

"O Canada" was followed by a few words of welcome from Rev. Canon J. B. Creggan who went on to explain that the Contact Club does a great variety of work such as making layettes for needy children, raising money through rummage sales and teas for the building fund of the church. He emphasized the fact that the Contact Club has succeeded especially well in its aim to contact and establish friendly relations with new comers so that they will feel welcome and at home. The latest project of the club, Canon Creggan announced is a nursery in the church on Sunday mornings so that even those with infants may attend the services.

Pretty twelve-year-old Barbara Trowsdale, daughter of Barbara Dilment, gave two dainty tap dances, accompanied by Mrs. Jean Calvert at the piano. Later, in a beautiful Spanish costume, with stiff lace petticoat and flaring skirts, Barbara performed a grace ful Hula dance to the piano.

Ed Waterhouse as a comic black face in derby, checked coat and white gloves set toes a-tapping with his darky dialect and swinging rhythms in "Razzo" and "Sometimes You Get a Good One."

Two delightful trumpet solos, "Serious" and "Roses of Picardy" were well played by Sir's Wiggins, accompanied by Dorothy Sloan at the piano.

Lionel Blaker, as Madame La Zonga, in gaily colored overblouse, black skirt, foot long earrings, platinum curls and a lascious look in the eye, held the audience as the floor mopper, who finally reached the conclusion of the music (Eaton's catalogue!) brought down the house with their comic antics and provided two amusing songs as well.

Attractive Barbershop Suits

The Quintones, in their attractive white and black barbershop suits rendered a variety of pleasing numbers which Shirley Grant, beat, Dalton Kaye, tenor, Dick Brethgham, baritone, and Alf Evans, lead.

Mrs. T. A. Tucker, accomplished elocutionist, gave two fine recitations, one of pathos, "Captain Mc" and one of comedy, "Willie and the Wasp."

At this point Fred Beetby announced the intermission during which members of the Contact Club dispensed cokes.

"Fashions, Old, Ancient and Modern" were then presented by Madames Uppington Fish (Willa Jackson) with musical accompaniment by Dorothy Bateman. The engaging models, husband of Contact Club members, were Ray Pratt, Ken Bateman, Bill Bateman, Will Mills, Charlie Cooke, Stan Wiggins, Len Bateman, Jack Ling, Jack Fletcher, Les Lennox, Leo Demmitjeres, Fred Beetby, George Mills, Bruce Bishop. Other models who kindly assisted were Harold Regenbrog, Greg don Colwill, Graham and Eric Beetby, and Leslie Jones.

According to Madame Fish, the designers were Sheila Bateman, Mrs. Dorothy Speight Smyhe, and make-up by Kemtone, shoes by

Paper Vending Machines Barred On City Streets

Newspaper vending machines will not be allowed to operate in Belleville, according to a committee recommendation which was ratified by council yesterday.

Some weeks ago the circulation department of the Toronto newspaper put out boxes in various parts of the city without first checking with city hall. Then it was brought to their attention there was a bylaw against their use and the boxes were taken up.

Speaking on the matter Alderman Thomas said he had two objections. One was for a personal reason that they affected business and the other was that they deprived newspaper from making a few extra pennies.

Again, the boxes were set on city property and he felt that the city would be responsible in case of accident.

"It isn't just one newspaper would put out boxes, but if one papper has the privilege, others would take advantage and there would be boxes all over the city," he said.

Big Brother Organization Explained to Club

"The average boy who appears in juvenile court is no different than any other boy," John R. McKnight, executive director of the Ottawa Big Brother Organization, told members of the Quinte Hotel yesterday.

Mr. McKnight outlined the purpose, some of the organization and the duties of the Big Brothers Association's history. He said the purpose of the organization is to provide the right type of man in contact with a boy whose needs are not being met by his home.

"You made a good step forward when you took the first step of forming a family court in Belleville, Mr. McKnight told the assembled. "Often problems arise in a family where such a court is needed to be established."

The speaker feels that the present day association of counselling to get the boy before he is too far off the track. "In other words, 'Nip it in the bud' is a good medicine". He recommended the Big Brothers Association to the members of the club and urged its adoption.

Visitors were three visiting Rotarians at the meeting yesterday, Ralph Treadwell, Trenton, Walter Elliott and A. O. Dalrymple of Picton. One of the local members, Ernie Gurnett was presented with a rose bud in recognition of celebrating his birthday which was yesterday.

The speaker was thanked by Bill Gault and presented with an engraved silver tray by President Jack Fletcher. Following the conclusion of the meeting Mr. McKnight answered questions about the organization.

Claude Hopper, and jewellery by Crawford Metals; The models were given on a fine article due to the vast entertainment of the audience with even a bride, bridesmaid and flower girl for the grand finale.

Great credit goes to the Contact Club members who shaped, planned and made up the bandsands so fetchingly.

Rev. Everett Smith, master of ceremonies, presented to each model a beautiful bouquet of rhobarb and carrots.

Led by the Quintones, "God Save the Queen" concluded the happily successful variety nite.

Budgets for Tax Rate Next Year Will be Set Late In December And Approved Early In 1953

City council will go as far as it can toward setting next year's tax rate before the end of the year.

After considering the matter for the past month or more city councillors yesterday approved of a recommendation asking the school boards and other municipal bodies to co-operate in setting their budgets by the end of December to allow the tax rate to be struck early in January.

At the same time provisions will be made to allow taxes to be paid in five instalments instead of the present four, the first instalment to become due at the first of March.

Alderman Chas. Hyde, in speaking to the recommendation said that this would help those who would possibly reduce tax arrears by more frequent payments easier, and at the same time would save the city money by lessening the number of instalments.

The original intention had been to set the tax rate in October and have taxes paid in six instalments. It was felt yesterday however, that the tax rate could be struck earlier in the year for which it applied.

Did Not Increase Penalty

In another matter dealing with city finances, council turned down a request that there would have increased the penalty to ten per cent per month for ratepayers who are in tax arrears. The penalty is three per cent half of one per cent per month.

It was pointed out that the new rate would be struck at a record regulation passed by the department of municipal affairs. City Comptroller Ronald Baker man said that tax arrears across the province were building up and it was felt the increased penalty would serve to reduce the money owing in taxes.

Alderman Temple felt the increased penalty would be hitting at the taxpayers who may be unfortunate in not being able to pay their taxes because of some emergency.

No Increase in Arrears

"The new penalty would mean 12 percent per year, and the city is borrowing money at 4¼ percent," he pointed out. "I don't think the city should be raising money in this way."

Alderman Latimer brought the matter to a head by asking if there had been any increase in tax arrears in the city in recent years.

City Treasurer Ernest Hayes replied the amount of tax arrears had increased, but only because of the increased assessment and increased tax rate. "There had been no increase in the percentage of tax payers in arrears," he said.

In a question period Alderman Clarke persons in arrears were those who could afford to pay, Mr. Denyes replied that in many cases the tax payer could pay but preferred to borrow from the city at 6 percent interest.

Alderman Argue felt that the increased penalty if put into effect would be a hardship on homeowners in the lower income bracket. It was pointed out this would be so only in a few cases as in most areas owners of new homes were dealing with finance or insurance companies who kept taxes paid up to date. These companies then charged taxes back to the homeowner in monthly payments.

Special Tribute Paid Regiment By MacGregor

Special tribute to the expansion of the regiment was paid by Lieut.-Col. G. W. MacGregor, M.C., E.D., in his annual review of the warrant officers and sergeants of the 9th Anti-Tank Regiment RCA (SP) ARA held at Golden Arms Inn last night.

"I am proud to announce that this regiment has grown from a full ranks personnel of 89 to some 215 over a period of three years" Col. MacGregor said, in a brief address to his non-commissioned officers.

Battery Sergeant Major Howard Smith acted as host at the 9th Regimental Sergeant Major A. W. Lacey, who was unavoidably absent. The committee in charge of the dinner and entertainment included Mess President Staff Sergeant Mason, Staff Sergeant F. Belleau and Sergeant F. Burton and Sgt. Frank Butler.

During the evening a presentation was made to Regimental Major H Harvey E. Bronson, who was recently married. The presentation was made by Sergeant Gordon Carter, E.T.C.

With Lieut-Col. MacGregor and Mrs. MacGregor as special guests were Major Everett S. Fairman second in command of the regiment and Captain Lieutenant and Hon. Major Arthur Smith, regimental padre and Mrs. Smith.

Dancing, cards and games at the sergeants' mess rounded out a highly enjoyable evening.

BEING REPAIRED

Copenhagen, April 29 —(Reuters)— What is believed to be the world's oldest automobile is being repaired. Mechanics hope to have it running in a few weeks. Built about 1856 by Hans Urban Johansen, a mechanic, and A. P. Hammel, an engineer, the car was found in a technical museum. The motor firm repairing it plans to run it in a procession of classic and air. The Danish Royal Automobile Club intends to send the car to the United States for the golden Jubilee of the American Automobile Association.

On old full-rigged sailing ships the main skysail was the topmost sail on the main or middle mast.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, April 29 (CP) — Prices dropped sharply today in active afternoon stock market dealings as sharp selling weakened key issues.

Industrials dropped almost slightly from selected leading issues and a scattered list of speculative oil, metals and golds attracted interest.

Volume for the first three hours was 1,615,000 shares.

Papers, banks, refining oils and retail stores led industrials lower with losses ranging to more than a point. Agriculturals and utilities slipped but constructions and textiles edged upward.

Western oils posted a broad list of declines. Canada Southern, Canadian Atlantic, Canadian Williston, Fargo, Selburn, Triad and Peace River dipped sharply.

Base metal leaders slipped. Consolidated Smelters, Falconbridge, Dominion Asbestos, International Nickel, Noranda and Mindamar traded lower.

Senior golds sagged. Dome, Giant Yellowknife and Hollinger lost fractions. Secondary issues declined.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

Toronto, April 29 (CP)—Trading conditions were on a firm prices today at the Ontario stockyards. Receipts: Cattle 1,200; calves 100; hogs 600; sheep and lambs 20. The leftover from Monday was 131.

Choice steers sold at $25-$25.75 with good steers at $24-$25 and medium steers downward. Choice heifers were better ward to $25.50.

Cows are 4 with a few at $24.50. Good cows sold mostly $20-$21 with heifer cows upward to $22. Canners and cutters were selling from $16-$18. Good bulls sold at $20-$21 with a few heavy bulls at $23 and common downward to $16. Good veal calves were at $25-$26.50 while good stockers brought $24.50.

Calves sold steady to $1 higher at $25-$25.50 for good to choice vealers, a few tops at $26. Common to medium vealers sold from $12-$22.

Three Picked Up For Passing Counterfeit Bills

Buffalo, N.Y., April 29—(AP)—The local head of the United States Secret Service believes he has ended the activities of a small local group engaged in passing counterfeit Canadian bills.

Edwin A. Manning, special agent in charge here, said yesterday that three persons were held on Sunday.

One of them, Marvin Epps, 25, was charged with possessing and passing counterfeit Canadian $10 bills. A United States commissioner ordered him held in $5,000 bail for possible federal grand jury action.

One of the other two men still said he will consult with the U.S. said he will consult with the U.S. district-attorney on a possible charge. The other was released after questioning. Manning said he probably will be a material witness.

The trio may have made use of $300,000 in bogus money believed to have been printed since in 1950 when the Salli-Inaci counterfeit ring was smashed, Manning indicated.

He said that 20 Canadian $10 bills passed by Epps and his Associates to Buffalo merchants this month were of the type made by the Salli-Inaci combine at their Depew plant.

Of the estimated $800,000 printed by the Salli-Inaci outfit, only about $600,000 was put into government agents. Inaci got a 10-year sentence and Salli was jailed for five years.

To Open New Station

Ottawa, April 29 (CP)—A new R.C.A.F. station will be opened at Goose Bay, Lab., early next June, air force headquarters announced today. It will be under the command of Group Capt. B. D. Richer, 41, of Montreal.

Moose Jaw will be the seventh air force school opened since the R.C.A.F.'s accelerated flying training program began in 1950. Other new station will be No. 2 Flying Training School which will be moved to Moose Jaw from Gimli, Man. An advanced flying school will take over the existing facilities at Gimli.

CAMPBELLFORD

Pair Remanded For Sentence On Theft Charges

Campbellford — Peter John Rutledge, alias Peter Allen, and Ernest Ross Bell, alias Ernest Tremblay, alias Elaine Parcels, were remanded until Friday for sentence on joint charges of car stealing and breaking with violence when they appeared before Magistrate R. B. Baxter in Cobourg on Friday.

Rutledge and Miss Pont, ages 27 and 31 respectively, were arrested on the main street of Cobourg on Wednesday night after they trussed up an 85-year-old pensioner and stole his money, and later stole an auto from a hotel parking lot in Hastings.

The trouble started following a beer-drinking bout in a Hastings hotel. Rutledge and the woman met Bell, a 20-year-old Robert Alexander of Hastings, in the beverage room. They also lured him into going to the hotel beverage room in Hastings with them, and later borrowed another dollar from him. After loaning the second dollar, Alexander decided to go home. He washed out a few articles of clothing and was typing at his bed when the man and woman rushed in and demanded his money. Bell, a 70-year-old woman, Miss Pont, tied a suit of winter underwear around the head of the victim while the man, as ex-prize fighter, he claimed, delivered him from four or five blows to the head, then threatened to stab him with a screwdriver if he made any outcry. The couple left the house, locking the door with a padlock on the outside. They went back to the hotel and stole the car owned by Gordon Johnston of Campbellford. The trio were held in the No. 4's lockup about fifteen miles out of Hastings and the couple hitch-hiked to Cobourg.

Made Escape from Home

By this time, Alexander had freed himself of his bonds and managed to finally escape by a window of the house. He notified a neighbor, who in turn telephoned Provincial Police in Campbellford and Constable George Ross started the investigation. After finding no trace of the missing couple in Hastings, he returned to Campbellford and picked up Provincial Constable Harold W. Erskine and special constable Jack Free, employed by the H. P. C. The three went to Hastings and received a tip that the car was being driven south out of Hastings towards Cobourg on No. 28 highway. They later found the car abandoned on the highway between Hastings and Cobourg and proceeded to Cobourg, where they notified town police of the description of the wanted pair. The three Campbellford constables later joined the pair coming out of a side door of a Cobourg hotel and arrested them.

The pair pleaded guilty to both charges on Friday and were remanded until Monday for sentence by R. B. Baxter.

Miss Pont, age 31, has been living at the same time as the common law wife of Nicholas Parcels on Sandy Mountain in Campbellford. Parcels has been away for the past month and Rutledge, the first told police his name was Peter Allen, moved in. The couple planned to marry but were unable to procure a licence.

Terms of Contract Cause Uneasiness To City Council

Terms of its contract with the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation under which the city is said to have agreed to bring all lots in the Churchill Heights area to the level of the road grade, is causing city council some uneasiness.

This was brought to light yesterday following receipt of a letter from the government housing body in which the city was asked for early completion of the grading as it was wished to sod the lots in the area.

Speaking on the matter Alderman Thomas said that if the city had to raise all the lots to the level of the roadway it would cost "thousands of dollars" for fill. "I had no idea that the city was expected to raise the level of back yards as well as front yards," he said.

"If that is the original agreement then it was entered into very foolishly," he went on.

Of Different Opinion

Alderman Duffy felt that only a few of the lots would need fill, but Alderman Thomas was of different opinion, claiming that a big percentage of the lots would have to be raised.

The matter was referred back to the public works committee for report and for the city solicitor to determine the city's obligation under the contract.

It was pointed out that city officials would meet with representatives of Central Mortgage and Housing regarding some of the houses, the matter to be taken up some time next month.

Council also referred back to a recommendation calling for householders to secure a permit from the city before planting a hedge or building a fence on city property. It was pointed out that in some instances the city property line runs some feet inside the sidewalk and household-ers had built fences or set out hedges out to the sidewalk on city property.

Intercepting Sewer

The city will construct an intercepting sewer on Newberry Street to relieve the load on Dundas Street which has resulted in flooded cellars in that area of the city. Cost of the sewer amounting to approximately $25,000 would be charged back against the property in the area which the sewer served at a rate or about six cents a foot frontage per year.

Alderman Rollins objected to the cost being charged back to ratepayers. "If the city did not have foresight enough to put up a large sewer then we should not penalize the residents," he said.

It was pointed out, however, that all sanitary sewers must be charged back against the residents in local improvements.

The local chamber of Commerce asked council to put the off-street parking spaces along the river bank into shape following damage done by winter conditions. The Chamber pointed out that certain fill and grading necessary for which it had no funds. The work will be laid over for two weeks.

Alderman Willsey Countryman was given authority to advertise a number of residential building lots which the city has for sale, principally in the newly developed area of the city.

Four District Men Receive High Honors

Four Bay of Quinte district men, including two from the immediate Belleville area, received first class honors in recent dairy school examinations at the Kemptville Agricultural school, it has been announced.

The two Belleville district men are W. E. Moreland, Consecon, R.R. 2, who received 84.3 percent, and G. S. Butler, Belleville, with 84.1 percent. The two Napanee men to receive honors were R. Harnden with 82.8 and E. W. Brown with 80.2 percent.

In addition to receiving honors, Mr. Moreland won the Lawrason trophy for the student showing the best aptitude to dairy work. Mr. Harnden won the Kemptville Creamery award for the highest in buttermaking. In addition to the two received $10 awards from the Montreal Provision Trades Association as did G. S. Butler of Belleville for highest in engineering, cultures and separators.

Factory Island Residents Have Food for 3 Weeks

Moosonee, April 29 (CP) — Brief radio messages received from residents of isolated Factory Island Monday said they have enough food for three weeks and are prepared to wait until the ice breaks up and the wajer level recedes.

The tiny island was cut off from the mainland when ice ran out of ice-cakes jammed the mouth of the Moose River, which opens up into James Bay, leaving a trail of towering ice shoals sliding the river for eight miles upstream.

The ice chunks, some of them 30 feet high, caused the water to back up more than 20 feet above normal.

Telephone and radio communications with this northernmost settlement of the Ontario Northland Railway was cut off last Thursday when the ice went on the ramparts. Only temporary repairs were made yesterday to the Hudson Bay Company radio on the island.

Supply of fresh milk for 275 patients in an Indian hospital there is exhausted and canned and powdered milk will be used instead. Also on the island are 700 other residents, 50 whites.

Soaring temperatures yesterday failed to disturb the four-by-four-foot ice layer.

Yesterday's message also told of an Indian who was thrown into the icy water when he made an attempt to get to the island before the ice went out. After scrambling to shore he stripped off his clothes but "he still went crazy with the cold." He was reported in good condition in hospital.

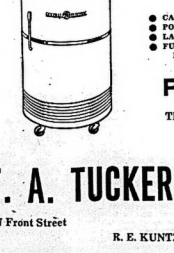
The Ordination Service will be held Wednesday evening at 8.00 p.m. and the laymen banquet Thursday at 6.00 p.m.

Seeding Well Advanced In Southern Ontario

Seeding operations are well advanced throughout the province and in northern Ontario the Weekly Livestock and Crop Report of the Ontario Department says.

Southern Ontario farmers received anything between 25 and 50 per cent completed. In northern areas, seeding is well forward in a minor scale.

All districts report that winter crops are through the last season well and are making good progress.



Officials of the maple syrup industry say the maple sap crop production wis low and little was offered for sale.

Rice chestnuts in young orchards in eastern Ontario was reported prevalent.

MY CLIENTS HAVE MADE MONEY

From time to time I write my clients about money-making opportunities in the stock market. Here are two examples of what I mean:

Had you received the letter I wrote about Silver Miller Mines and acted upon my advice, you would have bought 1,000 shares for $220.00—and you could sell out today on the Toronto Stock Exchange for more than $1,500.00 And in addition to this very nice tax-free profit, you would have received the first move in cash dividends than the 1,000 shares cost you originally.

Another letter I wrote was about Jupiter Oil shares. Had you received a copy, and again followed my advice, you would have bought for 1,000 shares—and you could sell out today on The Toronto Stock Exchange for more than $4,000.00 With the opportunities of these two stocks in mind, I believe I have another just as attractive. Neither Silver Miller or Jupiter Oil looked half as good when I first wrote about them.

Let Me Tell You About Baska Uranium Mines

If you missed the big money made last year in base metal shares, and you did not get in on the present boiling oil market, don't miss the coming uranium boom. Because I am convinced that a lot of money is going to be made mining uranium. I am interested in a company with these properties in the heart of the biggest uranium development on this continent. The company has more than $100,000.00 in itstreasury.

If you would like to know why I believe Baska Uranium Mines shares are as a good a buy at this early stage as Silver Miller and Jupiter were when I first recommended them, get in touch with me at once. Write me, phone, or up the coupon below and by return mail I will send you convincing information. I will also tell you what I think you ought to do. If you live in or near Toronto, come in and see me.

Service Station, Implement Shop Entered by Night

Campbellford — A service station and an implement shop were entered and robbed during the weekend. At Edgewater Park Sales and Service, an undetermined amount of cash, a number of cheques, some tobacco and a loaded .32 calibre revolver from the Electric Entry was made by a side window after two doors had failed to spring the lock in the front door. A large amount of auto accessories and a 1951 model car with the keys in the ignition, were left untouched.

At the implement shop, thieves got away with a little cash and a few unemployed items. Entrance was by the front door.

Chief Constable George H. Hardy and provincial police are investigating the thefts but so far have nothing to report. It is believed the thieves broke in during the early hours of Sunday morning. Night Constable W. E. Cargin of Campbellford said he tried the door of the service station located in the extreme west end of the town on Saturday morning and saw nothing amiss at that time.

SUDBURY HIGHEST PAY AREA

Wage earners in the Sudbury area, or the Nickel Range, as it is often called, retain their position as the highest paid community in Ontario, it is shown by statistics that have just been issued by the Ontario Bureau of Statistics and Research.

The reason for this is that nearly all, or most of, those working for wages in that region are employees of either the International Nickel Company of Canada or of Falconbridge Nickel Mines, both of which are noted for their high pay scales.

As the chief end of the list is what is called the Blue Water region, which has the dubious distinction of paying the lowest industrial wages of any of the eighteen areas into which the province is divided.

Strange as it may seem, figures issued by the Ontario Department of Agriculture a short time ago showed that the farmers in that same Blue Water region had the highest average income of any group of farmers, also that they possessed the most livestock and led the province in the production of most field crops.

Below are the wage scales for the entire eighteen economic areas into which Ontario is divided. These figures, it should be borne in mind, are for manufacturing industries only and hence are probably higher than the average for all persons working for wages. Further, they are supplied to the government by statisticians by the manufacturers themselves and for this reason are not likely to have been minimized. The figures are weekly averages:

1. Nickel Range (Sudbury, Manitoulin) — $68.22; 2. Sault Belt (Cochrane, Timiskaming) — $68.22; 3. Sault (Algoma) — $68.60; 4. St. Clair River (Lambton) — $66.90; 5. Lakehead (Kenora, Rainy River, Thunder Bay) — $65.87; 6. Niagara (Lincoln, Welland) — $65.11; 7. Border (Essex, Kent) — $63.99; 8. Kawartha (Durham, Ontario, Peterborough, Victoria, Northumberland) — $61.10; 9. Burlington (Brant, Wentworth, Burlington) — $60.13; 10. Metropolitan (Halton, Peel, York) — $57.27; 11. Quinte (Prince Edward, Hastings, Prince Edward, Lennox and Addington) — $52.09; 12. Upper Thames (Elgin, Middlesex, Oxford) — $51.71; 13. Upper St. Lawrence (Dundas, Glengarry, Grenville, Leeds, Stormont) — $51.65; 14. Highland (Haliburton, Muskoka, Nipissing, Parry Sound) — $50.83; 15. Upper Grand (Perth, Waterloo, Wellington) — $50.47; 16. Ottawa Valley (Carleton, Lanark, Russell) — $49.17; 17. Lake Erie (Haldimand, Norfolk) — $47.48; 18. Blue Water (Bruce, Dufferin, Grey, Huron, Simcoe) — $44.50.

WHY THIS SUDDEN UPROAR?

What is the reason for this sudden uproar over those allegations, made in Red China by Toronto's own Rev. Dr. James Endicott, to the effect that the United Nations troops in Korea are waging "germ warfare" and that Canada had played a major role in hatching or breeding those germs?

Nearly everyone, from Justice Minister Garson down, seems to be demanding Rev. Dr. Endicott's scalp. External Affairs Minister Pearson is after him, too. Even a large number of newspaper editors have joined in the hue and cry.

Rev. Dr. Endicott has been perambulating this country and spouting his Communist propaganda for years, without exciting any special attention. The Canadian Peace Congress, the Communist front organization of which Rev. Dr. Endicott is chairman, has similarly been operating openly in Toronto for years. It is common knowledge that a Communist newspaper, printed by itself the Canadian Tribune, is published in Toronto and has been for years. Tim Buck and other prominent Communists travel about Canada freely, making speeches and broadcasting propaganda that is, they travel about making speeches and broadcasting propaganda freely as long as they stay outside Quebec, which is governed by a fellow who doesn't fool around with Reds.

We doubt very much whether anyone, unless he is an avowed Communist already, will pay very much attention to Dr. Endicott. We see little sense in undertaking to punish him for making allegedly treasonable statements in China when it is known that he has already made other ridiculous statements on many occasions while he was here.

114,900 UNEMPLOYED

There now are 114,900 unemployed in Ontario, as compared with 115,500 during March, it is shown by figures issued by the Ontario Bureau of Statistics and Research. But there were only 60,600 during April, 1951.

Thus, while there are slightly fewer unemployed in this province now than a month ago, there are still more than twice as many as a year ago.

While the south of England is only 21 miles from France, the north of Scotland is 400 miles from the nearest continental shore.

MAYBE

Maybe a little more tender care,
Maybe of patience a little more
And the boy with the freckles and tousled hair
Might never be led to a prison door.

Maybe a little more thought for him,
A little encouragement now and then,
And a little help with his problems grim
And he'll be a man when we're needing men.

Maybe of praise just a little more,
A little less scolding when he comes home.
A little more love that he's hungry for
And he won't be tempted afar to roam.

Maybe a little more knowledge of his desires,
A little more help when he asks for aid
May be all that a growing boy requires
That of him in time will a man be made.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

April 29th., 1932

The hose cart of the Belleville Fire Department carrying Chief W. Lynch and a crew of firemen made the run of 16 miles to Deseronto in thirty minutes to assist in fighting a fire in that town. It sure was a fast run.

The organization of the Belleville Branch of the Army and Navy Veterans' Association has been completed with the following officers being elected last term: Hon. President, Chas E. Hanna; President, George Smith; Vice President, George Hyland; Secretary, Leo Ballinger; Treasurer, Gerald Spafford; Executive Committee, G. Matthews, Marshall Gerow, Percy Ford, A. Brown and J. Nelson.

Mrs. T. Emerson of Crookston is the guest of her sister, Mrs. W. S. Ashley, Victoria Avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Wilson, and Miss Edna Downer of Toronto were recent guests of Mrs. Downer, Everett Street.

Rev. H. H. Greenwood, Rector of St. George's Church, Trenton, has been appointed Rector of St. Matthews Pro - Cathedral in Brandon, Manitoba. He is a graduate of St. John's College, Winnipeg, and was engaged in parochial work in that city prior to coming to Ontario.

30 YEARS AGO

April 29th., 1922

Mr. F. M. Clarke, a member of Loyal Orange Lodge No. 274 for more than 55 years, and Mr. W. C. Reid, a member of Quinte Lodge for forty years, were presented with an address and a banquet held by the lodge. Both Mr. Clarke and Mr. Reid have been Grand Lodge officers for many years. The chair was occupied by Geo. A. Reid, Brief addresses in response to the various toasts were made by Rev. C. A. Beamish, A. L. Burke, Mayor Charles Hanna, Rev. G. Marshall, T. A. McFarland, Rev. A. L. Geen, Arthur Jones, F. M. Clarke, W. C. Reid, H. F. Ketchenson, King, Hubble, Donnan and Putman.

Mr. Jackson Clarke of Wellington has been appointed Assistant District Provincial Surveyor in Saskatchewan and will be located at North Battleford, Sask. Mr. Clarke is a recent graduate of the School of Practical Science, Toronto.

Mr. John Bell has removed his livery business from Campbell St. to the barns recently used for the same purpose by Mr. G. L. Sills on Pinnacle St.

Mr. John B. Harker is spending a few days in Toronto.

Lt.-Col. Thomas Stewart is in Toronto on business.

50 YEARS AGO

April 29th., 1902

It is a matter of great regret that Mr. and Mrs. William Douglas, Mrs. Metcalf and Miss Lily Metcalf will leave here in the near future to reside in Sault Ste. Marie. Mrs. Douglas and Miss Metcalf have been members of the teaching staff at the D. & D. Institute for a number of years. Mr. Douglas will enter mercantile life at the Soo. Many friends will wish him success.

Large congregations are present every evening at the Methodist parsonage now being conducted in Bridge Street Methodist Church by the Evangelists Croskey and Hunter.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Northrup, John Street, will leave shortly to visit their daughter, Mrs. George and the Rev. George in Chicago.

Strength for the Day

IF WE ARE WISE

"Give me justice!"

To whom are you speaking? If you are speaking to your fellow men, then your demand is absolutely in order. You deserve justice, and so does everybody else; and if you expect to get justice, you must you be willing to give it. There can be no argument about that.

But if you are addressing your demand to God and saying that you want justice, then you had better change your pies quickly. Today, it was your life in the last great day is justice, we are altogether lost. What we want is justice. What we want, and what we must have, on that Supreme Occasion is mercy.

The Prayer of Confession declares that there is no health in us. Better people choose whatever this statement, but it is true nevertheless and we should have accept it whether we like it or not. Don't ask for justice at God's judgment seat. What we need it right now and we will need it more as the years go on. We need mercy because of the good we have left undone. We need mercy for the sins of the past that we have often deliberately chosen evil instead of good. Above all, we need mercy because of the kind of persons we are in the depths of our hearts and lives.

Mercy! Not justice; mercy!

MADE SAFE LANDING

San Francisco, April 29 (AP)— A Honolulu-to-Portland Northwest Airlines passenger plane changed course last night and made a safe landing after one of its four engines cooked out in mid-ocean. The plane, carrying 40 passengers, was escorted to a safe landing at San Francisco by four jet military planes which flew out to meet it.

WORST IN HISTORY

Dunedin, N.Z., April 29 (CP) — Fire destroyed a block in the heart of Dunedin's business area early today. It was the worst fire in the history of this city on the east coast of New Zealand's south island. There were no casualties although damage was estimated at £500,000.

PIN POINT SPOT

London, April 29 (Reuters) — Shipping authorities trying to track down a mysterious radio transmitter which for two months has been broadcasting false SOS messages said today the signals were sent from about eight miles from port. But on the Belgian coast, special equipment now will be used to pinpoint the exact transmitting spot.

Kitchener, April 29 (CP) —C. F. Thiele has a collection of battered musical instruments that he says he never intends to play but wouldn't part with for $10,000. In the course of collecting he has gathered more than two dozen instruments, some of which are no longer manufactured.

OUR TOWN

BY JACK SCOTT

MILES OF MSS.

A gigantic black Homburg bobbed into our life yesterday afternoon. A bright little man was under it. From underneath the right beside my desk introduced himself as the publishing firm had invited me for a little a novel. You could have knocked me over with a feather. It would have been no trick at all with the one in that hat.

He was just a little stuffer, but he meant business. "You have merit," he said in a voice with a Toronto accent. "We will be happy to consider a manuscript from you." He gave me his card. The engraving felt like a neon tubing. Then he got in under the hat again, put it into low gear and trundled away.

I have been walking around in a daze ever since. Beginning a novels like crazy. How do you like this, for a first?

"I opened the door to my apartment. Yamato, my man, had the night out. But I had right beside There was somebody there. I flicked the light and the room flooded with light. Then I saw her. She was crumpled on my living XVI" chair with two bullets, I ruminated, had ruined that yellow velvet, and I felt distinctly disgustingly if I ever ogled one. Hmmm, I thought, foul play here. Time to get busy. Like that. That is as far as I ever get. I guess I have started this item from the recent novels like that in the last couple of dozen years and I never seem to get beyond the first paragraph. I go down with a crash on the first sentence.

You might guess from the above example that I'm a born writer of modern, hit - 'em-in-the - puss school of detective story writing. But I'm aware of my very best one-paragraph novels have dealt with the psychological problems. Others have been pure adventure. At any rate, whatever the novel I happen to be reading at the time, I am as versatile as my bookshelf.

Only last week I found myself reading a book on the geology of my life. "I was two days old when I wrote my walk," it begins. "I lay in my crib, looking up at the white ceiling. Distantly I could hear the mutter of commutteffic from the street outside. Then I noticed, very faintly and dreadful, exciting world, filled with beautiful women and empires to be built. And I was strapped to this cursed bassinette. Why I asked myself, do they keep me here? Then I knew. I would have to learn to talk immediately. . . ."

But I get no further than this. My mind begins to wander. I peruse into all the shop windows of literature and I find myself on the brink of a brand new novel.

"Cap'n Rod tapped the bottle in his hand against the table edge. In his cane chair, and his pale eyes (eyes, said old Ishmaphine that could see beyond the blue horizon) took on that familiar glow of nostalgia. For this was an important day to old Cap'n Rod and as he sat there ruminating on the past, the days of still when men were men and devil take the hindmost. . . ."

But you see how it is. Actually my trouble is that I just don't happen to have a plot. Well, that isn't true, either. I have a peach of a plot for a detective story. All about a scientist who decides to blow up the world. He invents this teensy atom bomb, see. He drops it on his wife from a chandelier one night and it explodes just over her head. A tiny mushroom cloud of smoke, a little explosion, version of Hiroshima.

But I better get it all away.

Since the little man came in I have been thinking if he is the same publisher's agent who made the rounds of the local offices as well call Geoffrey Burbank. This Burbank, like myself, has a novel that he has written stuff that always looked a little better than it really was. He, too, has a plot and has invited to submit a novel.

Burbank is a big - hearted himself in a room with a six-foot stack of white paper two inches thick, a pencil sharpener and a typewriter, and he nearly went mad trying to write something by himself. A girl in an apartment across the hall from Burbank every morning, and this was his excuse on rising, but after that he had the apartment to himself. He was staying away from the typewriter as much as possible, and later, with people he detested. He contracted acute agoraphobia, with mysterious people, one of which he decided him to Peru for six months. He was running away from that piece of paper, and he was afraid that the friends wept for him.

Of course he never did start the novel. The last I heard of him he was writing for the publishers of thousand a week, a broken man.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

LIGHTED LAMPS

When I wrote late in my city office I love to look out upon the millions of lights that are spread like a field of stars all across the city. I think of the workers still busy under electric lights, and of the millions of returned workers who have found their way home to mother earth.

In travelling by car it is always inspiring to see the distant lights of a town at night. Most of these lights are behind windows, a light, with the reflections of several thousand books in almost each, books, too, are lighted.

A friend presented me with an inspiring little book with the title "Light From Many Lamps," a title that so intrigued me that I took the book home and have read it with a compound interest. It was compiled and written by Lillian Eichler Watson and is one of the most unusual anthologies I have ever read. Unusual because the author has written so many inspiring sketches of famous people and then sprinkled great quotations carefully selected throughout the book. Each quotation used like the tail of a kite to each interesting sketch.

This book teems with inspiration and wisdom. — a wonderful book to pick up and read before retiring for the night — or before getting out of bed, and it can be re-read with profit, as I have already done, many times. It may be taken the wrong road. Thousands of books by my library have been thrown at me, as has many a valued friend.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Some men, when they wash in a basin, lean down so close, keep their elbows so snug to their sides and their feet so calm so as not to splash the surroundings, that their can be no doubt whatever of the high degree of their social sense.

Other men go at the basin the way a canary allows its bath. They fly at it, splash themselves the way a horse might take a bath. They slosh. Standing practically upright, they bale the water on their faces in cupped hands, making loud blubba-blubba sounds, and the water rises in the air for a distance of at least a yard. They wash with gusto, with zest. Up their forearms they lave the water. With heads slightly bowed, they splash handfuls on the back of their necks, uttering, ahs and yahs and hoos.

By the time they reach eye, ear and face washing they are standing in a puddle; and every-thing around about is drenched.

It is in this communal washroom of a diversified group that you observe this basic difference in human nature. It can be safely said that you have the right to wonder if so-ciality with other men is natural early, when so many men are instinctively and fundamentally unsocial. Thoughtless, careless and be-dam-to-everybody. Socialism carry for Christmas. It calls for an innate sense of discipline and tireless self-vigilance. It is comforting to bet that you could all down in the washroom of a Pullman car, the common seat over which hangs the notice "Passengers are requested not to smoke while others are using the washroom," and by the manners and habits of the passengers, determine within ten per cent the political attitudes of them all. The socialists would barely splash the outer perimeter of the basin. The anti-socialists would all be standing in puddles. And the Communists, ten to one of them, as you can see from the size of the washroom floor, by the time the train arrives at its destination.

MORE CALCIUM, LESS ASPIRIN

Characteristic of many Americans is the indiscriminate use of sense-dulling drugs for ache, pain, fatigue or other distress regardless of cause and regardless of the dangers attending the use of these analgesics, particularly phenacetin (phenylacetamide), phenacetin (acetophenetidin) and aspirin (acetyl-salicylic acid).

This is not to imply that these drugs should never be used to relieve ache, pain or other distress. Sometimes one or another of them may be the appropriate remedy, whether in a single dose or several successive doses, under the physician's supervision. If or when you feel disposed to use any of these pain-killers, under its own name or disguised in a nostrum, on your own responsibility, my advice is: Don't, but before you do, remain lying down or at rest for at least an hour after the dose.

Acetyl-salicylic acid (aspirin) is not so dangerous as the other pain-killers, but death has resulted from 5 and 10 grain doses, according to some authorities, and not rarely a few ordinary doses of aspirin produce feelings of nausea, collapse, air hunger, rashes, huge hives of skin and sometimes in the throat and lungs. It by no means one to trifle with. This is true no matter which "brand" you use or what price you pay for it—probably it all came out of the same barrels.

From long study and observation and the reports of many readers I have come to believe that calcium is a safer and more effective as the pain-killer drugs, of course, but certainly is good to moderate and, when it is used regularly and systematically, it tends to prevent pain of rheumatic neuritic or neuralgic character.

This analgesic effect of calcium becomes manifest in most instances where the invalid or near-invalid changes from the usual American diet to high calcium diet, as described in booklet The Calcium Shortage for Characteristic of many Americans is the indiscriminate use of sense-dulling drugs for ache, pain, fatigue or other distress regardless of cause and regardless of the dangers attending the use of these analgesics, particularly phenacetin (phenylacetamide), phenacetin (acetophenetidin) and aspirin (acetyl-salicylic acid).

The analgesic effect of calcium is still more striking in cases of chronic rheumatism where the sufferers accept the practice of supplementing the ordinary diet with adequate daily rations of calcium and vitamin D, as described in pamphlet Calcium and Rheumatism — for which send stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Vitamin D should always accompany calcium in whatever form calcium may be used—it is essential for normal assimilation and utilization of calcium in the body.

Calcium can do no harm in any circumstance.

Remember, one must use it for weeks, at least, in order to get the analgesic effect.

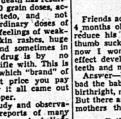
People who have or are cultivating the habit of acetanilid habit would do well to correct their calcium deficiency.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

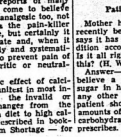
Pacifier

Friends advised me to give my 4 months old baby a pacifier to reduce his crying and stop his thumb sucking. I did both, but now I wonder whether it will not cause deformed of his gums, teeth and mouth. . . (Mrs. N. G.)

Answer—Not necessarily. The baby was born with his birthright, nursing by his mother. But many of the bad habits our modern mothers these degenerate days!



Patient in Danger



Mother has diabetes. She has recently been given honey and told that it has not changed her condition according to sugar tests. Is it all right for her to continue this? (H. W. G.)

Answer—There is no reason to believe a diabetic can use the sugar in honey any better than any other kind of sugar. The patient should use only such carbohydrate as her physician prescribes.

Sports Editor of Standard, Andy O'Brien, Guest Speaker At 'Y' Father and Son Banquet

Had they been able to play the series from the hospital, the Canadiens undoubtedly would have made a better showing against Boston in the Stanley Cup series, was the comment of Andy O'Brien, Sports Editor of the Montreal Standard and Weekend to an audience of boys and fathers, who filled every available seat in the spacious gymnasium of the Y.M.C.A. Friday night.

The occasion was the annual Father and Son banquet sponsored by the Y's Men's Club. The speaker referred to the gruelling series with Boston, which took a terrific toll on the entire team and in particular on McCormick, Richard and St. Laurent. He admitted that the Canadiens management would be glad to sign Bob Hardie, who earlier in the evening had given an exceptional display of magic to the amazement of the audience, if he could be persuaded to make Sawchuk disappear from the Detroit nets.

Boys of the Y.M.C.A. performed most of the functions on the program. Barrie Wright made an excellent chairman. Bob Reeve asked the blessing and Allen Staples proposed the toast to the fathers, to which Ken Yorke replied.

"Y" Choir is Heard

An unusually fine performance was presented by the Y.M.C.A. Choir under the direction of Henry Lloyd, whose excellent training of the boys was showing in the unaccompanied two and three-part rendition of several numbers.

The sing-song period was greatly enjoyed and appreciated. The several numbers prepared by Bernard Grady the program director, proved of real interest and amusement and the audience participated enthusiastically.

Awards were presented on behalf of the Board of Directors of the Y.M.C.A. by Don Williams to boys who had been successful contenders in various tournaments during the spring season. Recognition and crests were given to David Freeman, Bob Dean, Randall Cowell, David Rastrick, John Brennan, Bill Pringle, Danny Moon, Gordon Irwin, Bill Foster, Glen Stewart, Pat Tracey, Jim Ramsbottom and Don Bishop.

Special Award Presented

A special award and citation was made by Gerald Hyde on behalf of the Y.M.C.A. directors and staff to Jim Green for accomplishments and good sportsmanship.

Trophies and crests were presented on behalf of the Y's Men's Club by President Ed. Littlejohn to Bill Green total points winner in the prep division and to John O'Neil in the junior division.

In getting to the topic of his address "Wanted a Proper Perspective for Sport", the guest speaker, Mr. O'Brien, made a distinction between individual pursuits, which often required training and participation to exhaustion and gave preference to those games and sports which emphasized team play. In this category he placed football as opposed to the extreme of hockey and boxing. In the latter sport he stated that the dangers of knockout likely involved permanent injury in a brain hemorrhage. The speaker commended the Y.M.C.A. for being one of the few organizations which through the years had kept a proper perspective on sports by its members not yielding to the attraction of large bodies of paying spectators but keeping the emphasis on wide individual participation.

Made Contribution

The speaker was introduced by the general secretary, Al. J. Davis, who stated that sports reporters, columnists, commentators and writers had made a tremendous contribution to the development of sports. Thanks were extended by Robert A. Pringle, who indicated that the perspective which the speaker had given should be of assistance to fathers in guiding their boys in participation in athletics.

The ladies' Auxiliary of the Y.M.C.A. prepared the banquet and were assisted by girls of the Hi-Y Club and Y's Men in the serving. Fathers and boys enjoyed an evening of table tennis, bowling and swimming under the direction of the physical director, Ants Juurup. Announcement was made of the formation of the Y's Men's sponsored baseball team to which boys were invited for a tryout at the Y's Men's field which has been secured for the season.

A gymnasium display was also announced as being held at the Y.M.C.A. on Tuesday, May 13.

Secret Society Of Boys Operated Klan Crime Club

Orillia, Ont., April 28 (CP) — A secret society of boys operated as a "Ku Klux Klan of crime" has been uncovered by police investigating a juvenile wave of crime in this area.

Police Chief Stanley James said 14 youngsters have been arrested. He expects to wind up at least 20 more on charges ranging from house-breaking car theft to gasoline syphoning and molesting.

The boy, named by most of the others as the leader of the gang, now is serving a Bowmanville correction school term for theft.

He and another boy, known as "Big Charley", were said to have gathered information on organizing the clan by corresponding with a regular Ku Klux Klan member in St. Louis, Mo. Those who joined had to make a black cloth hood with a red cross to wear at meetings or when committing a crime.

Police were told pledging recruits to the organization began a month ago.

"We just started the thing as a joke," said one youth. "And then when all the boys got together we had to do something to keep 'em busy—that's when we started to pull jobs."

Members signed a pledge card and were warned that if they ever quit the organization they would be "tarred and feathered."

Drunken parties after they had pulled a job were one of the club's activities.

BRITAIN WILL

In addition to birthday celebrations, such events as the running of the famed English derby, Trooping the Color and the military pageant known as the Royal Tournament will be held during coronation week.

Crowned in Abbey

The coronation is essentially a simple religious service. But throughout the centuries many traditional ceremonies have been added until now it has become a long ritual symbolizing the nation's history.

The crowning of the Queen will take place on a platform, known as the "theatre," which will be built in front of the high altar of the abbey.

The abbey normally seats 2,300 persons but extra seats and stands will be built for another 4,500 to accommodate the king and queen, the lords ladies, knights, ambassadors and other distinguished persons who will have privileged places at the ceremony.

Outside there will be dancing in the streets, carnivals, sports and general merry-making. This scene will be repeated in every town and village in the British Isles.

BRUINS SPONSOR GENERALS

Oshawa, April 28—(CP)—Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League will sponsor Oshawa Generals in the 1952-53 Ontario Hockey Association junior season, manager Matt Layden said today.

Last year the Bruins sponsored Waterloo Hurricanes who finished out of the league playoffs. Previously, Detroit Red Wings sponsored both Oshawa and Windsor Spitfires.

Formosa Banks Pay Fabulous Interest to Promote Thrift

(Editor's note: This story, one of a series by Bill Boss, Canadian Press staff writer with the Canadian forces in Korea, tells something of the unique banking system in Formosa, island stronghold of the Chinese Nationalists.)

By BILL BOSS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Taipeh, Formosa, April 19—(CP)—Money really works here. Put $100 in a chartered bank for one year and you get back $165.

But there's a catch to it. You can spend the money only in Formosa. The Nationalist government won't let you take it from the country.

The government has gone into banking in a big way . . . It has a double purpose in its adaptation of traditional Chinese banking methods with their fabulous rates of interest.

It wants to encourage the people to save money instead of wasting it on fireworks, liquor and foods for frequent feasts demanded by their pagan beliefs. And by this saving, the government believes it can combat inflation.

Speaker Huang Chao-Chu of the Formosan provincial assembly is in private life the board chairman of the First Commercial Bank. He says that on $23,000,000 in deposits last year the government paid out $9,000,000 in interest.

He conceded the program has encouraged citizens to deposit money in government-sponsored banks instead of in "underground" banks which periodically go bankrupt.

"It is a means for the people to invest in their government," he said, "and to show confidence in it."

May Prove Too Costly

But there was doubt whether the government could afford to keep up the high interest rates, though so far it had not heeded his recommendations for a change.

The theory was that heavy saving could keep prices down by taking money out of circulation and reducing the demand for goods.

But there is the risk, he said, that interest payments will become so great that net saving may be insufficient and that inflation will sharply cut the value of Formosan money.

However, Huang said, the interest policy has been largely successful, if expensive, because commodity prices have remained stable.

There are three types of bank accounts in Formosa.

There is a "fixed deposit" in which the customer leaves his money for a specified time — from a year to five years — and on which he gets compound interest. In a year the interest works out to 65 per cent.

On a savings account the government pays 15-per-cent interest.

On a chequing account the interest is 10 per cent.

On loans a bank charges only one per cent more than the interest a borrower would get if, instead, he were depositing for the same period of the loan.

Canadians Financing Large Part Of New Development--Perrault

Washington, April 28—(CP)— R. B. Perrault, president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, said today Canadians are financing more than 80 per cent of their new economic development.

In a speech prepared for delivery before the 40th annual meeting of the United States Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Perrault said $4,000,000 of new money flowed last year into new factories, new mines, new transportation, new hydro-electric plants and new industries in Canada.

Of this amount, "only $100,000,000 was outside capital; the remainder was Canadian, out of our own savings, personal and corporate."

"Of the total investment capital in Canada, some two-thirds is in the hands of Canadians. This does not minimize the importance of your (United States) money coming into Canada. But the important fact is that Canadians are also investing large sums in their country's future."

Mr. Perrault, who heads a Canadian delegation to the meeting today and tomorrow, stressed that Canada and the United States are economically interdependent.

"We are your best customer, but you are our best customer.

"You have a huge industrial plant needing raw materials, and with which we can supply. You have innumerable branch plants in Canada and you are playing a very valuable role in our national expansion. This has helped boost our currency to its strongest position in many years."

Canadian are "no longer casual about being Canadians."

There is a fierce determination in our country to preserve our individuality although we are close to you, the leading nation in the world today.

COMMONS ERUPTS

Part of Statement

The Ontario premier had added: "If the Ontario government submitted to this, then we would be handing over the rights of this province to a government which has shown only too clearly that it submits to the will of Quebec . . . .

"Are we going to permit one isolationist province to dominate the destiny of a divided Canada? I hope that each one of you will answer that with a resounding no, which will be heard in every part of the province of Quebec.

"I hope that the people of every other province will give the same answer to this question which must be answered one way or the other very soon. And I go so far as to hope that the same answer will be given by many people in Quebec who must have felt heartsick and ashamed that their province has been made to appear before the world in such a shameful role."

Mr. Martin said the "part is past" and now every political party supports family allowances.

The exchange occurred during debate on a motion by Hazen Argue (CCF-Assiniboia) urging that family allowances, first introduced in 1945, be increased to bring them into line with the cost of living. He noted that minimum allowances be increased to $8 from $5 a month and that maximum allowances be increased to $13 from $8. The allowances are paid from birth to 16 years.

Mr. Martin said the government could not accept the motion at this time because of the cost involved. Debate was adjourned by Mr. Drew, and there was no indication of when it will be resumed. Only a brief period this week now will be devoted to private members' business.

Drew Centre of Outburst

The first of the noisy exchanges came after Prime Minister St. Laurent introduced a motion to give government business precedence over the bills of private members every Monday until the end of the session.

Mr. Drew said he was the centre of the outburst. He charged the government was trying to curtail the rights of private members. He said the question of "dictatorship" was raised whenever any one questioned the course followed by the government.

Prime Minister St. Laurent retorted that, with six federal by-elections in the offing, Mr. Drew was trying to lecture the government in a style reminiscent of his "outbursts before the election of 1949."

Mr. St. Laurent's motion was carried by a vote of 103 to 42.

In the exchange, Mr. Drew also criticized Finance Minister Abbott for going to the United States in the middle of a debate on the 1952-53 budget. This was an "affront" to parliament and to the people of Canada. It meant that no matter what suggested changes in the tax rate made they would not be listened to by the government.

In the course of the outburst, John Diefenbaker (PC—Lake Centre) threatened to bring Agriculture Minister Gardiner before the bar of the Commons if he doesn't produce certain documents.

Charging Mr. Gardiner with solicion bordering "on contempt of parliament" Mr. Diefenbaker suggested speaker Rom Macdonald force Mr. Gardiner to produce the papers. The house voted last month that the papers, concerning the outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease in Saskatchewan, should be produced.

Documents Privilleged

Mr. Gardiner said some of the documents are "privileged"—they should not be publicly produced. He was trying to weed them out but one document Mr. Diefenbaker wanted should not be produced without having the responsible cabinet minister to explain it. This could be done before the parliamentary session scheduled to study the foot-and-mouth outbreak.

Speaker Macdonald said he had no power to force the minister to produce the documents. A progressive Conservatives challenged the ruling, but it was upheld 101 to 41.

Mr. Diefenbaker then gave notice that he would move the house to compel Mr. Gardiner to produce the documents. This could be done under a rule of the Commons which states that orders can be made to the parties to produce documents. Neglect to comply with such order could bring censure or punishment "according to the circumstances of the case."

In a lighter mood, the house adopted a resolution of Alistair Stewart (CCF—Winnipeg North) which, in effect, called for closer economic co-operation and the nations of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

External Affairs Minister Pearson said nations should be prepared to pool their sovereignty in the interests of security and possibly survival.

Campbellford Man Charged With Drunken Driving

Lindsay, April 28 — (CP) — Richard Norman Grieves, 32, of Campbellford, Ont., has been charged with drunken driving following a series of traffic mishaps.

Police said Grieves was driving a car which clipped one vehicle, then collided head-on with another car a block away.

Then police were informed that a car had overturned on a rock pile at the foot of a blind street near the Scugog River.

They found Grieves pinned underneath the car.

WEDDINGS

BIRTH—JOHNS

Tall standards of pink and white snapdragons intermingled with ferns formed the setting in Holloway Street United Church, Belleville, on Saturday, April 26th at 2.00 p.m. when the Reverend S. E. Lapman, pastor of the church, united in marriage Dorothy Connor Johns, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Johns, of James David Airth, of Belleville, son of Mrs. John L. Airth and the late Mr. John L. Airth.

Mr. Clifford Templer, church organist, rendered the wedding music.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was charming in her floor-length bridal gown of mist-white nylon tulle over taffeta, featuring a strapless bodice with jacket of French rosepoint lace, stand-up collar and sheer tulle sleeves ending in lily-points over the wrists. The bouffant skirt of white taffeta was fashioned with a tulle overskirt, offset with a pearl-beaded tunic with scalloped edge and folds ending in a back-sweep to form a graceful train. Her three-quarter length veil of lace-appliqued nylon tulle was held in place by a matching shirred headdress. She carried a semi-cascade bouquet of Hildegarde roses and stephanotis, arranged with white Malline lace with white lacelon ribbon.

Mrs. Jay D. Joslin, of Belleville, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, gowned in rose taffeta with fitted bodice and Mandarin collar. The bouffant skirt featured a bustle back. She wore a matching cap headdress and gloves, and carried a colonial bouquet of spring flowers, with green maline tied with rainbow satin ribbon.

Miss Marion Vandervoort, of Belleville, cousin of the bride, was bridesmaid, wearing blue taffeta with fitted bodice and Mandarin collar. The bouffant skirt having a bustle-back effect. She also wore a matching cap headdress and gloves and carried a bouquet similar to that of the matron of honor.

Dr. Kenneth McEwen, of Owen Sound, attended the bridegroom, and Flying Officer J. D. Joslin, of Belleville, brother-in-law of the bride, and Mr. Douglas Head, of Peterborough, close friend of the bridegroom, were ushers.

The wedding reception was held in the church parlors, where the bride's mother, attired in rosewood sheer with Chantilly lace, white accessories and corsage of pink and white camellias, received the guests. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore rose crepe with Chantilly lace, black and white accessories with corsage of Talisman roses.

For the wedding trip to Niagara Falls and Syracuse, circling Lake Ontario, the bride chose a gray gabardine suit, salmon pink topcoat with navy accessories and corsage of white gardenias with navy bows. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Airth will reside in Mimico, Ontario.

Guests were present from Owen Sound, Bolton, Chatsworth, Peterborough, Hamilton, Sarnia, Toronto, Cannifton, Certyville and the surrounding district.

Pine Grove W.I. Elects Officers

The April meeting of Pine Grove Women's Institute was held at Mrs. R. Dennis's home with the first vice president, Mrs. H. Detlor, presiding, and a good attendance of members present.

The financial report for the past year showed a substantial balance on hand.

Mrs. A. Tanner was elected as delegate to attend the district annual, and the standing committee conveners all reported on the work of their committees.

Officers Elected

The officers for the new year are as follows:

President, Mrs. H. Detlor; 1st vice president, Mrs. G. Bartle; 2nd vice president, Mrs. A. Finkle; secretary treasurer, Mrs. H. Coulter; assistant secretary treasurer, Mrs. L. Finkle, district director, Mrs. F. Campbell; branch directors, Mrs. J. Campbell, Mrs. C. Ross and Mrs. W. Vanderwater; auditors, Mrs. J. Brown, Mrs. A. Finkle; pianist, Mrs. W. Vanderwater; health and safety plan leader, Mrs. A. Tanner;

Standing committee conveners: Agriculture and Canadian Industries, Mrs. J. Scrimshaw; citizenship and education, Mrs. H. Coulter; community activities and public relations, Mrs. A. Finkle; historical research and current events, Mrs. F. Finkle; home economics and health, Mrs. A. Tanner; resolutions, Mrs. R. Vanderwater.

Mrs. H. Detlor conducted a quiz on the hand book which had been prepared by Mrs. B. Johnston.

The F.W.I.O. badges, which had been purchased for all the members were then presented to them by Mrs. F. Heaman, who had been the first recipient when the Pine Grove branch was organized and also a past-president of the West Hastings district.

At the conclusion of the meeting, refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed.

The May meeting will be held on May 29th at Mrs. R. Vanderwater's home under the convenership of Mrs. A. Tanner.

CONDEMNS DRINKING

London, April 29 (AP) —The president of Britain's Baptist Union yesterday condemned champagne drinking at wedding receptions and raffles at church bazaars. The president, Arnold S. Clark, addressing the union's yearly assembly, said such things as church raffles can easily lead young people "down the steep slope of a gambler's career to utter ruin."

W. Pamenter Speaks To Studio Club On Origin of Piano

The April meeting of the Harmony Studio Club was held at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Ross Mains, 15 Moira Street West, taking the form of Authors' Night.

Joyce Blackburn presided at the piano for the singing of the National Anthem; Mrs. Scott extended a warm welcome to the guests present.

Barbara Dix suggested that the club sponsor the recital and take as a project the offering of prizes for the pupils of various grades for achieving the most stars in their individual grades. A vote was taken on these two matters and unanimously carried.

Life of Artists

The program centred around the life and works of two famous musicians, Schubert and Schumann, Mrs. Scott, president of the Harmony Studio Club, gave an interesting talk on the biography of these two great artists.

Schubert's works were played by the following pupils:

Slumber Song, Karen Flindell: Ecossaise, Judy Linton; Moment Musicale, Joan Jeffery; Opus 94 No. 6, Marcia Millaire (duet) Mrs. Cornish, and Jean Cornish; Serenade, Grace Veley; Duets by Mrs. Veley and Carol Stewart, Moment Musicale, Opus 94 No. 3 and Soiree De Venice.

Schumann's works was played by the following pupils:

Melody, Sharon Flindell: First Sorrow, Gloria Martin; Sonata, Carol Thompson; Folk Songs, Anna Gray; Orphan Child, Shirley Bedgett; The Horseman, June Scott; Happy Farmer (duet) Mary and Randall Cowles; A little piece, Barbara Smith.

Grace Greer played Sonatina by Kohler.

The music appreciation numbers was played by Lois Bradshaw, "Polonaise in A," by Chopin; "Clare De Lune", Debussy.

A request number "Tales from Vienna Woods," was played by Mrs. Veley and Miss Grace Veley.

Mr. M. W. Pamenter who was present as a guest, spoke on the musical instrument "piano," and the origin of its name. He suggested that pupils compose, write and play for the club, for once you start you never know where it will end.

The evening came to a close after serving of tasty refreshments. Mrs. Scott on behalf of the club, tendered appreciation thanks to Dr. and Mrs. Ross for opening their home to the club for the evening.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

What's Right? — He Not Always Easy to Know

It seems as though it shouldn't but the hard fact is, that life often difficult, and the proportion for the conscientious person who really wants to do right is great. What makes it difficult so often is not the actual doing of that right and wise thing, but trying to determine just what it is.

Take, for example, the case of 28-year-old couple with two young children, who are being married almost beyond endurance by a tragic situation in the wife's family, yet who hesitate to remove themselves from it lest it should not be right.

The wife and husband were friends from the age of 14, were married at 18 and have been happily married. In addition to raising their two young sons, they have in the past four years been foster parents to a total of 13 babies, wards of a charitable organization, all of whom were adopted by others.

Life was content with our couple. "Life," the wife writes, "and even though my husband is disabled and hasn't had a 8-day week during our married life, has been wonderful. We have a fine civil service position, and it's going so fabulously I shouldn't have anything to trouble us."

They do, however, have a great deal to trouble them. At the end of four years of their happy, united marriage, the wife's parents had to leave the farm they had worked for 34 years because it was sold, so it was decided that the four-room house at the rear of the family house though the Veterinarian's dilapidated barn, the father and mother should live in the upstairs apartment.

"We always were known better," says the wife, "because I was never a mixer, and I think because of my father's drinking, but my father and I were only 22 at the time, and not too wise in the ways of life.

Unbearable Situation

Now, however things are really becoming unbearable. For six years, due to my father's increased drinking for which he refuses to seek any kind of help, we've had one miserable happening after another, all too unhappy to describe. I've been ashamed so often by reality, by goings things my father has done, and my neighbors has even told me she would not allow her daughter to baby-sit for me any more. When I talk all this over with my mother, she tells me she realizes it is unbearable, yet she feels we should understand and forgive because he's my father."

The young people now with us still their home and move away where they can start all over again by themselves. Their idea is that the parents could continue to live where they are, the only way rent to a landlord instead of sharing expenses with the young relatives. On their side, the parents assert that the home is sold, they should have half of what it brings, purely because the rent they and has gone to toward paying off the mortgage.

Do you think we should receive two parents half of anything, from a moral standpoint? The wife asks, "I know that legally we would sell and that's all there would be to it, but I want to know if I am right to feel we owe them nothing."

My personal opinion in this matter is that these young people are quite right in feeling that they are under no obligation whatever to give this mother and father half the selling price of the house. The older people paid the lower rent, and the fact that their rent money was added to the cost of the house, as the house does not, as I see it, entitle either party to ownership of the property or a moral obligation to be considered part owners.

I think, moreover, they definitely should sell the house and take themselves and their children out to an independent life. The daughter says in another part of her letter that, "while my husband gets along with my parents and they think the world of him, he is not happy, and I know the situation is bad for him, and for the children, too. At home, I feel my parents and I are giving out and reality we must make a change, or we'll be taken."

Hard as it is to have a breach come in a family relationship, sometimes it cannot be helped, and I feel this is one of those times. It seems to me this young husband and wife should carry out their plans and proceed with a clear conscience, even though it can hardly be without heartaches.

A Change of Heart That's Easily Understood

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I'm 18, and I think I am in love with a boy named Dick. Dick used to be a special friend of mine and was very much in love with me, but I didn't care for him at that time because he was too fascinated by his buddy. Now his buddy has gone away, and Dick and I have been going steady, and I have just found out that I like Dick very much. Dick doesn't know that I like him, but he doesn't know whether he likes this other girl or not best.

How can I be sure that I love Dick before he breaks up with the other girl? Do I just imagine I like him because he is going with someone else, or have I really been in love with him all along? It doesn't seem right to anyone in two months, trying to decide if Dick is the one I really like.

L. A.

Dear L. A.:

You are not the first girl who has had a change of heart about a boy after she sees him take up with some other girl. Add to that the fact that this other boy, whom you preferred to Dick, has now come back, telling you at a loss for a boy friend, and there you have the perfect set-up for the kind of sudden about-face your interests have performed.

I also suspect that possibly the reason you haven't been out with anyone in two months, is that you, like many people, are trying to decide if Dick is really the one you like, as because there hasn't been anybody around to ask you to go out, has I right?

I don't think it would be very nice of you to encourage Dick to break up with the girl to whom he is now engaged when you throw him down. It seems to me it would be more decent to let Dick have his course, go your way with other friends and let things happen as they will. If you are the girl Dick really likes, he'll find a way to come back to you, and in the meantime, around.

Thanking you sincerely, Mabel F. B. C.

I'm so warmed by that letter that I am just sending invitations and light today. I read it to Pete and his comment was "I bet she has hundreds of friends—that letter makes me love her." That, Mabel F. B. C. is an accomplishment, for he plays "hard-to-catch". Thank you.

Just as if I wanted to be business-like I'll answer the poser in my part, then I'll let my hair down for a paragraph or so and tell you what Pete and Marianne are up to at the present moment.

Peached Eggs

Butter or grease the bottom of a deep saucepan and fill to 1-inch depth with boiling water. Add 1 teaspoon salt and 1 teaspoon lemon juice or vinegar. Drop lightly greased muffin rings (use rings that don't slip in) new-laid eggs from a cup, when water is rapidly boiling. Reduce heat immediately so that water is just below boiling point. Three minutes for "soft" and about 6 minutes for "hard" set.

All during Easter holidays Pete was home and working on the perennial recreation room in the basement—perennial in the sense that it goes on forever. I've had to do my column to the crash and wails of him hammering and sawing, and coming up to consult about his building dropping in to advise him, and to grab 3 or 4 carrots and bananas to give them sustenance until lunch time. One day all that was going on stopped suddenly—the polisher right in my study. The next time that recreation room is finished, it will be summer, I'm betting. One thing I have to give the darling fellow credit for is the steel post he put in single-handed, to replace a concrete block one. Once I was in the basement and the concrete block was in place. It did not seem more than one-half hour before he called us down for the first time to hold the steel post in place. Don't ask me how Pete did it or how the neighbors needed two men. I'm no builder—I'm strictly the typing cooking type.

you'll be far more likely to find out whether or not you really like Dick if you go out with other boys and see how you stands in your feelings then. Don't forget that he didn't stay at all when his buddy

Food for Thought

By Mary Moore

Almost Purely Personal

Yesterday was a day of rejoicing in the vivid account of the fire I decided to jot down a few lines to you purely to get my mind off the fire and partly because I've promised myself the luxury of this epistle for some time and this morning I decided was the day! Now for some eulogizing. I like mine in life—with boiling water. Add 2 teaspoons salt and 2 teaspoons granulated sugar to 1 cup of milk. Simpson's Xmas and mid-winter small-sized cakes. Mix 1 cup flour which, I try out on my family and which are pronounced "yummy"—My brother in my card box, and after a considerable length of time, send the Freetown Catalogues freighted with their load of goodies (recipes) to my correspondent.

"This query isn't exactly relative to any beast's bake process, but I would like to know how to successfully preserve eggs. Is there a pan for same that does not turn them out stiff and solid, or have they been seamed?

I have a grand new set of kitchen utensils and use a small skillet pan to poach in—but oh, oh! the way eggs adhere to that pan is a honest mess than I can cope with—to get it scoured clean even with S.O.S. pads.

"I love Marianne and Peter. They come your column alive. My God bless them. Your column is one of my daily bright spots.

BEAUTY

HELEN JAMIESON

Egg Facials Rejuvenate the Complexion

Everybody is busy these days, even women who haven't much of anything to do they are working for the Red Cross, planning festive events in the cause of charity, making themselves over to suit the world. Many women hold down two jobs; they keep the home fires burning and bring in the pay check every week-end. Many of them find it difficult to spend restful hours at the beauty shop. More and more are doing their own pulchritude tasks—shampooing their hair, grooming their fingernails, petting their complexions. They should make the most of these sessions, use them as periods of relaxation.

The middle-aged wage-earner may suddenly discover that she has a tired face. Little shadows are forming under the eyes; tissues are softening. Professional facial treatments may not be included in her beauty budget, requiring both time and money. In fact there is a facial she can concoct in an egg facial that will have a surprisingly astringent effect. Into a little strained lemon juice is added to the egg white. It should be even better, because it will serve as a mild bleach and improve the coloring of the skin.

Here is the proper routine: remove make-up with a thin cleansing cream. Then use a gentle cleansing powder and rouge more thoroughly than soap and water. Though soap suds should be used after the creaming. If tissues have softened, avoid hot water; have it just warm enough to fluff up a rich lather. Rinse with warm water; dry the skin surface gently. When thin lines are softened, they call for light, delicate treatment. Fold a soft towel around your hands. Slap the neck lightly; keep moving upward. This process has a tonic effect. Tiring the muscles and acting favorably upon the small fibers just under the skin.

Beat the whites of an egg to stiff foam. Spread it over neck and face, again using an upward movement. At this point you feel up your mystery story and lie down. Or you just let the mask commune with yourself. Tell yourself that you are not going to let old mamie find catch up with you.

When the skin feels tight and drawn, as it will, remove the egg mask with tepid water. After drying, get out the cooling cream. Tap it lightly into the flesh. Do circles over neck and head. Rub up and down over your neck. Run a finger around your eyes, starting at the inner corners of the lids. Let the cream remain on your night. In the morning it will have disappeared.

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

The Engagement Toast . . . Its Use and Proper Beverage

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our only daughter has just become engaged, and my husband and I would like to give an engagement-announcement dinner, inviting the families and quite a few close relatives of both families. We are teetotalers, and so are some of those who will be guests at this dinner. But our daughter has her heart set on having her father rise and propose a toast to her and her fiancé, as she has seen done at her friends' engagement dinners. We are unwilling to serve wine for this toast. Would it be proper to "use" anything else for this? If so, what, and in what type of glass would it be served?

Mother.

It is entirely permissible for you to serve a fruit juice or an interesting combination of fruit juices, perhaps a fruit punch; or a light-colored gingerale. And I agree this be served in small wine glasses, which are also suitable for non-alcoholic beverages.

How to Address and Sign Note of Invitation to Anglican Priest

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am a Methodist, and my husband is an Episcopalian, a member of a very "high" church in which the rector is addressed as "Father Clark." We were married several months ago, have just moved into our new house, and are planning to give some small dinners soon. To the first dinner we would like to invite my husband's clergyman. (1) How should I address the envelope of the note of invitation I will write him? (My husband says he is not a "Fr." Is) What is the proper form for the salutation? (3) And what is the form for the complimentary close?

Margaret L.

Address your note of invitation to:

The Reverend Thomas Clark
Begin the note:
My Dear Father Clark,
And sign the note:
Sincerely yours,

Margaret Davis

A Brief Note of Thanks for Messages of Sympathy

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My mother passed on last week and I have received many notes and cards of condolence, as well as memorial flowers sent to the funeral. I have thanked all for the floral tributes, and for some of the notes, those friends relatives who live at distance or close family friends. But there are many notes and cards that I would like to thank for, and for each one I would like to write a short, sincere note of appreciation. Would you please suggest a form that might be suitable for thanking for every note and card, or practically every one? Thank you, if you will.

Lois S.

Here are a few words of sincere thanks, which might suit this purpose:

Dear Mrs. Graham,

Thank you so much for your kind message. Your words were a great comfort to me, and I am most grateful for your sympathy and understanding.

Sincerely,
Lois Smith.

Both Say "How Do You Do"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is "How do you do" the correct thing for both persons introduced to say when it is, that is, the one who is being introduced as well as by the one to whom he is being introduced? Or is there a distinction as to the phrase used to acknowledge the introduction?

R. S.

There is no difference as both persons concerned with the introduction say, "How do you do" the one who is great comfort to know that this phrase is always correct in acknowledging an introduction.

How to Refuse Wine at Table

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When one does not wish to be served wine, should one turn down the wine glass, or should one put one's hand over the top of the glass?

Bill G.

Don't use either of these gestures . . . it makes refusing the drink too conspicuous or ostentatious, which is something most definitely to be avoided. The best thing to do, as the wine is about to be poured, is to make a negative gesture, toward the glass, and very quietly say "No thank you."

Fashion Flashes

WE WERE ENTRANCED by a clothes collection made in Italy for a famous house here. And no wonder, when there were such items as a bridesmaid's short evening skirt of white wool — in an open, lacy pattern — worn over a petticoat of buttercup yellow silk taffeta. Worn with the skirt is a top that is really a black velvet camisole, or a blouse of the matching yellow.

WOMEN WILL LOVE a new, long-line bra that is a modern version of the camisole, and is made in the fashionable sheer blouses. It is of cotton eyelet, a strapless, long-line model with a ribbon-drawn scalloped edge.

IDEAL for spring wear are light-toned furs, especially the pastel blonds, tones, worked into pretty little jackets. Blonde otter makes a well-cut, fitted-front cape. Side fullness, although actually a part of the cape, is arranged to suggest a rippling, elbow-length sleeve. Waist is elasticized for adjustable fit.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

IT WON'T BE LONG . . . !

That peculiar disease called "May Madness" seems to be "bustin' out all over" Ontario's speckled trout seasons nears. On May 1st, more than 150,000 anglers of all ages are expected to commence fishing one of this continent's most prized game fish. With regard to "opening day" prospects however, fish management officials of the Department of Lands and Forests are being strictly non-committal.

Admittedly, spring was late this year. A week before opening day many streams were running full and high. Speckled trout that had moved from their winter quarters in the lakes found ample food floating free of menacing hooks. High water, the experts point out, washes succulent tidbits, such as worms and bugs of all kinds, into the streams to the waiting trout. Be that as it may, many southern Ontario streams are almost back to normal. Along these, the anglers expect to do fairly well.

In many southern streams, good fishing is doubly assured. From provincial hatcheries, during the past week or so, thousands of speckled beauties, ranging from seven inches up, have been distributed. These, along with good natural crops, may be readily taken — if the right bait is used at the right time, in the right waters, with the right skill.

In the north, anglers will be after lake trout and ouananiche (landlocked salmon) for at this time of year these fish cruise the shallow waters for food and may be readily taken there. This fruitful period lasts but a few days, as a rule, beginning as soon as the ice is out and ending as the water warms up and drives the "lakers" into the cooler depths. But ouananiche will cruise near the surface for almost a month longer when they, too, will dive deeper into the colder levels whence they came, after which they will refuse all or any bait offered.

In this district numbers of anglers will swarm over Hastings County where speckled, brown and rainbow trout await their pleasure.

Many Toronto anglers plan to head eastward to the Land o' Lakes country north of Highway No. 7 where, in recent years, near - phenomenal fishing has followed the intensive government restocking program.

A large American influx is expected into the Algoma territory north of Sault Ste. Marie.

Lands and Forests conservation officers are already patrolling the lakes and streams, and will intensify their efforts as opening day dawns, to ensure that regulations are observed.

Incidentally, the bag limit for speckled trout is 15 per day but not exceeding 10 pounds in weight, except in Hastings County where it is 10 per day or but not exceeding 5 pounds in weight; minimum length is seven inches. For brown, rainbow, Aurora and Kamloops trout, the bag limit is five a day of seven inches minimum length. Five lake trout or ouananiche, regardless of size or weight, may be taken each day.

A. L. ALL STARS

Seven of the nine American Hockey League teams had representatives on either the first or second all star teams, which have been announced by the league headquarters office in New York. Pittsburgh and Cleveland each placed two players on the first team, with Providence and Indianapolis sharing the remaining two positions. Cleveland also had two second team nominees, for a total of four on the two squads, most in the league, while Cincinnati, Hershey, Providence and St. Louis each had a candidate on the alternate team. Buffalo and Syracuse were the two teams which did not have any players on either team. Members of the first team receive a league bonus of $200 each and a gold souvenir hockey puck, while the second team selectees are rewarded with $200 and a silver puck memento.

Ray Powell of Providence, leading scorer of the league and one of the smoothest playmakers in years, was the outstanding member of the star spangled array. Powell was the unanimous choice for centre with a total of 45 points, the most attainable. There was a tie for second highest amount of points, with Johnny Bower of Cleveland having 41 to annex all star goaltending honors and Frank Mathers of Pittsburgh compiling a like number of points for one of the defence posts. Mathers' teammate, Tim Horton was the other rear guard garnering the first team. Powell's two flanking wingmen were Steve Wochy of Cleveland on the right side and Enio Sclisizzi of Indianapolis at left wing.

Gordon "Red" Henry, stellar netminder of Hershey was selected as the goaltender for the alternate squad, and his assisting defencemen were Tommy Williams and Ed Kullman, both of Cleveland. Just as was the case on the first team, the second forward line was also composed of players from three different teams, as veterans Buddy O'Connor of Cincinnati was rewarded with the centre position with Jackie Hamilton of St. Louis as his left wing and Barry Sullivan of Providence at right wing.

Canucks Spark Michigan to Victory

Don McEwen

Albin Rauch

The trio of Canadian track stars who sparked Michigan University's medley relay team to a world record at the Ohio relays recently, paced the Wolverines to a thrilling win in the opening day of the Penn relays at Franklin Field, Philadelphia. Amidst miserable weather conditions, John Ross of Oakville, Jackie Carroll of Montreal, and Don McEwen of Ottawa nosed out Lockbourne airbase team, despite a dogged effort by Hobart Jones, who poured it on for the soldiers in the final leg of the four-lap duel. Michigan team's time was 10.18.1. Individual honors for the day went to Princeton's Albin Rauch, seen clearing the hurdle to win the 400-metre hurdle event. He went on to pace Princeton's mile relay team to victory in the ivy league mile relay. — Central Press Canadian.

Major Loops Rookies On Spot As East, West Teams Clash For First Time of Season

By RALPH RODEN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The critical period was at hand today for major league rookies as eastern and western teams clashed for the first time in the infant 1952 season.

Within the next fortnight the strategists must decide on the players they will retain for the long haul.

The axe will fall from now until May 15, the final day for trimming the rosters to the required 25 players.

The battle for survival among the greenhorns and the early season upstarts — the St. Louis Browns, Boston Red Sox, Cincinnati Reds and Chicago Cubs — will command the fans' attention during the next 10 days.

Whether the four teams are "morning glories" or pennant contenders" should be determined during this first extended road trip of the campaign.

Browns Head Invasion

American League teams invade the east, hoping that the rain which has kept the clubs on the Atlantic seaboard in drydock for virtually a week, will subside. Meanwhile, the National League's eastern teams gladly left their water-logged digs for the west. Manager Rogers Hornsby's St. Louis Browns head the eastern invasion. St. Louis' first port of call is the Yankee Stadium. The Browns, boasting a 7-3 record, have what many believe will be the rookie of the year in Jim Rivera, fleet centre outfielder up from Seattle.

Lefty Bob Cain (2-0) has been selected to pitch against the Yanks' Vic Raschi (2-0) here, Cain, a Yankee farmer of note, has allowed only one run in 18 innings.

In the only National League game played yesterday Chicago Cubs shaded the St. Louis Cards, 4-3, under the lights at Busch. Hank Sauer drove in all of Chicago's runs, two on a first inning homer. Harry Brecheen, former Cub tormetor, was the loser.

The only scheduled game in the American League, between New York and Washington, was rained out.

Leafs Defeat Ottawa 6-3; Royals Lose

(By The Associated Press)

Hank Borowy, winner of 108 games in the major leagues, is making a strong bid to remain in the big time with some fine pitching for Buffalo Bisons of the International League.

Borowy, who will be 34 next month, signed as a free agent with the Bisons following his release by the parent Detroit Tigers last fall. At the time Borowy, who starred with New York Yankees and Chicago Cubs, said he would be back. There's a strong possibility that Borowy will.

Borowy turned in his third victory without a loss yesterday as he pitched the Bisons to a 4-1 seven-hit triumph over the pace-setting Montreal Royals. He blanked the Royals until the eighth inning when Lorraine Thompson doubled home Montreal's only run.

Frank Carswell was the big gun for Buffalo's attack against three Montreal pitchers. Carswell batted home three runs on a homer and two doubles.

Markell Wins

Toronto Maple Leafs pulled to within a half game of Montreal by downing the last place Ottawa Senators 6-3 in 11 innings. Andy Anderson's single in the winning run and Jim Jennings the two insurance markers.

Parkson Dube Markell went all the way for Toronto and limited Ottawa to five hits for his second victory.

Springfield's Vern Fear pitched the Cubs to a 2-0 seven-hit victory over Bob Keegan and Syracuse Chiefs. Errors by Fenton Mole and Loren Babe led to both Springfield runs.

Errors also figured prominently in Rochester Red Wings' 9-6 victory over Baltimore Orioles. The Wings committed four boots and Orioles three.

The Wings wiped out a 6-4 deficit with five runs in the eighth inning. Dick Young's mitcue and a wild pitch by Dixie Howell accounted for two runs of the rally.

Fort Frances Trims Indians To Take 3-1 Allan Cup Lead

Fort Frances, Ont., April 29—(CP)—Fort Frances Canadians have a game away from the Allan Cup.

The Canadians came from behind in the 3rd period last night to score four goals and defeat Stratford Indians 5-3. The victory gave Canadians a 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven series for the Canadian senior hockey title.

Stratford, as in previous games, was leading in the final frame. Some 3,000 roaring fans watched as Frank Eizensoph and Mike Hubchuk combined to turn the tables on the Indians, ahead 3-1.

Hubchuk started the attack. He drove a shot at 1:32, assisted by Eizensoph and Don Sampson. Eizensoph tied the count 3-3 at 3:40, by firing an angle shot past Bruce Dale in the Stratford net after a long pass from Ed Kliner. George Aitken of Stratford was off on a holding penalty at the time.

Penalty Shot

Canadians took the lead at 12:20 when Hubchuk poked the puck into a corner after Eizensoph laid it in front of the net. Eizensoph followed with the final marker—a successful penalty shot awarded after Aitken had tripped Hubchuk when the big winger was in the clear.

Eizensoph had little trouble firing a fast shot past Dale.

In the first period he opened the scoring for Fort Frances while his team was a man short. Eizensoph picked up the puck at centre ice and breezed through the Stratford defence before beating Dale with a backhand shot.

At 8:21 of the first period, Billy Fick evened the count, drawing Bill Cleaveley from the Fort Frances net before depositing the rubber inside.

Bruce Burdett put Indians into a 2-1 lead at 12:14 of the second period on a double relay from Ducharme and Larry Leneschuk, 2 minutes later Stratford took the 3-2 edge when Ducharme fired a screened shot in the corner of the net after a pass from Flick.

Injuries played a major role in the game.

Bill Walsh of Indians was sidelined with a bad leg gash and is not expected to return for the fifth game. Vern O'Donnell and Gord Gosselin of Canadians were sent off but their injuries are not believed serious.

A total of 17 penalties were called, 10 of them to Stratford, including two misconducts and a penalty shot.

There will be drama and there will be thrills in the renewal of the Kentucky Derby this year, because thrills, drama and the Derby go hand-in-hand, a triumvirate of tradition. It may be the thrill of a winning favorite. It may be the chance of a rank outsider roaring down the historic stretch at Churchill Downs, in the Run for the Roses.

But no matter what the thrills, I doubt if any result, any devilopment will equal for sheer throat-catching drama what happened on May 17, 1924, the fiftieth running of the Derby which is not even a Derby. For that was the day when through the Derby crowd there walked to the judges' stand a woman in mourning, amid the wild cheers of the multitude, to receive the token of victory.

That was the day Black Gold won the Derby, and this is the story behind it.

Black Gold was owned by Mrs. R. M. Hoots, widow of an Oklahoma oil man who had gone broke in his search for that very thing for which he named his horse: black gold. Disappointed, discouraged, he failed in health and died.

In the waning days of his life, all Hoots and his family had was the horse—Black Gold. They campaigned it north and south, won some lesser races, termed "Derbies," with the result that Black Gold, but rarely entered against the brilliant performers who carried the colors of millionaire owners, of famous breeding farms, of the Whitneys and Bradleys and Coolidges and Sinclairs. Black Gold was rated as having a scant chance for the Derby. Not, at least until a few days before when he won the Derby Trial impressively.

The legend is that when Hoots realized his days were numbered, he extracted a promise from his wife that Black Gold should have a chance for high stakes — a chance in the Kentucky Derby, if for no other reason than reward for his honest performances.

So, in 1924, the widow took the horse to Churchill Downs. There was no trumpet to herald his arrival. It was more like an outcast trying to break into high society.

After all, Black Gold was a campaigner from the small tracks — out in the sticks — so they thought, as the field went to the post.

But two minutes later when the field came under the wire, it was Black Gold which shaved the way, beating out Chilhowee from the rich Gallaher Stable by a length in a driving finish. And the men of millions had to make way for the widow of an oil man who died broke, when the path was opened to the platform for the presentation of the trophies and the roses, while the band played "My Old Kentucky Home."

The Queen's Plate This Year Has Distinctive 'Lady' Touch

(By JOHN PATERSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, April 29 (CP)—The 83rd annual running of Canada's richest of North America's oldest continuously-run horse race will have a distinctive feminine touch this year.

For the first time in 81 years the race will be run as the Queen's Plate, not Her Majesty's Plate. Coincidentally, it is scheduled for May 24, Victoria Day. In 1860, Queen Victoria first lent Royal patronage to the race and donated 50 guineas. This year's 50 guineas will be given by her great - great - granddaughter, Queen Elizabeth, with $21,000 added by the Ontario Jockey Club.

Hunch bettors have added interest in that's a three-year-old filly, Fiaraday, is one of the winter-book favorites for the 1½-mile spring stake for three-year-old Canadian-breds owned by Canadians.

Tom Bird, veteran Toronto clocker, a timer for 36 years at Canadian and United States tracks said that Fiaraday and stable-mates Hielan Laddie and Game Warriors are training well and coming up to the Queen's Plate distance in good shape.

"And if it comes up muddy on the 24th," he said in an interview, "I don't think any starter can beat Fiaraday."

Hard to Beat

The three are owned by the J. E. F. Seagram stable of Waterloo, Ont., who black and yellow silks have been worn by 19 winners of the spring classic. Fiaraday's best race was the $10,000 Connaught Cup stake at 1 mile and 70 yards last year, indicating she likes a route. Over a muddy track she won by six lengths. But trainer Johnny Thorpe says she can also run on a fast strip.

Western Canada has sent two strong contenders in Lord Shdine and Our Omar. The latter has caught the fancy of shed-row dwellers and despite a poor record as a two-year-old—four starts without a win—he is touted as a dark horse "good thing." He is owned by C. H. (Scotty) Kennedy of Winnipeg and is doing well in training.

Langden to Ride

The Whittier Stock Farm of James Elliott, Winnipeg, has Lord Strome, Trained by Dick Townsend of Aurora, Lord Strome will have Johnny Longden, internationally-known Canberra-born jockey in the saddle if he survives the gruelling training and goes to the post.

The large Toronto stable of R. P. Taylor has six on the list of 75 still eligible for the Plate. The stable won in 1949 with Epic, bred McGill, which won in 1950, but had lost him in a claiming race at a two-year-old. Jerry Taylor came up with Major Factor which won with a mighty stretch run.

Trainer Pete McCann has brought in the horses from winter quarters at Oshawa, Ont. Rumors of sensational workouts by one of the six Acadian, preceded their arrival. Acadian started twice as a two-year-old and was bested both times. He had a wind spell but a bad habit of bolting to the outside fences. Winter-book odds on him have dropped from 20-1 to 4-1, on the strength of his training.

About 15 are expected to start in view of the comparatively open race. The horses which normally and almost automatically is considered the one to beat is not entered this year. It is the winner of the fall two-year-old classic, the Cup and Saucer. Won in 1951 by Fiery Red, the horse was taken to U.S. tracks and has raced in 1952, which disqualifies him.

Bricker Said Good

Another horse which has aroused considerable interest is Bricker, a sturdy colt which won two races and had a second and a third in last year's four starts. Owned by J. H. Stafford Stable of Toronto the trainer is S. D. Birley Who, as a jockey, rode Archworthy to victory in 1939.

Expected pace setter is Caractacus owned by Steve Chris of Kitchener, Ont. Winner of sprint races last year, including the Clarendon Plate, trainer Jerry Meyer is confident he can keep the distance so as to go the distance so as to go the distance so early in the spring.

Eric's Girl, owned by Eric Crockock of Toronto, is another filly which can go the distance. In the Cup and Saucer—a mile and 70 yards—came from 11th place in the back stretch to finish third. Thomas Stable of Whitby, Ont., has Wool Chapper whose six furlong workout in 1.16 is one of the fastest to date.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

New York, April 29 — (AP) — Ezzard Charles, who is not the heavyweight champion any more, started training Thursday for a fight with Jersey Joe Walcott at Philadelphia on June 5.

It seems that Walcott now holds the title, having knocked out Charles in a battle at Pittsburgh in July of last year. This will come as a surprise to many fans who were away on vacation at the time and who still recognize Charles as the champ.

Jersey Joe Walcott has made less out of the crown than any champion of the modern era, possibly excepting Tommy Burns, who was not permitted by his managers to defend his crown. Walcott is a crappy fighter has, however, made stores of appearances in cruddy little institutions and before church groups and his in general won his laurels well, if anonymously.

The best story is Frank Graham's new book "The New York Giants," he thinks, and the first time young Willie Mays of the Giants came to bat in Brooklyn last year. Roy Campanella, the Dodgers' great Negro catcher, asked Willie what kind of pitch Preacher Roe, who was curving 'em for the Brooks.

"He's a mighty good pitcher, Mr. Campanella," Willie said.

"You're lucky today," Roy said. "Wait till you get Don Newcombe tomorrow. He hates colored rookies. He'll blow you down"

Graham, probably for lack of space, neglected to relate how the mischievous Campanella kept tossing dirt into Willie's shoes just as the ball was delivered. Willie complained to his manager, Leo Durocher, and next time he came up told the bulky backstop:

"Mr. Durocher says if you do that again for me to throw a handful of dirt in your face, Mr. Campanella."

"That's fine, Willie," Roy said. "Any time you feel like dying, you just do that." Willie did it, was called, went hitless his first 21 times at bat in the big show.

Select Boxers For Canada In Tournament

Vancouver, April 29—(CP)—A bonus number of champions—Canada's first Olympic games boxers—will be weeded from more than 50 hopefuls in a combination-punch tournament which starts here Thursday night.

New divisions, new weigh-in regulations and new rules will be part of the three-night combined Canadian boxing championships and Olympic trials.

On the other hand, defending champions will be scarce. This will be the first Canadian boxing championships since 1950. Tournament officials, in reporting 53 entries received, said the only 1950 title registered is lightweight Roy Kennan of Montreal.

Ontario is the only outside province to have a full entry in all 10 classes. Quebec is expected to send eight. B.C., without the travelling-expense worries of the other provinces, will try for every title.

Two Changes

Two regulation changes put on the books of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada in 1951 will make their national-tournament debut.

One calls for two new weights and the other will abolish welter and the light-middle. They are in addition to the usual flyweight-to-heavyweight divisions.

The other regulation concerns weight allowance and travel time, affording a break for out-of-town fighters. All boxers travelling more than eight hours will receive a pound weight allowance which will apply on the first day only. Thereafter they must make the required weight limit.

The official weigh-in will be at 10 a.m. each day.

The sponsoring B.C. branch of the A.A.U., anticipating big crowds, has scheduled the tournament for the 6,500-seat exhibition forum, the first time in four years that the building has been chosen as the site for amateur boxing.

Sport in Brief

(By The Canadian Press)

Tillsonburg Livingstons are out to make sure of their bid to become Canada's senior basketball representatives at this year's Olympic games in Helsinki.

They have added Winnipeg's great scorer King Carl Rid to the line-up as a replacement for Tommy Gibbons, an American. Rid averaged 27 points a game with Winnipeg's Varsity Grads. Gibbons is ineligible for Olympic competition with a Canadian team because he is a United States citizen.

Livingstons will play several exhibition games before they meet the survivors of a university of Western Ontario-University of Alberta series to decide the Canadian college finalists. The series is scheduled for Tillsonburg May 19 to 23.

The pitching arm of Curt Simmons, fresh out of army khaki, is due to get its first 1952 major league test against Chicago Cubs today. Rain forced postponement of his scheduled start Sunday. The game is in Chicago.

Pally Berg won the $3,000 Richmond open golf tournament yesterday at Richmond, Calif., with a 54-hole P.G.A. tournament record-breaking score of 64-70-72-210 for 54 holes. Betty Jameson of San Antonio, Tex., was second with 214.

St. Louis Browns have farmed out two baseball players to the Japanese Pacific League. It is the first time a U.S. ball club has lent players outside the country. Third baseman John Britton, Jr., and pitcher Cass Hebbard will be the first Negroes in Japanese baseball.

Rolls Perfect Game, But Loses Title

The Canadian Bowling Association tournament record was blasted by Janet Peel, above, of Oshawa, who rolled a perfect 12 every to roll a perfect game in the tourney's 26-year history. Janet's 450 gave her a three-game total of 845 and second spot in the all-events standings, 14 pins behind the winner, Pat McLean. Event was held in Toronto. — Central Press Canadian.

Revise Schedule For Football

Toronto, April 29—(CP)—A revised schedule for senior intercollegiate football in Ontario and Quebec was announced last night by J. P. Loosemore, secretary of the Canadian Intercollegiate Athletic Union (central).

The new schedule includes McMaster University of Hamilton which was admitted to the loop on an exhibition basis for the 1952 season. Other teams are McGill, Queen's, Western and Toronto.

The schedule:

Sept. 20, McGill at McMaster; Sept. 27, McMaster at Toronto; Oct. 4, McGill at Toronto; Western at Queens; Oct. 11, Toronto at Western, Queen's at McGill; Oct. 18, Queens at Toronto, Western at McGill; Oct. 25, Toronto at Queens, McGill at Western; Nov. 1, McMaster at McGill, Queens at Western; Nov. 8, Western at McMaster; Nov. 8, Toronto at McGill, McMaster at Queens; Nov. 15, Western at Toronto, McGill at Queens.

Geoffrion Wins Calder Trophy

Montreal, April 29 — (CP) — Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion of Montreal Canadiens has been chosen the top National Hockey League rookie of the 1951-52 season, it was announced today.

In winning the Calder Memorial Trophy, Geoffrion pocketed a cheque for $1,000 from the league.

The high-scoring right-winger polled 38 points in winning the award decided on by 18 hockey writers and broadcasters — three from each N.H.L. city.

Hy Buller of New York Rangers wound up second with 42 points and third was Dickie Moore of Montreal with 36.

Others receiving votes were Paul Meger, Montreal, 17 points; Wally Hergesheimer, New York, 4; Dick Gamble, Montreal 3; Real Chevrefils, Boston, Dollard St. Laurent, Montreal, and Alex Delvecchio, Detroit, one point each.

Hockey Teams Receive Awards At Banquet

Bancroft— (Special) — Three championship teams received awards at the hockey banquet in Apsley on Saturday night. Players, of all ages, roughly from 8 or 9 to well over 21, were the guests of honor at the supper, headed by the Women's Institute, in the Anglican Parish Hall.

As champs of the Kawartha League the seniors won the Sharondale Trophy. Keith Brown, the team captain, received the trophy from J. W. C. Hutton of Bancroft, representing the donor. Apsley has now won this league title twice in succession and the trophy will be their permanent possession, if they succeed in holding it during the hockey season of 1952-53.

Apsley Aces, winners of the Seneca Hastings Juniors League, and Coe Hill-Apsley Combines, midget champions of North Hastings were the winners of the Wiggins Grange and Bancroft Lions Club trophies. Whitney L. Martin, chairman of North Hastings Community Centre Commission and a past president of Bancroft Lions Club, made the presentations to Murray McCormack, captain of the Juniors and Wayne Clark, captain of the midgets. On behalf of the Apsley Hockey Club Mr. Martin also presented individual team pictures to the members of the bantam team.

Mayor Speaks

The speaker for the evening, Mayor Hugh Waddell of Peterborough, talked to the group, using as his theme "Citizenship For All". Talking particularly to the players he reminded them that their championship efforts had come as a result of team play and co-operation from the participants coaches, managers, executive committees and the general public, and that boys and young men should not forget that they had a responsibility to do some actual hard work and get something worthwhile done.

Mayor Waddell also reminded everybody that Canada was privileged to enjoy a living standard where the lowest-paid worker was able to enjoy more comforts and luxuries than the most highly-paid citizens in the communistic countries. As an example he mentioned the type of food served at the banquet and the fact that each of the players in attending and freely expressing their opinions. In conclusion His Worship again congratulated everybody concerned with the banquet and expressed the hope that the boys would carry the same fighting spirit into municipal elections when they reached voting age because annual municipal elections were cornerstones of democracy, concretely illustrating the interest of all in citizenship.

Whitney L. Martin extended greetings and congratulations from the donors of the awards. North Hastings Community Centre Commission, the trustees of the Bancroft arena where the league number of the bantam and midget games were played. He complimented the boys for following carefully the instructions of coach, William Hale, manager, Clarence McCormack and all other officials of the league.

Chairman for the evening was Reeve Norman Wilson of Burleigh-Anstruther.

During the course of the evening he reported on the progress of the new arena for Apsley, stating that the logs were on the rollways and ready to be sawn into squared timber and lumber and that the local team would be playing in a covered rink for the first game of the next season.

Pats Trail 2-0, but Anything Can Happen in Junior Hockey

Murphy, above, was Tyler's No. 1 victim. Checking him is McDonald, Regina.

Although Regina Pats trail Guelph Biltmores 2-0 in the best-of-seven Memorial Cup fracas, Individual star of the series has been the Pats' indefatigable netminder, Bob Tyler. Tyler has handled 86 shots in two games, many from such Guelph sharpshooters as Prentice, Murphy, Stewart and Laufman. In second contest played in Toronto, the Pats pulled up their socks and only lost 4-2 after dropping a soft 8-3 opening game to Guelph. HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

The success of bridge play depends mostly on advance planning. The plan of play will often vary according to the opening lead that has been made. As in the case of the deal shown here:

NORTH
♠ None
♥ 3 3
♦ A Q 10 8 5
♣ A K 10 8 6 4

WEST
♠ Q J 9 4
♥ None
♦ K 4 2
♣ J 9 7 5 3 2

EAST
♠ A K 8 5 3 2
♥ A 4
♦ 7 6 3
♣ Q

SOUTH
♠ 10 7 6
♥ K Q J 10 9 8 7 6 5
♣ None

South is declarer at a contract of six hearts. After the lead by west, declarer can see that he must lose a trump trick to the opponent's heart ace. His plan must be to lose no spades.

Suppose the opening lead from west is a spade. Dummy ruffs the first trick and cashes club ace on which south sluffs a spade. The king of clubs is then led from dummy.

If east elects to ruff with his small heart, south will cover with a higher trump. The third south spade will then be led and the final trump in dummy will save it with a ruff.

When dummy leads the second top club, what if east ruffs high with heart ace? Well, then South simply sluffs his last spade on this trick. East can then lead his small trump, which South ruffs in dummy. Nothing east does will effect the result.

Suppose west was foxy enough to start with an opening lead of a diamond. Dummy dare not take a chance on finessing right there. He runs with his ace and south ruffs a second diamond.

Dummy then ruffs a south spade and south ruffs another diamond. Another south spade is ruffed in dummy. South then dumps his final spade on dummy club ace.

Isn't it wonderful how cleverly a hand can be played with all the cards in sight. But it sometimes works out that way is a bridge game, too. Let's say so, anyway.

Judge May Rule On Steel-Seizure Case Today

Washington, April 29—(AP)—Federal Judge David A. Pine may hand down his ruling today in the case challenging President Truman's constitutional power to seize the steel industry.

Court attaches looked for the decision today but said it may not come until tomorrow. Judge Pine has devoted full time to deliberating the issues since he took the district court controversy under advisement last Friday.

The House of Representatives judiciary committee, meanwhile, met to consider a batch of Republican-sponsored proposals for Truman's impeachment or censure for the seizure action. Republican members pressed for a showdown on the proposals.

Steel firms brought the court case seeking an injunction for return of their property. Truman placed the mills under government control April 8 when 650,000 C.I.O. steelworkers threatened a country-wide strike.

The issues before Judge Pine were whether the steel companies were right in their contention that Truman lacked legal authority to seize their plants, or whether the president was right in claiming both the power and duty for his action.

Government officials awaited Pine's decision before ordering a wage increase for steelworkers into effect over the industry's objections.

Commerce Secretary Charles Sawyer, nominally in charge of the seized industry, was expected to notify steel firms today they may apply for an average $5-a-ton price increase if they wished.

That is the limit the government says steel prices can be raised under stabilization rules. The industry says $2 is inadequate by the government's wage stabilizer to pay for the 26-cent-an-hour increase granted by over-all cost of wage increases and other benefits recommended by a fact-finding board.

'Hello Showboat' Ready for Public View at B.C.I.

This week is the week and tomorrow is the day for the opening curtain of "Hello Showboat" musical review which, Wednesday will get under way for a three-night stand at the Belleville Collegiate auditorium.

For the past three weeks over 80 members of the cast have been rehearsing faithfully under the direction of George Zarfas of Hamilton. Tonight there will be a final dress rehearsal in readiness for the opening curtain Wednesday afternoon when a preview will be given for students of B.C.I. at 4.30.

Sequel to last year's Kinsmen show "Showboat Days" which had a very successful four day run at the collegiate, "Hello Showboat" is a scintillating fast moving musical with brand new song hits but with many of last year's stars back.

Providing the background for the show are the Kinsmen Minstrels, over 30 strong, while 24 girls from Belleville Collegiate have been moulded into a zippy singing and dancing chorus that spells action all down along the line.

In addition there are such local singing stars as Ethel Smith, Sylvia Motley, Art Bungay and others who have their own special parts in the show. The Kinsmen Boyz Band will be on hand to provide music before the show and between acts.

As was the case last year gorgeous costumes have been provided to give the show a really professional lift.

Proceeds from the show are going towards the Kinsmen community service fund of which the Kinsmen Community Swimming Pool is top on the list.

So turn out for "Hello Showboat" and give Belleville's new swimming pool the lift it deserves. Tickets are on sale from any member of the Kinsmen Club. Kinsmen cast members, also at Esquire for Men, Goodman's and at Duff's Drugs.

$100,000 FIRE LOSS

Nanaimo, B.C., April 29 (CP) — A three-alarm fire last night caused damage estimated at between $85,000 and $100,000 when it broke out in a cafe kitchen and spread to a dance hall.

Blinding smoke covered the entire waterfront district of this Vancouver Island city before firemen quelled the blaze in a two-hour fight.

Two firemen received minor injuries in fighting the fire.

The fire started in the kitchen of the Esquire cafe, presumably following a short circuit.

TO TAKE TRAINING

London, April 29 — (Reuters)— The RAF announced last night it will give all officers and men improved training in ground fighting so that they can defend their own bases and installations. Up till now, the RAF has had its own regiment to do this work, with air crews and maintenance men having only basic training in ground combat duties.

The Two Jane Fromans

To the left is the real Jane Froman, a likeness of the courageous songstress who fought her way back to the top of the entertainment world after suffering near-fatal injuries in a 1943 Lisbon airplane crash. To the right is actress Susan Hayward who portrays the singer in 20th. Century-Fox's Technicolor musical "With a Song in My Heart", now at the Belle Theatre.

Egyptian King Wounded in Thigh Says Writer

New York, April 29—(AP)—An NBC correspondent reported last night that King Farouk of Egypt was wounded in the thigh last month during an assassination attempt.

The correspondent, Dan Kurzman, reported to NBC here that a would-be assassin shot the king during an audience at the palace in Cairo late in March.

The man, described as a "Major Hitler," was in turn shot to death by the king's guards, Kurzman said.

Kurzman said his informants told him the assassination plot was part of a coup planned by the Wafd Party in a bid to regain power.

Kurzman said he learned of the plot just before leaving Cairo. He said details were being "cloaked in deepest secrecy."

AT THE CAPITOL — Campus Queen Marion Marshall delivers a pep talk to reluctant Jerry Lewis before he trots out on the gridiron to assist it with the big boys. It's part of the wonderful nonsense in Paramount's "That's My Boy," funniest Martin and Lewis comedy, at the Capitol Theatre starting Wednesday; and on the same program for its first city showing, "Flaming Feather," in Technicolor, starring Sterling Hayden, Forrest Tucker and Arleen Whelan.

GULF ISLAND

Prince Edward island, originally called St John's Island, was renamed in 1799 in compliment to the Duke of Kent, father of Queen Victoria.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is according to the stars.

FOR WEDNESDAY, APRIL 30, 1952.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Fine planetary rays of yesterday taper off and you may have to be more patient and persevering to obtain desired results. However, unusual ideas, improved methods are favored.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Familiar matters, usual work, domestic tasks should move smoothly. New propositions will require double the care and efficiency. Calm, unworried action best.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Not all favorable for new ideas unless the plan proven values. Best aspects are for steady application to occupational duties and interests for which you have training. Be patient.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Secretarial work, sufficient consistency of effort important to accomplishment now. Skilled trades, industry, professions can accomplish much, void useless arguments.

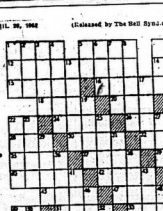
July 24 to August 22 (Leo)—Some tendencies generally as for most of us here. Tone down enthusiasm to a sensible medium and your better judgment will then prevail. Familiar activities, routine tasks easier to handle.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo)—Similar rays to Gemini. Don't worry if you have some difficulty with new things. Be patient, and understanding with all. Improved machinery, tools, methods have "go" sign if rightly handled.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Some personal wishes must stand aside for a time till more urgent and important matters are handled. Day on whole stresses care, conscientious forethought in all. And faith.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Mars and Moon aspects today urge calm, pleasing attitude at work, school, home, if you would have co-operation and get farther in your progress. Keep even temper and tempo.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Your Jupiter not too helpful for personal advancement, new or big gains, but as always steady, efficient work will reward. Be cautious in finances and all types of expenditures.



December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Some restrictions likely but no need to fret. We can always get busy and accomplish something worth while when we choose, and restrictions are often for our good.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Your Uranus only planet in benign aspect today gives you big edge on most of us, so be sure to make most of every advantage, all help.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Good leads, fresh opportunities, especially for clever-near in management, skilled work, profession, trade. Tools, machinery, crafts are highly sponsored.

YOUR BORN TODAY: Strong character; innately honorable, trustworthy; impressive personality. Skilled in mechanics, agriculture, farming, animal training, sports. Could be efficient as nurse, physician, surgeon, religious, Curative too great fondness for rich foods, beverages. Shun pointless, harmful worry and strain. Birthdate: Sir John Lubbock, Eng. statesman, naturalist.

FAMOUS PASS

The Peace River Pass through the Rockies was the route taken by Fraser and Alexander Mackenzie on his journey to the Pacific in 1793.

14 Youngsters Held as Members of Juvenile Gang

The arrest of four juveniles and the recovery of articles stolen from five automobiles revealed the presence in Orillia, Ont., of a juvenile gang equipped with weapons, masks, like ones seen shows and oaths of secrecy. This arrest touched off an investigation which, to date, has charged 14 youngsters, aged 13 to 15, with crimes— including thefts from cars, siphoning gasoline, and breaking and entering business premises — which have been baffling police for past few weeks. Leader of the Kiss Kiss gang was called, a 15-year-old youngster who modelled the organization after one he read about in a crime magazine. — Central Press Canadian.

Youth Takes Over Town's Affairs

During the "Huntsville Youth Week," during which time the young folk demonstrated to their elders how to run the town, Sherwood Jupp became the fire chief whose job it was to keep fires under control. Other important offices, such as mayor, police chief, were filled by teenagers who also held council meetings and generally took over the entire affairs of the Ontario town. Held for the last three years, many constructive suggestions for the betterment of the community have come out of the project. — Central Press Canadian.

Why We Say—
TO MAKE A DEBUT

When a girl makes her first formal appearance in society, she is said to make her debut. The word comes to us from the French and means literally "beginning." It also is used to describe a person who makes a spectacular start in a career. Or when she becomes the center of attention at a party.

RED SECRETARY HELD

Buenos Aires, Argentina, April 29 — (AP) — Police said yesterday they had arrested Arnaldo Pinera, secretary of a communist party committee, on charges of distributing leaflets inciting violence against the government. The police said Pinera wounded two policemen who arrested him.

DON'T LIKE RIDE

Aldeburgh, England, April 29 — (AP) —Fifty-seven Suffolk students are on strike because they don't like to ride bicycles to school. Most live in Aldeburgh, where it's a four-mile ride to school. They have turned up their noses at bikes provided by the Board of Education and it cancelled free train rides as an economy measure.

Canada Will Be In Air Theatre Of Any Future War Says Wing Commander W. H. Lupton

Canada will be in the air theatre in any future war according to a statement made by Wing Commander W. H. Lupton who addressed the Y's Men's Club at the Y.M.C.A. Friday night. This was the strategy on which the Royal Canadian Air Force was being developed he added and stated that Canada ranked possibly fourth in air strength with the United States, Russia and Britain being the first three. He predicted that Canada might eventually replace Britain in third place.

The speaker approached his topic "Air Power" from three angles; the use of airplanes as weapons of war, Our Air Force, and Problems of the Modern Air Force. With a mounting budget for defence, most of which is being directed towards the air force, he felt the citizens who are paying the bills should have some idea of how it is or can be used.

Reviews History of Airplane

The speaker then reviewed briefly the history of the airplane which came into being less than fifty years ago, when the Wright Brothers flew the first heavier-than-air craft about 100 feet in the seconds at Kitty Hawk. He stated that there was a slow development to 1914, when in the first war the airplane was the eyes of the army and navy for reconnaisance, cruising at 50 to 60 miles an hour. In subsequent years it grew, equipment was added and speed was increased to 120 miles an hour.

Wing Commander Lupton gave as the late General Smuts the distinction of being a great air strategist as well as a soldier and statesman, for it was the general predicted the need for air forces strength and in 1918 the air force became independent of the army and navy.

The speaker continued by reviewing the pattern of World War II in which, the air force played a leading role in all contestant countries. The German Luftwaffe unlike the Royal Air Force was not separate from the army and navy but was a powerful assistance in the lightning-like conquests which Hitler made. Norway was outside the range of the powerful British Air Force and was easily overrun. The first real test of the R.A.F. came at Dunkirk where losses were considerably less because of the British air supremacy. The second test of air strength came during the Battle of Britain when British air superiority saved England.

These decisive events led the speaker to the conclusion that any country controlling the air above it could not be invaded. Germany's plan to knock out the air force in four days failed because of the strength of the R.A.F. while Crete, unprotected, was the first country to be conquered by air.

Indicates Power

Wing Commander Lupton indicated the power of the air force by mentioning Alamein. The desert war was a success because of air support. The destruction Pearl Harbor was overcome in a lightning attack by dive bombers is less known. The British Nation lost two of her most powerful ships, the Prince of Wales and the Repulse, three days later because they operated outside of the range of their Air Force. The greatest deterrent to war in the past few years, the speaker stated, was the United States air power. The significance of modern air warfare was the complete destruction of the enemy, particularly agricultural and industrial areas, the speaker added. He commended that the activities of the R.C.A.F. were a fighting force of 25 squadrons and concluded his address by comments on problems which made the development of the air force difficult.

The speaker was introduced by Y's Man Ted Wooding and received the thanks of the club from Spence Wonnacott.

Elizabeth Enjoys Relaxful Weekend in Country

Queen Elizabeth, accompanied by the Duke of Beaufort, is seen arriving with Princess Margaret (for left background) at Badminton House, Gloucestershire, England, to pay a three-day visit to the Duke of Beaufort, who is president of the British Olympic Association. This is one of the first outings of Her Majesty since the death of her father. Badminton plans to spend this private visit watching the Olympic horse trials, which are now underway at Badminton House. — Central Press Canadian.

Province Urged To Get Out Of Certain Fields

Toronto, April 29 — (CP) — Farquhar Oliver, Liberal house leader in the province of Ontario legislature, got out of certain local tax fields as the only solution to the financial problems of municipalities.

"For years our municipalities have watched their expenditures rise while the tax basis remains static," Mr. Oliver said in a speech over a provincial CBC network.

"This problem a one that must be solved f the financial structure of our municipalities is to remain unimpaired."

The right of local governments to direct local affairs is being constantly undermined.

"Their fields of action are ever narrowing; their ability to create and think is being stifled by the oppressive hand of a higher government, until those in municipal life are beset with a feeling of frustration and conviction that little worthwhile service remains to be rendered."

Mr. Oliver said Ontario would benefit from entering a taxation agreement with Ottawa under which the federal government would collect certain provincial taxes and pay Ontario annual subsidies.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma was worrying about the speech she has to make at her class reunion, and she asked me if I'd help her suppose to say a few words as a special welcome to the members from out of town, but still I'd like it to sound brite and breezy.

There's only one tried and true way to make an after dinner speech, Ben said, keep it real, said. Just say a few opening words, and then tell a few funny a story, and then say a few closing words which will remind you of another story, he said, and ma said, But goodness, William, I mean for land sakes, I cant even remember stories that I've heard that very same day, so how can I expect myself to be reminded of a story out of a clear blue sky?

Dont worry, my dear, the stories wont have to have any point, pop said. The guests will laff just the same, to prove they have a sense of humor, Now for instants, in your opening remarks you say, It gives me special pleasure to welcome those classmates who have come from afar. And speaking of afar, I was reminded of a story about the man in the moon.

A boy asked his father if the man in the moon never smiles, and the father anserred, "What about?" And in your closing remarks, you say, Yes indeed, I see well known faces from the 4 quarters of the country, which reminds me of the father who asked his little boy how many quarters it takes to make a half, and the boy anserred, "Gimme a dime."

My dear, they'll bring down the rafters to show they didn't miss the point, pop said.

Oh breathed if everybody makes jokes in their speeches, I'll deliberitly be diffrent, ma said. I'll simply say, Welcome to you classmates from far places, and that's no laffing matter. Then they'll know all I expect is applause, and they'll give it to me with a clear conscience, she said.

Which they probably will.

Pte. Jack Llewellyn, 24, of Drumheller, Alta., makes his first parachute jump near Calgary with the 2nd Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, a splashy one when he landed in a slough. The parachute exercise was carried out on the Bragg Creek Road, 13 miles west of Calgary. Of the 60 men who jumped, Major Vance Lilley, officer commanding the exercise and Lt. Harry Ingils also landed in the icy waters. — (CP Photo.)

The Innocent Impostor

By Renee Shann

Patience gasped. It couldn't be possible. Charlotte! Now often during the years she'd been living with her aunts had she thought how wonderful it would be to have news of her!

"Hello, Patience," said Charlotte. And now the other girl put her arms around her and kissed her. "Gosh, but I'm all ten-thou exciting!"

She had a soft, musical voice with a trace of an American accent. She was warm and glowing and affectionate.

"You two must have so much you want to talk about," said Miss Alice. "Patience dear, would you like to take Charlotte for a little walk before supper?"

"Yes, of course. You're staying, aren't you, Charlotte?"

"For tonight, yes."

Miss Helen said: "I've told Charlotte she must look upon this house as her home."

"You're sweet Aunt Helen," said Charlotte impulsively. "I'd like to come down a lot."

"Where do you live?" asked Patience...

"I'm in London at the moment. I only arrived in England from the States last week."

"Charlotte is on the stage, Patience," said Miss Alice. She glanced swiftly at her elder sister. She wasn't altogether sure if Helen quite liked the idea of this. Helen was prejudiced against the theatre. She had been ever since Estella had run away with the girls' father. Still, he'd been an acrobat in the music halls. That surely was very different. Charlotte, it seemed, danced in nice musical plays.

Miss Alice wondered if possibly they might go to London one day and see her in the new one she'd told them about for the week they would absent rehearsing.

"Coming Charlotte?" said Patience, holding out her hand to her sister.

They went out through the garden door together, Patience glanced sideleng at Charlotte as they brushed the lawn; they vaulted lightly over the stile and set off across the meadows. Suddenly they were both talking at once.

"Patience, I've so much I want to ask you."

"Charlotte, what's been happening all these years?"

Charlotte said: "Shall we start off one at a time?"

"Yes, only let's start with you. With me there's so very little. I expect you've already been told most of it from Aunt Helen and Aunt Alice."

Charlotte laughed and said that maybe she had.

"Now," said Patience, "tell me everything. Start right at the beginning."

"Well, you know Daddy kidnapped me so to speak when he deserted Mummy? He was an acrobat and I was in his act."

"No, I don't know anything."

"When I was 14, Daddy heard that Mummy had died and he married again. A girl in the troupe. I fought like mad with her. When I got a chance to join a juvenile troupe, off I went."

Charlotte had gone to America and then later toured Australia and South Africa. After that she'd returned to the States again, and gotten a job on Broadway under studying the premiere danseuse in a successful revlew. A slight cause when she went on in her place.

"And what happened? Were you a star overnight?"

Charlotte laughed. "Well, more or less. Anyway, they gave me the part when they sent the show out on tour."

Patience drew a deep breath. "You and me, Twins! To think our lives have been so utterly different. But how did you ever manage to find us?"

"It took a little doing. It was something that I always promised myself I'd do just as soon as I got back to England. You see, I had a little Bible of Mother's and had her maiden name and the address where they all used to live when they were girls at home with their parents. I went down to that address yesterday and was put on to some old woman who told me the aunts had left a long while ago and gone to live in a place called High Ditch, not far from Bishops Stortford."

Patience couldn't speak for a moment. Her heart was too full. She'd forgotten for a few blessed moments how unhappy she was about Paul.

Charlotte looked at her affectionately. "Now that we've found each other, we'll have grand times together. We'll go off on a holiday just as soon as I can manage it. We might even fly to Paris. I want to get some clothes over there."

Patience caught her breath. Fly to Paris!

"Oh Charlotte, they'd never let me. Aunt Helen would be quite horrified."

Charlotte looked at her without speaking. Patience, she decided, was a completely new species to her.

She thought with a mixture of pity and irritation, that maybe it was a blessing that she, Charlotte, had happened on her before she grew much older. Something certainly needed to be done about her!

It was the following Tuesday. Patience paced the platform, wondering if the train would be much longer. Her heart leaped when at last it was signalled. This wasn't a day when she usually went to London. But she was going up especially to be with Charlotte. Charlotte had arranged it with Aunt Helen before she herself had gone back to London.

Patience jumped into the first carriage as the train stopped at the platform. She told herself that she wasn't going even to notice whether Paul stepped from one of the compartments when they eventually reached Liverpool Street Station. Instead she would think of Charlotte. Of the good time they were going to have together.

She saw her the moment the train came to a stop and flung herself out of the carriage. She raced towards her.

"Charlotte, it's so lovely to be here! I feel so terribly excited!"

Charlotte smiled at her fondly. Gosh, she thought, fancy getting such a kick out of spending a few hours with one's sister in London!

"What shall we do first?" she asked, as they walked away from the barrier.

"I don't mind. Anything you like."

Charlotte hesitated. She wanted to dress Patience over. A round of the shops might be a good idea. On the other hand they could return to her hotel and have a round of her wardrobe!

Patience drew in a gasping breath as some little while later she passed through the swinging doors into the luxurious foyer of the Mayfair.

"If you mean to say you're staying here, Charlotte!"

"Why, yes."

"Isn't it terribly expensive?"

"It is rather. But it's comfortable. And I'm making quite a lot of money." She strolled over to the reception desk to ask if there were any messages.

"Mr. Dickson telephoned, Miss Carlotta. He'll be picking you up here at 12.30."

"Thank you."

"Carlotta?" asked Patience. "That's my stage name. I sounds more effective than Charlotte Mond."

"Sort of like Garbo?"

Behind the Scenes of Graduating Ceremonies

Naval Cadet Flight Leader Nigel Brodeur, of Vancouver, is seen receiving last minute sprucing up at the hands of two of his classmates, Air Cadet Henry Bepple, of Kamloops, B.C., and Navy Cadet Peter Watson, of Toronto, prior to the graduation exercises at the Canadian Services College, Royal Roads, Victoria, B.C. Sixty-six cadets were in the graduating class which was inspected by Major-General W. H. S. Macklin, C.B.E., C.D., adjutant general of the Canadian army and chairman of the three-member personnel members' committee, national defence headquarters, Ottawa, which is responsible for much of the administration of the Canadian Services Colleges. Senior officers of the navy and air force were also on hand for ceremonies. — Central Press Canadian.

"Well, yes, I suppose so. Look, there's a lift waiting."

"Who's Mr. Dickson?" Patience inquired as together they walked down the long corridor to Charlotte's room.

"Roger Dickson. Darling, don't tell me you've never heard of him."

Patience shook her head. "I don't think so."

Charlotte gave a delightful little laugh. "That'll be good for him. You must tell him when you see him."

"Am I seeing him?"

"Yes. He's taking us out to lunch."

Patience felt a slight pang. She'd been hoping that Charlotte and she would have lunch alone.

"Is he a very special friend of yours, Charlotte?"

Charlotte hesitated.

"Not quite so special as he'd like to be."

His photograph was in a silver frame on the table beside her bed. Patience picked it up and looked at it. "To Carlotta, with all my love, Roger."

"He's awfully good looking, isn't he?" she said.

"Oh yes, Roger's quite the answer to a maiden's prayer. And he has more charm than is good for any woman."

Patience smiled and put the picture back again. No, she wasn't going to think of Paul. Of Paul who had more charm than was good for her certainly. And now Charlotte was opening the long built-in cupboards. Running a hand along the many dresses.

"Come and choose something you'd like."

"Charlotte, you don't mean that?"

"Of course I do."

Patience tried on first one and then another. She stood before the long mirror and wondered if she were dreaming.

"Charlotte, that's not me. It can't be."

She wished Paul could see her. She wished this more than anything in the world. The dizzy blond would stand no chance beside her. She wouldn't have believed that clothes could make so much difference. Clothes, a new hair-style, and the right make-up. She was wearing now a pale dress with some embroidery. She was wearing a little scarlet hat that sat crazily over one eye, and carrying a scarlet handbag.

She was looking now exactly like Charlotte, and yet there was a subtle difference.

Charlotte eyed her thoughtfully, wondering what it could be.

"Me and yet not me!" She laughed. "Me without a past, I suppose. Well, darling, there's one thing I beg of you."

"What's that?" asked Patience.

"Don't take Roger away from me. You in those clothes with that unsophisticated air—he's not sure I'm not taking a great risk in introducing the pair of you!"

CRASHED INTO BUILDINGS

Castellon, Spain, April 29—AP—Residents of this mediterranean town got a mammoth bag of quail Sunday night without firing a shot. A violent windstorm blacked out the area. When the lights went on again, some 3,000 dead birds—most of them quail—littered the streets and avenues. Apparently they crashed against buildings.

U.S. GOVT. TO APPEAL JUDGE PINE'S DECISION

'Civil Servants' Responsible Says Quebec Member

Should 'All be Fired' for Way Disease Outbreak Handled

Ottawa, April 30 (CP)—A Liberal member from Quebec suggested today that federal "civil servants" were responsible for the way in which the foot-and-mouth disease outbreak was handled and they should "all be fired."

Phileas Cote (Matapedia-Matane) told the 86-member Commons agricultural committee that he did not believe either the government or Agriculture Minister Gardiner showed any inefficiency.

"I think civil servants were responsible and I would like to see them all fired," he said.

He made the statement as the committee launched a probe of government handling of the outbreak in south Saskatchewan. Dr. J. Gordon Taggart, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, was the first witness.

The committee had a full turn out, a rare thing for parliament.

Side Steps Questions

Dr. Taggart side-stepped some of the scores of questions fired and said they would be answered later. Dr. Thomas Childs, federal veterinary director-general. He declined to discuss government policy on meats and after a member insisted, he said he would refer to M. Shaw, head of the prices support board, as a witness.

However, at one point he said he may have been "guilty" of a delay informing Mr. Gardiner of an outbreak of an infectious disease in South Saskatchewan, which later turned out to be foot-and-mouth disease.

Dr. Taggart told the committee that he was informed about Feb. 8 or 9 by department officials of an outbreak of some unidentified disease which later turned out to be foot-and-mouth disease.

He didn't inform Mr. Gardiner, who was abroad from Ottawa, until Feb. 18. He sent him a letter then addressed to Canada House in London.

Then Mr. Gardiner was somewhere in the Victoria-Vancouver-Seattle area.

Gordon Higgins (PC-St. John's East) asked for the view of the severe view of the department takes of the dangers of foot-and-mouth disease. Dr. Taggart hadn't informed his minister immediately.

"It might have been a mistake, a delay in advising the minister," Dr. Taggart replied.

He told John Diefenbaker (PC-Lake Centre) that he had no knowledge of any serious infection in the Regina area. He had visited last week of February when Nelson Young, in charge of the department's production division told him of the outbreak.

He took no "special action" as a result of the information because he believed "it is the duty of those in the department responsible for handling animal diseases" seemed adequate.

He couldn't remember from memory the date of the first quarantine order in the Regina area, but he believed the committee could obtain it from Dr. Thomas Childs, veterinary director-general.

Mr. Diefenbaker brought up the issue of a countermand order by the Saskatchewan Government for the collection of animal specimens for testing at Hull, Que., laboratories. This edict had been ordered by two senior departmental officials.

LAST DAY TO FILE

Ottawa, April 30—(CP)— Just in case you'd forgotten, this is the last day for filing income tax returns for 1951.

If Ottawa's district office is any proof, a lot of Canadians have put the dread day off as long as possible. An official there reported taxpayers lined up steadily to make the deadline.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, April 30 (CP)—Synopsis: Warm sunny weather prevails throughout Ontario again today with little change indicated for Thursday. Northerly winds over the eastern half of the province are bringing cooler air down from northern Quebec and the Hudson Bay region but under sunny skies rapid warming will bring afternoon temperatures into the 70s in southern Ontario. Farther west, with the aid of southern winds, Winnipeg reported a scorching 93 Tuesday afternoon.

Gen. Eisenhower Scores Sweeping Victory in Mass.

Boston, April 30—(AP)—General Eisenhower's popular vote total passed the 220,000 mark in the Massachusetts primary today and a near-sweep of the delegate elections virtually closed the door on Harold Stassen and Sen. Robert Taft in their race for the Republican presidential nomination.

It was almost a shut-out by Eisenhower, his most convincing primary victory to date.

Along with his overwhelming count in the Republican election, Eisenhower also got a Democratic vote big enough to put him in second place behind Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, the expected winner.

When reporters gave him the figures at six airport in Frankfurt, Germany, the general grinned, and said: "Is that good?"

Later, in Paris, he said the results were "an overpowering sort of thing. I'm begun to look kind of serious."

Massachusetts has 38 Grand Old Party convention votes, and Eisenhower today has 32 of them as a result of 27 victories and two previously allotted by agreement. Taft won one delegate and Stassen got two by agreement. The other six presumably will be uncommitted at the nomination convention next July.

Eisenhower's country-wide delegate total moved up to 265 as a result of the added delegates. Three more for Taft put his tally at 161, although his managers are claiming 302.

The figures, compiled by the Associated Press, are based on delegates pledged, favorable, or unfavorably committed to the two leading Republican contenders for the nomination.

BURNS OUT OF CONTROL

Sudbury, April 30—(CP)— A 25-acre bush fire which got burned out of control and straddled the Toronto-Sudbury main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway at nearby Butter. Fifty men fought to prevent it from reaching thesmall farming settlements in that area.

The fire is the only serious one still burning of eight reported Tuesday from areas in the Sudbury Lands Department office. It is believed to have been started by a spark from a passing locomotive.

25-P.C. INCREASE IN ALLOWANCES FOR VETS MOOTED

Opposition Welcomes Move Made by Govt.

Ottawa, April 30 (CP) —A 25-percent increase in war veterans allowances, paid to 40,000 of Canada's aged and needy overseas veterans and their dependents, was proposed yesterday in a series of government bills introduced in the Commons.

The bill, sponsored by Veterans Minister Lapointe, would boost to $50 a month from $40 the maximum allowance payable to a single veteran and his widow to $90 from $72 to the maximum for a married recipient.

The maximum monthly allowance for an orphan would be $40; for two orphans and for three orphans $85.

The ceiling on allowable outside income would be made more flexible so that veterans would be able to earn more without having their allowance reduced.

The allowances are paid to needy veterans, prematurely aged as a result of war service, to veterans' widows or to their dependents.

Spokesmen for the opposition parties speaking on the amount of the increases were disclosed, welcomed the bill and congratulated Lapointe. They spoke on a resolution to the bill which contained the new rates.

Man in Hospital Accused of Attack On Estranged Wife

Powell River, B.C., April 30—(CP)—Charged by police, a man said is in hospital today accused of a hatchet-and-razor attack on his estranged wife. Their 5-year-old daughter was an eyewitness.

Police said Mrs. Esther Charles Martin attacked his wife, Alma, yesterday and then ripped at his throat with the razor while [illegible] 19-year-old daughter, Sandra, [illegible] ...

... [illegible] ... River's 73 miles northeast from Vancouver.

Sandra, [illegible] ... ...ained but almost speechless with shock, told officers she tried in vain to stop the attack.

The couple, both about 40, came here a few years ago with their two daughters from Drumheller, Alta.

Police said they will lay charges after learning more about the circumstances of the arrival.

Although separated, Mr. and Mrs. Martin lived in the same house, Martin upstairs and his wife downstairs with their children alternating between the two families.

Police said that the attack occurred shortly before 9 a.m. as mother went up to her father's room.

Police found the couple sprawled in the blood-spattered room.

Highway Link at Harbor Entrance to Hamilton Severed as Ship Hits Bridge

Hamilton, April 30 (CP) — The smashing of a big ship's mast into a bridge has temporarily cut the Queen Elizabeth Way, one of Ontario's busiest highways.

Traffic over the superhighway linking Toronto with the border town of Fort Erie across from Buffalo, N.Y., is being detoured through Hamilton streets. It is due to increase shortly as thousands of sightseers bend into the fruit-growing sections of the rich Niagara peninsula at blossom time.

The big lift bridge spanning the entrance to Hamilton harbor was wrecked yesterday. It could not be raised in time to let a Great Lakes mast carrier through.

The north half of the two-section bridge collapsed into the channel when struck by the W. E. Fitzgerald, operated by the Gartland Steamship Company of Chicago.

The ship was not seriously damaged but the bridge is believed a total loss.

Bert Bockridge, operator of the bridge, said the bridge over the north half of the new Burlington Canal entrance to the landlocked harbor could not be raised because of mechanical difficulties.

Capt. Albert La Blanc, of Green Bay, Wis., said he ordered the anchor cut and his ship was almost stopped when it hit the bridge.

Destruction of the bridge, part of the Queen Elizabeth Way which crosses Burlington Beach to avoid the city of Hamilton, is expected to throw a heavy load of highway traffic on the city, on the south side of the harbor.

Cars were lined up on the highway for miles yesterday before it could be re-routed. The city's worst traffic jam is expected Sunday when Blossom Sunday in the Niagara peninsula will draw thousands of cars into the area.

Federal and provincial public works engineers planned to survey the bridge today. J. M. Wilson, district federal engineer, said an emergency army-type Bailey Bridge could be built in a week or 10 days.

The harbor is still open to shipping through the southern half of the channel entrance, where the lift bridge was undamaged.

Reds' Attack on French Plane Opens Season of Spring Jitters

Berlin, April 30 (AP) —Officials pondering reasons for yesterday's Russian fighter plane attack on a French airliner agree on one thing: It opened the 1952 spring jitters in Europe.

Four of the 17 persons aboard the Berlin-bound liner were wounded, one seriously. British, French and American high commissioners immediately protested the "unwarranted attack," demanding investigation and compensation.

The Russians ignored the protests and their counterprotest instead. They charged the plane was not flying in the air corridor between the Soviet zone of Germany. When the French plane failed to follow the U.S. plane the Russians said, the Soviet jets fired across its bow.

Officials are considering two possible explanations:

1. That the Soviet deliberately staged the attack as a terror tactic to spread fear and mistrust in Europe and thereby, perhaps, turn down the enthusiasm of western Europe.

2. That the whole thing was unplanned, perhaps the result of overzealousness on the part of some trigger-happy fighter pilot keyed up to check on the airliner.

Whichever explanation is more nearly correct, officials agree that the shooting has opened a new season of spring jitters in Europe.

According to authoritative information, the Soviet military command with about 24 divisions east of the Iron Curtain now is preparing for spring manoeuvres. The Soviets have used them in the past to emphasize and dramatize the tactics involved. In Berlin, frequently issuing warnings of further trouble, and antiaircraft flirts in the vicinity of the neutral approach lane.

Six Communist MIGs Shot Down In Air Battles

Seoul, April 30—(AP)—United Nations planes today shot down six communist MIG-15 jet fighters and damaged four in battles today over North Korea, the Far East Air Forces announced.

U.S. Sabre jet pilots knocked down the last communist MIGs and damaged three in a fight just south of the Yalu River border between Manchuria and North Korea.

An Marine corps plane damaged another.

U.N. planes swarmed [illegible] ... Korea in the air battle [illegible] clearing skies.

Allied lumberjacks jabbed into Allied lines on the eastern and east-central fronts in thousands of pre-dawn darkness. They were driven back after a flurry of hand-grenade skirmishes.

An Eighth Army officer said the action was "a little more brisk than usual."

American warships and naval planes pounded north Korea's east coast Tuesday while British carriers supported the attack. Allied naval units attacked west coast targets.

Riot Leaders Secretly Taken From Mich. Prison

Jackson, Mich., April 30—(AP) —Riot leaders Earl Ward, Jack Hyatt of Leamington, Ont., and another prisoner were removed in secret today from the troubled Jackson prison where they rioted as a "precautionary measure."

Warden Julian Frisbie said the three were removed shortly after midnight and taken to separate prisons.

Frisbie said Ward and Hyatt had been trying to incite inmates of disciplinary cell block No. 15 to help in a new attack. Block No. 15 is the centre of the trouble last week.

The third convict was identified as James W. Hudson, 44-year-old life sentencee for murder in 1932 and said by authorities to have a "bad prison record."

Ward and Hyatt were leaders during the violent revolt causing an estimated $4 million in prison damage. Ward conducted most of the bargaining that led to the state's concessions to the prisoners' 11 demanded changes in prison routine. Hyatt has a Canadian prison record.

Meeting May Make or Break Korean Talks

Munsan, Korea, April 30 (CP) —The communists are expected to take up a truce agenda item in the next few days which may make or break Korean truce talks.

The outcome will depend on communist reaction to a secret United Nations package offer.

Dispatches from Washington quoted Allied diplomats as saying the proposal hasn't been communicated yet. Sunday is about the last offer we can [illegible].

The Washington view was that there is a 50-50 chance the offer will lead to an actual armistice or an ultimate breakdown of the truce negotiations. It all depends on the decision reached in red headquarters on the plan is being studied.

Officials in Washington privately agreed the secret package offer was a threepoint program to end the war. It would provide "non-forcible repatriation" of prisoners of war, which the reds repeatedly have called a "preposterous demand."

Washington dispatches indicated the Allied package deal would (1) allow reds to rebuild North Korean military airfields during a truce if (2) the communists accept the U.N. principle for prisoner exchange and (3) drop their contention that Russia as a "neutral nation" should help police an armistice.

STEELWORKERS CLAMP ON STRIKE IN SWIFT MOVE

Industry Heading For Quick Shutdown

Pittsburgh, April 30 (AP) —Steelworkers who struck when a judge said the United States government could not be their boss throttled steel production today in the quickest stoppage since the industry was nationalized.

A halt in the defence-vital steel industry within hours seemed certain. About 650,000 workers are idle—or soon will be.

Mill after mill went silent as companies and union maintenance crews banked furnaces following hours of confusion at the start of the walkout last night.

President Philip Murray of both the CIO and the United Steelworkers' Union ordered the strike when a federal judge ruled that President Truman acted illegally in seizing the steel industry April 9 to avert a strike.

Worries Groundless

Executives feared the unprecedented hasty shutdown would poured out of the plants would damage equipment. But their worries appeared largely groundless.

In many plants workers themselves made sure machinery crews remained to cool off furnaces.

At Cleveland, the Republic Steel Corp. reported its plants throughout the U.S. would be completely shut down within three hours. In the past, steel companies have taken two and one days to complete an orderly shut-down.

Picketing was orderly everywhere after one or two scuffles which marked the excitement at the strike's start last night.

The first unemployment in Allied industry was announced by U.S. Steel, which said all its coal mines have been furloughed.

The strike stoppage began in Gary and South Bend Ind., within hours after a federal judge nullified government seizure of the steel industry.

Pickets popped up at plant gates everywhere. Pittsburgh, Chicago, Cleveland and Baltimore were among the first to report workers walking out.

Most of the workers waited until their local union officers received Murray's cease-work order. But many of them dropped their tools and picked up their lunch boxes as soon as they heard of the court decision.

The U.S.W.'s contract with practically all major steel producers made the deadlock on the union's demand for a 26 cent hourly wage boost, union shop and other objectives.

CALLS FOR DONATIONS

Fort Erie, April 30—(CP)—The Red Cross campaign for county Bertie township today called for contributions of food, clothing, furniture and bedding for a 10-member family whose home was destroyed by fire yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Matthews and their children escaped only in the clothes they were wearing when fire, which apparently started in the sweep their one-storey frame dwelling. They are temporarily housed in rooms provided by Milton Pixley, a contractor.

Return of Steel Mills to Owners Ordered by Court

650,000 Steelworkers Walk Off Jobs in Plants

Washington, April 30 (AP)— Judge David Pine signed formal orders today directing the return of seized steel mills to their owners, and then turned down a government plea to delay the effectiveness of the order.

These legal formalities cleared the way for the government to appeal to a higher court Pine's ruling that President Truman's seizure of the steel industry is illegal.

Holmes Baldridge, chief government lawyer, immediately filed notice of appeal.

The next step presumably will involve a government request to the U.S. Court of Appeals to District of Columbia.

Baldridge refused to tell reporters when the government will press its appeal action.

By ED CREAGH

Washington, April 30 (AP) —The Truman administration urgently sought today to halt a steel strike set in motion by an historic court slapdown of the president's seizing of a private industry.

The nation's steel mills streamed the majority of 650,000 CIO United Steelworkers in swift reaction to yesterday's ruling by Federal District Judge David A. Pine that Truman exceeded the bounds of his authority in taking over the steel industry April 9 to head off such a walkout.

In a blistering opinion, Pine called the steel seizure "illegal" and denied what he termed a presidential claim of "unlimited and unrestrained" power.

With the President thus backed to the wall—for the moment, at least—in the constitutional struggle over his "inherent" powers to act in an emergency, government lawyers moved swiftly to:

1. Get Pine himself, or else the United States Court of Appeals, to postpone the effective date of a formal order directing the return of seized steel properties to their owners yesterday afternoon, in the trial of Diane Bound, 22-year-old baby sitter charged with murdering the child.

Diane's older sister, Mrs. Murriel Smith, testified the note was written by Diane in an operation which left her incapable of bearing children.

Mrs. Smith said her younger sister was considered by friends as not quite normal mentally. She said that when Diane drank she was incapable of spirits she did "ridiculous" things.

Mrs. Hazel Elsworth, a neighbor of Mrs. Smith, testified that Diane arrived at her home following the slaying, and forced her to have a couple of drinks before a bottle she brought along. Mrs. Frechette said Diane told her she had taken Susan into the bath, made her drink some beer, then tied her hands and feet to the corners of her crib and battered the child with a chamber pot and a beer bottle.

French Horse Wins First Of Britain's Classics

Newmarket, Cambridge, England April 30 (Reuters) —Thunderhead II, an unfashionably-bred French-owned five-year-old, today ran away with the Two Thousand Guineas, the first of Britain's flat-racing classics.

Lady Bench, which finished second five lengths behind, was the only English horse to get in the first three. Argur, another French-owned horse, was third—one-half length in the rear.

The highly-fancied Agitator and Bob Major, whom English fans had counted on to make it a two-horse race, ran nowhere.

Odds against Thunderhead were 100 to 7. King's Bench was 22 to 1 and Argur 8 to 1. The victory was worth $46,900 to Thunderhead's owner, Eugene Constant. Second place was worth $4,710 and third, $2,355. Twenty six horses ran.

The race was run over the straight mile at this historic headquarters of English racing.

Note Found Near Battered Body Of Child Slain

Toronto, April 22—(CP)—A note found near the battered body of three-year-old Susan Kellythorne was introduced as evidence yesterday afternoon in the trial of Diane Bound, 22-year-old baby sitter charged with murdering the child.

Diane's older sister, Mrs. Murriel Smith, testified the note was written by Diane in an operation which left her incapable of bearing children.

Mrs. Smith said her younger sister was considered by friends as not quite normal mentally. She said that when Diane drank she was incapable of spirits she did "ridiculous" things.

Mrs. Hazel Elsworth, a neighbor of Mrs. Smith, testified that Diane arrived at her home following the slaying, and forced her to have a couple of drinks before a bottle she brought along. Mrs. Frechette said Diane told her she had taken Susan into the bath, made her drink some beer, then tied her hands and feet to the corners of her crib and battered the child with a chamber pot and a beer bottle.

Small Continual Infection Risk Said Equal to Single Large One

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
(Associated Press Science Editor)

Boston, April 30 (AP) —Exposing yourself to a small risk of an infectious disease every day for a long period may be as successful as getting one big dose of the infection all at one time.

The theory, which goes contrary to U.S. public health service practice, was reported to the Society of American Bacteriologists today by Doctor L. J. Goldberg and H. M. S. Watkins of the Naval Biological Laboratory, University of California, Berkley, Calif.

The public health belief has been that very small immunizing doses might not make you ill no matter how often you got them. Such germs could come from a contact with sick persons for short periods of time.

The Berkeley doctors tried the experiment on mice. They let the animals breathe each day enough pneumonia germs to infect and kill a set in their lungs 60 to 70 pneumonia and strep germs.

The mice survived this dose daily for 30 days. A few got either pneumonia or strep infections.

Other mice were given in a single dose as much pneumonia and strep as the first got in 30 days.

The number of mice getting sick from the massive dose was the same as the number sickening after the 30 days exposure.

The doctors concluded from their studies that a series of small infections is equal to a single large one.

MOBILE CLINIC COMPLETES CHEST SURVEY IN CITY

Operated by the Division of Industrial Hygiene in the provincial department of public health, the mobile X-ray clinic has completed chest examinations of employees in seven Belleville Industrial plants. Results of their findings will be announced within a few weeks.

Industries selected for this routine survey included employees in industries, where an exposure hazard exists. Industries visited by the mobile clinic included the Corbin Lock Co., Belleville Lock, Poley Foundry and Machine Company, Stephens-Adamson Manufacturing Company A.C. Campbell Memorials and W. Y. Moore Monuments.

An X-ray technician was in charge of the clinic during its visit here.

SUFFERS BRUISED ANKLE, KNOCKED FROM BICYCLE

Eight-year-old Jim Langton, 24 Forth Front road, was knocked from his bicycle and suffered a bruised ankle yesterday when he was struck by a car as he was riding on the Upper Dundas street.

The lad was pedalling south on the bridge when he apparently changed his mind and attempted to turn on the bridge to ride back to his home. Instead, he swung into the oncoming line of traffic he was struck by a north-bound car. Police said the driver of the car was not learned.

RIFLE CONFISCATED BOYS TO REPORT

That city by-laws forbid the discharge of a rifle within the city limits was discovered yesterday by two police officers on the west side of the river.

During the afternoon a Frank Street resident drew attention to a rifle that he had heard bullets whistling past his home and investigating saw two boys with a rifle in the Coleman Park. Police went to the scene and found the boys using a 22 rifle and discharging bullets into the nearby quarry. The rifle was confiscated and the boys were told to report to the police station.

ROBERT BLAIND TO OPEN STORE

Mr. Robert Blaind, formerly with Jack McNab's, will open a new sports, centre in the city. It was learned today. Location of the new store at which all sporting goods equipment will be handled will be at 31 Bridge St., East, where Allen's Barber Shop is situated.

Robert is a Belleville boy and was educated at St. Michael's, the BCI and Ontario Business College. He was with McNab's until the store was destroyed by fire last month.

Lundy; vice-president and secretary, Fred Maund; treasurer, Thomas Henry; membership and reception chairman, Paul Mercier; project chairman, Edward Littlejohn; program chairman, Horace Ward-White; entertainment chairman, Ralph Pierrepont; hotel chairman, William Slovin.

Angus A. McDonald, of Toronto, was the speaker at the last meeting of the club. His subject was "Color in Advertising."

ANONYMOUS LETTER SENT TO ASSESSING DEPARTMENT OF CITY

Newspaper editors are not the only persons who receive anonymous letters urging that something be done about something or other. They are also received by the city assessing department.

In this instance the letter complained among other things of errors being made in charges for street oiling. But no specific street was mentioned and the writer failed to sign his name.

If any error in charges has been made city hall wants to correct them but in this case the hands of officials are tied. Alderman Thomas Symons said the matter will be thoroughly investigated if the writer will come forward and give the city a few more details.

11 Cottages at Twelve O'clock Point Damaged by Fire

Fire loss amounting to approximately $25,000 resulted early this morning when flames swept through a group of summer cottages at Twelve O'Clock Point at the west end of the Bay of Quinte. Eleven cottages, all owned by Mrs. Hilton Dewey who operates the summer resort, were completely destroyed.

Five departments from the town of Trenton and from the Trenton RCAF, fought the blaze, assisted by neighboring farmers.

The cottages were being readied for the summer business and yesterday the caretaker was raking and burning rubbish. It is believed that a spark from one of the bonfires may have blown beneath a cottage and then smouldered, fanning into a fire during the night. The fire was discovered shortly after three o'clock this morning.

Summer Hotel Saved

The summer hotel operated in connection with the resort was saved from destruction but firemen had to be on the lookout for flying embers which set fire to the roof of several occasions. Water from the department pumper kept the roof wetted down.

Fire Chief Harry Filson of Trenton said the whole sky was lit up at the height of the blaze as flames from the burning cottages set fire to nearby trees. Flying embers settled around the area and firemen put them out with water and by shovelling sand.

The burned cottages were all in a row along the shore of the bay. The fire was stopped by firemen at cottage No. 12 although four or five others were damaged by the flames.

Extensive Amount of Work Carried Out by Health Department in 1951

The health department's annual report for the year 1951 submitted to the council at its last meeting shows there was a total of 496 babies born in the city and 311 deaths, leaving a net gain of 185. Infant deaths numbered 16 and stillbirths 8.

During 1951 two children were given diphtheria and tetanus toxoid, 68 were given triple toxoid, 107 vaccinated for smallpox, 55 were given reinforcing doses of diphtheria and whooping cough, two triple toxoid and one dose given as a reinforcing dose for smallpox. Over 50 persons visited the immunization clinic.

On milk inspection, 105 visits were made and 218 samples of milk and cream were taken from 11 producers. There were 42 visits made to premises of pasteurized milk taken from five distributors.

Nursing services during 1951 were as follows: 1,247 visits paid; infants, 361 for other infants, 85 school nursing visits to prescribed children and 55 to school children. There were 12 visits made for prenatal care and 179 for postpartum care. A total of 121 TB patients were visited. Communicable visits numbered 280 and 327 families were given service. Nursing hours spent in the schools totalled 851, in the office, 464; in the home, 1,041, 447; in clinics 215; and other activities numbered 215.

Activities in the maternal, infant and child hygiene field have been confined to educational talks to new mothers within ten days of their return from hospital, and the child health clinics for pre-school and pre-school age children.

Parents are encouraged to have pre-school physical examinations done by the family doctor and arrangements made to have defects corrected before entry into school. Medical and nursing services are provided in the elementary schools for the discovery of defects and follow-up to ensure corrections. Physical examinations of new pupils are done when the family doctor was not consulted by the parents. When the parents were in attendance the opportunity was utilized for health teaching.

In keeping with modern thought concerning the public health, the work of dental disease, it is planned to undertake a dental public health educational campaign in the school age children in conjunction with the child health clinics. Five of the local dentists have agreed to attend the clinics and examine members of young children, to examine the children's teeth and to advise as to matters of dental hygiene. The aim of the program is to reduce the incidence of dental disease by educating the parents in the proper techniques of dental hygiene.

Curling Season At the Arena Nearing Close

The Quinte Curling Club is nearing the end of a successful season. The last night of curling for this year will be this Wednesday night. William L. Gault, president of the club and Don MacKinnon the secretary have been most helpful in making arrangements for the comfort of the visitors and for the games have nightly watched the matches. The visit of the Kingston rink on Friday night was the highlight of the season.

Before curling is closed for this year a meeting will be held at the conclusion of curling tonight and a thorough discussion will take place on ways and means to procure a curling rink for the city. It is hoped that as many of the members as can be present will be on hand to take part in the deliberations and offer constructive criticism with a view of increasing the prestige of the club in the city. Any motions will be submitted and discussed.

For the past two nights, the president has conducted a local bonspiel run on the score play system and E. Commons with his Air Force rink is well out in front of the field. The third game of the "spiel" will be played tonight and the prizes awarded.

The results are as follows, Monday night, E. Common Stk 16, J. Thornbury Jr. 7; J. A. McFee Stk 11, F. Creggan Stk 7; A. Symons Stk 9, Jr. Symons Stk 5. Tuesday night E. Common Stk 13, J. A. McFee Stk 8, J. Thornbury Stk 11, A. Symons Stk 7; F. Creggan Stk 15, J. Cowan 6

Thomas Walker Appointed Sec Of Fair Board

Thomas Walker, clerk of the township of Ameliasburg and former owner of that municipality has been appointed secretary of the Belleville Agricultural Society, it was announced today. Mr. Walker succeeds Secretary Eric Denyes clerk-treasurer of the county of Hastings.

The new secretary comes to this position with a wealth of experience. He has been a director of the board for several years and has acted as chairman of various committees.

Former secretary Denyes resigned from the post on the fact that he was recently appointed treasurer of the county in conjunction with his position as county clerk. Mr. Denyes held the position of fair board secretary for ten years and was largely instrumental in putting the fair on its present proud status as a Class "B" fair.

Tribute to former secretary Denyes and his secretary Mrs. Lee Gould, was paid in a public form recently when the fair board presented Mrs. Gould with a handsome mantel clock and Mrs. Gould with a cheque. Mrs. Gould has been secretary to Denyes with fair board work over a period of 10 years.

Mr. Elmer Sandercock, M.L.A., Hastings West, made the presentations to Mr. Denyes with Treasurer Ben Bleecker doing the honors for Mrs. Gould.

The presentations were made at a social gathering of the fair board and the city parks board with fair board President Alderman Rollin Wills presiding. Chairman Max Mathews of the parks board spoke briefly.

Low Hanging Street Awnings Come Under Fire

Low hanging awnings in the downtown section of the city have come under fire this week at a council when one of the aldermen who relies his height is no higher than most (because of height, that is) complained that a great many awnings on Front St. were not the required distance above the sidewalk.

"Why, I can't walk up street without ducking my head and I'm not quite six feet," stated Alderman Argue in bringing the matter up. "And a great many are taller than I am."

It was pointed out that the city building inspector was empowered by a check of all awnings in the downtown section of the city with the view of determining their height from the sidewalk and will have to see that they conform. The city by-law awnings must be seven feet above the sidewalk

MAY ELIMINATE PLEDGE

San Francisco, April 30—(AP)—Elimination of the "no smoking" pledge by ministerial candidates will be recommended to the Methodist general conference, leaders of the conference on the ministry reported today. Candidates now are required not to use tobacco. The committee's majority report will recommend that the pledge be abolished and to promise to lead "an exemplary life free from all harmful practices."

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, April 30—(CP)—Western Oils declined steadily today in early afternoon stock market dealings. Industrials, golds and base metals made little headway.

Industrial dealings remained in selected leading issues while few oils, metals or golds attracted speculative interest. Volume for the first three hours was 1,498,000 shares.

Papers continued to lead industrials downward on a scattered list of losses, steels and refining oils also slipped but banks, liquors and retail stores showed strength.

Western Oil losses ranged to about 50 cents. Bristol, Charter, Consolidated Allenbee, General Petroleum, Peace River and Canvan Consolidated traded lower.

In Base Metals, Coldstream Copper, East Sullivan, International Nickel, Noranda, Normetal, Opemiska Copper and Golden Manitou dipped.

Senior golds drifted downward. Secondary issues posted a majority of penny losses.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

Toronto, April 30 (CP)—Ontario stockyards cattle prices were steady in active trading. Receipts: Cattle 600; calves 100; hogs 560; no sheep or lambs. The leftover from Tuesday was 400 cattle.

Choice steers sold at $25-$26.75 with good others at $22-$25 and medium downward to $22. Good heifers sold at $24 with medium selling at $22-$23.50. Good cows were at 20-$21 with a few tops at $22. Canners sold mostly $15-$18. Good heifers brought $20-$21. Common light bulls were selling at $15 while choice fed yearlings sold at $25-$26 with medium downward to $22. Medium to good stockers sold from $23-$25.

Brigadier Knight Praises Batteries At Inspection

Paying tribute to the 32nd and 34th Batteries of the 9th Anti-Tank Regiment, RCA (SP) ALI following the official inspection at the Bridge Street Armouries last night, Brigadier A. F. H. Knight, Eastern Area commander, predicted the regiment would be one of the "largest" if not the "largest" reserve army units on parade for the 1952 inspections.

"The re'.ment," the brigadier said, "has been concentrating on building up its effective strength since the last few months and in this respect Lieut.-Colonel G. C. MacGregor, its commanding officer is to be complimented on the success of his recruiting efforts.

The brigadier said that while there are several units yet to be inspected in the area he felt that the 9th Anti-tank would rate with the best.

"The men were smartly turned out and the training demonstration w re most creditable," he said. "The ceremonial portion of the inspection was not up to the high standard achieved by the regiment at its last inspection, but thi:, the brigadier added, was to be expected with the large number of new recruits.

"It was also apparent," Brigadier Knight said, "that much effort has been put in technical training and this too, could account for the slight drop in the ceremonial training."

Many present

With the brigadier were Brigadier John Gillies, A.G.R.A.; Major H. W. Stetham, general staff officer of Eastern Area; Major M. Pope and others of the command.

Behind the swirling kilts of the regimental pipe band under Pipe Major J. Browning, the batteries swung past a saluting base on the parade floor where Brigadier Knight took the salute. Various demonstrations of training were executed before the inspecting officers.

Among those attending a reception given the brigadier by Lieut.-Col. MacGregor and his officer in the mess were Lieut. Col. Max Porritt, M.C. commanding officer Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment; Group Captain D. H. MacCaul, commanding officer No. 6 Repair Depot, RCAF, Trenton; Lieut.-Col. Bryson Donnan; Lieut.-Col. R. Widdifield; Lieut.-Col. Milton Davison; Lieut.-Col. C. A. Smith and others.

Majors Joe Black, 34th Battery, and Bill Burgoyne, 32nd Battery were in charge of their respective units during the inspection.

A special guest was Colonel R. J. Cash, of the J. and J. Cash Company, Coventry, England.

DIES IN CHAIR

Lincoln, Neb., April 30—(AP)—Roland Dean Sundahl, 21-year-old father of two, died in the electric chair at the Nebraska penitentiary here early today for the Sept. 2, 1950, hatchet slaying of the 16-year-old Bonnie Lou Merrill, a high school girl.

70 YEARS OF SERVICE

Chicago, April 30—AP— John P. O'Connor, Chicago and north western railway agent, today was presented a pin for 70 years of continuous service with the line. Now 85, O'Connor was a boy of 15 when he went to work April 30, 1882, as a caller. His job was to arouse engineers and firemen to notify them to report for duty.

Tables, Benches Placed in Parks By Parks Board

Spring continued to strengthen its grip on the city yesterday as the parks board completed setting-out 75 combination tables and benches for the use of picnickers during the coming season. O. A. Pinkston, secretary-treasurer of the board, announced that lunch accommodation in the parks has almost doubled this year with the construction during the winter months of an additional 32 bench-table combination units.

As in previous years, playgrounds on school grounds will not be equipped with swings and other fun-making equipment until May 24th, D. S. Denyes, secretary of the recreation committee announced. During the next few weeks the city will advertise for an estimated 20 playground supervisors, whose duties will commence July 1. "From the May 24th opening until staffed by supervisors, the playgrounds will be available at the risk of the children," he said.

U.S. Steel Strike May Affect Two Area Plants

Should the strike in United States steel mills continue for more than one month, employees in at least two Belleville area plants are in prospect of lay-offs, it was learned today.

The Central Bridge Company at nearby Trenton whose monthly import of an estimated 900 tons of steel from the United States has been stopped by a presidential order, can continue normal operations for one month, J. Whytock, assistant manager of the bridge company which employs 250 persons, declared that his firm now has quantities of U.S. steel on order.

"Now we can't import what we have already ordered and if the strike continues, we will feel the pinch in about one month," he said.

Speaking for the Stephens-Adamson Manufacturing Co., where 200 workers are employed, G. A. Freeman, general manager, said the steel strike would "drastically affect production if it continues m than one month."

Mr. Freeman explained that Canadian steel rolling mills produce about 75 percent of rolled steel used here.

"But Canadian mills do not r all sizes bt sheet steel," he sa "For that other 25 percent, must go to U.S. mills and when cannot get it we are forced to s pend production."

Despite the strike, Mr. Freem expressed pleasure that the 72 man seizure order had been up by the courts.

"It's nice to know where the dustry stands," he said, addi that the court's ruling would as a preventive to future seizur of private industry by the gover ment.

MADOC

New High School Wing Inspected On 'Open Night' by Parents, Friends

Madoc—Last Friday evening, Madoc High School opened its doors to parents and friends who assembled in the gymnasium for a program which included brief talks by the principal of the school, C. A. Mouse, and the school board representative, Dr. D. Eagleson.

The glide choir rendered one number, "Bonnie Doon," following which, Mr. D. C. Drinkwater, teacher of service and agriculture, also act as interesting and appropriate set of slides on landscaping.

Following the program in the gymnasium, parents were invited to inspect the school and to discuss with teachers individually any problems relating to their children, when mutual discussion might be of benefit. Many interesting experiments were conducted in the science room by the pupils under the direction of Mr. Drinkwater.

Inspect New Building

Perhaps the highlight of the evening was the tour through the new wing, which, although not quite completed, gives a fine insight into "things to come." This wing includes the Economics department, Commercial room, Agriculture - science room, shop, principal's office, lady teachers' room as well as new wash rooms for boys and for girls. These are all in most modern design and finish and the lighting system particularly leaves nothing to be desired.

The consensus of opinion seemed to be that the people of Madoc and of the area which its high-school serves may well be proud of a fine school.

Mrs Lansaine West, of Niagara Falls, Ont., spent the weekend at the home in Madoc.

Raymond Smith of Hamilton, was a home for the weekend.

Messrs. Whytock and Walter Fox, Mrs. James Caughey, Mrs. Walter Cambell and Mrs. Robin, of Bloomfield, Prince Edward County, visited Mrs McCaffrey and attended the funeral of the late Mrs. Manley Fox on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Rodgers, Bobbie and Mary spent the weekend in Sudbury.

Mrs. Wiley of Wooler and Mrs. Morrison of Belleville, also visited Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Nayler during the week.

SUNDAY DISPATCH DISAPPOINTED

The success of the Conservatives in the election held Great Britain last fall was due, many people believed, their promises that they would make an end of the nationalisation of industry and the other socialistic experiments which had been launched by their predecessors, the Laborites, and which had well nigh reduced Britain to bankruptcy.

But during the time they have held office, the Conservatives have evoked criticisms, from their supporters, by their slowness in reversing the trend toward state ownership and state control. The coal industry, the steel industry and the railroads, it has been pointed out, are still operated by the state, and operated just about as inefficiently as the state, in Great Britain or elsewhere, usually operates any given industry or utility.

That the Conservatives have been losing popularity has been proven by the results of numerous municipal and county elections, in which the Laborites made important gains. These elections have shown that industry, the steel and railroad workers have voted Conservative at the general election and in large numbers voting against Conservative candidates in the local elections held more recently.

One reason for this trend has been dug up by the Sunday Dispatch, a weekly paper of Conservative leanings. The Dispatch thinks that the Conservatives have not only been too slow about their denationalisation program, but have shown willingness in certain instances, displayed an appetite and have, in some instances, displayed an alarming tendency toward increasing the scope of the state's activities.

One of these to which the Sunday Dispatch takes exception is the transportation field. The Conservative government, it seems, has not only refused to renew the licences of certain privately-owned bus lines, but has even suspended the licences of others. And the reason for this suspension, the Dispatch points out with unconcealed displeasure, was that these bus lines compete with the nationally-operated railroads. The Dispatch contends that the government, in effect, "is out to ruin by train and pay more, the people who put over money!"

The article in the Dispatch concludes with the words: "A Conservative government cannot hope to please all parties. But neither can it exist if it disappoints its friends."

TOP PRIORITY SECRET

W. J. Grummett, house leader of the C.C.F. at Queen's Park, wants a complete investigation of every aspect of that big secret defence project which the Canadian and American governments are jointly establishing near Timmins. The area concerned is in Mr. Grummett's constituency. Various other C. C. F.ers and some of the leaders of the United Steelworkers have joined Mr. Grummett in making complaints and demanding probes.

Mr. Grummett's chief grievance seems to be that he can't get information in which some of the subsidiary contracts in connection with the work were done. He spoke about "political skullduggery," whatever that may be.

The United Steelworkers think there are too many Reds employed on the job. Some of these Reds, they allege, are not only employed on the project, but are there. Said one of the secretaries of the United Steelworkers: "We don't want the Reds know every crick and bend in the property and every corridor in every building."

Still other critics claim that "a prominent Liberal politician" turned up at the project with "a large party of friends" and then proceeded to make a speech in which he described the whole business "exactly" to his audience.

In case anyone is curious as to how we found out so much about the secret project and the curious goings on there, we are going to be less secretive than the government, and tell all. We read about it in the Globe and Mail.

SWEET HOUSING ACCOMMODATION

Some call it gabbledegook. A newer name for it is Artiegab. But whatever is its proper appellation, it is the language now in use by most if not all government employees when they are writing reports, framing laws, or drafting regulations. Essentially, it is an effort to use some high-sounding and frequently incomprehensible expression when a simple or shorter or more familiar one would serve just as well, or better.

It is epidemic just now, it seems, not only in Canada and the United States, but in Great Britain. So much so that Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill was moved, on a recent occasion, to remark, in referring to some report or other on housing which had been prepared by a government department, possibly at his own behest:

"We may have to rewrite that old popular song, making the words run something like this: 'Housing accommodation, sweet housing accommodation, be ever so humble, there is no place like our housing accommodation'."

THE SEASONS

The seasons four seem unchanged
The spring for ages has returned
With leaf and bud and bloom again.

Let hate work havoc. Sun and rain
Constantly the fields renew
And ripen orchard fruit and grain
As God intended them to do.

Nations to war their youth may call
And send their finest out to die
But still the glorious, golden fall
The troubled world will beautify.

Winter will blanket all with snow
And serve both God's and nature's plan
And regularly come and go
Indifferent to the whims of man.

Dr. J. R. Guthridge gave an interesting address last evening at the meeting of the members of the Xi-Y Club. The president of the club Godfrey Scott presided.

The Rev. A. Beauchamp Bryan, Vicar of St. Thomas' Church, has been invited by the Rt. Rev. John Lyons, M.A., D.D., Lord Bishop of the Diocese of Ontario, to deliver the sermon at the ordination service which is to be conducted in St. George's Cathedral, Kingston, on Sunday morning.

In the absence of the Vicar Matins will be conducted in Thomas Church by the Rev. B. F. Byers, Rector of Stirling.

Workmen are busy getting in order the scenery and drop curtains at the old Carman Opera House which are to be removed to the Collegiate and Vocational School, where after being renovated and made of suitable size they will be used in the school auditorium. Seats from the opera house will also be made use of in school auditoriums.

30 YEARS AGO

April 30th, 1922.

At a meeting of the Belleville Cheese Board 255 boxes of cheese were boarded. W. J. Cook and Sons brought in 145 boxes at 12 3-16 cents and W. H. Morton bought the balance at 13 1-2 cents.

A good frame house owned by Mr. S. LaRue and situated on Herchimer Avenue, about three blocks north of the Kingston Road, was destroyed by fire on Saturday afternoon. The house was rented to Mr. Robert Redner. There is some insurance: on the building, but the furniture is a complete loss.

The shoe repairers in this city have decided to take a holiday every Wednesday afternoon during May, June, July and August.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Whyte will leave shortly to spend the summer in Portland, Oregon.

40 YEARS AGO

Mr. M. B. Morrison of Trenton, Conservative candidate for the Ontario legislature, visited the committee rooms here today.

The generator from the Belleville street railway power house has been taken over by the Auburn Power Company of Peterborough. We understand that the engine and boiler will also be taken to Peterborough.

Mr. L. A. Abbleby is spending a few days in the northern part of the country.

U.K. Ship Opens Cargo Service Between Manchester, Great Lakes

Inaugurating a direct monthly cargo shipping service between Manchester, England, and the Great Lakes by British ships, the Manchester Pioneer arrived recently at Toronto carrying in her hold a $250,000 mechanical computer designed and built by Ferranti Electric Ltd., of England, for the University of Toronto. This complex mechanical brain, one of the few now in existence in the world can do speedily work out mathematical problems in seconds compared to days which humans would take. On hand to observe the unloading of the computer was Dr. J. M. Thomson, general manager of Canadian branch of English company, seen here welcoming Capt. Albert Stargnet of Manchester Pioneer to Canada. — Central Press Canadian.

OUR TOWN

BY JACK SCOTT

WANTED: A BED

I am a guy who, when he reads through the back pages of any magazine, becomes dizzy with the wonderful advances in civilized living.

The front of the magazine may say we are going to annihilate ourselves in the next 10 years (I read dull, conservative magazines), but in the bright shining world of the advertisements to the rear there is page after page of three-color proof that we will, at least, have reached a high degree of making life easier for ourselves in the few short years we have left.

If I had a trumpet I would give a crisp fanfare to the makers of pressure cookers, deodorants, saliritis, jockey underwear, home movies, plastic dental plates, two-way stretch girdles and all the other advances in modern living which prove that life can be shining-sweet if temporary.

And yet it seems to me that in all these blessings of inventions and "advances", as the Americans say, we have neglected one important thing in modern civilization.

Nobody has yet invented a bed big enough for a grown man!

A scientific study of beds and their relationship to grown men, which I have been conducting for several years, indicates proof positive that men are getting smaller and beds are getting smaller. Were it possible to make a nocturnal visit to the bed rooms of any group of average residents, I am confident I would venture to say that nine out of ten would be found with their feet sticking out and looking mighty hideous, too.

The everyday, double or toppassenger bed is, itself, of a size in which only a midget could be thoroughly comfortable, but the beds on steamers and in the better class of hotels are worse still.

Recently I spent five nights precariously clinging to made-up shelves. These so-called beds are not only short enough to suggest that they were designed for double amputees, but are so narrow that they make sleep impossible. A man must remain alertly awake and with a delicate sense of balance or risk a nasty fall.

Perched like a nervous canaryhorizontally on the upper ledge of a two-tier bunk on the train to Victoria the other night I let my mind go back to the last time I slept in a bed. It was called Tilburg in Holland. The Dutch may not be very progressive cookers or plastic dental plates but, by the Lord Harry, they have beds that were made for Germans!

A fellow called Hee Stewart was billeted with me at Tilburg in the middle-class Dutch home, and as we crawled into that feather mouse bed on our first night he had hardly time to say "Good night" before he sank slowly out of sight. I, myself, disappeared out of the world of living into a soft, beautiful, bottomless, feathered pit.

On that very evening a paratroop attack was anticipated in Tilburg. The signal was to be fire of two anti-aircraft guns less than a hundred yards from where we slept. During the night there was a false alarm that the Germans were dropping troops. The guns blazed for four minutes. Later in the evening the invasion was detected by a man with a gigantic railway gun north of the town.

We learned about it on the next day after a night of uninterrupted sleep.

I haven't carried out any extensive investigations on the cause for the decline of the bed, but I have been conducting (for cents) that it all began with the idiot who invented the inner spring mattress, one of the early interior decorators.

The modern bed is based on the theory that since two people may be comfortable in a double bed, separately, in half-a-dozen fashions, the mathematical logic which has given many a man a sleepless night.

I am occasionally exposed to twin beds in weekend visits to the country. At home of a well-to-do friend and have to be ironed out, like linen. It is a dreadful thing.

About the same time as the twin bed, which appeared on the market, somebody else invented a chesterfield which makes no effort to be comfortable. The particular invention is based on the theory that human beings can shorten themselves like telescopes, without permanent injury. Everybody would do it and spend a night in an accordion case.

If you are looking for now is a bed about nine feet square, a suitable room for a man who hopes to spend the best years of his life

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

ATTENTION VALUE

In almost every gathering there are those who immediately attract attention. Some people have only a temporary on account of some recent exploit or sudden fame. A year later the name of that one might not even be recalled!

The really great care nothing for attention. Their only concern is to plant ideas, discover something or invent a useful article. The scientist is interested in his laboratory trying to discover things that will attract the attention. People who deserve attention most are usually the shyest of all.

There are personalities so pronounced that they attract attention no matter where they appear. There are others about whom the world knows little outside their voices on the radio or from what they have done or written in books. It's what a person says and does that is worth attention.

W. A. (Billy) Sunday, former famous baseball player, was one of the most sensational and effective evangelists of his time. It was because of his sensational athletic style that attracted wide attention, but it was the message of Christ and the sincerity and emphatic presentation of the Gospel, that stirred many to seek what was to be appeared, and which compelled his listeners to pay rapt attention to what he had to say.

People who publish magazines, newspapers, and books give a great deal of thought to the attention value of their product. All for the reason why that product should not be disappointing! There are trade-names of products that amount to all the attention value that it is necessary so advertise in the north.

Logan Pearsall Smith, in one of his delightful trivia expressions, said that "Sophocles and Goethe would have always commanded attention, while the lack of it would not have troubled Spinoza or Abraham Lincoln."

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The district in which I live consists of fairly old, comfortable houses built by a generation whose descendants have moved to more fashionable suburbs some years ago. We have not yet surrendered to the high-class rooming house menace; but it is threatening.

The house painter who is doing some decorating for me gave me a shy answer when I asked what is going to the neighborhood.

"There is more paint in that district," he said, "than anywhere in the city."

"Why should that be?" I enquired.

"Most of the people around here," he said, "are business executives, professional people, doctors, lawyers, managers. They are wise guys. They always want to make a deal. Some people like me, mechanics, store keepers, as well as really rich guys, know that the cost of a job consists of the cost of the paint, plus the cost of the time, plus a fair profit to the contractor, if any. But executives and professional people are always out for a deal. I name a price, and they can't buy unless I will throw it down. The only place a job can be whittled down is in the quality of the paint and the time spent putting it on. I don't say that the painters taken advantage of these people. All I say is, they don't let these people take advantage of them."

"Where do you find the best paint?" I asked him.

"In districts where mechanics, artisans, small storekeepers, factory men buy their own homes," said the painter. "The kind of people who know what work is all about, and are aware there is no substitute for quality when it comes to good materials and sound work done."

So, tipping the look like a cigar store owner, I asked the painter what he advised about this room we were in, and how much it ought to cost.

Personal Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Signed Letters, Not More Than One Page, or 100 Words Long, Pertaining to Personal Health and Hygiene, Not to Disease, Pertaining to Treatment, Will be Answered by Dr. Brady if a Stamped, Self-Addressed Envelope is Enclosed.

ALLERGY AND TONSILLECTOMY

Some medical colleagues for whom I have great respect keep telling me I am wrong about tonsillectomy. They are convinced that the operation is uniformly beneficial in various ways, although it seems to be any apparent good in some instances and proves disastrous in a few instances.

That's their opinion, and I'm sure they are as sincere about it as I am about mine. If they didn't believe tonsillectomy is beneficial in most instances they would not advise or do the operation.

I don't know how familiar these colleagues may be with the statistics reported in various medical journals and tabulated in Children's Tonsils In and Out (Lippincott) by Albert D. Kaiser, M.D., but to my mind Dr. Kaiser's observations of the effects of tonsillectomy on Rochester school children are based on the opinion that tonsillectomy is uniformly beneficial, although I must say that Dr. Kaiser himself concluded that in some respects children whose tonsils were removed were better off than children whose tonsils were not removed.

Ten or 12 years ago Public Health Reports estimated that there were 1,235,000 tonsillectomies a year in the United States.

Probably not nearly so many now. Doctors are less radical about tonsils today.

In Archives of Otolaryngology Dr. Hansel and Chang estimated that 180,000 of the morel han a million and a quarter of patients subject to tonsillectomy in a year were unnecessarily operated on. These authors said the 180,000 victims of unnecessary tonsillectomy really had only respiratory allergy.

Oh, well, we needn't quarrel about that. I mention the 180,000 unnecessary tonsillectomies merely to indicate how I got this way about tonsillectomy.

From time to time come reports of the tragic results of tonsillectomy, and every report, I confess, demoralize me.

One fine family physician protests:

"In your neck of the woods the doctors may take out pieces of throat muscle when they perform tonsillectomy but they don't do it here. Your stuff is usually pretty ethical but when you tell folks to take the word of a layman teacher rather than that of the doctor—oh, dear!"

Examination of the material removed in a thousand tonsillectomies in a dispensary in Kansas City showed that in numerous instances pieces of throat muscle were removed. The operations were done by numerous qualified surgeons and the examinations were made by a qualified pathologist. It was on that report that I based the advice to beware of the tonsil snatcher and if the young woman requires treatment for infected tonsils let it be electro-coagulation (diathermy).

I believe that is good advice.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Varicose Veins

Began reading your column in the Ontario and they always found it sound, instructive and highly . . . What, short of surgery, is the cure for varicose veins? (P.D.L.)

Answer—Send stamped self addressed envelope and ask for pamphlet Varicose Veins and Varicose Ulcer.

Feeble Twins

My paternal grandmother was a twin, and she born five sons. Her twin brother became the father of no sons. (Mrs. R. L.)

Answer—Thank you. Now my file of boy-girl twins who both have proved fertile, is full enough. The facts to the contrary notwithstanding, fixation will continue to tell the girl of the boy-girl twin sometimes that she can't hope to bear children.

Twelve of the Twenty

Have already lost twelve of these hated 20 pounds of flabby flesh in less than four weeks, on the system you give in your pamphlet How to Lose Weight. But that is only part of it. I feel more peppy than I have for years . . . (Mrs. W. D.)

Answer—Thank you. The pamphlet is available to any reader who asks for it in writing (clipping will not suffice) and provides self-addressed envelope.

Strength for the Day

BREAKING THE VICIOUS CIRCLE

In a world where men set themselves against each other and groups arrayed itself against group, somebody has to be willing to make the sacrifice which will break the vicious circle. Just as Telemachus the Monk rushed between two gladiators in the Roman amphitheater and called upon them in the name of Christ to cease their strife, so the Christian must push himself boldly into situations of grave moral contention and summon men to desist from evil practices which lead to ruin. Telemachus suffered violent death, but gladiatorial combat ceased as the result of his courageous rebuke. He counted his life as nothing that he might break the vicious circle which enmity and violence had created, even though he pay the price. No one can do this, of course, except the sons of the Heavenly Father. That same Heavenly Father broke the vicious circle of evil by his self-imposed sacrifice on the cross. He gave his only begotten Son to the cross because believeth on him should not perish but have everlasting life. He gave the thing he prized most to break the powers of evil.

If we are true sons of the Father, we can do no less; and if we act as such a spirit of utter self-sacrifice, the vicious circle of hate and violence will everywhere be broken.

Ridgway to Command NATO Forces in Europe

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway

Gen. Mark Clark

The 14 North Atlantic Treaty Nations, acting through their permanent council established in Paris, have agreed unanimously to the appointment of Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, commander-in-chief of the United Nations command in Korea, as successor to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower as supreme commander in Europe. The appointment was made after President Truman, informed by special cable of the council's unanimous desire that the U.S. government appoint from its officers a successor to Eisenhower, replied within the hour that he would make Ridgway's services available to the Supreme Allied Command. At the same time Truman appointed Gen. Mark Clark chief of the army field forces to succeed Ridgway in Korea. Clark, veteran of the tough Italian peninsula campaign, goes to the not dissimilar Korean peninsula amid indications that the communist forces might end the prolonged truce negotiations with an all-out spring offensive. — Central Press Canadian.

Greek Girl Is First Yugoslav Repatriate to Arrive in Canada

An 18-year-old girl arrived recently in Canada as the first legal escaper from Yugoslavia under a new International Red Cross scheme. One of 28,000 Greek children snatched from their homeland by communists in 1948 and taken behind the Iron Curtain, Olga Kljunova is among 400 Greek children to be repatriated and is the first to arrive in Canada. Now that her dream has been fulfilled Olga, who will live in Toronto with relatives, would like to go to school as she didn't have much opportunity for "free education" during the four years she passed as a virtual prisoner of the Russians. In Yugoslavia, teaching and training was designed to turn young people against Greece. — Central Press Canadian.

HAD GROCERY BILL

Fort Credit, April 30 (CP)—When Delbert Allan of Malton left court here, he had a receipt like a supermarket grocery bill. It read: Careless driving, $15, no rear light, $5; no permit, $5; failed to produce permit, $10; no name on truck, $5; illegal possession of liquor, $10.

FIRES A LA CARTE

St. Catharines, April 30 (CP)—Fires in St. Catharines are a La Carte. A motorist fearing the setting of his automobile on fire, drove to the nearest fire hall and had it extinguished.

WEDDINGS

MURRELL—MILLER

On Saturday, April 19th, at 2.00 p.m. Mountain View United Church was the scene of a pretty wedding, when Betty Lou Ann Miller, of Crofton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Miller, became the bride of Kenneth Vernon Murrell, of Toronto, son of Mrs. Murrell, of Toronto, and the late Mr. Thomas Murrell. The Reverend H. H. Hilla, of Belleville, officiated before a background of spring flowers and ferns.

Mr. Schmidt, of Crofton, rendered the wedding music.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was radiant in her bridal gown of white satin featuring a brocaded molded bodice with Sweetheart neckline and detailed sleeves and, trimming in points over the wrists. Her fingertip skirt of plain satin, her finger-tip veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a pearl encrusted coronet, and she carried a shower bouquet of red roses, and wore a triple strand of pearls.

Miss Carmel Newell, of Belleville, was maid of honor, gowned in yellow taffeta and net, with matching floral headdress, and carrying roses and pink and pastel tinted sweetpeas.

Trella Miller, of Crofton, sister of the bride, was flower girl, demure in her floor-length frock of mauve taffeta, matching headdress and carrying a nosegay of roses, sweet peas.

Mr. Junior Miller, of Crofton, brother of the bride, was groomsman; Mr. Delmar Murrell, of Oshawa, brother of the bridegroom, and Mr. Gerald Miller, of Belleville, brother of the bride, were ushers.

For the reception which was held at the home of the bride's parents, the bride's mother, attired in navy suit, with white accessories and corsage of pink roses, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, wearing a dark green suit with tan accessories and corsage of Talisman roses, received the guests.

Later, amid showers of confetti and good wishes, Mr. and Mrs. Murrell left for a wedding trip to Kingston, Ottawa and Quebec. She wore a grey ensemble with blue accessories and corsage of red roses. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Murrell will reside in Toronto.

Out-of-town guests were present from Pembroke, Ottawa, Toronto, Belleville, Trenton, Lindsay and New Toronto.

T. Eaton Company Staff Honors Bride-To-Be With Surprise Shower

Last evening the staff of the T. Eaton Company held a surprise shower at the home of Mrs. Melville Wilkinson, a member of the Mail Order department), Hallowell, R.R. No. 1, in honor of one of their fellow workers, Miss Betty Mermaid, bride-to-be of near future.

When the guest of honor arrived, the room was dimly lit affording a splendid opportunity of yelling out, "Surprise."

The evening was spent in viewing television and listening to unique musical recordings.

After Betty had finished unwrapping the many useful and pretty gifts, for which she expressed her thanks and deep appreciation for the good wishes accompanying them, she invited all to visit her in her new home.

Refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Bert and Mrs. Alexander and Miss Margaret Novinski which concluded a delightful and memorable shower.

Club Activities

WHITE'S M.B.

White's District—The Sunbeam Mission Band held their April meeting at Quinte View School on Wednesday afternoon, April 23rd, with Mrs. Leonard Trenton, Vice-President, in charge of the meeting. The theme was "Easter Time" and the scripture was read by Mrs. Lloyd Hoover and Asa Copeland. An Easter worship service entitled "The King of Glory" was well done by all girls and boys.

The Rev. A. C. McCallum spoke to the Mission Band and told them of his arrival in western Canada from Ireland where he was a young man. He sent sent to Saskatchewan as a missionary where there were neither churches nor schools. In the summer months, he taught school and in winter attended college. He preached three sermons each Sunday travelling a distance of 12, 13 and 25 miles between meeting places by horse and buggy.

A few years ago he returned to this district in Saskatchewan and preached at the service celebrating the 60th anniversary of the founding of the church.

John 15:14 was repeated by memory. The offering was taken by Donald Bowers and dedicated by prayer by the leader.

A dialogue taking place among a caterpillar, a butterfly, and a grasshopper, was portrayed by Sylvia Billman, Anne Hoag and Audrey Bowers, and announced by Gail Glasgow.

The "Gift Box" was a conversation among cents in a mission Band box played by Floyd Kleinsteuber, Donald Hax, Gary Reid, Donald Bowers, Asa Copeland and Carl Arthur. Their envelopes had dropped these cents in the Mission Band gift box instead of spending them for candy.

Alma Copeland gave a reading "Puny Willows Get a New Suit Too." Carl Arthur, Ronald Pryor, Don and Denny Neal read together "Easter Time is Tulip Time."

Mrs. Young gave the story of "The Children of Korea" which told of the hardships of the Korean people, yet the children are taught to be polite and to offer prayer before meals.

Mrs. George Arthur gave the chapter study on "Concert" from "The Twins Make Friends."

CARMEL COMRADES CLUB

The regular meeting of Carmel Comrades was held at the church on Friday evening with a good attendance and was in charge of Grace and Clayton Ritz, group leaders.

The meeting opened with quiet time followed by an inspiring worship service with the theme "Teaching and encouraging our children in Christ."

Those taking part were, Grace and Clayton Ritz, Norma Morton and Cora Ritz.

After the devotional, the meeting was turned over to president Carl Thompson, and a number of items of all business were dealt with. In place of the next regular meeting, Mrs. Ritz announced a three-act play entitled "Slow poke" and pie social in May.

The remainder of the program consisted of two enjoyable films, "Trafalgar" and "To the Florida," and "Reacu- Mission of the C.O.G.F.A."

Refreshments were served by the group in charge and a social hour followed.

PIONEER INDUSTRY

Manufacture of boots and shoes was one of the earliest industries in Canada, with 20 shoemakers listed in 1667.

Women's Guild Discusses NATO

A study and discussion of NATO proved a most timely topic at the regular meeting of the Women's Guild held on Monday evening at the home of Mrs. A. Fraser, Third St.

Mrs. Wm. Hurse dealt with the structure of the organization, explaining by means of a chart, its various boards and committees with their duties and purposes, and finally pointing out the great interest and guidance of such a team for defence and the preservation of peace.

Mrs. H. C. Seldon dealt with the Ottawa meeting of the Atlantic Council in Sept., 1951, when for the first time military problems took a back seat and the main emphasis was on economic problems, disclosing the inability of every country except the United States to have both "guns and butter."

At this meeting Greece and Turkey were invited to join the organization.

References were also made to the Lisbon Conference and to Gen. Eisenhower's report after one year and the immediate appointment of Gen. Ridgeway to replace Gen. Eisenhower in command.

During the business part of the meeting plans were made for packing and sending good used clothing to the Unitarian Relief Committee.

A timely worship service was conducted by Mrs. C. A. Buchanan, based on a sermon by Rev. Peter Bryce, showing the need of unity and strength of common to all and the important thing is how we take them.

Informal discussion continued while light refreshments were served by the hostess and committees.

Women's Activities

Thomasburg—The regular meeting of the Thomasburg United Church W.A. was held at the home of Mrs. R. Robinson on Tuesday, April 22nd.

Mrs. G. Baldrick they resident, opened the meeting. Mrs. George Walker gave the scripture reading from I John IV. After reading the minutes of the Mission Band Anniversary Monthly, Mrs. Clarke, Mrs. Vaseman and Mrs. M. Vance took part in a program based on the theme "Reaching Out."

Mrs. Harold Morton, Sr., gave the interesting chapter from the study book "The Christian Crusade."

After the business of the meeting was discussed, refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants.

Women's Association Holds Annual Rally

Redneersville—The second annual district rally at the Women's Association was held recently at Redneersville United Church with Mrs. Charles Dempsey presiding. The morning session began at 10 o'clock with the registration.

The devotional was taken by the Consecon group with Mrs. Kaiser as leader. Mrs. Lyle Clarke read the scripture from Matthew 16:1-26.

Readings were given by Mrs. T. LaRue and Mrs. F. Veach, while Mrs. Vaughan also rendered a pleasing solo.

Address of Welcome

The address of welcome was given by Mrs. Leon Ward, to which Mrs. Donald Spencer most graciously replied, on behalf of the Centre group.

Last year's report was given by Mrs. Rattray which had been held at Consecon after which the guest speaker, Mrs. Brigadier Gage of the Salvation Army was introduced by Mrs. W. King-erley of Consecon.

Mrs. Aguilby stressed the fact that every home needs an altar and on the flannelgraph board, she laid the picture of Jesus' home.

Mrs. Garn Dobbs moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. Gage for her splendid talk.

Following the talk, a solo was rendered by Miss Marilyn Barbet, and a reading, full of humor was given by Mrs. Sidney Fox, of Victoria.

Afternoon Session

The afternoon session began with a few favorite hymns followed by the business period taken by the Massassaga group, with the message being given by Mrs. A. Hillman.

A panel discussion, under the leadership of Mrs. Cora Dobbs was also held, followed in turn by a solo, "Bless This House," by Miss Joan Wood, and a reading by Miss Leslie Anderson, appreciated by the group.

Reports from the various W.A. groups were heard.

Mrs. Morley Davidson introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Walter Elliott, after her fine talk, Miss Audra Brickman took charge of the question box. An invitation from Victoria W.A. was extended to hold the meeting there next year.

Mrs. Kingerley requested Mrs. Dobbs to come forward and extend the hand of fellowship to each of the presidents.

The Reverend J. R. Henderson pronounced the benediction bringing to a close an inspiring rally.

CANADIAN LIZARDS

The blue-tailed skink found in southern Ontario is one of the 4 of small lizards native to Canada.

Jack C. Martin Shows Colored Yukon Slides

The Women's Association of Bridge Street Church met recently in the church parlor for the April meeting with the president, Mrs. R. H. Wray, presided and welcomed the members and guests.

Following a rather lengthy business session, Mrs. O'Neill and Mrs. May's group took charge of the program.

Mrs. J. M. Wood conducted an inspiring devotional service entitled "Witnessing for Christ in our Community." Mrs. W. J. Burgoyne accompanied by Mrs. Guthridge at the piano, sang a beautiful solo "I Walked Today Where Jesus Walked."

Guest Speaker

Mrs. O'Neill invited the members into the Sunday School rooms where Mrs. George Campbell introduced Mr. Jack C. Martin, guest speaker, for the afternoon. Mr. Martin is at present employed at the Highland Control investigations labratory in Belleville. He had spent two years studying and collecting insects on the northern insect survey with Canadian defence research at Repulse Bay in 1950 and Porcupine river in 1951.

He showed pictures shown were taken during this survey in the Yukon and Alaska. His running commentary accompanying the pictures was most interesting and enlightening to his audience. A particularly beautiful picture of the midnight sun and one of a rainbow made by the midnight sun, pictures of animals, birds, insects and flowers, to mention just a few taken there.

Mr. May thanked Mr. Martin, on behalf of the association.

The group in charge served refreshments at the close of the meeting.

WEEDY SPOT

The southern extremity of Georgian Bay in Ontario is called Matchedash Bay after an Indian word meaning "bad or swampy place."

If you are painting a chair, sandpaper the rungs before painting the seat. Dust carefully and place the chair upside down on a table. Paint the seat and rungs, then turn upright and paint the spindles, do the edges and seat last.

BEAUTY

HELEN JAMIESON

What About Those Rear Tresses?

There probably has never been a time in the history of dress when the chic coiffure has prevailed among all classes of women as it does today. The lady of fashion, the waitress who serves you, cargirls, women executives, and factory workers all display hairdos of the latest mode. For the straight-haired woman the permanent wave is no longer a luxury, but a necessity. Without it, she couldn't face the lady in the looking glass.

There is one fly in this pulchritude ointment, and that is the rear arrangement of the coiffure—which sometimes falls down. The short cut means that the hair at the napeline may be scarcely an inch and a half long. The permanent does not curl that close to the scalp and these little rag-tags and bobtails must be combed and brushed. They are scarcely long enough for the pin curl, so many girls resort to tiny metal curlers; wear them every night during sleep. A tiresome task, but it has to be done.

The next time you go to the theatre, look at the heads of women sitting in front of you. You'll be surprised. It would seem that many women are not in the habit of picking up the hand mirror and looking in the mirror of the dressing table to survey the backs of their heads.

Time and thought are given to the front of the hairdress. One gets to know where every shaft should go to produce the best effect. There are dozens of arrangements from which to choose, so finding one that is smart and becoming requires no great effort. Operators in beauty shops have skillful fingers. Hair stylists will give you a new hairdo in place of the old one. But take a backward glance now and then. That is where you miss out.

The poodle cut is an improvement on the short crop because the hair is slightly longer. You have petal curls all over your head, and the tiny tendrils along the napeline have a softer effect than the extremely short cut. If you are due for a permanent, why not consider that extra inch or so at the back?

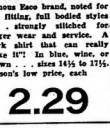
It will do away with a problem. You can still have short curls at the front and sides.



The old girls among us, not so willing to give up too much time for self-decorating purposes, can have an upturned roll at the back; they can anchor it with bobby pins and not worry about little slags getting away from the home base.

Consider the back of your head.

Clam Chowder

Spring Celery and Egg Salad
De Luxe Waffles with New Crop Maple Syrup
Coffee

As you can see with one half-blind eye this is an unorthodox meal, and may not entice the meat-and-potato addicts in this audience. But take it from me, brothers and sisters this is a rib-sticking, soul-satisfying, eye-catching little repast that was dreamed up so I could work in that new (to me) waffle recipe, and help you put to use that new maple syrup you bought so enthusiastically (and expensively), and are now stuck with.

Analyze this meal and you will see that it is well-balanced. All of the proteins and vegetables required for a well-balanced meal are included, plus a dessert to bring a gleam into the eyes of your teen-agers and sweet-loving menfolk. But reducers should avoid the waffles and maple syrup for they are loaded with calories.

Clam Chowder (using canned clams)

Saute together in a large, heavy frying-pan 2 medium sized, finely chopped or sliced onions and ¼ lb. diced salt pork or side bacon, until they are limp and very slightly browned. Add 3 cups ¼ inch cubes raw potatoes, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 2 cups boiling water, and simmer covered until potatoes are tender. Add liquor, drained from 1 10-oz. can whole clams. Chop the whole clams into quarters, or smaller if you like. Add the clams and 1 quart whole milk and 1 tablespoon butter. Heat through. Serve in large bowls with 3 or 4 oyster crackers floating on top. (If you can avoid it do not serve any breadstuff with this for it will be too filling—by the time you are finished this meal.)

Spring Celery and Egg Salad

Hard cook 1 egg for each person to be served. Separate the whites and yolks. Chop the whites coarsely and mix them with double the quantity of celery cut into tiny sticks. Moisten this mixture with mayonnaise. On individual salad plates put bed of lettuce, place mound of mixture in centre. Garnish each one with 4 2-inch sticks celery filled with yellow or white process cheese. Very carefully push the yolks through the sieve, and lifting them with a fork, to avoid packing them, sprinkle some over salad mixture of each plate. Stuffed olives are a good additional garnish. Pass extra mayonnaise sharpened up with a little lemon juice.

De Luxe Waffles

Two cups sifted flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon each salt and baking soda, 2 cups sour or buttermilk, 4 well-beaten eggs, ¾ cup melted margarine or salad oil. (We use salad oil.) Sift the dry ingredients together. Add the sour milk to the beaten eggs. Add to dry ingredients and beat with rotary beater or electric beater at "low" speed until smooth. Add melted margarine or oil. Have the waffle iron heated to the exact degree, and then settle down for a good time.

If you do not have a waffle iron but do have the maple syrup maybe you would like to make

Maple Charlotte

Soak 1 tablespoon gelatine in ¼ cup cold water. Heat ⅔ cup maple syrup and pour it over the soaked gelatine, stirring until dissolved. Add 2/3 cup milk. Chill, stirring occasionally. When partially set fold into it 1 cup cream which has been whipped until stiff. Turn into individual moulds or one large mould, which has been rinsed with tasty fingers or strips of plain or sponge cake. Chill until set.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Sometimes This 17 - Year - Old Wishes Her Mother Were Dead

A sick mother whose illness makes her short-tempered, unreasonable and suspicious is the problem which is complicating the life of one 17-year-old girl.

"My mother is very ill and might not live too long," she writes me, "but she treats me very mean and childish. She always finds fault with me and acts as if I don't belong at home. She doesn't want me to talk to anyone or to have any boy friends, and if I do, she says I'm a tramp.

"I have a stepfather who treats me swell and we get along fine, so when he goes to work and isn't around she says awful things to me, such as that she knows I wish she was dead so I could marry my step-father. Sometimes I do wish she was dead, just to be free from her. I'm so mixed up I don't know which way I'm headed for.

"Once in a while, if my mother happens to be in a good mood, she will let me go to my friend's house, my grandmother's, and sometimes my aunt will take me dancing for a few hours where I meet boys, but my mother doesn't want them to come to the house as I don't have a chance to really be friends with any of them. Then when my mother knows I went out once or twice with a boy, and then didn't see him any more, she asks me if he was too slow for me. I am a good girl and never did anything wrong, and don't intend to, but she keeps after me and I do need advice badly."

Problem Will Solve Itself

If this girl's mother is as critically ill as her daughter says, it may be that the problem will solve itself before too long. So difficult and unhappy though it all is for a teen-ager to bear, I think it best for her to try to ignore her mother's attitude, and her mean remarks, as much as she can, until it becomes evident whether the mother is going to live very much longer or not.

It seems to me important that this 17-year-old should know what the outlook for her mother is, because if the condition is likely to continue indefinitely, then there should be some adjustment made for the girl. It is one thing to bear as patiently as possible with a difficult situation if one knows it is going to end before too long, but quite another thing to have to put up with it for years and years. For teen-agers to have to live in a home where there is a chronic invalid is not easy even under the best of circumstances. Any such conditions call for intelligent action on the part of the adults to see that the lives of the young people are not too deeply overshadowed by the presence of illness.

Have Talk With Doctor

So I think it would be quite right and proper for this girl to have a confidential talk with her mother's doctor and discuss her whole problem with him. Or, if she hesitates to do this on her own initiative, she might ask her stepfather if he will do it for her. Since the two of them are so congenial, and apparently understand each other so well, he must surely realize what she is up against, and should be willing to take some definite steps toward making her life easier and happier.

Then, if the project seems to be that the mother's life will be short, the girl might make one tremendous effort to accept things as they are for the limited period necessary, as I have already suggested. If the outlook is otherwise, however, then she or her stepfather, or both of them together should, I think enlist the services of the grandmother and the aunt in making essential adjustments. With all of them working and planning together, it should be possible to see that this teen-ager is assured the freedom for normal social contacts and activities enjoyed by other girls and boys. It is h- right not only to have such good times, but also to have a way provided by which she can be out of the home a reasonable amount of time and to have relief from the strain of constant association with a crochetty and emotionally-distorted invalid.

GOOD MANNERS

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman
A Good Hint for Manners

It's mighty comforting to realize that even if you weren't born tactful, you can train yourself to be tactful by stopping to consider the feelings of other people. You must "stop, look, listen." Open your eyes and your mind and your heart to become aware of the feelings of others, their reactions or possible reactions to circumstances present, their interests, their wishes, their inclinations.

Excellent Technique in Eating Fruit Compote

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

What is the best way to remove pits from the mouth—such as pits from apricots, peaches, plums, prunes—when these fruits are served in a fruit compote, say as a dessert? This "procedure" generally looks so awkward and messy.

Trying-to-learn.

Right you are! And so the best thing to do is to avoid having to remove these pits from the mouth by never putting them in the mouth in the first place! You can do this when the "double service of silver" . . . dessert spoon (or teaspoon) and dessert work for any medium-size fork or small fork. . . is provided with the dessert. Then you use the fork in your left hand to hold the fruit, and you use the spoon in your right hand to cut the fruit away from the side of the pit, a small piece at a time, as you eat it. A "neat and tidy" way to eat your breakfast prunes or other stewed fruits with pits, and your dessert fruit compote.

Happy Messengers of Happy News . . . Before Public Engagement Announcement

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I came here last year from my home quite a distance from here, to accept a position in the home office of a firm for which I worked in my home city. Now I have just become engaged to a young man whose home is also quite a distance from here. On Easter Sunday we both telephoned to "the parents", his and mine, each introducing the other on the telephone, and telling both sets of parents of our engagement. My parents approved of announcing engagement in our local newspapers, and I said I'd let them know when. My fiance and I would like to have the announcement printed next week. Is there anything I (or we) should do before this public announcement is made?

Corrine M.

Yes! There is something most important you both must do before this public announcement is made. This the personal announcement that you both must make to those most closely concerned in this so important news: telling or writing to grandparents, aunts, uncles and cousins, your best friends, your fiance's best friends. Such personal news should be told personally to close relatives and friends . . . it is most thoughtless to omit this gesture, letting them "find out" by reading the news in the newspaper.

Fashion Flashes

SUCH CHANGES as there are in at-home or leisure clothes now! Gone are the smartest robes seem old-fashioned. A beauty includes a very full skirt, a fitted skirt of mauve gray silk organdie gathered with big white moth dots. The sweater top is of dull jersey in fuchsia, and there is a herchief of the polka-dotted organdie knotted at the throat.

WHERE THE BLUE BEGINS seems to be in the undies department this season, what with navy blue cited as a leading color in girdles, and constant calls for lingerie in all shades of blue.

MOVING UP into the smart bracelets is good old denim. A really handsome one, woven of good cotton country wear, is of yellow denim with silver snap-buttons arranged in pairs all the way from neck to hem. Silver nailheads form an interesting design around slanting bodice pockets.

A WHOLE NEW APPROACH to the handling of fox has led to new popularity for this pretty, fluffy fur. A wide band of pink is used for a fox fashioned into a short, cape-sleeve bolero, actually one continuous curved cape, but with fullness worked at the sides to form a deep, rippling cape sleeve.

CARD FIENDS should relish a new cotton glove, for against its background, in vivid or pastel shades, or white, is a tiny print of black and red clubs, diamonds, spades and hearts, scattered all over the glove.

Charges Ordered Dropped By Attorney-General

Windsor, Ont., April 29—(CP)—Attorney-General Porter has directed the dropping of charges laid against four union committeemen in connection with the forced shutdown last Dec. 3 of the Ford of Canada powerhouse, it was announced today.

Crown Attorney Bruce J. S. Macdonald said charges against Connie Steers, Clayton Wood and Norman Brookes, committeemen of Local 200, the United Auto Workers (C.I.O.-C.C.L.), of conspiring to obstruct the transmission of electric power will not be pressed as the result of Mr. Porter's action.

A county court jury early this month acquitted the three on charges of obstructing power transmission.

Also dropped would be a further charge against Steers of besetting the Ford powerhouse and charges against Anthony Drouillard, another Local 200 committeeman, of besetting the powerhouse and of obstructing a plant protection officer.

George Burt, U.A.W. Canadian director hailed the decision as "a matter of considerable gratification to Ford workers, their families, and their local and international union."

BANCROFT

Bancroft — Provincial Constable R. J. Rackham, photographic and fingerprint expert at Belleville district headquarters, was the speaker at the April meeting of Bancroft Public School Home and School Association, held in the school on Thursday evening.

To a large audience, including the highest percentage of fathers present for years, Constable Rackham told many of the interesting parts of his work, in a manner that held the attention of everybody for every second. Briefly tracing the history of fingerprinting he mentioned that over a thousand years ago Chinese monarchs used thumb impressions to identify some of their valuable documents. Improvements, changes and innovations were added and the present system came to Canada after various ideas had been tried in Italy, Germany, Japan, Brazil and England.

Nine Patterns

Coming to fairly modern times the speaker relisted how Scotland Yard adopted the system of classifying prints into nine general patterns in 1897 and introduced it in their regular routine in 1901. In 1904 the system was brought to Canada and in 1911 it was first used as a means of positive identification in a Canadian court.

A number of pictures were used to illustrate the talk. After the regular meeting Constable Rackham gave a practical demonstration of how the police locate finger prints that are not evident to the naked eye.

Corporal A. F. Grayling, of the Bancroft detachment, O.P.P., introduced the speaker. During his introductory remarks he spoke of the large number of bicycles in the village and told the parents that they should do everything possible to teach their children the traffic regulations of the province.

Public Health Nurse

President Mrs. J. N. Brown reported that the plans for a public health nurse for the elementary schools of North Hastings were progressing rapidly. Alexander W. Smith, Inspector of Public Schools for North Hastings, who was unable to be present at the meeting, informed the meeting through the president, that a number of the interested school boards and municipal councils had endorsed the project.

Refreshments were served by the social committee, with Mrs. Cecil White as convener.

How does a young man like me provide the life insurance his family needs?

"I'm not earning a great deal of money as yet—but I want to make sure that my wife and youngsters will be O.K. financially if anything should happen to me.

"How much insurance should I provide, as a minimum? What kind of policy should I buy—both for today, and as a foundation for the larger insurance program I hope to have in the future?

"This is such an important money matter, I want the advice of an expert!"

Olympic Jumper

For the first time in history Canada will enter a team in the Olympic equestrian events. Major Austin Michael Piersonrodt, shown with one of the mounts, "Tara," is coaching the team. Some of Canada's best-known riding competitors are candidates for the team. Janet Rough of Toronto, prominent in jumping circles, also admires the Irish-bred horse. — (CP Photo.)

Blossoms Appear

Niagara Falls, Ont., April 30—The colors of spring blossoms have appeared on district orchards in their earliest arrival in many years.

Cherry, plum peach and pear trees are covered with white and pink blooms in the entire area north of Queenston, below the Niagara escarpment. And various-colored tulips on the giant floral clock at the Queenston power plant have opened.

NEW PLANT COMING

Toronto, April 30 (CP)—Dr. W. C. Givens, a member of the Board of Health said yesterday that part of Toronto sinks—the result of undigested sludge being discharged from an overloaded sewage disposal plan in the east end. "It makes people ashamed to live in the area," he said. A new plant is being built.

Susie Did What Couldn't Be Done!

Heifer triplet, born only once in 10,000 births according to statistics, is in itself a rare happening but when the triplets include a set of twins, then it borders on the phenomenal. And the cause of all these startling developments is a six-year-old Holstein named Susie, seen above with her pride and joy. Owned by C. Merritt White of Woodstock, Ohio, Susie's twins have dairy specialists "muttering in their milk" for they claim that biologically identical calves are "almost an impossibility." — Central Press Canadian.

MADOC JUNCTION

Seymour Hamilton Gives Talk on Recent Trip to Australia

Madoc Junction — The April meeting of the Community Friendship Circle was held on Friday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Clarke, with a fairly good attendance.

Mr. Carl Reid presided over a program that had been prepared by Mrs. Clarke.

The worship service was taken by Mr. Carl Reid reading the scripture lesson; Miss Norma Kirkey giving the commentary and prayer by Rev. M. G. Clarke.

Several hymns were sung with Mrs. Maurice Clancy as pianist. Readings were given by Mrs. B. Reide, Suzanne Galliger and Mrs. Maurice Clancy.

Paul Bridges read a poem followed by a beautiful acrostic given by six members of the Sunday school. Grace Clarke, Marilyn Reid, Anna Mae Clarke, Janine Reide, Bobby Clarke and Allan Reide. Donna Stapley contributed a piano solo.

Guest Speaker

The guest speaker, Mr. Seymour Hamilton, of Mountain View gave an interesting talk on his recent trip to Australia and also displayed numerous pictures he had taken.

After the meeting closed, refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed.

Loses Court Plea

Once known as Hitler's favorite film actress, 45-year-old Leis Riefenstahl, is shown as she appeared before a denazification court in West Berlin where she stated that she sought the dictator's acquaintance in 1932 because she saw him only as rising political figure. She added, however, that their relations were artistic, rather than political. The Berlin court confirmed the findings of a West German court which had earlier classified her as a "follower" of the Nazi party. — Central Press Canadian.

Conservatory Head Retires

A proposed reorganization of Toronto's Royal Conservatory of Music has caused the retirement of Sir Ernest MacMillan, 58, as dean of the Faculty of Music at the University of Toronto. In addition, Ettore Mazzoleni, principal of the Conservatory, has resigned. Several other staff changes in the wake of the proposed shakeup are reported in prospect. The plan would abolish the university faculty and create a Faculty of Music at the Conservatory, which has operated under direction of the University since 1921. — (CP Photo.)

Canada Launches First . . . of 3 New Minesweepers

The newest ship of the rapidly expanding Royal Canadian Navy is seen sliding down the ways to become waterborne at Victoria, B.C. The first to be launched of three minesweepers now under construction in the Victoria area, the HMCS Comox features aluminum framing and African mahogany planking. Aluminum is extensively used in other parts of the 140-foot vessel, and marks a new departure in naval ship construction. Immediately after the launching, the keel was laid for the second minesweeper to be built at Victoria while the third sweeper is undergoing construction at Esquimalt. — Central Press Canadian.

Rebels Are Routed by French Forces in Indo-China

Members of the Franco-Viet Nam forces are seen charging towards a communist Viet Minh position in the rich Tonkin delta in Indo-China, during operation "Crachin." The 320th Viet Minh Division had infiltrated the delta where they drafted villagers for army service while the French used parartroopers in the operation which began March 20th to clean out the delta. The combined forces attacked rebel troops heavily from the rear and violent combat marked the efforts of the enemy to break the hold which was closed around them. — Central Press Canadian.

Mules Display Finer Side of Character in Time of Crisis

A mule is noted for its stubbornness, but it has other qualities of a more praiseworthy character — patience and placidity, for example, as these five, seen above, can testify to. Marooned on a tiny island near Rulo, Neb., they took their plight more calmly than most humans would and just settled down to wait. When the water receded somewhat, they were fed, and later, rescued. — Central Press Canadian.

Documents Indicate Federal Veterinarians Disagreed On Methods to Diagnose Disease

Realistic Approach

Ottawa, April 30 — (CP) — Documents tabled yesterday in the Commons indicated that federal veterinarians did not agree on methods to diagnose the disease later proved to be foot-and-mouth in southern Saskatchewan.

Agriculture Minister Gardiner said in tabling them that the new outbreak of the easily-spread disease near Weyburn, 75 miles southeast of Regina, was the "worst" yet.

Twenty-four head of cattle from a herd of 41 near Mansur, five miles northwest of Weyburn, were among other cattle in a community pasture before the latest outbreak was discovered.

The documents showed that Dr. Thomas Childs, veterinary director-general, countermanded an order by other federal veterinarians for collection of animal specimens for shipment to nearby Hull, Que., for diagnosis. That was before the outbreak was confirmed at Stony.

Dr. Childs, returning from studying the foot-and-mouth disease to Dr. N. D. Christie, district veterinarian at Regina, Feb. 15 or-dered that specimens be collected and diagnosis made instead on the spot.

Makes Positions Clear

The collection and shipment was ordered by Dr. Orlan Hall, assistant — veterinary director-general, and Dr. C. A. Mitchell, head of the Hull Animal Research Institute.

Dr. Childs, asked to comment on the situation by the countermand, said he will make he position clear before the commons agricultural committee today.

Opposition members criticized the government for alleged delay in diagnosing the disease. They also said Mr. Gardiner is withholding documents concerning the outbreak although the Commons ordered them produced early in the two-month-old session.

The documents also showed the first report of a disease simular to foot-and-mouth was made Dec. 28, 1951, from an outbreak in the Burns and Company feed lot in Regina. They were climaxed by a telegram from Dr. Childs to Regina by the chief veterinary officer, Hall in Ottawa that "movement to the United States and eastern Canada should be prohibited. Move quickly."

Zone Extended

Meanwhile, the quarantine zone around Regina was extended to include three municipalities in the area of Ormiston, 100 miles southeast of Regina, where foot-and-mouth was found last week. Another six municipalities likely will be added in the Weyburn area to bring the total to nine municipalities to 26.

In Victoria, Agriculture Minister Harry Bowman of British Columbia asked B. C. to take action" if cases of foot-and-mouth develop outside the control area.

That appeared to be an indirect threat to impose a ban on western movement of meat and livestock if Alberta or B.C. finds similar action during earlier outbreaks this year after the landings of June 6, 1944, and later may make a conducted tour of the battlefields of the Second World War.

GOOD MANAGEMENT

Sydney, N. S. — (CP) — One of the most notable features of the credit union system is the extremely small margin of losses incurred through bad debts, said Dr. Watson Kirkconnell, president of Acadia University, opening a new office here of the Sydney Credit Union.

Search Planes Combing Jungles For Lost Airliner

Rio de Janiero, April 30 (CP) — Search planes today combed the dense, unexplored jungles of Brazil and its desert-like plateaux for a giant Pan-American Stratocruiser, the last word in modern air travel, which disappeared with 50 persons aboard.

Among the 41 passengers were the sister of a Canadian government official and President of the Willys-Overland Auto Export Co. of Canada, Ltd. Another passenger was a German citizen living in Montreal.

The passenger list included several United States and Latin American officials and business men. Ten passengers and the crew of nine were Americans.

The search plane droned through the night over the wilderness between Rio de Janiero and Belem, hoping to spot a fire or a flare if anyone survived in the thinly-populated wilds whese the plane was believed down.

Many more searchers, after giving up the hunt at dark, returned to the air at dawn.

The double-decked Boeing Stratocruiser, a peacetime development from the B-29 Superfortress, was the first plane of its kind to be reported missing. It is powered by four 2,500 horsepower engines.

On First Leg

The plane had flown from Buenos Aires, Argentina, to Rio de Janiero on the first leg of its flight to the United States. It took off shortly after dark Monday night for Port of Spain, Trinidad, its only other scheduled stop before reaching New York.

It was due at Port of Spain at 10 a.m. EDT yesterday, and carried enough fuel to stay in the air four hours beyond its scheduled flying time for the 2,600 mile trip to Trinidad.

Mrs. Lucy Cella Wood, 37, formerly of Montreal, and her husband John Vincent Wood, 47, a British engineer, were among the missing. Mrs. Wood is the sister of Edmond Joly de Lotbiniere of the Canadian External Affairs Department's information division.

The Woods were on route to Canada from Buenos Aires for a visit with relatives and friends. Mrs. Wood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. de Lotbiniere of Pointe Fiston, Que., was born and educated in Montreal and was married in London, England.

The auto official was Marcel Francois Deltueller, 50, Toledo, O., president and general manager of Willys-Overland Export Corp., and president of Willys-Overland Export Corp. of Canada.

The German resident of Montreal was Dagmar Seelig, 24, who embarked at Buenos Aires for New York.

Fireman Faced With Problem Too Many Fish

Alma, Ont., April 30 (CP) —Volunteer firemen from nearby Elora last night solved what was a double problem of not enough water and too many fish as they battled a blaze that destroyed the Canadian National Railways station here.

The water shortage was made worse when fish from a nearby creek got into the pumping apparatus. The blaze got out of control.

Risk of Revival Not Completely Eliminated

Ottawa, April 30.—(CP)—Risk of a revival of militarism in Germany and Japan could not be completely eliminated, External Affairs Minister Pearson told a Labor-Progressive yesterday.

But he believed the safeguards in the pending defence agreements with western Germany went as far as possible. The same was true of the peace agreement with Japan.

"They are a vital and vigorous people and are bound to grow and develop," the minister said.

"It is better that their growth and development is on the side of peace than on the side of aggression and militarism." That was the objective of allied negotiations with both western Germany and Japan.

Mr. Pearson was questioned by members of the external affairs committee on a wide range of subjects. Some of his comments:

1. There has been some revival of Nazi strength in Germany and facist in Italy but "much less than might be expected."

2. Canada's position in N.A.T.O. has been that the value of Spain's help as a member of the organization was not sufficient to offset the possible cleavage among western powers that might result from Spain coming into N.A.T.O. over the objections of France and the United Kingdom.

3. There had been no change of attitude toward Canada's recognition of communist China in the last 12 months. Canada stood by the policy that recognition of the peaks government could not be "even considered" while Chinese communists are fighting U.N. forces in Korea.

SCENES OF VALOR

London — (CP) — In a number pilgrimage, thousands of Dday veterans will once more land in Normandy. The pilgrims will visit Caen, scene of bitter fighting after the landings of June 6, 1944, and later may make a conducted tour of the battlefields of the Second World War.

Korea Commander Tips Off Canadians Coming Back Home

By BILL BOSS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

With the Canadians in Korea (CP)—Dig Mail-Blunt-spoken Brig. John M. Rockingham these days is saying goodbye to his troops.

Every day at least one unit of his Canadian Infantry Brigade group, which he took as a collection of recruits and fashioned into one of the smoothest fighting machines in Korea, is being visited.

Before going to Tokyo to meet his successor, Brig. M. P. Bogert, he called on units which would be having soldiers leave before his return.

His words, as usual, were straight from the shoulder.

"When you go home," he says, "if you are staying in the army let me give you a piece of advice. A veteran who has returned from Korea before.

"Don't shoot a line of bull—particularly to soldiers who've not been here.

"You never know, some day they may serve in the theatre which you won't see, and you'll be the irritated one.

To those taking their discharge; "Remember . . . you've earned yourselves a very high reputation. Generally speaking it is one of not only good fighting but good behavior.

When we're back home let's keep it up.

"Some people think that just because they've been in a campaign they can kick the cat around when they get back. Let's continue to be at home the same people we've tried to be over here."

Says Future Uncertain

And the professional soldier in him distrusts the ability of diplomacy and politicians to resolve the world's problems.

"When you fight again," he concludes, "and I think I will—I don't think there's anything else for it the way things are in the world right now—I hope we'll be together again."

The brigadier also has been on the receiving end of the talking.

Lt.-Col. Norman Wilson-Smith, officer commanding the 1st Battalion Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, presided over a luncheon for Rockingham attended by officers representing every unit in the brigade.

After hearing himself eulogized the commander was presented with two gifts, one for his home and the other for his headquarters, wherever in future they may be.

Both have as their theme the song "Rocky's Army," which now is famous in the theatre.

A silver tray, accompanied by four rainbow trout was responded to the urge of production.

The window display, advertising fishing equipment, centres around an artificial trout pool. In the pool are 28 speckled or brook trout and four Kamloops or rainbow trout—one male and three females.

Despite crowds at the window and traffic noises only partly muffled by the plate glass, the rites of spring have happened in the artificial pool.

The drama began when the male rainbow drove the smaller brook trout to a far corner of the triangular pool. Then he rubbed his nose up pushing bottom gravel to form a spawning depression.

He swam through a dance - like manoeuvres calculated to induce a female to spawn. Finally one female spawned in the depression made for her. Then the male fertilized the eggs.

Afterward, he hovered above the spawn as if he were 1,000 miles away instead of a block from city hall.

Mother Says Boy Changed After Joining Club

Orillia, April 29 (CP) — The mother of one of 14 boys rounded up in an alleged members of a "Klu Klux Klan of Crime" club said today her son changed from "a good boy at home" to a secretive lad who smoked so heavily "it ruined his nerves."

Police said the boys, facing charges ranging from house-breaking and car theft to gasoline siphoning and molesting, were arrested during an investigation into a wave of juvenile crime in this area.

Many parents here said it was difficult to understand why their sons became members of the black hooded gang which carries knives and braided wire whips.

Police said their investigations were hampered by fear of "members" that they would be "knifed or tarred and feathered" if they talked about their escapades.

BIG SNOW BILL

Montreal — (CP) — Final tally of winter operations showed it cost Montreal a record sum of $3,283,401 to remove over 86,000 cubic feet of snow. A total of a fraction over 121 inches fell on Montreal since last autumn but the record was 174 inches in 1888-87.

Canada Suggests to U.S. It Fears Resurrgence Of Protectionism in America

Washington, April 30 — (CP) — Canada today suggested to the United States that it fears the resurgence of high - walled tariff protectionism in the U. S. as a move that would cripple Canada's exports to its biggest foreign customer.

Hon. Douglas Abbott, Canada's finance minister, in a speech prepared for delivery to the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, said such a development would be the "height of folly."

The issue was of "crucial importance," not only to Canada but to other members of the North Atlantic community.

He added that Canada is "not unaware" of the "magnificent" role the U. S. has played in postwar years in removing trade barriers and in helping European countries to regain their feet through economic aid.

"Yet most European countries do not want to continue indefinitely as recipients of foreign aid," he said. "They want to be permitted to earn their own keep.

"They find it difficult to understand policies which encourage them to produce and export on the one hand, and on the other, impose restrictive measures which make it impossible for them to market their goods in the U. S. and in this way pay for their dollar requirements."

Signs of a "resurgence of protectionism" are visible in such actions as the restrictions on imports of dairy products by intervention of trade agreements," the "long delays" in revising restrictive customs procedures as well as the growing number of applications to tariff commissions requesting increased protection against imports."

Canada Would Be Affected

"Clearly, if these signs were to develop into a growing protectionism, it would have serious consequences for the commercial relations between our two countries.

"When you consider the importance of the United States' available trade between us, the largest between any two countries in the world, such a development would surely be the height of folly."

Canada is currently undergoing huge industrial expansion, but she still depended on foreign trade for a substantial part. A tremendous flow of foreign capital as investment in this expansion overcame the effects of a "considerable" deficit in current trade with the rest of the world last year, Abbott said.

"At the same time we know that borrowing today means incurring obligations to pay interest and to repay capital in the future. Hence we must have a large forward export for the level of our foreign trade and the conditions which will make it possible."

The importance of the American market to Canada could be realized when it was understood that in 1951, no less than 60 per cent of Canada's exports went to the U.S., compared with 32 per cent in 1939.

Mr. Abbott made no apologies for referring to the question of U.S. tariff policy.

"We in Canada and the United States have become accustomed to speaking to one another frankly on matters of this kind. May I add that in Canada we have taken some comfort from the efforts of the United States' administration and various private organizations to pour cold water on the serious implications of these issues."

Russia Denounces Japanese Peace Treaty

Maj.-Gen. A. P. Kisienko , at left, Soviet delegate to the Allied council for Japan, is seen as he denounced the Japanese peace treaty — now in effect, following the ratification of it by the U.S. — as a pact for "a new war in the Far East." Following up this denunciation by Russia, communist members of the Japanese government declared that their determination to nullify the acil-out treaty is strengthening. At present Russia is the only foreign power with representatives in Japan with whom no arrangements have been made for future relations. — Central Press Canadian.

London to See Three Paintings By Alexander

London, April 30 — (CP) — Three oil paintings by Field Marshal Earl Alexander will be on public view at the Royal Academy starting Saturday, it was learned today.

The paintings have Canadian titles — one is called "Ottawa" and another, "Gatineau River" — and were painted when Britain's new defence minister was in Canada as governor - general.

The Royal Academy exhibition runs until Aug. 16 and 1,379 works were chosen by the selection committee headed by Sir Gerald Kelly, president of the academy.

One of Lord Alexander's paintings, "From My Studio Window" hangs in, Gallery No. 1. Nearby is a landscape by another versatile statesman and amateur painter—Prime Minister Churchill.

Countess Alexander said today her husband submitted five paintings. "Three out of five — that's pretty good, isn't it?" she said. All are snow scenes, one with a silhouette of Ottawa in the background.

Squadron Leader Nalty Outlines Mapping Process

The Kiwanis Club heard an address on "mapping of Canada" by RCAF, Command Intelligence officer, Squadron Leader J. N. Nalty at yesterday's regular meeting at Kiwanis Centre.

Squadron Leader Nalty described the process of mapping Northern Canada by means of aerial photography as "the cheapest and most accurate means of map making." He illustrated his talk with the use of different maps showing the areas photographed by the RCAF, commercial companies and town planning commissions. He also described to the members the different types of aerial photography.

Jim Allen and Bob Hobb received congratulating the Kiwanis International on its support of Canada-United States good-will week. The first correspondence was from Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent and the second from President Harry S. Truman.

The Kiwanis tag day has been set for Saturday May 10th. President Harold Carruthers urged all members to get behind the drive with their support.

The following members were presented with attendance bars for perfect attendance over the years: Cliff Baragar, 14 years attendance. Bruce Latimer, 12 years. Ernie Pinkie 12 years, Eddie Logan 12 years. Tom Lowe, 12 years. Staff McKenna, Jack Wood, Harold Crisp, Frank Creegan, Norman Edwards, Vic White, were all awarded five year tabs. Stuart Hobb and Milt Davison received three year awards. Everett Fairman and Sid Rose had two years perfect attendance. Howie House and Herb Honeychurch both received tabs for one year's perfect attendance.

There were two out of town guests present at yesterday's meeting. Jim McIntyre from Cobourg and Bill Lowen from Winnipeg. Jim Allen welcomed the men to the luncheon.

Bill Stovin thanked the speaker for attending the meeting.

Strike of Refinery Workers in U.S. Will Curtail Sales of Gasoline

Denver, April 30—(AP)—More than 90,000 unionized refinery and pipeline workers are on strike across the United States today as negotiations with the oil industry continued.

The union demands a 25-cent hourly wage increase and higher night differential pay. The present average wage ranges from $2 to $2.10 an hour.

Government officials report they have no present intention of intervening.

Negotiations in some localities were reported progressing on a note of optimism especially in San Francisco where about 25,000 union-affiliated industry workers were represented in talks—none of them on strike.

The Oil Workers International Union (C. I. O.) in Denver requested 10,000 members in California to remain on the job so as not to hinder operations for the Korean war effort.

Motorists are expected to be hit hardest by a prolonged strike. Long lines of cars were reported at filling stations in Detroit and other cities last night before the midnight strike deadline.

Some shortages of natural gas are anticipated through the idling of pipeline crews.

The Panhandle Eastern Pipeline Co., supplier of natural gas to more than 400 communities in eight states will cut down on its supply.

A spokesman said supervisory employees would man compressor stations to keep the supply going to Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Michigan.

The east coast also is in for a shortage of natural gas piped from the midwest and southwest.

Cities service officials said supply to the Chicago area could be affected if its daily intake from Kansas fields is curtailed.

O. A. Knight, president of the W. I. U. said slightly less than half the country's production of refined oil products will be cut off.

"Our union is immediately shutting down refineries with a daily production totally approximately 2,200,000 barrels daily," he said. "Independent and A. F. L. unions are expected to close refineries with a daily capacity of about 650,000 barrels daily."

Union officials would not disclose exactly how many plants had been closed or their locations.

Texas and Oklahoma appeared among the most heavily-struck states. At least seven Texas gulf coast refineries reportedly were out, including refining units of Magnolia Petroleum, Gulf, Texas and Atlantic Oil and Gas Companies.

Foot-and-Mouth Scourge Spreads In British Isles

London, April 30 — (Reuters) — The latest move of foot - and - mouth disease to grip British farms has forced slaughtering of more than 22,000 animals so far and the worst is still to come.

The agriculture department today reported 23 outbreaks since last Friday. A spokesman listed 11,429 cattle, 9,964 sheep and 5,274 pigs already destroyed on government orders. The spokesman said more slaughtering is pending and the infection rate is still climbing.

British farms have been stricken by almost continuous foot - and-mouth scourges since last November, when the virus was believed brought here from continental Europe by migratory birds.

WHITE'S DISTRICT

Young Bride Feted By Community

White's District—On Friday evening about 75 neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. Reid to surprise their son, Mr. Garnet Reid and his bride (nee Joan Richardson), of Green Point, Prince Edward, and to extend a welcome to Joan as the young couple are making their home in this community.

Garnet attended Quinte View School, the Belleville Collegiate and is a graduate of Kemptville Agricultural School. He also has been active in the Sunday School, the choir and YPU of White's Church.

Joan is also a graduate of Kemptville Agricultural School and is on the staff of the Trenton Memorial Hospital.

Mr. W.A. Jeffery called the gathering to order and Mrs. Floyd Dudley led in community singing. Miss Lillian Cunningham delighted with a humorous reading.

Mr. Thomas Rush read an address and the young couple were presented with an electric floor lamp, a coffee table, and a cushion with the best wishes of their Bayside friends.

Joan and Garnet responded, thanking all for their lovely gifts and their good wishes.

Refreshments were served, then some of the gathering disappeared only to reappear again to charivari the young couple.

Mrs. Everett Nicolson was a Tuesday visitor of her daughter, Mrs. Victor Halsey, in Kingston General Hospital.

The Rev. A. C. McCallum was guest minister at Desoronto United Church last Sunday morning, speaking on behalf of the Ontario Temperance Federation.

Mr. and Mrs. George Page, of Pontiac, Michigan, have been guests of the latter's father, Mr. Gilbert Sarles for the past two weeks returning home on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hall and family, of Belleville, were last Sunday guests of Mr. Gilbert Sarles, Mrs. Jackson and Gary.

Miss Marilyn Bowers had her tonsils and adenoids removed in Trenton Memorial Hospital. She is convalescing at her home. Her little friends hope she will soon be at school again.

Miss Audrey Bowers was a Sunday tea guest of Miss Sylvia Bilham.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Jeffery, also Mrs. M. Denton of Belleville, attended the funeral of Mrs. Cranston circuit, and were guests at the Hill home on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Fair, of Belleville, were Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Bowers and family.

Mr. Everett Nicolson and Mr. Victor Halsey motored to Kingston on Saturday. Mrs. Halsey returned with them and is convalescing at her home.

On Friday evening a number of the neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ritchie Ketcheson to surprise Mr. Ketcheson who was celebrating his birthday. Following a social evening together refreshments were served by the ladies.

Miss Sharon Jeffery was a week-end visitor of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Jeffery.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Millar, David and Stephen of Belleville, were Friday evening visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Rush.'

SHANNONVILLE

Junior H-S. Club Provides Program

The regular monthly meeting of the Shannonville Home and School Association was held in the school room with the president, Mrs. Kilburn, in the chair.

During the business period, a trip to Kingston for the pupils of the school was discussed for the 24th of May as a sight-seeing picnic taking Macdonald Park, and a tour through old Fort Henry.

The program was provided by the junior home and school club, with Norma Sagar, president, in charge, and Jackie Brant acting as chairman. Those taking part in the play were: Ruth Angevine, Donna Hartley, Margaret Lewis, Mary E. Lowe, Marion Craig and Linda Marion.

The club members served refreshments to the parents.

earch for Uranium Ore Four Western States ecalls Early Goldrush Days

Grand Junction, Colo., April 30 — An atomic-inspired boom is sweeping the vast canyon-cut area of the "Four Corners" where Colorado, Arizona, New Mexico and Utah meet.

The setting is one of the snow-capped mountains, searing sun and blowing sand. There are centuries-old Indian ruins and dinosaur bones. Helicopters, geiger counters and gamma ray machines play a part.

But at stake is the ability of the United States to produce the stuff which goes into atom bombs and which someday may power an age of easier living.

In importance, the boom pronounced to dwarf the gold rushes of the last century, but the number of persons involved is small compared to the bonanza stampeders of other days. There probably are not many more than 1,900 men actually digging.

Hardships

The goal is discovery and production of more uranium, the radioactive element which is the atomic fission possible. The boom is government-born. It has been building up since 1948 when the Atomic Energy Commission decided to stimulate domestic uranium production to reduce dependence on imports chiefly from Canada and the Belgian Congo. The government decided to do it all the way, setting up incentive payments and guaranteed markets. The A.E.C. and U.S. geological survey assist the work hunting for ore deposits.

Many incentives sent a strange breed into the ruinrock of desolate Colorado Plateau region, which lies partly in Colorado and partly in Utah. Many of the boomers are veterans of the Second World War, lured by the boom-time promises of high wages and the chance to get rich quick.

Others are cowboys, Navajo Indians, sheepherders, oilfield drillers and adventurers.

Hardships

The hunt centered from the start in the wild, almost-unknown

DESERONTO

C.W.L. Elects New Officers

Deseronto — The monthly meeting os the Catholic Women's League was held at the home of Mrs. J. B. Roach with a good attendance. Mrs. C. J. Brennan was re-elected president for the coming year.

Other officers elected were 1st vice president, Mrs. M. E. Dowling; 2nd vice president, Mrs. Alex Theriault; 3rd vice president, Mrs. Ernest Dorey; secretary, Mrs. Albert Husk; treasurer, Mrs. E. M. Roach; councillors, Mrs. J. F. McNeill, Mrs. R. Sweet and Mrs. J. B. Roach.

Members voted a donation to be sent to the Sisters of Service, Radio League of St. Michael's also the Sacred Heart program.

Plans were made for the forthcoming rummage sale to be held on May 3rd.

After the meeting adjourned refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. M. E. Dowling.

Mrs. A. Lickorish is visiting friends in Toronto for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Fox and family spent the weekend in Belleville, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Potter and family.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Norris returned to their home during the past week after having spent the winter in New York, the guests of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. M. Norris.

Mrs. R. C. Atkins, Carroll and Michael returned to their home in Toronto after a brief visit with the former's mother, Mrs. J. Whitton and sisters, Mrs. H. Bender and Mrs. G. Fox.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Luffman, of Rochester, N.Y., are guests of the former's brother, Mr. C. M. Luffman and Mrs. Luffman.

Mrs. Edmond St. Louis, of Toronto, spent the weekend with her sister, Mrs. Charles Beyette and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Herrington and family of Toronto, spent the weekend in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Chris Young were recent visitors in Oshawa.

Miss Violet Smith and Mr. Ed Smith of Kingston, were in town to attend the funeral of the late Mrs. James MacFarlane, Shannonville.

Mr. and Mrs. James Hamilton were weekend visitors in Cavan, the guests of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Danford.

Mr. and Mrs. Sandy Harvey, Mrs. John Gunnalger, Mrs. J. Wickens and Helen Adams of Fuller; Donna Young of Marlbank.

In addition, two duets were presented, the themes from Schubert's "Impromptu" by Ruth and Frank Wilson and Bachmann's "Flattery" by Eva and Elsie Martin.

At the end of the recital program, Helen Adams played the National Anthem.

Musical Contests

Informal groups were then formed and everyone participated in contests on the musical themes; one on musical terms, and one on musical instruments.

Refreshments were then served.

Mrs. Kenneth Jeffrey, expressing the sentiment of all present, thanked Mrs. Clarke for a very enjoyable evening.

Picture Show

In the I.O.O.F. hall the Morton Garage, Thomasburg, recently sponsored a demonstration and picture show of the Ferguson Co. machinery. As well as the interesting pictures, a variety program of songs, piano instrumentals and dancing was enjoyed by a capacity audience.

After the program refreshments were served by the ladies of the United Church Women's Auxiliary.

The evenings entertainment and demonstration was pronounced a real success, for despite the fact of a rainy evening the hall would accommodate few more.

Mrs. Fred Porter was allowed home from hospital on Wednesday. Her many friends wish her a speedy recovery.

Mrs. B. Scott of Thomasburg visited in Tweed during the weekend the guest of Mrs. G. Jones.

Dorothy Pipe has been visiting over the weekend with friends in Tweed.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wray were callers on Saturday evening at home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Jones.

On Sunday evening in the United Church, a reception service was held for several new communicants and for members transferring. After a thought-provoking discourse on the text "Forgive us our Trespasses as we Forgive those who Trespass against us" Rev. M. Clarke administered the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper.

The junior choirs singing and Mrs. Clarke's accompaniment throughout the service was much appreciated.

The Moira-Thomasburg Young People's Union met on Tuesday the 29th at the home of Mrs. Geo. Foster and Beverley, Moira.

Beauty And the Blossoms

The annual display of blossoms in the Niagara peninsula will soon get under way if appearance of apricot and peach blooms are any indication. Here, Josephine Fernick admires some of the delicate apricot blooms on a tree in St. Catharines, Ont. In about two weeks the entire district near and around the Niagara River will be filled with spectators to witness the annual spectacle of flowering fruit trees laden with blossoms. — Central Press Canadian.

Ladies' Aid Holds Successful Tea

Deseronto— An enjoyable and successful tea and sale under the auspices of the Presbyterian Ladies' Aid was held at the home of Mrs. James Whitton.

The guests were welcomed by the hostess and the president, Mrs. C. F. Dimmell.

The home cooking in charge of Mrs. R. C. Atkins and the variety table in charge of Mrs. A. Lickorish were well patronized and disposed of all their supplies.

Bouquets of snapdragons and tulips throughout the rooms added to the perfect weather out of doors made the summer seem very close.

The daintily appointed tea table centred with a bouquet of daffodils was presided over by Mrs. T. L. McCullough assisted by Mrs. C. S. Metcalfe, Mrs. G. F. Miss Anne McCullough, Mrs. D. Cassie and Miss Betty Fowlie. Other tea assistants were Mrs. Sam Geddes, Mrs. D. Gault, Mrs. J. Hamilton, Mrs. B. Harvey, Mrs. H. Topping, Mrs. Don Whitton and Mrs. H. Bender.

A most gratifying amount was realized from this event and the ladies are appreciative to all who helped make their efforts successful.

Whitton and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Topping attended the funeral of the late Mrs. James MacFarlane of Shannonville.

Ladies' Euchre

Mrs. C. M. Luffman entertained the members of the Ladies' Euchre Club. Prizes for high scores were won by Mrs. H. Bender and Mrs. Gerald Fox. Consolation by Mrs. J. Gartland and travelling by Mrs. H. Topping.

Refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by her daughter, Mrs. M. Ryan.

HOME AND SCHOOL

The Deseronto Home and School Association held its April meeting in the principal's room with Mrs. W. Crabbe presiding. There was an attendance of 15.

The treasurer's report showed a balance of $66.18. Members were requested for donations to the tea room. Home cooking and novelty booths at the hobby fair. Mrs. Crabbe asked that everyone assist in every way possible to ensure the success of this event.

Mrs. R. Aylesworth's room won the attendance prize of 21.

A radio broadcast during which the announcer Rev. T. F. Townsend interviewed Mrs. H. Bender and Mrs. R. K. Jackson on "Radio in Home and School"; a piano trio, "Air de Chasse" played by Phyllis, Lynn and Jack Bender and vocal solos by Mrs. B. Benington, accompanied by Mrs. L. E. Tunnicliffe proved interesting and entertaining to all.

Mrs. Crabbe thanked all taking part in the program.

Hobby Club

The Hobby Club met for its regular weekly meeting at the home of Mrs. M. Bevage. Despite the stormy weather, there was an attendance of 17.

In the absence of Mrs. McCullough, Mrs. H. Bender, presided

Cleveland Third Sacker Hits Three Home Runs As Tribe Runs Wild

Feller Nicked for 18 Hits; Fridley Gets Six for Six In Wild-Scoring Tribe Spree

By WILL GRIMSLEY
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Cold and rain continued to paralyze baseball in the east and a strike threatened to black out a park in the west but followers of Philadelphia Athletics could find no gloom anywhere today—Connie Mack-Simmons is back and he's in the groove.

The hard-throwing, 22-year-old pitcher, three weeks out of the army, made his first major league start in 19 months yesterday and proceeded to tame Chicago Cubs with a smooth seven-hit performance, 6-2.

He didn't look any different from the trim young southpaw whose blazing fast ball won 17 games for the Phillies as a freshman for Mack in the National League pennant before Uncle Sam snatched him up in September, 1950.

Still Good

Simmons' effectiveness was questioned by the job he did on Phillie Baumholtz, the Cubs' right-fielder who hit in 11 straight games and has carried a .400 percentage, the National League's highest, into the game.

Baumholtz didn't get a smell of the ball in four times at bat. He had plenty of swift, for my money," said the hard-hitting Chicago outfielder.

In the season's first head-on collision of east and west, the favored Brooklyn Dodgers strengthened their grip on the National League lead by turning back the St. Louis Cardinals on the masterful clutch hitting of Preacher Roe, 4-1.

The game was delayed 65 minutes by a strike of A. F. L. bartenders who threw a picket around St. Louis' Sportsman's Park. Union electricians refused to cross the line to go in and turn on the lights.

So 20,364 fans sat in darkness until Fred Saigh, Cardinal owner, could persuade the bartenders who work in the park's concessions to pull off their pickets.

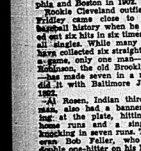
The Dodgers made it a half game last night by whipping Chicago and the Cincinnati Reds, who fell victim to the New York Giants at Cincinnati, 7-1.

Sal Maglie, a 23-game winner for the senior league champions in 1951, limited the Reds to three hits in edging Cincinnati's gangling Ewell Blackwell and he also accounted for the winning run when he singled in Marvin Irvin's homer in the ninth. Blackwell pitched a four-hitter.

In the other National League game Warren Spahn, the Boston Braves' ace lefty, nailed Pittsburgh lighter to the cellar by fumbling the Pirates, 6-1, on five hits. It was the tenth loss in a row for the hapless Bucs.

Three Postponed

Only one game was played in the American League as unseasonable cold and wet grounds, which already have cost eastern clubs more than a quarter of a million dollars, forced three more postponements.



Postponed were the St. Louis Browns' debut against the New York Yankees at Yankee Stadium, Chicago's game at Washington and Detroit's opening appearance at Boston. They'll try again today.

The single American League conflict was at Philadelphia and the Athletics and Cleveland Indians must have felt obligated to put in a few licks for their title contemporaries.

The Indians won, 21-9, in a wild slugfest that saw the two teams pound out a total of 40 hits, 23 of them by the Indians. The American League record for two teams is 45, set by Philadelphia and Boston in 1902.

Rookie Cleveland outfield Jim Fridley came close to making baseball history when he pounded out six hits in six times at bat, all singles. Many players have collected six straight hits in a game, only one man—Wilbert Robinson, the old Brooklyn boss—has made seven in a row. He did it with Baltimore June 10, 1897.

Al Rosen, Indian third baseman, also had a banner evening at the plate, hitting three home runs and a single and knocking in seven runs. The veteran Bob Feller, who lost a double one-hitter on his last outing to St. Louis' Bob Cain, was the one although he gave up 18 safeties.

Royals, Leafs Score Victories; Chiefs Edge Cubs

(By The Associated Press)

Lee (Bobo) Holloman seems to be getting further and further ahead of the hitters as the International League season progresses.

The ace hurler of Syracuse Chiefs tossed a one-hitter yesterday to give his team a 1-0 triumph over Springfield Cubs and in the process advance it all the way to third place in the race.

Chris Hitsos was the "spoiler" banging out a fifth-inning single off Holloman. Bobo was given errorless support by his mates but he had to hot water several times because of his own wildness. He gave five walks.

The league-leading Montreal Royals and the second-place Toronto Maple Leafs each scored victories. The Royals remain a half game in front.

Montreal slapped the offerings of three Buffalo pitchers for 14 hits and a 5-3 victory over the Bisons. Carmen Mauro led the Royals' attack with two doubles and his fourth home run of the campaign.

Bob Alexander went all the way for Montreal, and it was fortunate that the Royals were in a hitting mood. He yielded nine hits and handed out five free tickets.

The Maple Leafs had no trouble whatever the last-place Ottawa Athletics, 4-1, behind Red Fahr. Andy Anderson knocked in two of the winners' run, while Jim Pisarcik set up Fahr's bid for a shutout when he doubled home John Metkovich in the eighth.

Ted Tells it to 'Marines'; Red Sox Star Dons Uniform

Boston, April 30 (AP) — For the second time in 10 years Ted Williams, latest of the major leagues' 400-hitters, today dofts his Boston Red Sox uniform for that of a United States Marines flyer.

But before so doing, Williams will be honored by 35,000 admirers who will jam Fenway Park for his farewell appearance against the Detroit Tigers. They will shower him with modest gifts.

Among them are a large stack of "Memory Books" that include the signatures of about 500,000 well wishers, a collection made by the Boston Herald - Traveler.

Gifts Aplenty

Other gifts are a wrist watch, flowers for his wife, toys for his small daughter, a film projector from his Red Sox teammates and a silver bowl from Mayor John B. Hynes of Boston, who suggested the demonstration.

Now 33, Williams reports for a 17-months tour of duty as a captain at Willow Grove, Pa., on Friday. He will be out of baseball until the 1953 season but has hopes of resuming the career that has earned him about $500,000 in Red Sox wages.

"I don't know whether or not I will be able to return to baseball but I hope so," Williams said. I had only one ambition when I joined the Red Sox back in 1939. It was when I'm through I want them to say, 'Gee, that guy was one hell of a hitter.'"

Baseball statistics insure Williams his fondest wish. They show his lifetime average, through the 1951 season as .346. So far this year, due to a leg injury, he has started only one game, the opener against Washington. But he is fit enough to return to left field today to sing another baseball swan song.

Collingwood Wins Int. A Title

Simcoe, April 30 (CP) — Collingwood Shipbuilders notched their second straight Ontario Hockey Association Intermediate A title when they defeated Simcoe Gunners 6-5 in overtime here last night before a capacity crowd. The win gave Collingwood the best-of-seven game series 4-2.

Jack Walmsley scored the winning goal at 7:20 in the overtime period. Nineteen seconds later, Walmsley put the game on ice when he shot into an empty net. Then Ronnie Cochrane clinched the win when he beat Terry Hagon at 9:30. The score at the end of the first period was tied at 1-1 and 2-2 at the end of the second.

Walmsley paced the winners with three goals.

Mackenzie, Walton and Lucian were the marksmen for Simcoe.

Remember When

Ben Jones, Arcaro Combine, Looks Best for Derby Classic

Louisville, Ky., April 30—(AP)—The 78th Kentucky Derby looked very much like some derbies of fifteen years today with the combination of Calumet-owned horse, trainer Ben Jones and jockey Eddie Arcaro playing the familiar favorite's role.

The combine inked like the best bet in the $100,000 added run around Churchill Downs at 5:30 p.m. EDT Saturday when Hill Gail took wings yesterday and fairly flew over a mile to smash the track record in the derby trial.

With Arcaro merely flicking his whip in Hill Gail's face, the big son of Bull Lea reeled off the mile in 1:36 3-5 to clip one-fifth of a second off the track standard and leave eight other derby eligibles far on the track.

The Class

The closest, Mrs. Gordon Gulbrance's California-owned Arrow, was five lengths back. And some eight lengths back came Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Temperamental Cousin—both of which appeared to have the right to be in the derby post parade.

As a result of the prep, the odds on Hill Gail dropped to. 8-5 today and he may go to the post even shorter odds.

Four times in the last 11 years the world-wide silks of Calumet Farm have been carried home first in America's richest thoroughbred race. They were Whirlaway (1941), Pensive (1944), Citation (1948) and Ponder (1949).

And each time the winner was saddled by Jones, who also walked up his fifth with Lawrin in 1938, that's a record for trainers.

Twice Winner

Twice Arcaro has been up on a Calumet winner (Citation and Whirlaway) and to these two he adde Lawrin and Hoop, Jr. (1945) for a mark never matched by a jockey. The combination of Jones and Arcaro has never been beaten in a Kentucky Derby.

Despite all that preponderance of facts that makes Hill Gail the apparent standout there was no indication today the other owners plan to fold their tents and steal away.

As many as 15 are expected to answer the call before the usual Downs crowd, which in recent years has reached an estimated 100,000. But it was difficult to find a trainer who would say he would send out his horse to try and run with the Calumet Flyer.

Woody Stephens, trainer of A. W. Abbott's Blue Man, best described Hill Gail's speed when he said:

"I got a cold from the wind he created."

And that came from a trainer whose horse is rated the second choice at 3 to 1 to take down the major share of the purse.

Mrs. Marion Du Pont Scott's Piniot is considered one of the speed horses of the field but his trainer, Dion Kerr, said he wasn't going to instruct jockey Henri Mora to try and run with the Calumet flash.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

New York, April 30 — (AP) — There is a plot ready-made for some bright young baseball novelist in the latest set of instructions sent out by National League umpires on how to conduct themselves in close calls which might arise now that lights are an integral part of the pastime.

"In the event of a temporary failure of lights while a ball is in flight or a play is in progress," stipulated the bulletin from Cincinnati, "the umpire will use his best-by call time and when the lights are turned on again and play is resumed, the batsman and all runners shall return to the last base touched by them at the time of suspension.

"Should the batsman be compelled to return to the batter's box, he shall assume the count of balls and strikes, if any, that prevailed at the time of suspension."

Get the Idea?

Get the idea? Score tied, last of the ninth and a visiting slugger connects with a mighty swipe. Obviously it's a home run, but just before the sphere clangs into the distant stands over here, who has mortgaged the old homestead on the locals, throws the master switch and saves the night.

Possibly there would be a bit of an argument, but the head umpire would have no choice once the bulbs were relit. In other words, given the right set of circumstances, that famous swat of Bobby Thomson's last fall could have escaped the record books entirely. Now they tell Charlie Dressen!

Our second favorite instruction probably is the one which cautions National League arbiters that "if two games are scheduled for one admission, the first game of the doubleheader shall be completed before the second game is started." Any umpire who gets mixed up on that one should be severely reprimanded.

Last Member Three Musketeers Dies in Montreal

Montreal, April 30—(CP)—H. A. (Louie) Letourneau, one of the "three musketeers" of Montreal sport, died yesterday at his home here. He was 84.

Under the guidance of Letourneau, Leo Dandurand and the late Joe Cattarinich, the two other "musketeers," Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League, bought for $11,000, became one of the most colorful teams in history.

Howie Morenz, Aurial Joliat, Sylvio Mantha, George Hainsworth, Sprague Cleghorn, Pit Lepine, George Vezina and Billy Boucher were among the outstanding names that dotted the roster of the Canadiens under the direction of the big three.

Letourneau came to Montreal from St. Roch, Que., an entered the fish merchant business, later joining Dandurand and Cattarinich in a race-track promotion early in the 20s.

He was the business man of the partnership, leaving showmanship and club operation to his partners. Self-effacing, he referred to himself as the "least of the three musketeers."

The trio worked in close accord. Cattarinich was the chance taker, Dandurand the tactful diplomat and Letourneau the sage counsellor. Cattarinich died 19 years ago.

Letourneau retired from sports promotion 20 years ago when he sold his share in the Canadiens and his racing interests in Dorval, Connaught Park and United States tracks to his partners.

He then entered the real estate field, handling property in Hignal, Que., where he had a summer home. He was in constant attendance at Canadiens games until two years ago when ill health forced him to retire.

He is survived by his widow and a son, Romeo.

Stratford Has Back to Wall

Fort Frances, Ont., April 30 — (CP) — Fort Frances Canadians and Stratford Indians go into the fifth and possibly last game of the 1952 Allan Cup hockey final here tonight.

The town threatens to bust wide open if Canadians can add another two points to their 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven series. This is the second entry for Canadians in the senior final in five years of trying.

Fort Frances took the fourth game here Monday, displaying a tremendous third-period drive worth four goals. Five points went to Frank Zitenoph who tore open the Stratford defence.

The comeback was patterned on previous Fort Frances victories all gained in the third period when they were behind. It drove almost 3,000 loyal fans into a frenzy.

But the turn-about victory had the same effect on diminutive Joe Balzan, Canadians coach.

Show New Style

"They almost drive a coach wacky in the first two periods and then go ahead and win it for you in the third," he said.

Canadians showed a new style of hockey in the game. Stratford, which plays a bumping style to a degree, were whacking from one end of the pond-ice to the other.

Injuries played a major part and may prove even more costly tonight. Bill Wash, rugged Stratford

Clippers Clip Port Colborne For 3-0 Lead

Stouffville, April 30 —(CP) — Stouffville Clippers defeated Port Colborne Merchants 4-1 last night to take a 3-0 lead in the best-of-seven series for the Ontario Hockey Association senior B championship.

The fourth game will be at Port Colborne Thursday with the fifth if necessary, here next Saturday. Gibson was a two-goal man for the winners while Bell and Stephenson got singles. Port Colborne's goal was scored by Semley.

rearguard, was injured in the second period when he received a painful gash on upper leg. He isn't expected to return tonight and may not be available if Indians can stretch the series to six games.

Vern O'Donnell of Canadians pulled a muscle and is another probable starter. Gord Gosselin has a bruised back, the result of a mis-placed stick, but it shouldn't keep him from the Fort Frances lineup.

Fans started lining up for tickets yesterday well before box offices opened. Even Mayor Joseph T. Livingstone was busy preparing for the game by booking up a public address system.

Guelph Ready, But Regina Is Confident

Toronto, April 30 (CP) — Regina Pats, winless to date against Guelph Biltmores in the battle for the Memorial Cup, think that if they can win tonight they may take the series.

Regina coach Murray Armstrong after an hour-long workout yesterday in preparation for the third game in the best-of-seven setup for the Canadian junior hockey title, said he'd like nothing better than to see his Pats ahead of Guelph "just to see how they operate when they're behind."

Biltmores haven't yet trailed Regina.

The westerners showed improvement Sunday night in dropping the second-straight of the finals, and victory tonight isn't inconceivable.

Following the workout, Armstrong wouldn't say whether he plans any line changes. There have been no serious injuries to either team.

Guelph has an imposing lineup of scoring talent for the western Canada junior champs to buck. The Pats' goalie, Bob Tyler, who has turned in sensational work, has been given most of the credit for the fact that Biltmores haven't more than a eight-goal lead in two games so far.

The two Guelph front lines are finely balanced—each has scored 37 goals in 21 playoff games to date.

Dean Prentice is top Biltmore goal-getter in those games, with 18, Ron Murphy is next with 17 while defenceman Ron Stewart has 15 goals and 10 assists.

Sport in Brief

(By The Canadian Press)

Jean Beliveau's resistance to tempting National Hockey League contracts may be lowering now that he has no more fields to conquer in amateur hockey. The big, high-scoring centre who led Quebec Aces to the Alexander Trophy and the Canadian Major Hockey Championship is not saying anything definite.

At the start of the last hockey campaign, Beliveau — who will be 21 Aug. 31—turned down a Montreal Canadiens bid "for personal reasons" and signed with Aces of the Quebec Senior Hockey League.

Beliveau said in an interview that the same reasons "might not apply" when a new offer is almost certain to be made by Montreal, with whom he has signed a B-form, giving the NHL club first call on his professional services. He won the Q.S.H.L. scoring championship with 45 goals and 38 assists for 83 points, was selected the league's all-star centre, best rookie and best professional prospect.

Joey Steimach, shortstop from Chicago, and Bill Skodis, first baseman from Brooklyn, arrived yesterday for their first workout with the Elgins, St. Thomas' senior entry in the Intercounty Baseball Association. Both played with the Central Ontario champion Brockville Memos last ear.

Elmira Polar Kings last night won their second game of the best-of-seven intermediate B.O.H.A. finals against Bracebridge, defeating them 7-2. Elmira has lost one game and tied another.

The Calumet Farm's Hill Gail cracked the Churchill Downs track record yesterday to capture the 15th running of the Derby trial with a brilliant exhibition that probably will make him the betting choice for the $100,000 Kentucky Derby Saturday. Hill Gail finished six lengths ahead of Mrs. Gordon Gulbrensen's Arrow and 10 lengths in front of Shag Tails, in third place. The latter, owned by Million Shagrin, was a 70-1 shot.

The Brooklyn Dodgers-St. Louis Cardinals game last night was delayed an hour when A.F.L. barrenders threw a picket line around Sportman's Park in St. Louis and electricians refused to enter the park. Some 20,000 impatient fans waited in the dark until a conference cleared up the matter and the lights went on. The bartenders

Toronto, April 30 (CP) — Toronto Argonauts and Hamilton Tiger-Cats have been asked to play an exhibition football game in Regina on Labor Day, Sept. 1, it was announced today.

Regina Rotary Club, which has been sponsoring the annual Labor Day game, has asked the two clubs to play in Regina this year.

Argonauts have been invited to play in Regina on Labor Day in 1950 and 1951 but declined because of the short time between the end of the season and the holiday.

Hamilton has been invited to play in Regina for the first time.

Ronnie Rickey has asked the three Pittsburgh Pirate owners for $300,000 to bolster the club's finances brought a strong denial from Rickey yesterday. Published reports had the Pirates' general manager planning to ask John Galbreath, Tom Johnson and Bing Crosby for $100,000 each in anticipation of another losing financial year.

The Pacific Coast Hockey League played to more than 1,000,000 customers this season for the first time in its four years as a professional circuit. The league office reported attendance at 1,094,350 paid admissions.

seeking to bring park concessions workers under union jurisdiction, finally agreed to remove the picket line.

Allan McFeter, 21-year-old lightweight Toronto pro boxer, pounded out a unanimous 10-round decision last night Young Junior of Albany, N.Y., in the main event of the first pro fight card held at London, Ont., in nearly two years.

The contract you fail to make is not always the fault of a bad break or killing lead. Close analysis of your play may prove it to be the result of an ever-looked simple act.

There was the tournament deal shown here:

	NORTH
	♠8 7 2
	♥K 7
	♦7 5 3
	♣A K Q 6 2
WEST		EAST
♠J 10 3		♠9
♥10 3		♥A Q 8 4
♦Q J 10 9 8		♦6 4 2
♣10 8		♣J 9 7 4
	SOUTH
	♠A K Q 8
	♥J 9 6 5 2
	♦A K
	♣5 3

Most of the south players were in three no-trump and got a west diamond lead. Those who did not make it neglected the safety play.

Experienced players are familiar with the mathematical odds in bridge. They know that an even number of outstanding cards will most often divide unequally. Not always. But most often.

With six clubs in opponent hands, the odds are two to one in favor of their being four in one hand and two in the other. So, if it endangers the contract a finesse should not play for the MAGIC.

Figure out an entry to dummy after declarer should lead to his three top clubs at TRICK TWO. This makes him lose a trick round without assurance of taking the fifth.

Those who made the contract considered this: Three top spades and two top diamonds are five. We make the contract a total of four tricks must be taken by dummy. They are available in clubs.

So, when the first trick is won with diamond king, south leads a small club and persists an opponent to win. It makes no difference which opponent keeps it. The contract cannot go down thereafter.

Another diamond lead from opponents will force the stopper south has left in that suit. But he now leads his final club and takes four club tricks and his three top spades to make his nine.

If he takes three top clubs first and gives up a fourth, opponents will get three diamonds and the hearts beside the club. The safety play saves any fear of the red suits.

Quick loss of a trick is often a good investment.

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, April 30 (AP) —Bob Hope and Bing Crosby are hit the "Road" again, and it's an operation as complex as building the Alaska highway.

This time the boys are headed on the "Road to Bali" and the roadbuilder is a patient producer named Harry Tugend.

"It's pretty hard getting Bing and Bob together for a picture at the same time," he remarked. "It's not only a matter of adjusting their schedules. There has been opposition to putting them into another picture together. There is a theory, "why waste them together in one picture, when they can be making two pictures separately?"

"But I think that theory is shortsighted. There is a tremendous market for 'Road' pictures. It is the one kind of film that our foreign staff has no trouble selling."

This marks the sixth time Bing and Bob have gone along the familiar road to meet up with Dorothy Lamour and other adventures. Previous destinations have been Singapore (1940), Zanzibar (1941), Morocco (1), Utopia (1945) and Rio (1947). The latter two racked up tremendous grosses of $4,500,000 apiece in the U.S. alone.

In this film, Hope and Crosby are always 'On the Road' to Bali, but Bali itself won't be shown. "The reason is that our political relations with Indonesia are too touchy. We don't want the picture to do anything that would make them worse," Tugend said.

BRANCHING OUT

Whitstable, England — (CP)— Naval "frogmen," underwater experts completing a naval training course here, plan to dive beneath rocks in an attempt to trace remains of a Roman galley believed buried on this Kent county shore.

LUCKY RACEHORSE

Wellington, N. Z. — (CP) The racehorse Lord Miller returned a profit without even stepping on the track. Sent to a new trainer, the horse scratched up a coin that looked like a half-penny. Trainer D. B. McGregor kept the coin for good luck but later found it was a gold sovereign dated 1907.

INDIAN TOBACCO

New Delhi — (CP) — A new tobacco research station is being constructed in Madhira in Hyderabad state. Virginia tobacco is mostly cultivated in this area and the station will supply improved varieties of tobacco plant seedlings.

HOW COSTS RISE

Brantford, Ont. — (CP) — The bridge over the Grand River at Glen Morris cost $16,000 to build in 1908. Now the county council is putting in a new floor at an estimated cost of $16,000. The old floor was judged unsafe for heavy traffic.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR THURSDAY, MAY 1ST., 1952.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Periodically, we all get into ruts, even allow our better judgment to be swayed by foolish fly-by-night ideas, promotion or schemer's angle. Be on guard for that tendency.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Have pride in your work, companions and how well your community and city are doing. Forego some personal desires to further business, job, urgent duties. Be optimistic in right way.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Day full of good prospects, fine possibilities. You can't lag or devote time to musing or moodiness. Be bigger than petty things. God helps us who help ourselves.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—You have been given many gifts of nature, are well equipped to cope with problems that could baffle others, have keen fanfare, aplomb. Today adroitness is needed for the rough spots.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo)—Good day for resisting new ventures that could promote better gains. Branch into better fields, be ready to take advantage of good fortune. Act without a lot of excess planning, preparation.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo) — Mildly favorable in spots. Familiar matters, immediate duties, urgent tasks attend to first. Be especially practical in domestic, family affairs.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Typical day for the well balanced, keen Libran with objective foresight. With your talents fully used, how can you miss? Not if you try hard enough. Guard heart interests.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Watch your P's and Q's for better openings, hidden advantages. They are there but it will take your keen observation and wits to find them. It will also be worth your while to do it.

November 22 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Moderately generous for everyday duties, tasks that should be attended to promptly. Attack the feasible promptly; be cool when it is hard to be so.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — Some unfriendly indications! Then use more tact, accuracy. Hasty decisions can upset the best regulated plans. Some tricky propositions may appear; study them, insist on details.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Stars want you to enhance, but reasonably. Act sensibly to be confident while you also investigate. A fertile field before you, so aim to make appreciable progress.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—There is a job to do. Show your initiative, ingenuity and you can reap fine rewards. Employer, employee, layman, student have equal chance for new gains. Some rough spots can be expected.

YOU BORN TODAY: Venus, goddess of love, and Mars, god of vigor, ambition, both were dominant in the heavens when you were born. Powerful planetary confinerations. You have an innately loving nature, but may be too inoulsive at times. Fond o' pleasure, outdoor activities. You have charm, attract people and make lasting friends. Be moderate, calm; eat sensibly. Birthdate: Geo. Inness, landscape painter; Jos. Addison, Eng. poet, essayist.

THE CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF BELLEVILLE

By-law Number 6342

A BY-LAW TO PROVIDE FOR THE KEEPING OF CATTLE, GOATS, SWINE, HORSES AND MULES WITHIN THE CORPORATE LIMITS OF THE CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF BELLEVILLE.

WHEREAS Section 390 of Chapter 243, sections 1 and 2, of the Municipal Act, R.S.O. 1950 authorizes and empowers the Council of the local municipality to pass by-laws for regulating and preventing the keeping of animals, fowl, bees or other livestock, except horses or mules within the built-up area of any defined area thereof; and WHEREAS it is deemed advisable that the hereinafter mentioned animals be not kept within the built-up area of the City of Belleville.

THEREFORE, THE MUNICIPAL COUNCIL OF THE CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF BELLEVILLE ENACTS:

1. No person shall after the coming into force of this by-law keep cattle, goats, swine, horses or mules within the built-up area of the defined municipality of the City of Belleville.

2. Any person who shall commit a breach of any of the provisions of this by-law shall upon conviction be liable to a penalty not exceeding $10.00 for each offence exclusive of costs, and in default of payment forthwith, the said penalty and costs shall be levied by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of the offender, and in default of sufficient distress to satisfy the said penalty and costs, the offender may be committed to the common gaol of the County of Hastings for a period not exceeding thirty days, unless sooner paid, or to hard labour for any period not exceeding thirty days, unless sooner paid, and in default of payment forthwith or immediately upon the final passing thereof.

3. This by-law shall come into force on the first day of April, 1952; and shall expire one year from the 1st day of April, 1952;

4. This is a third time and finally passed this 7th day of April, 1952.

A. McLEAN HAGY,
Mayor.

J. WILFRED HOLMES,
City Clerk.

MADOC
Jack McPherson Addresses Junior Farmers' Banquet

Madoc—Madoc Junior Farmers 20th anniversary banquet was held last Thursday evening in the Sunday School rooms of Trinity United Church, Madoc, where a bountiful supper was provided by Madoc W.I. to about 200 guests.

Guests at Head Table

Mrs. F. Bailey, president of Junior Institute, introduced the guests at the head table, Mr. Roscoe Robson, M.L.A., for Hasting East, and Mrs. Robson; Mr. Lee Grills, Warden for Hastings, and Mrs. Grills; Mr. Jack McPherson, editor of junior farmers news; Mr. Oliver Dalrymple, agricultural representative for Hastings; Mr. F. Slone, assistant representative and Mrs. Slone, Miss Elsie Irvine, home economist; Mr. Don Martin, county president; Rev. J. F. Lane, host of the evening and Mrs. Lane; Mr. Earl Avery, clerk of Madoc township and others.

The chairman of the evening, Mr. Don McKinnon and president of the 1952 club, presided and in a few well chosen words welcomed the guests.

Mr. W. Rothwell favored with two vocal solos accompanied on the piano by Mr. Ronald Robertson. The toast to the Queen was proposed by Mr. William Aylsworth, past president, and was responded to by Mr. John A. Thompson a former president.

The toast to the 1952 club was proposed by Mr. Earl Sager, first president and was replied to by Don McKinnon.

Miss Velma Rollins led in group singing.

Guest Speaker

Mr. Claude Comerford introduced the guest speaker, Mr. Jack McPherson, of Toronto, who took as his theme the "Junior Farmers" Song." He stressed the importance of the aim of the club, "self help and community betterment." Mr. McPherson brought to the attention of the juniors their responsibility to the community. Mr. Sager extended thanks to the speakers and all those assisting in the success of the evening and this was seconded by Arnold Empey, vice-president of Junior Farmers.

Little Benny's Note Book

I was sitting on the arm of pop's chair this morning at the sports page with him, and I said, Oh boy, look at that picture.

Meaning a picture of a man flying through the air on skees, and the letters under it saying, Kurt Noblock of Norway Takes a Trial Jump in Preparation for the Championships, and I said, Flimsflams he looks swell, he'll win all rite.

It wouldn't be a bit serpized, unless he has that nillemare again, pop said, and I said, What nillemare?

Oh, Kurt Noblock is apt to have a bad dream just before a big event, and it upsets him so that he's practically knocked out for the count. It's always the same dreem. He dreems that he's sailing on his skees from one mountain peek to another, establishing a new world's record, pop said, and I said, But heck, pop, what's a matter with that? That's good, I said.

It's good till the next competditor takes off right behind Kurt's mark, pop said, and I said, But what's the matter, as long as Kurt Noblock is still ahead?

You haven't heard the rest of the nitemare, pop said. The 3rd jumper comes down just 2 inches short of Kurt, and the 4th man equals Kurt's record except for one bare inch, and the 5th beats it by exactly a half an inch. And just then Kurt wakes up trembling like a Norwegian leef, and gets beten in the contest by 5 men from Sweeden and one from Switzerland. So if you ever go in for athletics, it's best to be satisfied if you're good, or even very good, without trying to be the very best in the world, he said.

And he terned back to the editorial page and I stopped being intrigued.

British Stores Hard Hit By Much Buyer Resistance; Textile Trade Most Affected

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London (CP)—The slump in Britain's textile industries resulting in unemployment and falling prices has so far made little impression on consumers. The market is still experiencing buyers' resistance.

A marked tendency to purchase only essentials both in clothin and household linens became notable last fall and continues. This means idle stocks lining shelves in the big department stores and piling up in the manufacturers' warehouses.

Many stores, in an attempt to clear old stocks, are cutting prices of slow-moving goods—outside the general run of seasonal sales. Household goods, furniture, textiles and clothing carry price tags showing large reductions on the figures of a year ago.

"Nearly everything in these lines has tumbled in price," said Donald Barber, secretary of the Retail Furnishing Association. "There are literally bargains galore today."

An example is a man's shirt with collar attached last year sold for 32s. And now costs only 16s. This is one of the cheaper grades.

Bargains For Women

In furniture stores, women find that double-size spring mattresses that once cost £9 14s 8d. may sell for 3 15s. Typical women's wear bargains include tub frocks, slightly more than £1 18s 7d, last year. Cotton frocks once costing from £3 to £3 4s 6d. going for 70s.

Official figures issued by the Wholesale Textile Association, in collaboration with the Bank of England, confirm the gap between sales and stocks. Wholesale stocks showed an increase of £32 per cent in February over those held in the same month last year. But sales for the first two months of the year showed a drop of 31.8. per cent.

Spokesmen of big department stores in London's West End agree with those in other cities that despite delectable prices and a wide variety in stock, people are not buying. Sales are, in fact, at the lowest ebb since the end of the Second World War.

Women customers and shopkeepers alike agree that the fault lies with the high cost of living. Recent figures given by the National Savings Committee show that withdrawals from small savings accounts have reached an all-time high of more than £19,000,000 a week.

The cuts of 1952, Lord Mackinnon of Halifax, chairman of the savings committee, said it reflects the fact that rising living costs are forcing people to dip into their accumulated savings.

The Innocent Impostor

By Renee Shann

The telephone bell rang at that moment. Charlotte picked up the receiver.

"Hello, who is that?"

"Miss Carlotta? Mr. Breeden's secretary here. Will you hold the line, please? Mr. Breeden's wishes to speak to you."

Charlotte glanced back over her shoulder at Patience. "This is a call I've been waiting for for weeks. It's Dwight Breeden. He's head of the G. R. P. You know, the big movie people. They're just starting up here in England. Hello, yes?"

"Miss Carlotta? Dwight Breeden here. We met at a cocktail party back in the States, remember?"

"Yes, of course. And you said you'd get in touch with me when I came to England."

"Sure I did. Well, I'm doing so now. Listen, I'm casting a new picture. I want a premiere danseuse. It's a big musical. How about our meeting for lunch today and talking things over?"

Charlotte hesitated. And asked herself angrily why her professional life need intrude on her private life just today of all days. On the this was a chance in a thousand. Swiftly she made up her mind.

"That'll be grand," she said. "I'd love to meet you."

"Twelve-thirty at the Savoy Grill suit you?"

"Yes, I'll be there." She replaced the receiver and swung around to Patience. "Sorry darling but I'm afraid you'll have to entertain Roger on your own. I'll leave a note for you to give him that'll explain things. It's fiendish luck, but just when Dwight Breeden asks a girl to lunch, if she's any ambition at all she turns up with her boots blacked to see what's cooking."

Patience looked at her sister in horror. She told herself she could not face it. Not lunch alone with some completely strange young man!

"Charlotte, I can't. Please-truly. I'll so much rather not—I'll be absolutely scared stiff."

"Don't be silly." Charlotte said briskly. "Of course you're going to lunch with Roger! And what's more, my pet, unless I'm very much mistaken, you're going to thoroughly enjoy it."

Patience swallowed hard.

"But he's expecting you to be there too."

"That'll be all right. He'll see me this evening. We're dining together. Actually though I hope I'll be able to join up with you both at the matinee. He's got seats for the show at the Adelphi. I'll come right along there the moment Mr. Breeden has decided how much he's going to pay me."

Patience sighed. It looked as if she'd have to go through with it.

"And it's going to be quite a treat," went on Charlotte firmly, putting on a hat which Patience thought looked exactly like a lunch of flowers and arranging carefully the drift of filmy veiling. "Now I'll just write two lines to Roger."

She dashed them off at the writing-table and handed the envelope to Patience. She paused for a moment on her way to the door.

"Don't be frightened of Roger. He's quite harmless really. Don't scream for help if he tries to make love to you. Just tell him you're not that sort of girl."

Patience blinked. "Charlotte, he she won't do that, surely?"

"Well, my sweet, he may try to hold your hand in the theatre. That's usually his preliminary manouvre."

"But if he's in love with you!"

Charlotte laughed wryly.

"Darling, every man fear that doesn't stop him making love to other girls. It's all right. Don't look so worried. Goodby for the time being. I'll see you at the theatre."

She was gone leaving a flurry of perfume behind her. Patience looked at the door and wondered whether she'd dash after her. At any rule whether she'd take the next lift down to the ground floor and walk quietly out of the hotel, never maybe to return to it. But if she did this Charlotte would think her such a little sinner. Besides she didn't really want to. Or did she? She didn't quite know. She felt in a whirl. Life as lived by Charlotte was something quite new to her. Did a man, meeting a girl for the first time, want to hold her hand at a theatre? Supposing the girl didn't want her hand held? She certainly wasn't going to allow such a liberty.

The telephone bell rang and she almost jumped out of her skin. She picked up the receiver.

"Hello," she said.

"Hello, darling," said a man's voice. "I'm down here in the lounge waiting for you."

"I—I'll come down."

She replaced the receiver and picked up Charlotte's note and her handbag. She walked along the corridor towards the lift wishing her knees didn't shake so absurdly.

The lift-boy swung open the door of the lift. She stepped inside and felt the breath rise swiftly in her body as it sped downwards.

And now the door was swinging open again. She saw Roger Dickinson immediately, recognizing him from his photograph. She saw him look at her, his face lighting up, and then instantly a puzzled expression come over it.

"Mr. Dickson!"

He stared at her.

"You are and yet you aren't!"

"I'm Patience. Charlotte's sister."

"Sakes alive! For a moment I thought you were Charlotte. I'd no idea you were going to be so much alike."

Patience handed him the letter. "Charlotte's had to go off unexpectedly to lunch with a Mr. Breeden."

"The devil she has!"

"She's explained it all in there."

Roger grinned. "I take it you and I are lunching together?"

Patience felt hot color creeping up her cheeks.

"If that's all right with you, Mr. Dickson."

"It's wonderful." He put his hand at her elbow and led her through the lounge and into the restaurant. He found a table for two.

"Cigarette?"

"No thank you." She smiled at him. "Wouldn't you like to read Charlotte's note?"

French Riviera is Victim of Earthquake

The town of Menton, on the French Riviera, has begun the job of clearing away the debris left in the wake of a freak disaster which claimed three lives and left 10 reported missing. The dead were trapped in some of the 25 homes destroyed or damaged when the rain-weakened earth in the centre of the city gave way. Houses toppled as their foundations were washed away, as seen above, in the landslide. — Central Press Canadian.

He took it out of his pocket. He smiled as he glanced at the hastily written lines. They were typically Charlotte. "Though I adore you, darling, I simply daren't let this opportunity slip through my fingers. But I'll do my darnedest to meet you at the theatre. In the meantime take great care of Patience. There's only one of her, in the whole of England and I think she's rather sweet. So will you I've a feeling. Only, darling, don't think her too sweet or I'm not going to like it."

Roger put the letter back in his envelope.

"Now, tell me about yourself," he said to Patience, preparing himself to listen politely to the story of her life. To his astonishment, he found that he was extraordinarily interested by it.

"So until last week you'd not seen Charlotte for years?"

"No. Didn't she tell you?"

She had, he remembered, but he'd not been much attracted. A twin sister buried in the country hadn't sounded to him of any great importance. Now, it would seem that beside the sister, who was assuredly as pretty as paint, there were two maiden aunts.

"We're all awfully eager to see Charlotte on the stage," said Patience, finding Roger Dickson not half so terrifying as she'd imagined. "I suppose she's very good."

"Oh, yes, she's got what it takes."

"What does it take?" asked Patience interestedly.

"Well, you know what I mean. She's got a wide appeal. She's lovely to look at and she dances like an angel. People go mad about her."

"They go mad about you, too, don't they?"

Roger looked at her. What sort of a girl was this sister of Charlotte's? Was she deliberately setting out to please him? He met her candid gaze—and saw that she wasn't.

"You're sweet, little Patience!" he told her. "Tell me, are you often in London?"

"Three times a week," said Patience promptly. "Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays," and then found herself wishing she hadn't told him this, because he was suggesting they should lunch again together, and somehow she wasn't altogether sure if Charlotte would like it.

Roger inquired where she could be found any certain days time on Monday.

"In a place you'd never go to. A lunchroom around the corner from my dressmaking academy."

"And the dressmaking academy is where?"

"In Stafford Street," said Patience weakly.

Roger grinned.

"But you don't want me to be there?"

"No."

"D'you know that's the very thing that's making me quite determined that I will be."

Patience sighed. She didn't know quite how to handle this situation. Roger grinned. "Don't look so worried. Maybe I won't be after all."

He paid the bill and they left the restaurant together. Patience was aware, as she'd been as she'd entered it, of people turning to look at them. Of heads moving closer together. Roger was being recognized, of course. She was glad when they were in the quiet seclusion of a taxi.
